ARE YOUR EYES WEAK? IS YOUR SIGHT CLEAR?

L. Laurance

Principal of the Optical Institute of Canada,

(Representing the B. Laurance Co.,)

WILL VISIT PETERBOROUGH

Dec. 5th, 6th and 7th.

MR. JOHN McKEE, Druggist, Peterborough, has made arrangements with the above celebrated optician to make a special visit to Peterborough on the dates mentioned.

Mr. Laurance is acknowledged, by the leading eye specialists as being the best qualified and most successful optician of the Dominion.

His specialty—and it is a most important one—is the proper fitting of lenses to the condition of the eyes that are defective, whether for age or organic imperfection.

Sir James Grant, of Ottawa, gives this highly flattering commendation:—

150 ELGIN STREET, OTTAWA, ONT.

B. LAURANCE, ESQ.:

DEAR SIR,—Your glasses could not possibly be improved upon. I have experienced great comfort from their use. Thanking you most kindly, I remain truly yours,

J. A. GRANT.

If you find reading difficult or accompanied with pain in the head over the eye, if you are near sighted, or have any other difficulty, you should not omit calling on Mr. Laurance on his coming visit.

Call and see him and have your eyes scientifically tested and the proper lenses fitted Free of Charge.

After twelve years handling of Mr. Laurance's Spectacles and Glasses, I can confidently assert that they have, in all cases, given the best of satisfaction, and I can heartily recommend them to persons needing to use glasses of any kind.

Be sure and call on Mr. Laurance, at my drug store, on Dec. 5th, 6th and 7th.

JOHN McKEE,

Druggist, 384 George Street.

IT FOLLOWS AFTER — a disordered liver — that you're subject to attacks of cold or chills on slight exposure. You get "tired" easily. A "tired" digestion fails to assimilate food. This often results in what we call Indigestion or Biliousness.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets rouse the liver to vigorous action, and this in turn starts the machinery of the body into activity. Liver, stomach and bowels feel the tonic effect, and in consequence the entire system is invigorated. The processes become self-regulating, and a reserve force is stored up against exposure to disease.

If you're too thin, too weak or nervous, it must be that food assimilation is wrong. This is the time to take Pleasant Pellets. They permanently cure Constipation, Sour Stomach, Dyspepsia, Sick or Bilious Headache, Dizziness and Jaundice.

AN AGED LOCOMOTIVE.

HERO OF ALEXANDRIA WAS THE INVENTOR OF IT.

And It is Two Thousand Years Old—The Shrine of Bacchous Also Described—Moved Automatically in Various Directions.

A writer in a scientific journal says:

The Scientific American contains an account by R. W. Durfee of a locomotive that was invented and used 2,000 years ago.

There is a general belief among mechanicians what vehicles containing within themselves the means of their own popuision are of comparatively recent origin; and the fact of the adhesion of the rims of their wheels to the earth or a supporting rail being sufficient to enable adequate power applied to the wheels to move the vehicle was a discovery of not earlier than the middle of the last century. But in this instance the writers on locomotive machines have not dived deep enough or stayed down long enough among the records of antiquity to discover the bottom facts in the history of such mechanisms.

The first locomotive, or self-moving vehicle, of which we have any account was the invention of Hero of Alexandria, who lived about 5,000 years ago. In his work descriptive of automatic or self-moving machines, there is illustrated a shrine of Bacchens mounted upon three wheels concealed within its base.

The shrine was crowned with a canopy, about which figures of dancers were made to move by hidden mechanism. Within the base of the shrine were three supporting wheels. Of these two were fixed to an axle, on which was a drum. Around this drum was wound a rope which passed upward on one side of the shrine and over two pulleys. It was then attached to a heavy leaden weight. The gradual escape of sand through a hole in a compartment beneath the weight caused it to descend. The weight thus pulled on the cord and revolved the drum and wheels, causing the shrine to move forward in a straight line.

Hero also describes how to arrange the wheels in order to make the shrine move in a circular path and to make it move in straight lines at right angles.

By turning the figure of Victory two fountains beneath the canopy could be made to discharge wine or milk at pleasure. This apparatus is an adaptation of the two-way cock, familiar to modern mechanical engineering.

The mechanism of the shrine of Bacchens proves that 2,000 years ago the fact that wheeled vehicles could be propelled by power applied to the axles on which the driving wheels were fastened was well known, and that the mechanical principles involved in the application of the power were well understood. Furthermore, the shrine afforded evidence of a high degree of refinement in mechanical manipulation in the cylindrical plug two-way cock, as well as in the general arrangement of the details of apparatus for performing the seeming miracle of changing wine into milk or milk into wine.

It is confidently believed that this is the first time this self moving vehicle (which the shrine certainly was) of Hero has been described or even referred to by any writer in the English language. This is not strange, for the work of Hero descriptive of automata is very scarce, and the translations of Commandine into Latin and of Baldi into Italian are also rare.

It is universally admitted by writers on mechanics that Hero is the author of the first description of a machine actuated by steam; but hitherto no one has claimed for him the honor—to which the evidence above submitted clearly entitles him—of having invented the first self-moving carriage or locomotive.

A Camera for Naturalists.

At a recent meeting of the Royal Photographic Society, T. R. Dallmeyer described a new modification of his telephonic lens, by which it is made suitable for long or short extensions of the camera within certain limits, so as to give the power of obtaining at will a large or small amplification of distant objects. He said that the main point with lenses of this class is the question of rapidity; it is easier to make a telephotographic lens at the sacrifice to some extent of the luminosity of the image upon the sensitive plate. He also exhibited his new naturalist's camera, a long, narrow instrument of light weight, made chiefly for photographing wild animals from a distance, when the camera is held in the hand, or when it can be partially rested against a tree or other fixed object, or when lying on the stomach on the ground.

It is a long camera of light weight, preferably fitted with a telephotographic lens, acting upon a sensitive plate of somewhat small size. It has a lengthy eye-piece, mounted upon its upper surface, and when this is adjusted to suit the eyesight of the user, it need never be shifted from that adjustment for the particular user; the image on the plate being at the same time in focus, it is never necessary afterwards to alter the adjustment of the eye-piece, for all the objects he sees in sharp focus through it will also be in sharp focus upon the plate. To minimize vibration a particularly light spring had been made for the instantaneous shutter.

Miss Arabella Jones-Smyth.

She isn't very pretty,
She isn't very witty,
Her conversation sometimes is quite plain;
But the "swells" all flock around
With reverence profound—
For she proudly sports a hyphen in her name.

She dances like a camel,
Her complexion is enamel,
Her figure would a hat-rack put to shame;
But the "dudes" bow down before her,
And for "just one waltz" implore her,
Fascinated by that hyphen in her name.

FRATERNAL ASSESSMENT LIABILITY.

"Can't I get out when I please, and have no liability?"

Most people expect "yes" for an answer to this question, when they say they are members of an assessment insurance society, and begin to think of their responsibilities as such. It is important for them to know that they cannot escape liability; because every member, no matter when he drops out, is liable for any deficiencies that may arise in future, if they were developed during his membership. Here is an instance:

The United Masonic Benefit Association of Missouri was some years ago an active and apparently prosperous assessment concern. It provided no reserve, but offered low rates, cheap insurance, and seemingly hoped that new blood would make up for increasing mortality resulting from increasing age. By and bye its forces began to fall off, not enough "new blood" came in, and the cost of membership ran up in a very uncomfortable way. Presently the healthier lives began to feel their burden pressing heavily and steadily left the ranks, until so few were left in the association that the assessments amounted to $140—one hundred and forty dollars—on each certificate. The remaining members refused to pay such a sum, and the concern failed. But there were unpaid death claims for a large amount due, and the State Superintendent of Insurance thought they ought to be paid. So he began suits at law against individual members to enforce payment of the assessments against them; the court has decided that they must pay. The feelings of those who are thus compelled to pay what they never expected have undergone a change with respect to assessment insurance.

Replying to some enquiries which had been made upon this point of liability, and citing this case illustration of what may be expected in any similiar case which might be pressed to suit, the Insurance Monitor says: "The decision referred to answers our question which has been debated whether the member's liability is limited to sums which he may choose to pay; in, other words, whether he can get out when he pleases without further harm. This he cannot do. Every member, no matter when he may drop out, is liable for any deficiencies which may crop up in future, resulting during his membership. The only safe course for parties that apprehend breakers ahead is to drop their membership before the breakers are reached; and the misfortune of this course is that the faster they drop, the faster the association drives towards the breakers."

There seems to be only one course open for the prudent man who may be determined to avoid possible liability; that is to keep out of such associations entirely and buy his insurance of the regular companies.—Monetary Times.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees.
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all.
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went Home, but stop, I miss.

They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life!
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

CANADA IN THE PANIC.

Advantages of Our Banking System as Seen by an American.

CONTRASTED WITH THE STATES

The Difference Between the Currency Systems of the Two Countries—Canada's Only Trouble During the Panic Was Its Proximity to the Republic.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—The Post has the following editorial: "Mr. W. C. Cornwall, of Buffalo, furnishes to Bradstreet's an article on the experience of Canada during our panic of last year. In the first place Canada had no panic because she had no cause of panic. She had no Sherman silver law in operation, pouring millions of treasury notes into circulation, whether they were wanted or not. The banks and not the government supplied the currency of the country as it was wanted, and redeemed it when it was not wanted.

The results of the two different systems stand in glaring contrast to each other.

The deposits in the banks of the United States fell off 20 per cent. between May and September, 1893, while those of Canada fell off only 3 per cent. The loans and discounts on our side of the line fell off 12 1-2 per cent. while on the other side the shrinkage was only 1 1-3 per cent. Savings bank deposits in the United States during the same time declined 8 per cent. and would have declined much more but for the enforcement of the 60 day rule. In Canada these deposits remained stationary or slightly increased.

In fact the only trouble in Canada was due to its proximity to us. It was a sort of induction from the great disturbance in the neighborhood, but Canada fortunately had the means of minimizing even this. Her bank system was so arranged that the demands for more currency could be met on every day and hour when it came and did not require the banks to put up $114 in order to get $60 of circulating notes three or four weeks after the event.

The difference between the two countries is stated by Mr. Cornwall thus: "The business conditions in Canada have been somewhat similar to our own during the time under consideration as to dull trade, etc., but with this vital and all-important difference that she has had no panic. This is due to the difference in conditions as to currency. Canada's bank note circulation, while it increased slightly, was on the 30th of June, 1893 (perhaps our hottest panic date), in round numbers $33,500,000, and in November, 1893, $38,000,000. Bank note circulation is limited by the capital of the banks, in round numbers $60,000,000, so that Canada had all this time a wide leeway which was not used."

TORONTO BOODLE INQUIRY.

Further Revelations at the Investigation Into Civic Contracts.

TORONTO, Dec. 1.—There were further revelations at the investigation into civic contracts yesterday, ex-Ald. John Maloney being the one whom the evidence chiefly affected.

Ex-Ald. W. J. Hill, now reeve of York, swore that Maloney had shown him a thousand dollars and said he had got it from Coleman and that Hill could get the same if he would vote for a change in the street railway agreement. Hill replied that "the Street Railway Company had not enough money to buy Bill Hill." He understood that Maloney afterwards returned the money.

Previous to this testimony Maloney had denied every statement which Hill made.

The testimony of R. A. Dickson was to the effect that he had acted as trustee for George Kiely, who advanced $10,000 on a second mortgage of Ald. Hewitt's property. He acted in the same capacity for James Ross, of Montreal, who put up $13,000 through the C. J. Smith Co. Dickson did not see Kiely or Rose in the matter, but did the business with their solicitors, Bain, Laidlaw & Co.

Mrs. Chamberlain's Claim.

TORONTO, Dec. 1.—The statement of claim in the somewhat noted case of Mrs. "Charlie" Chamberlain against Andrew Russell, of Vaughan, was filed yesterday by Irwin & Kyles. Mrs. Chamberlain now resides in Richmond Hill and claims $1,200 in all. The plaintiff contends that certain persons agreed with her husband when the latter was under arrest for personation at Winnipeg that $10 a week would be paid her during his imprisonment. The consideration for this was that Chamberlain would not publish certain letters in his possession from N. Clarke Wallace and John Small, collector of customs. Mrs. Clamberlain says that, relying on Andrew Russell, she was persuaded to place the letters in his hands for safe keeping. She says that Russell, in breach of trust, sold the letters to Wallace and Small for $1,200. The plaintiff received only $75 and no money since the letters were given up. She wants the $1,200 now said to be in Russell's hands.

Mr. John S. Larke Banquetted.

OSHAWA, Ont., Dec. 1.—The citizens of the town tendered last evening a banquet to John S. Larke, Canadian Commissioner to Australia. The chair was taken by Mayor Cowan. Notable among those present was Hon. M. Bowell, acting premier for the Dominion. Letters of regret were read from Hon. Jno. Dryden, M.P.P., Robt. Dillon and Mr. Mulock. Mr. Larke was presented with a handsome gold headed ebony cane.

Crushed Between the Cars.

FREDERICTON, N.B., Dec. 1.—A fatal accident occurred in the C. P. R. yard here, when W. H. Parker, in charge of the night shunting, was crushed while coupling cars and so badly injured that he died three hours afterwards. Nobody witnessed the accident and when the unfortunate man was found he was unconscious, with his breast crushed in. Deceased belonged to Woodstock and was under 30 years of age.

ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES

No More Misery.

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affliction, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The principal symptoms are a severe itching, which is worst at night when the sufferer becomes warm in bed. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously during sleep scratches the parts until they are sore—ulcers and tumors form, excessive moisture is exuded. Females are peculiarly affected from this disease, causing unbearable irritation and trouble. These and every other symptom of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the sores and ulcers, dry up the moisture.

DR. CHASE'S

OINTMENT

Gives Instant Relief.

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause from Itching Piles, yet its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same intolerable itching; the same creeping, crawling, stinging sensation characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

THREE RUNNING SORES

PHYSICIANS FAILED

BUT B.B.B. CURED

DEAR SIRS—After having used Burdock Blood Bitters for Scrofula in the blood, I feel it my duty to make known the results. I was treated by a skilled physician but he failed to cure me. I had three Running Sores on my neck which could not be healed until I tried B. B. B., which healed them completely, cleansing the skin and flesh and sound and whole. As long as I live I shall speak of the virtues of B.B.B., and I feel grateful to Providence that such a medicine is provided for sufferers.

A SCALY ERUPTION

UNENDURABLE ITCHING

Suffered Three Years—Now Perfectly Cured by B.B.B.

GENTLEMEN—I have used Burdock Blood Bitters for Skin Diseases, from which I have been a sufferer for three years. I have used six bottles and am now entirely cured. I tried other remedies such as Donald Kennedy's Medical Discovery and the Cuticura Remedies, but all to no good. I doctored one year with the best physicians in the land; they pronounced my disease a Scaly Eruption, but could not remove it. It came on in red blotches and spread over my body; the skin became dry and formed hard dry scales. The itching was intolerable, but I am now completely cured, and I owe it all to B. B. B.

THE STAR OF BETHLEHEM.

Camille Flammarion, the French Astronomer, on Its Appearance.

Some time ago various newspapers of Europe and America contained the startling intelligence that the star which guided the wise men would again appear. This star was connected with that celebrated one which, 318 years ago, suddenly disappeared from the constellation of Cassiopeia, and it was found that this star of 1572 had previously appeared in the years 1264 and 945, and, if counted back, must have appeared in the year of the birth of Christ. If these facts were well established, we must certainly xpect the star to appear again in our days. We should then see a new body in the heavens, entirely unlike any fixed star, to be seen in full daylight, which would in a short time again disappear. Every astronomer in recent times has asked hundreds of questions on this subject. Is it true that the star of Bethlehem will again appear? Is it periodical? Is its place in the sky appointed? The next question is, What really happened in 1572?

It was a few months after St. Bartholomew's Night, Tycho Brahe, the great observer of those days, tells us, that: "One evening, as I was watching the heavens in my accustomed manner, I saw, to my great astonishment, in the constellation of Cassiopeia, a brilliant star of unusual clearness." This was on November 11, 1572. Three days before the star had been seen by Cornelius Gemma, who spoke of it as "this new Venus." In December of the same year its lustre began to wane; and in March, 1574, it had entirely disappeared, leaving no trace. As to the stars of 945 and 1264, we have no authority except that of the Bohemian astrologer, Cyprian Lowitz. No historian mentions them, and the Chinese chroniclers, who watched all appearances in the sky with great care, do not speak of them. Even granting the appearance of these stars to have been a fact, their resemblance to the star of Bethlehem is doubtful. It is true that by counting back we come to the years 630, 315 and 0; but the star should have again appeared some time between 1880 and 1891.

With regard to the Star of Bethlehem there are five assumptions: (1) It had no existence, and the entire statement is a beautiful Oriental fairy tale. (2) The fixed star, seen by the Wise Men, was Venus, at the time of its great splendor. (3) It was a periodical star like that of 1572. (4) The phenomenon was occasioned by a conjunction of planets. (5) It was a comet. Of these assumptions the most probable is the second. That it was a periodical star is scarcely likely, for Ptolemy and Ma-tuan-lin would have spoken of it. The fourth statement was suggested in 1836 by the German astronomer Ideler, and repeated by Encke in 1831. In the year 3 B. C. there were conjunctions of the planets Jupiter, Mars and Saturn on May 29, September 8, and December 5 but on none of these days were the planets nearer together than a degree, so that the Wise Men must have been very near sighted to take them for one star. The fifth assumption is also not to be considered, for people already knew how to distinguish a comet from any other stars, and besides, we have no knowledge of a comet at that time. For all these reasons we have not the least occasion to expect the return of the Star of Bethlehem at the close of our century. And even if such a star should appear, it would simply be the twenty-sixth such case observed in historical times, and the interest attached to it would be purely astronomical.—Camille Flammarion in Deutsch Revue.

Splendid Scenery in New South Wales.

Words cannot do justice to the wondrous charm of New South Wales scenery, which, in many places, combines the grandly romantic with sylvan beauty in a fashion which would delight the eye of an artist in search of the picturesque. In the writings of visitors who have not had time to become acquainted with the real attractions of the Australian landscape, we frequently find allusions to the brown, dried up appearance of the country, the absence of herbage and the want of variety in the foliage of the forest; but there are periods when the same may be said of English scenery. During a considerable part of the year, save on the great plains of the interior, the grass is as bright and green as in an English park, while the rich profusion of native flowers, of every size and hue, testifies to the luxuriant character of the soil. A trip up the Paramatta or Lane Cove rivers, near Sydney, is suggestive of the appearance of the Thames above Richmond, but the Australian riverside scenery is more varied and picturesque.—Australia Notes.

They Don't Like Corn.

It is truly a maizing thing, this European indifference to corn. The people eat some such queer things over there that one would think that corn would seem a mighty blessing. In the course of two long journeys over various parts of Europe we have never but once found the cereal, and that was at a hotel almost entirely patronized by Americans, and kept by a man who had lived in America, in Paris. We were talking of corn to an Englishman this summer.

"And," said he, "do you really eat it in the States?"

"Why, yes."

"We only feed it to animals."

"Well, then, you treat your animals better than yourselves."

He paused for a minute.

"Tell me," said he, "in what way do you eat it?"

"On the ear——"

"The ear! Oh, fancy. How strange!"

And he looked quite shocked.—Rochester Post-Express.

A SERMON TO ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.

REV. DR. TORRANCE DELIVERS AN APPROPRIATE DISCOURSE.

Quotations From Burns and Altogether a Most Interesting and Instructive Sermon—The Society did not Attend in a Body.

Rev. Dr. Torrance delivered a most interesting sermon, last evening in St. Paul's church to a very large congregation, which gathered to hear him address himself more particularly to the members of St. Andrew's Society.

He took as his text Psalms, cxxii chap., verse, and spoke as follows:

Patriotism has always been regarded as a virtue of the highest kind. The old classic writers often speak in its praise and they delight to tell us of those noble men who loved their country better than their own lives. While the virtue of patriotism has existed to a certain extent among all nations, there has, perhaps, never been a nation among whom it has been so widespread as among the Jews. Amid all the vicissitudes of their history they still retained the love of their native land undiminished. To the Jew, Jerusalem was far more than the city of the Seven Hills was to the Romans, or the city of the Violet Crown to the Athenians, for there were considerations which led the Jew to love Jerusalem of a far higher kind than those which led the Roman to love Rome or the Greek to love Athens. In the mind of the Jew, with which that was most sacred. "Jerusalem is builded as a city that is compact together. Thither the tribes go up, the tribes of the Lord unto the testimony of Israel to give thanks unto the name of the Lord." Jerusalem was the place where the temple stood and in the temple was the Sohkinah where Jehovah manifested His presence.

JERUSALEM WAS ASSOCIATED

The Jews delighted to think of the past history of Jerusalem as well as of the bright prospect which awaited it in the future. And so even when they were in exile, they looked with strange delight towards their native land. And one of their singers expressed the feelings of many when he sang: "If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget her cunning. If I do not remember thee, let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth, if I prefer not Jerusalem above my chief joy."

One of the objects of a St. Andrew's Society sermon seems to me to be to appeal to this sentiment of patriotism which exists in so as to lead them to cherish feelings of gratitude for the blessings which they have derived from their connection with their native land, and to act upon those principles which made their fathers prosperous and great.

THE HEARTS OF SCOTCHMEN,

I. Let us consider some of the blessings which Scotchmen derive from their connection with their native land.

1. Let us speak of the land itself. It is small in comparison with many other lands. It cannot boast of so bright a sky as Italy, or of so salubrious a clime as Southern France, but it has great natural attractions, notwithstanding. Travellers from all parts visit its lakes and mountains and are enchanted by the varied beauty and grandeur of the scenery. As the Englishman looks with pride upon those parts of his country which have been immortalized by the verses of the lake poets; so upon those parts of the Highlands which have been so beautifully described by the author of "The Lady of the Lake." If there is anything in the outside world which tends to lift the soul up to God—anything calculated to touch the deepest springs in the human heart—it is the sight of beautiful scenery. The poet says:

SCOTCHMEN LOOK WITH PRIDE

"In the meanest flower that blooms Thoughts that do lie too deep for tears."

What thoughts, then, may we expect to have awakened by the sight of a lake nestling peacefully amid the surrounding hills, or by the sight of a chain of mountains piercing the heavens with their snow-capped cliffs. The scenery in the Highlands of Scotland may be compared favourably with scenery in any part of the world. Soft and beautiful as is the scenery of the English lakes — grand and majestic as is that of the Swiss lakes—there are none which have a greater combination of charms than

LOCH LOMOND AND LOCH KATRINE.

We may say regarding the land itself: "If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget heo cunning."

It has often been observed that the character of a people is influenced to a very considerable extent by the land which they occupy. It is often climate and natural scenery which makes all the difference between a race, soft and effeminate and one hardy and manly. No doubt, then the Scottish people owe much to the climate and scenery of their native land.

2. Let us speak of the history of the Scottish people.

The history of the Scottish people is one of which any people might well be proud. It is the history of a people who loved liberty and who would make any sacrifices rather than be enslaved. We are all familiar with those periods in Scottish history when efforts were made to bring Scotland into submission to the English Crown. Though the land was invaded again and again by large armies, though one of the

with the flower of the English nobility tried their utmost to conquer Scotland, their efforts utterly failed. The names of William Wallace and Robert Bruce are enshrined in the hearts of Scotchmen, because they fought successfully to deliver their land from a foreign yoke. Not by force of arms, but by right of succession was Scotland joined to the British Crown.

The Scottish people have not only been a brave people but they have been an intelligent people. They have a literature of which any people might well be proud. As a people they have always manifested a love for literature and they have produced writers of the highest class. The great Scottish poets are read with delight all over the civilised world. The works of the Scottish philosophers are standard works in every university.

The Scottish people have not only been a brave and intelligent, but also a religious people. The religious movements which have taken place from time to time in Scotland are among the most interesting and important parts of her history. We can scarce y refer to without saying a few words about John Knox, one of the greatest of the reformers, one of the greatest of Scotchmen.

Born in the year 1505, at Haddington, the county town of East Lothian, he obtained the rudiments of his education at the grammar school of his native town. When sixteen years of age he went to the University of Glasgow, devoted himself to the study of philosophy and of the early Christian fathers. There is some uncertainty as to his life during the ten years which followed the completion of his studies, but it is probable that he took orders in the church of Rome as a secular priest and that he was connected with one of the religious establishments in the neighborhood of Haddington.

It was the martyrdom of Wisheat, which finally led him to profess his adherence to

THE PROTESTANT FAITH.

As he had now become an object of suspicion, he thought of leaving Scotland and visiting the schools of Germany, but he was persuaded to relinquish his design and to enter the castle of St. Andrew's as a place of safety from the Romish clergy. While there, the Castle was besieged and captured by the French, Knox and others being taken as prisoners to Rouen. For some months he worked there as a common gallery slave, but he was finally released and made his way to London. He spent several years in England, preaching in Berwick, Newcastle and London and then on the death of Edward VI, he sailed for Dieppe. Shortly afterwards he became pastor of the English congregation of Frankfort, on the Main, but in the dissensions arising in the congregation, in regard to certain changes in the form of worship, he relinguished his charge and retired to Geneva.

At the request of some of the nobility and began to set forth both in public and private the idolatry of the mass. The Romish clergy became alarmed and summoned him Edinburgh, but so great was his hold upon the people that they were afraid to do anything to him. He left Scotland again for a short time at the call of a congregation in Geneva, but soon returned to spend the remainder of his life in his native land.

On the arrival of Queen Mary in Scotland, in 1561, she sent for Knox with the view af overcoming his active opposition to the Church of Rome. After several interviews, the Queen saw that the Reformer was proof against all her persuasions. She then attempted to convict him of treason on the ground of a letter, which he had written in reference to the trial of two persons for a riot in the Chapel Royal. In this, too, she failed, for of all blame in the matter.

The strain to which the Reformer had been long subjected now began to tell upon his health, and in 1570 he had a stroke of apoplexy, from the effects of which he never fully recovered. He died on the 24th of November, 1572, and was buried two days afterwards in the churchyard of St. Giles.

Knox has been blamed, but without just cause, for his harshness and intolerance. He has been blamed for his treatment of Mary. In reality, however, he could not have treated Mary otherwise than he did, without being unfaithful to the cause of Scotland. "Better that women weep," said Morton, "than that bearded men be forced to weep." Knox was the constitutional opposition party in Scotland—the nobles of their country, called by their station to take that part, were not found in it. Knox had to do it—or no one. Knox resembles more than any of the moderns an old Hebrew prophet.

THE SAME INFLEXIBILITY, intolerance, rigid, narrow-looking adherence to God's truth—stern rebuke in the name of God to all who forsake that truth—an old Hebrew prophet in the guise of an Edinburgh minister of the sixteenth century."

One of the most remarkable religious movements in Scotland after the Reformation is that which is commonly known as the "Disruption." The first half of this century was the golden age of piety and eloquence in the Scottish pulpit. During those years God raised up a number of able ministers who were instrumental in accomplishing much good. Among these the names of Chalmers, Cunningham, Candelsh and Guthrie stand out with special prominence. They took a leading part in that movement which led to 400 ministers giving up their livings rather than have any interference with their spiritual rights. It is said that when Jeffrey saw those ministers leave St. Andrew's church in a body he remarked: "I am proud of my countrymen."

Let us consider some of the respects in which we

our Scottish forefathers.

1. We should seek to imitate them in their habits of industry and perseverance. Industry and perseverence are two of the most prominent characteristics of Scotchmen—characteristics which have helped largely in making the Scottish people what they are. It is due to these qualities that so many Scotchmen who leave their native land without either fame or fortune rise to occupy positions of the highest kind. Industry and perseverence are not the most brilliant qualities which men can possess. They are not the qualities which especially excite the admiration of the world and in which men themselves take special pride. But they are among the most valuable qualities which men can possess. They will accomplish more for their possessors in the great majority of cases than qualities of a more brilliant kind. Many upon industry and perseverence in the Word of God. Solomon says: "He becometh poor that dealeth with a slack hand; but the hand of the diligent maketh rich." "The hand of the diligent shall bear rule; but the slothful shall be under tribute."

BLESSINGS ARE PRONOUNCED

2. We should seek to imitate them in their home life.

One of the most blessed of all earthly things is a Christian home. Wherein does this blessedness consist? Not in any outward appendages of home. Not in stately mansion or in gorgeous furniture or in liveried servants. But in the union of heart with heart in the blessed interchange of loving deeds. Some of you remember the description which the poet Burns gives of such a home:

The cheerfu' supper done, wi' serious face,
They round the ingle form a circle wide;
The sire turns o'er with patriarchal grace
The big ha' Bible, once his father's pride.
His bonnet rev'rently is laid aside
His lyrat haffets wearing thin an' bare;
Those strains that once did sweet in Zion glide,
He wales a portion with judicious care,
And "Let us worship God!" he says with solemn air.

They chant their artless notes in simple guise,
They tune their hearts, by far the noblest aim!
Perhaps "Dundee's" wild warbling measure rise,
Or plaintive "Martyrs," worthy of the name:
Or noble "Elgin" beets the heav'nward flame,
The sweetest far of Scotia's holy lays:
Compared with these, Italian trills are tame,
The tickled ears no heartfelt raptures raise;
Nae unison hae they with our Creator's praise.

From scenes like these old Scotia's grandeur springs,
That makes her lov'd at home, revered abroad:
Princes and lords are but the breath of kings—
"An honest man's the noblest work of God;
And certes, in fair Virtue's heavenly road,
The cottage leaves the palace far behind;
What is a wording's pomp! A cumbrous load
Disguising oft the wretch of human kind,
Studied in arts of hell, in wickedness refined.

IT IS FROM SUCH HOMES

as these that many of Scotland's greatest sons have come. It is such homes as these that have helped to make Scotland what she is. Home life and national life are intimately connected with each other, so that if we know what the home life is we can say what the national life is likely to be.

(3.) We should seek to imitate them in their love for the Word of God.

The question was once asked:—"What is the secret of England's greatness?" The question was answered by pointing to a Bible. There is no part of the British Isles where the Bible has been so well known and so highly prized as Scotland. The children of Scottish parents have always been instructed in the truths of God's Word in the home and in the school. They have been brought to reverence the Bible and to carry out its precepts in their daily lives. "Reach me the Book," were the dying words of the great Sir Walter Scott; and when asked what book, he said:—"There is but one—the Bible."

It is often said that the Word of God does not hold the same place now in the affections of the Scottish people which it did some years ago. The ministers of her churches are charged with departing from the doctrines of the Reformation and with denying that the Bible is inspired. If this is the case, the consequences must be disastrous to the spiritual life of the people.

Let us make the Word of God the man of our counsel; let it dwell in us richly, and let us follow its guidance.

Given a Heavy Sentence.

MONTREAL, Dec. 3.—In the Recorder's Court L. S. Noel, trader, was found guilty of knowingly renting a house in Jacques Cartier street to a woman named Bigley, alias Mitcheson, for immoral purposes. The accused was sentenced to six months in jail without the option of a fine. The accused gave notice of appeal, and was liberated on giving $200 bail. There is a movement on to enforce the law on this point, which has so long been a dead letter.

Vancouver Mill Men Strike.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 3.—The employes of the Royal City mills here have struck work owing to a cut in wages. The cut ranges from 10 to 30 per cent. About fifty men are out. The employes of the Hastings Mill, belonging to the same company, may also strike. These mills are about the only ones running in British Columbia at present, and the company claim they cannot pay higher wages owing to keen competition with Puget Sound mills.

Smallpox Increasing in New York.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—A fresh breakout of smallpox is keeping the inspectors of the bureau of contagious diseases busy. Six new cases were reported yesterday.

Irving and Terry in Dublin.

DUBLIN, Dec. 3.—The Dublin corporation entertained the Irving-Terry theatrical company last evening. In his speech of welcome the Lord Mayor said that Mr. Irving and Miss Terry had done more than any others to refine the stage and make it an educatory of the people. Part of Mr. Irving's reply was: "I regard our visit here as perhaps the most auspicious event of our lives. May God bless this whole noble nation; may prosperity ever be its portion. My soul shall always utter its love for you." Mr. Irving gave £100 to the poor of Dublin.

Taking Leave of the Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 3.—The Prince of Wales, Duke of York and King of Denmark left St. Petersburg yesterday. The Czar and Czarina who went with them to the railroad station were cheered loudly. The Czar and the Prince of Wales embraced each other when they said goodbye.

Railway Fatality at St. Henri.

MONTREAL, Dec. 3.—What will undoubted prove to be another railway fatality occurred at St. Henri. It appears an old man named A. Brodeur, 80 years of age, was in the act of walking over St. Ferdinand street crossing, when he was struck by the Canada Atlantic train and dragged for some distance. When found he was insensible and bleeding profusely. He was at once conveyed to his residence by the police and medical assistance was summoned. An investigation revealed the fact that he had been badly injured and there is no hope whatever of saving his life.

Wants to Hang Truskey.

WINDSOR, Dec. 3.—George Wilmot, in the employ of Baugh's foundry, Detroit, has made application to Sheriff Eiles for the job of hanging Truskey at Sandwich on December 14. Wilmot says he will do the work for almost nothing as he wishes to get the position of public executioner in Canada.

Suspected Suicide.

CHATHAM, Dec. 3.—Mrs. A Robinson, wife of Bailiff Robinson, died at an early hour yesterday from an overdose of laudanum, taken Saturday night, it is thought, with suicidal intent. An inquest will be held to-day.

Zola Meets King Humbert.

ROME, Dec. 3.—Emile Zola had a half-hour audience with King Humbert at the Quirinal on Saturday. The King said he hoped that the friendly relations between Italy and France would be renewed. He knew that no nation was more anxious than Italy for peace. He rejoiced in regarding President Casimir-Perier as his friend.

Wreckage from Lake Huron.

STOKES BAY, Ont., Dec. 3.—While some fishermen were on the shore at Pleasant Harbor, seven miles from here, they found a life preserver bearing the name "John F Eddy," parts of bedsteads, some tools and the top of a piano, which had been washed ashore.

Flouring Mill Destroyed.

FLINT, Mich., Dec. 3.—The Thread flouring mills were destroyed by fire and two men were seriously injured while fighting the flames. They are George Crepo and John O'Keefe. Loss $45,000; insurance $30,000.

Trouble With New Mexico Indians.

Albuquerque, N. M., Dec. 3.—Trouble is feared in the Spring Mountains between ranchmen and roving bands of Navajo Indians who are alleged to be stealing stock and committing other depredations.

CLEVELAND'S MESSAGE

The President's Annual Announcement at the Opening of Congress.

HOME AND FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Damages to be Paid to Great Britain—State of the Finances—The President Favors Free Coal, Iron and Sugar—The Samoa Question.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Congress assembled yesterday. The following is a summary of President Cleveland's message:

The history of our recent dealings with other nations, and our peaceful relations with them at this time, additionally demonstrate the advantage of consistently adhering to a firm but just foreign policy, free from envious or ambitious national schemes and characterized by entire honesty and sincerity.

The termination of the civil war in Brazil has been followed by the general prevalence of peace and order. It appearing at an early state of the insurrection that its course would call for unusual watchfulness on the part of this government, our naval force in the harbor of Rio De Janeiro was strengthened. This precaution, I am satisfied, tended to restrict the issue to a simple trial of strength between the Brazilian government and the insurgents and to avert complications which at times seemed imminent.

On the 17th of March last a new treaty with China in further regulation of emigration was signed at Washington, and on August 13 it received the sanction of the Senate. Although the war between China and Japan endangers no policy of the United States it deserves our gravest consideration by reason of its disturbance of our growing commercial interests in the two countries and the increased dangers which may result to our citizens domiciled or sojourning in the interior of China. Acting under a stipulation in our treaty with Corea I felt constrained at the beginning of the controversy to tender our good offices to induce an amicable arrangement of the initial difficulty growing out of the Japanese demands for administrative reforms in Corea, but the unhappy precipitation of actual hostilities defeated this kindly purpose.

Early in the present year an agreement was reached with Great Britain concerning instructions to be given to the naval commanders of the two governments in Behring Sea and the contiguous North Pacific ocean, for their guidance in the execution of the award of the Paris tribunal of arbitration and the enforcement of the regulations therein prescribed for the protection of seal life in the waters mentioned. An understanding has also been reached for the payment by the United States of $425,000 in full satisfaction of all claims which may be made by Great Britain for damages growing out of the controversy as to fur seals in Behring Sea or the seizure of British vessels engaged in taking seal in those waters. I am convinced that a settlement upon the terms mentioned would be an equitable and advantageous one, and I recommend that provision be made for the prompt payment of the stated sum. Thus far only France and Portugal have signified their willingness to adhere to the regulations established under the award of the Paris tribunal of arbitration.

Since communicating the voluminous correspondence in regard to Hawaii and the action taken by the Senate and the House of Representatives on certain questions submitted to the judgment and wider discretion of Congress, the organization of a government in place of the provisional arrangement which followed the deposition of the Queen, has been announced with evidence of its effective operation. The recognition usual in such cases has been accorded the new government.

The tariff act passed at the last session of Congress needs important amendments if it is to be executed effectively and with certainty. In addition to such necessary amendments as will not change rates of duty, I am still very decidedly in favor of putting coal and iron upon the free list. So far as the sugar schedule is concerned, I would be glad, under existing aggravations, to see every particle of differential duty in favor of refined sugar stricken out of our tariff law. If with all the favor now accorded the sugar refining interest in our tariff laws it still languishes to the extent of closed refineries and thousands of discharged workmen, it would seem to present a hopeless case for reasonable legislative aid. Whatever else is done or omitted, I earnestly repeat here the recommendation I have made in another portion of this communication that the additional duty of one-tenth of a cent per pound, laid upon sugar imported from countries paying a bounty on its export, be abrogated.

With the advent of a new tariff policy, not only calculated to relieve the consumers of our land in the cost of their daily life, but to invite a better development of American thrift, and create for us cleaner and more profitable commercial relations with the rest of the world, it follows as a logical and imperative necessity that we should at once remove the chief, if not the only obstacle, which has so long prevented our participation in the foreign carrying trade of the sea. A tariff built upon the theory that it is well to check imports and that a home market should bound the industry and effort of American producers was fitly supplemented by a refusal to allow American registry to vessels built abroad, though owned and navigated by our people. Our new tariff policy, built upon the theory that it is well to encourage such importations as our people need, and that our products and manufactures should find markets in every part of the habitable globe, is consistently supplemented by the greatest possible liberty to our citizens in the ownership and navigation of ships in which our products and manufactures may be transported. Shipbuilding should be revived by the prospect of profitable employment for ships when built, and the American sailor should be resurrected and again take his place—a sturdy and industrious citizen in time of peace and a patriotic and safe defender of American interests in the day of conflict.

The secretary of the treasury reports that the receipts of the government from all sources of revenue during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894, amounted to $372,802,498.29, and its expenditures to $442,805,758.87, leaving a deficit of $69,703,260.58. There was a decrease of $15,952,274.66 in the ordinary expenses of the government as compared with the fiscal year, 1893. There was collected from customs $131,818,530.62, and from internal revenue $147,168,449.70. The balance of the income for the year, amounting to $93,815,517.97, was derived from the sales of lands and other sources.

The value of our total dutiable imports amounted to $275,190,086 being $146,657,425 less than during the preceding year, and the importations free of duty amounted to $379,795,536, being $64,748,675 less than during the preceding year. The receipts from customs were $78,536,486.11 less, and from internal revenue $13,836,538.97 less than in 1893.

The total tax collected from distilled spirits was $85,259,250.25; on manufactured tobacco, $28,617,898.62, and on fermented liquors $31,414,788.04.

Our exports of merchandise, domestic and foreign, amounted during the year to $892,140,572, being an increase over the preceding year of $44,495,378.

The total amount of gold exported during the fiscal year was $76,897,061, as against $108,680,444 during the fiscal year 1893. The amount imported was $72,449,119, as against $31,174,381 during the previous year.

The imports of silver were $13,286,559, and the exports were $50,451,265.

It is estimated that upon the basis of the present revenue laws the receipts of the government for the current fiscal year ending June 30, 1895, will be $424,227,743, and its expenditures $444,627,743.44, resulting in a deficit of $20,000,000.

On the first day of November, 1894, the total stock of money of all kinds in the country was $2,240,773,868, as against $2,204,651,000 on the first day of November, 1893, and the money of all kinds in circulation or not included in the treasury holdings was $1,673,008,423, or $34.27 per capita upon an estimated population of 68,887,000. At the same date there was held in the treasury gold bullion amounting to $44,415,177.55, and silver bullion, which was purchased at a cost of $127,779,988.

Attention is called to the report of the secretary of the navy, which shows very gratifying progress in the construction of ships for our new navy. All the vessels now building, including the three torpedo boats authorized at the last session of Congress, and excepting the first-class battle ship, Iowa, will probably be completed during the coming fiscal year.

Unreasonable and unjust fines imposed by Spain on the vessels and commerce of the United States have demanded from time to time during the last twenty years earnest remonstrance on the part of our government. This conduct is in strange contrast with the considerate and liberal treatment extended to Spanish vessels and cargoes in our ports in like cases. No satisfactory settlement of these vexatious questions has yet been reached.

In my last annual message, I adverted to the claim on the part of Turkey of the right to expel, as persons undesirable and dangerous, Armenians naturalized in the United States and returning to Turkish jurisdiction. Numerous questions in this relation have arisen. While this government acquiesces in the asserted right of expulsion, it will not consent that Armenians may be imprisoned or otherwise punished for no other reason than having acknowledged without imperial consent American citizenship.

The present government of Samoa has utterly failed to correct, if indeed it has not aggravated, the very evils it was intended to prevent. It has not stimulated our commerce with the islands. Our participation in its establishment against the wishes of the natives was in plain defiance of the conservative teachings and warnings of the wise and patriotic men who laid the foundations of our free institutions, and I invite an expression of the judgment of Congress on the propriety of steps being taken by this government looking to the withdrawal from its engagements with the other powers on some reasonable terms not prejudicial to any of our existing rights.

Detroit Smugglers Get Bail.

DETROIT, Dec. 4.—The three women and four men who were arrested charged with smuggling were brought before the United States commissioner yesterday. Bail was fixed at $3,500 in their case and $1,000 in the case of John Nicholas and John Lazarus, the ferry boat employes. Mrs. Moore and Miss Kirk have turned State's evidence. According to Miss Kirk's story, the gang must have smuggled $60,000 worth of goods into this country from Canada in the last eighteen months. While there is no evidence of any collusion on the part of the custom house officers, Deputy Collector Smith has relieved all the men on duty at the ferry dock pending investigation.

Fire Losses for the Year.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin estimates the fire losses of the United States and Canada for November at $12,195,000, as against $11,498,000 for November, 1893, and $13,008,000 for November, 1892. The losses during 1894 to December amounted to $113,000,000, as against $144,000,000 for the corresponding period of 1893 and $120,000,000 in 1892.

Sick headache and constipation are promptly cured by Burdock Pills. Easy to take, sure in effect.

TORONTO ALDERMANIC INQUIRY.

Ald. Hallam is in It, Too—Hewitt Said to Have Disappeared.

TORONTO, Dec. 4.—At the boodle investigation yesterday Fred Nicholls refused to produce the books of the Edison Electric Company, which are in his possession. Judge McDougall, however, ordered the books to be produced.

A. E. Plummer testified that the Trusts Corporation of Ontario, of which he was general manager, were executors for the late George W. Kiely. He had received from James Gunn the books and papers belonging to the deceased. J. J. Foy was present when the papers were examined in an office formerly used by Mr. Kiely on Church street.

Among the books was a mortgage ledger, in which witness did not see any record of the Hewitt mortgage.

He had not heard of the $10,000 mortgage to Hewitt until he read of it in the papers. He then visited Mr. Gunn, and that person knew nothing about the transaction with Hewitt.

W. R. Brock, one of the syndicate that sought a street railway franchise, said he was at a committee meeting when Mr. Janes got a note asking him to go outside. When he returned he told Mr. Brock that he had been approached to put up $40,000 to secure the franchise. Witness had not been approached himself for money but an alderman had visited him and his subsequent actions led witness to think that he had been not altogether interested. It did not occur to him for some days that the aldermen had other motives.

Ex-Ald. Hall was again on the stand and said he had received $800 or $1,000 from Mr. Barr of the Edison company before the date of the agreement produced in court the other day. He had no transaction with Mr. Barr while he was an alderman. He admitted that, in conjunction with Mr. Hewitt, he was to use his influence with Mr. Everett, of the Kiely-Everett syndicate, to favor the Edison company in securing the contract.

James Gunn, superintendent of the Toronto Street Railway Company, took the stand. He had been Mr. Kiely's confidential agent, but Mr. Kiely had never told him of a loan of $10,000 to Mr. Hewitt. He had never heard of the loan until the present investigation.

The principal evidence taken during the day, however, was that of Mr. McKenzie, president of the Toronto Street Railway Company.

On being asked by Mr. Nesbitt if any alderman had applied to the company for stock, Mr. McKenzie replied that Mr. Kiely had told him of an alderman who wanted to take $50,000 stock in the company. The application was laid before the board, but was not considered. After this the alderman had always voted against the syndicate. There was a sensation in court when, in reply to Mr. Nesbitt, Mr. McKenzie said the alderman mentioned was John Hallam.

Ald. Gowanlock Resigns.

Ald. James Gowanlock, whose good name suffered from the evidence given last week, has resigned. Mr. Gowanlock maintains his innocence of wrong-doing, but as a certain suspicion would cling to him he deemed it best to resign and place himself in a proper light before his constituents. He will be a candidate at next election.

It is reported around the city that Edward Hewitt, who resigned as the result of the investigation, had gone to California. On inquiry at his residence it was found that he had sent a message there saying that it might be necessary for him to leave the city. It is thought that he has gone, as he could not be found when wanted at the inquiry.

PLUNGED INTO THE LAKE.

Serious Accident on the Delaware and Hudson—Two Persons Drowned.

PORT HENRY, N. Y., Dec. 4.—New York mail train No. 4 on the Delaware and Hudson railroad, composed of one baggage, one express, one emigrant, smoker, a day coach and parlor car left the track about two miles north of Port Henry yesterday. The tender broke away from the engine, followed by the express, baggage and emigrant cars, and went into the lake, the smoker and day coach overturning. The cause of the accident is unknown, as the track where it occurred is in good shape.

List of casualties: Mail Clerk Samuel Rouse, of Wadhams Mills, drowned; body recovered. Express Messenger Quinn, of Ballston, supposed to be drowned. Conductor McLaughlin, Baggageman Place and Brakeman Harrigan, slightly injured. Lady passenger, name unknown, hands slightly cut.

Agrarian Antagonism to Uncle Sam.

BERLIN, Dec. 4.—Several agrarian newspapers urge the government to notify the United States of the suspension of the "most favored nation" treaty. The Kreus Zeitung, although usually the mouthpiece of the extreme agrarians, fears that such an extreme measure would react disastrously upon Germany. "The abrogation of the treaty," it says, "would only elicit severe counter measures from the Washington government without staying the fall of agricultural prices. The Russian and Roumanian imports of grain are far more harmful to the German producers than the American imports."

A German Hint to England.

BERLIN, Dec. 4.—The Koelnische Zeitung warns England that an Anglo-Russian alliance could result only in Russia's compelling her to dictate to Japan and enforce upon her certain conditions at the end of the war. Although England already wishes to deprive Japan of the fruits of victory, says the writer, she would find the Russian programme a difficult and distasteful one, as any attempt on her part to coerce Japan would be frowned on by the whole civilized world outside her own dominion.

Decided Against the Rogers Company.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—Judge Acheson filed an opinion in the United States Circuit court of appeals in an important patent suit yesterday. The complainant was the Mergenthaler Linotype Co., and the defendant was the Rogers Typographic Co. The matter came up from the New Jersey Circuit, which held that the Rogers Co. had infringed on the Mergenthaler Co.'s patented machine. The present finding affirms the decision of the court.

JERSEY IS HEARD FROM

Great Britain's Delegate to the Conference Makes His Report.

AN INTERESTING DOCUMENT

The Earl's Opinions Are Largely in Favor of the Conclusions Drawn by the Conference—Practicability of the Cable and Steamship Schemes.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The Standard is informed that the Earl of Jersey has submitted to Lord Ripon, of the Colonial Office, his report of his mission to the Ottawa Intercolonial Conference. The tenor of this report, the Standard learns, indicates that his opinions are largely in sympathy with the conference's conclusions as to the cable, steamship and trade relations in the Empire. These conclusions are described by him as sound and practical and likely, if realized, to be of the greatest advantage to Great Britain.

The Earl of Jersey earnestly advises the Government to consider favorably the unanimous request of the conference of the removal of any restrictions, treaty or statutory prohibition, standing in the way of intercolonial trade. The power to make fiscal arrangements, he says, may or may not be largely used, but in granting it to self-governing colonies Great Britain will be developing the policy long pursued of enabling them to make use of such resources within the empire as they think best. "I consider," he says, "it will be a consistent and successful policy to recognize the reasonable nature of the request that autonomous colonies have power, subject to the veto of the crown, to make such fiscal arrangements with each other as may seem to them most conducive to commercial prosperity."

As to the treaties with Belgium and Germany, the Earl of Jersey is satisfied that they do not preclude making preferential arrangements among the colonies themselves without the special advantages, so accorded, being extended to the two countries in question. Nevertheless, he thinks these treaties would prevent Great Britain from sharing any benefit which might be given by one colony to another, although they would not prevent Great Britain from giving especially advantageous terms to the colonies. He will suggest that Great Britain might consider whetever it would be possible, without denouncing the treaties, to induce Belgium and Germany to consent to the abrogation of the clauses especially referring to the colonies.

THE EARL OF JERSEY.

As regards the suggestion to establish a maximum tariff for foreign nations and a minimum tariff for members of the empire, the Earl of Jersey remarks that such a proposal would involve a fundamental change in the financial policy of Great Britain. "Canada, Australia and the Cape," he writes, "with their exuberant products of food and raw material, compared with their population, regard import duties with a different experience from that of the United Kingdom with its insufficiency of home grown food and the necessity of the free importation of raw material for industries."

Coming to the mail service the report is distinctly sympathetic, but warns the Australian colonies that much will depend on their action. It mentions that the assistance required from the Imperial Government might be easily rendered by diverting some of the mail poundage from the existing New York lines. On this point its language is: "If, instead of weekly mails sent by the Cunard and White Star lines, one were sent by the proposed route to Canada not only would certain political and naval advantages be secured but about £52,000, or half the poundage now paid yearly to the New York lines, would be saved, as the subsidized service would carry mail matter free to the extent of the subsidy. Then there would be a large set off against the contribution of £75,000 and the remainder would be still further reduced by the free carriage of any mails from Vancouver to New Zealand and Australia."

It is suggested that the difference between the poundage and £75,000 might be made up by the Admiralty subvention on account of the fast cruisers. If Great Britain makes these concessions, the report continues, she will have done her part toward forging a strong link in the chain of imperial communication. The Earl of Jersey implies incidentally that the dangers from fogs and icebergs have been exaggerated.

He does not see any practical difficulty in the way of the cable if Necker Island or one of the Sandwich Islands be used as a landing place. He speaks with less confidence of laying the cable from Vancouver to Fanning, owing to the unprecedented span of 3,230 knots in that route, but, he adds, the difficulty may have been overestimated.

He says: "I will only remark that I cannot understand how the two routes, one eastern and the other western, can fail at critical moments to be more useful than one, and that it is not an unreasonable proposition that the cable, passing solely from British territory and through waters comparatively secure from attacks, must be of greater strategic advantage than the lines through European and Egyptian territories with constant liability to warlike complications."

In conclusion he refers to the evident value that colonial statesmen attach to connection with the mother country. "It is within the power of Great Britain," he says, "to settle the direction of their trade and the current of their sentiments for many generations. Such an opportunity may not soon occur as the sands of time run down quickly. There is impatience for action, which would be tried by delay and most sadly disappointed by indifference to the proposals now brought forward."

The Standard says editorially: The Earl of Jersey's report may be remembered in after days as a document of material importance in the development of the relations of the colonies to the mother country. We hope that the Government, when they consider the conference proposals, will appreciate the benevolent spirit in which the Earl of Jersey transmits them.

STRIKING CLERKS PUNISHED.

Those Who Did Not Go Out Get the Extra Pay—Capital Notes.

OTTAWA, Dec. 4.—The Government has finally disposed of the case of the striking clerks in Victoria, British Columbia. Some time ago the post office employes there went on a strike, because the extra allowance of $10 each voted to them last session on account of the increased cost of living in the province and which they have been in the habit of getting all along until last July, had been stopped. The Government has now decided to pay the few clerks who did not go out on strike the allowance from the 1st of July last and not to give the clerks who did not go out on strike this extra allowance until from the 1st of December or Saturday last. In this way the strikers will be subjected to the loss of extra pay to the amount of $50.

The Hon. Mr. Foster has returned to the city in improved health. On being asked whether there was any truth in the report that he was likely to run in St. John, N.B., he said: "There have been a great many rumors, but I have never given them authority. Rumors or not, you can tell them that the Government is all straight in New Brunswick." On being asked if he had decided on contesting any particular constituency, he said that in New Brunswick they were in the habit of letting the constituencies nominate their own men and he saw no reason now for a change.

Mr. A. S. Cochrane, of the geological survey, is dead. Mr. Cochrane was appointed assistant to Dr. Bell in 1877, and has assisted in surveying nearly all the lakes and rivers in the Northwest. He married a Miss Todd, of Ottawa, and leaves two sons and a daughter.

CELEBRATING THEIR TRIUMPH.

Japs Elated at the Capture of Port Arthur—The Negotiations.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 4.—Commissioner Detring, who went to Japan to negotiate for peace, but was rebuffed by the Japanese government, arrived here. He says that he was recalled because the negotiations for peace had passed into the hands of the American Ministers to Japan and China. He asserts that he held documents giving him powers to negotiate in the name of the Board of Foreign Affairs. Both statements are doubted.

TOKIO, Dec. 4.—The capture of Port Arthur has been celebrated everywhere with entertainments and illuminations. The money collected at these entertainments is devoted to the purchase of comforts for the troops.

Serious Charge Against a Fisherman.

PENETANG, Dec. 4.—John Hoar, a fisherman and ex-lighthouse keeper at Hope Island, about 25 miles from this place, has been arrested and taken to Barrie, charged with having improper relations with the 18-year-old daughter of the present lighthouse keeper, one Marchildon. Attorney Coster and Magistrate Lyon of Barrie, together with a provincial detective, chartered the tug Maud and made the voyage to the island. There is no landing place there and the sea was very rough, but the trio managed to land by anchoring about 300 yards from the shore and rowing in a yawl the rest of the way. Hope Island is about six miles long and three broad, and is in the path of outward bound steamers from Collingwood to Parry Sound. Mr. Marchildon notified the provincial authorities some time ago of his suspicions, and as at this season of the year the keeper could not leave the island it was decided to hold the trial of Hoar at that place. When the officers arrived they found the girl was on the mainland, but on her father's evidence Hoar was arrested and taken to Barrie to stand his trial as above.

Went Down With All Hands.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The British steamer Albertina, which was last reported from Lynn, November 20, for Antwerp, was towed into Yarmouth with her bows badly shattered. She reports that during a dense fog last evening she collided off Harsboro' with a large steamer, striking her amidships. The Albertina's captain at once ordered boats to be lowered, and the vicinity of the collision was searched for the vessel, but no trace of her could be found. The captain of the Albertina fears that the vessel with which his vessel collided, which he believes to have been a passenger steamer, was so badly damaged that she sank immediately, carrying down with her all on board.

Foolhardiness Nearly Ends Fatally.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—An accident that nearly terminated fatally occurred just above Victoria bridge. A lad named Job Smith, about ten years of age, whose parents reside on Simcoe street, was playing on Hunt's Flats with a half dozen companions, when one of the crowd dared Smith to test the ice. Although it cracked under his first step, he walked out seven or eight feet, when the thin sheet suddenly gave way and he was thrown into the water. Fortunately, it was not very deep, but he was so frightened that he would certainly have been drowned had not two of his companions broken the ice between him and the shore and helped him out.

Fatal Runaway Accident.

NAPANEE, Ont., Dec. 4.—A runaway accident occurred here yesterday, which resulted in the death of George D. Dettor, an old and respected resident of Napanee. The horse he was driving, a spirited animal, ran away, and while turning the corner of East and Bridge streets overturned the rig, throwing the old gentleman out on the frozen ground, inflicting injuries to which he succumbed while being conveyed home. Deceased was an agent in the employ of Miles S. Plumley and was on a business trip to Newburg at the time. He was about 70 years of age and leaves a wife and seven daughters.

Renovating Soiled Candy.

A machine has been patented "to clean and put in eatable shape" any kind of confectionery. It is doubtful if anything could have been devised which would be more appreciated by the patrons of old confectionery women on the corners. Take your antique gumdrops, for instance, and throw them into the vibrating sieve of the machine. This sieve is concave and lined with a brush that is something between a carpet sweeper and a squirrel's tail. Running lengthwise of the sieve and having a sweeping motion is a long brush made of the finest bristles. The body of this brush is hollow, and, by means of a blow fan on top, a blast of air is forced between the bristles on the goods. There is no reason why candy should not be renovated like feather beds.—Boston Transcript.

Terrifying Dream of Wes Hearn's Crow.

Wes Hearn has a crow, and he is the gawkiest, oddest, ugliest, but withal the smartest bird one ever saw. He has learned the accomplishments of men so well that he now dreams—actually has nightmares. The crow during the odd hours of his willing and luxurious captivity has dug a hole in the wall, in which he deposits dainty morsels for the future when his appetite is not satiated. Yesterday in his hole in the wall he carefully placed two pieces of cheese and three bits of meat. This done he ruffled his feathers, drew his neck down into them, and, standing on one foot, went fast asleep. Perhaps the immense quantity of cheese which he had gorged himself with a half hour before gave him the indigestion, for he had a nightmare right on the spot. Suddenly he woke up, and the air was rent with "squawk! squawk! squawk!" in quick succession. He danced over in a flurry of excitement to his hole in the wall and jammed his bill in three times. Everything was there. Nothing had been stolen. He sidled over to his perch, scratched his bill with his foot in a meditative way, as much as to say, "Well, I'll be ——," and, ruffling his feathers into a muff, drew himself into them, supported the whole on one leg, and was soon again in the land of nod.—Florida Times-Union.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Dec. 4, 1894.

Canadian barley in Oswego is still steady at 60 to 63c.

On the street here 400 bushels of wheat sold at 59 to 61c for white and 59 1-2c for red. One thousand bushels of barley brought 42 to 45c and 300 oats 30 1-2 to 31c.

The visible supply of the barley is put at 3,899,000 bushels as against 3,949,000 last week and 3,342,000 corresponding date last year.

In the Buffalo barley market demand was very light, but prices firm.

At the East Buffalo sheep and lambs market of the 106 cars on sale 16 cars were Canadas and on these the advance was but 25 cents per cwt., selling at $4 to $4.10 for choice stock.

The Mark Lane Express in its weekly review of the British grain trade says "English wheats during the week have become 6d dearer. Corn and grain and barleys have gained 6d."

In Chicago all the news favored higher prices for wheat and an advance of 3-8 to 1-2c was scored. The corn market also favored buyers and the price advanced 1-4 to 1-4c for May and 1-4 to 1-2c for cash.

The London stock markets were quietly good. Americans have risen on expectations of the President's message, which is awaited with much interest. Prices, however, finished under the best. Other markets were good.

On Wall street the quotations are still 1-2c below the rate prevailing during the heaviest exports of last summer and as is generally known October's shipments of gold were quite normal. But the market's tendency is upward and shipments this week are an easy possibility.

Stomach Ache.

We all know what it is; we acquired a perfect knowledge of the "Pet" in our youth, after a raid on things we were expressly forbidden to touch. Our mother gave us Perry Davis' PAIN-KILLER then, and strange to say, no other remedy has been discovered to this day to equal it. Old popular price, 25c. for Big New Bottle

A Narrow Escape.

People who are exposed to the sudden changes of our northern climate have little chance of escaping colds, coughs, sore throat and lung troubles. The best safe-guard is to keep Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam at hand. It is a quick relief and reliable cure for such complaints.

Revival.

In order to revive business and give every person who may favour me with an order during the 1st week of December I will add a pair of braces with each pair of $3.00 pants. Call at W. J. Spectacles & Eye Glasses

In Gold, Silver, Nickel, Aluminum and Steel.

Whether you wear glasses now or not, if you are conscious of any difficulty in seeing—no matter how slight it is—do not neglect it for another day. It will cost you nothing to talk the matter over with me, and have your eyes skillfully examined.

No effort will be made to sell you Glasses unless you need them.

If you have never worn glasses, I will tell you if you ought to begin; if you already wear them, I will tell you whether they are suited to your eyes. What I have learned with long practical experience, concerning the best methods of ascertaining the different defects of the eyes and their proper correction, you can have the benefit of. I will guarantee to fit you properly with glasses that will strengthen and improve your eyesight, instead of rapidly ruining it, as poorly fitted glasses always do. Bring your whole family and have their eyes examined. No charge for examination.

I always keep a full and complete stock of the best Optical Goods manufactured, including pure White Axis Cut Brazilian Pebbles, which I can furnish in the newest and best styles of Frames for Spectacles and Eye-Glasses, in gold, silver, nickel, aluminum and steel. Also, Telescopes, Opera and Field Glasses, Reading and Magnifying Glasses, Microscopes, Thermometers, Lorgnettes, &c. Spectacles and Eye-Glass Cases of all kinds, including the latest styles of Chatelain Cases, which are now the most fashionable. Gold, Gold Plated, Silver and Silk Eye-Glass Guards.

SUGGESTION.—A Pair of Gold Spectacles or Eye-Glasses makes a most acceptable Christmas Present.

Roller Mills Resuming Operations.

Mr. A. J. McCargar, miller, has leased the Peterborough Roller Mills, Dickson's Race, formerly conducted by Meldrum & Davidson. The flouring department is being placed in a thorough state of repair and improvement, and while the work is going on Mr. McCargar will do all chopping with which he may be favoured promptly and satisfactorily, a fact of which farmers should take notice. Mr. McCargar expects to have the improvements to the roller mills completed in a short time, when he will be in a position to do gristing in a superior manner, and also to do a general milling business in a manner to afford the greatest satisfaction to his patrons.

Collegiate Entertainment.

"Last night the pavilion was filled to the doors by a highly appreciative audience, who testified by abundant and frequent applause that Mr. Kleiser's venture into a comparatively new field has been crowned with gratifying success. Under his skilful interpretation the character of pompous and verbose "Micawber," of honest "Ham," simple hearted "Peggotty," of the pure souled "Agnes" and of fawning "Heep" received masterly delineation and the whole performance bore the impress of rare ability and devoted application."—Toronto Telegram. Mr. Kleiser will appear at the Collegiate Institute commencement exercises, in the Opera House, on Friday, Dec. 7th.

An Immense Tree.

One of the largest pine trees that has been cut in Ontario was that which succumbed to the woodman's axe the other day near Lowry's shanty, on the Grimsthorpe limits, in connection with T. Butler's Moira River operations of the Rathbun Company. This mighty monarch of the forest yielded fifteen logs. The butt log, the finest of the lot, scaled over fifty-three inches at the top, and measured over 1,200 feet of lumber. The first log of the crotch scaled thirty-five inches, and the other thirty-three inches. The smallest log in the tree scaled eleven inches. The total contents of the tree in board measure are 6,000, thus making nearly twenty-nine standards.

The Gathering of the Granites.

There will be a meeting of the Granite division of the curling club, at the rink parlours, on Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock. This meeting is called to perfect arrangements for the coming season's play. It is to be hoped that the members will make a strong effort to be present, so that a strong programme for the coming season may be arranged with the concurrence and active sympathy of all.

Smallpox in the States.

Dr. Bryce has received notice from the Ohio State Board of Health that one case of smallpox has occurred in Cincinnati and three in Deerfield. The Cincinnati patient is a French immigrant. Two men who accompanied him went on to Arizona. The Michigan board reports smallpox outbreaks in eight places in that State. Since the beginning of the year there have been in Michigan 43 outbreaks, with 222 cases of the disease and 45 deaths. One hundred and twelve houses have been infected.

REMEMBER!

Mr. Laurance, the Optical Specialist, will be at Mr. McKee's Drug Store to-morrow (Wednesday), when he will test, free of charge, all those who are in any way defective in eye sight. This is a chance seldom offered. All who wear spectacles should not fail to take advantage of this opportunity.

NEWS NUGGETS

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—Christmas is only three weeks off now.

—Lumbering operations are quite brisk this season.

—Wolves are reported to be quite numerous in the back country this year.

—The windows of the Peterborough merchants are dressed in particularly pleasing styles this week.

—The ice was again flooded this morning at the rink, and if it turns colder this evening more water will be run on.

John Smith, on a charge of vagrancy, was sent up to the county gaol for four months by the Magistrate, this morning.

—A hard frost with a little more snow would make good sleighing now, as the roads are in a condition to make a good bottom.

—Mr. John Kincaid shipped a barrel of apples to Montreal yesterday, and left himself for the Canadian Metropolis this morning.

—The annual winter meeting of the Ontario Fruit-Growers' Association begins in Orillia this evening and continues four days.

—Mr. Stephenson, general superintendent of the G. T. R., and other officials, are expected here this week on general inspection of staffs.

A third young man who was a participant in the now famous row at Mrs. Wood's, on College street, some time ago, was assessed five dollars and costs by the Magistrate, this morning.

—Gee-e have been sold on the Belleville market, stuffed with stones and iron scraps in order to make them weigh more. Alexander Coulter and his wife were arrested on Saturday for the offence.

—"I say, Fred, can you tell me where Stratton's profit comes in on those dandy sleighs he sells every day." Tom—"No, and I don't care. We ought to stand in as long as he can, chummy."

—The horses which are not sharpshod these days are having a hard time of it on the slippery streets. One came to grief on George street this morning just opposite Gough's store. A broken shaft was the only apparent result of a heavy fall.

Plan of hall for the Yunck concert is now open at Sailsbury's Book Store, where tickets can be obtained. General admission 50c, reserved seats 75c. Doors open at 7:30; concert begins at 8. The public will kindly, if possible, be seated before that hour.

—Since the light flurry of snow on Saturday the walks have been very slippery, especially on the hills, where children slide and coast down them. If parties living where these dangerous places are would sprinkle the walk lightly with coal ashes it would stop the coasting and render the walks passable.

—A gentleman carrying a lantern had an exciting adventure on Aylmer street last evening. He was set upon by a bevy of Peterborough's most beautiful daughters and he was so completely taken by surprise that he wilted like a paper collar on a July day. When he regained consciousness, however, he proved himself a very entertaining host.

On Sunday morning, several members of St. Paul's choir began a practice, which will be continued on Sunday mornings during the winter. Several of them went up in the morning to the Nicholls Hospital and sang three or four hymns in each of the wards. The patients were very much delighted with the visit and sacred songs of the musical good Samaritans.

—Mr. Richard Waram, for eleven years G. T. R. car inspector here, has been promoted to a much more responsible position at Port Hope, on the main line, and left yesterday to assume his new duties, bearing with him the good wishes of his fellow employees, among whom he was deservedly popular. Mr. S. McLean, of Port Hope, has received the appointment of foreman there.

—Brantford Expositor: "There seems to be a general impression, as the result of this year's experience, that the open season for deer is too long, and it should be shortened by taking a piece off the earlier end. The true sportsman does not want a long season, and this year the weather was so fine that vast number of deer were spoiled before they could be brought to any place of shipment.

BUTTER AND CHEESE MEN.

Resolutions of the Association on the Death of Mr. J. T. Warrington.

Montreal Gazette.

The Butter and Cheese Association held a special meeting Monday morning for the purpose of passing resolutions of sympathy in connection with the death of Mr. J. T. Warrington, jr., of Belleville.

The following were the resolutions adopted:

That this association learns with profound sorrow of the death of one of its members, Mr. T. J. Warrington, jr., of Belleville, and hereby desires to place on record the high estimation in which the deceased was held, and also to testify to his ability as a merchant, his high sense of honour as a man, as manifested in all his dealings with his confreres, and the geniality of his character, which endeared him to all.

That Messrs. A. J. Brice and Jas. Alexander be appointed to represent this Association at the funeral, and that the secretary and treasurer be empowered to select a suitable wreath as a slight token of sympathy from this Association.

That this Association begs to tender Mrs. Warrington and family its sincere and heartfelt condolence in the bereavement they have sustained, and that a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to Mrs. Warrington.

THE COUNCIL AND THE CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY.

An Arrangement Effected by Which the Society is Helped.

The deliberations of the Finance Committee of the Town Council and the committee of the Children's Aid Society have resulted in the town's making arrangements to afford a temporary home in all cases required by the Society. This plan will greatly facilitate the society's work and retrieve it of all worry except over the affairs that legitimately belong to it. Leave the society to attend to the duty of providing foster homes, in to which they may be permanently removed from the temporary shelter provided by the town.

DEFECTIVE EYESIGHT.

Often Found to be due to Impaired Kidneys or Kidney Disease.

TORONTO, Dec. 4th.—Defective eyesight is caused by uric acid weakening the optic nerve. Drive the acid from the system by using Dodd's Kidney Pills. Skin disease is caused by kidney acid in the blood. It is cured by frequent bathing and thorough treatment by Dodd's Kidney Pills. Constipation is a great factor in causing ill health. It can be cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. Thousands have testified to their cures. Dodd's Kidney Pills are no experiment. They do what is claimed for them.

SANTA CLAUS' DEMANDS

To C. B. ROUTLEY:

SIR,—"I call on you to hustle. I can't be hindered in my projects by your keeping on hand that big lot of China Sets, Dinner Sets and Chamber Sets. You haven't had them long, but, man, look alive. Clear 'em out. I must have room in your store to spread out my goods this time of year. Thousands of my friends like to visit your store. Been doing it for the last ten years. They always get what they want for young, middle and old people."

We realize the importance of doing as the old men say, and will sell, for the next two weeks, China, Crockery and Lamp Goods at lower prices than ever before. Fancy Goods reduced also to keep in line.

Report adopted.

THE INSPECTOR'S REPORT

was read and received as follows:

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN,—The number of pupils enrolled in the Public Schools of the town during November (Kindergarten not included) was 1,329, with an average attendance of 1,180 or 88.8 per cent. The Kindergartens enrolled 128 (Central 61; South Ward 67); average 97. Hence the total enrolled was 1,456 and the total average, 1,277. In November 1893 there were enrolled 1,427; average 1,254.

NON-RESIDENTS.

At the last meeting of the Board it was asserted that a dozen pupils who should be classed as non residents were in attendance at the Central without paying fees. The next morning I carefully examined the matter and found, as I expected, that there was no foundation whatever for the statement. The so-called non-residents are pupils whose parents pay the requisite amount of taxes in town, or who have been adopted by citizens.

HOME WORK.

In regard to home-work permit me to say that burdensome lessons for preparation after school hours are not given with my approval. The teachers of part I., 1st book classes, were instructed at the beginning of this term to give no home-work; and the teachers of part II. grade were instructed to guard carefully against giving more than could be done easily in a half-hour. No fourth book pupil should ever have more homework than can be done in one hour, nor a second or third book pupil more than can be done in 40 or 45 minutes. It is but fair to my staff to state that during the last two years I have had not more than a half-dozen complaints of too much home-work. Parents have more frequently complained of too little.

VERTICAL WRITING.

The following extract from a letter received by me, last month, from the Supervising Principal of Stratford Public Schools, is similar to quite a number received this year: "I have been quite too busy to send you more than a card acknowledging your kindness in giving me such a fine lot of samples. They attracted a good deal of attention, and were pronounced by dozens of teachers in my hearing much superior to writing done by pupils in the same grades anywhere else. I advocated the system at the convention with very gratifying success. The Board here will adopt it next week as the standard system for Stratford, and as a result of the convention all our teachers are only waiting permission to adopt it."

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. W. GARVIN.

—Received.

The usual formal resolution, moved by Mr. Hill, seconded by Mr. McKee, in reference to the holding of the elections, was adopted.

THE NICHOLL'S SCHOLARSHIP.

A resolution, moved by Mr. Hall, seconded by Mr. Hamilton, empowering the Board to supplement, by a grant of $10, the Mrs. Nicholls' fund for scholarships, was adopted.

COAL VS. WOOD—A TEST TO BE MADE.

Mr. Law moved, seconded by Mr. Hayes, that in view of substituting coal as fuel in lieu of wood, I hereby suggest that for one week the wood used under the boiler (of the Central school) shall be carefully measured, and the average outside temperature be taken for each day—the following week coal shall be substituted, and the mover will send a man to fire the boiler during that time, the result to be laid before the Board to determine the difference in cost of the two fuels.

In view of the next regular meeting of the Board falling on January 1st, it was decided to adjourn till January 8th, 1895.

The Modern Mother

Has found that her little ones are improved more by the pleasant laxative, Syrup of Figs, when in need of the laxative effect of a gentle remedy than by any other, and that it is more acceptable to them. Children enjoy it and it benefits them. The true remedy, Syrup of Figs, is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only.

Grafton & Co., manufacturers of Clothing, sell direct to the wearer at close wholesale prices.

Organs and Pianos.

Messrs. Jackson & Co. have a number of second hand organs and pianos from $50.00 up, which they are anxious to clear out, in order to make room for their Christmas goods. Easy payment. Terms to suit buyers. Organs and pianos to rent. Show rooms and factory 378 Aylmer street.

GROSS ABUSES.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—Permit me, through the columns of your paper, to call the attention of the public to some of the abuses practiced for years in the County of Peterborough affecting our Public Schools.

It is a well-known fact that many of the schools in the country are taught by teachers who have not the legal qualifications. Many schools are and have been taught by persons who never passed a non-professional examination of any grade, or a professional either. Is this just to those of us who have spent their time and money to properly qualify for the important work of a teacher? Is there any encouragement to do efficient work for a mere pittance? Is it not a fact that many of the best teachers educated in the High Schools in our county have to go outside to teach?

Will Inspector Brown give a reason why one teacher is allowed to attend the Normal School without taking a Model School course and another is refused?

There are teachers now in the Normal, who have never gone down to Norwood to take the Model School course. How does he manage to get those favourites into the Normal? He must report them qualified or how would they be admitted? Are they smuggled in? We wish to ask the same gentleman why one teacher, who has taught out his third class, is refused an extension, although a strong petition in his behalf is presented by the board of trustees, while anorher, under similiar conditions, is cheerfully granted an extension?

If these statements are not correct, we challenge the inspector to publish in full the name and the qualifications of each teacher in the county, for the past five years, marking the name of those, who have received extensions by the county board, and also checking off the long list of teachers, whose names do not appear in the minutes of the board, but who have been quietly smuggled into schools, without the knowledge of the board. We feel certain that the publication of such a list will reveal a state of affairs without parallel in any county since the Public School Act came in force. No mere denial will satisfy the public.

Is there a legal County Board? If so, who is the secretary? It would be interesting to see the minutes in print. Are there any minutes? I am certain that the county board (if there be any) is being kept in entire ignorance of the "crooked" practices in vogue for years past. Publish the resolutions of the county board and let the public know if the other members are a party to such violations of the school law and ordinary justice.

The teachers themselves have made no secret of the matter that they got on the "right side" of the Inspector. The names of scores of such cases occurring in the past four or five years can be forthcoming.

To what power on earth shall we appeal to remedy such grievances? To the County Council? It is a well known fact that the Inspector was ordered not only to discontinue his novel method of teaching reading but to notify the teachers of its discontinuance. Whom did he notify? He did not notify me nor any teacher whom I have met, but on the other hand not only encouraged it, but even publicly lectured in the back townships on the merits of the system, thus treating the County Council's resolution with contempt.

Thanking you for your space, I am one of a long-suffering class,

Dec. 4th. PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHER.

A PLEASING PROGRAMME.

A Committee Appointed to Superintend Church Decorations for Xmas.

The Young People's Association of St. John's church met last night, in regular fortnightly session and spent a most enjoyable evening. It was resolved that refreshments would be served at the next meeting, on the evening of the 17th inst. A committee composed of Misses Comstock, Coulter and Daisy Sproule was appointed to make the necessary arrangements.

The following will form a committee to superintend the church decorations for Christmas,—Mrs. George Rubidge, Miss Burley, Miss Fawcett, Miss Kate Henderson, Miss Annie Sproule and Messrs. Comstock, Alf. Terrill and Walter English. The following programme was rendered with Mr. T. J. Baker in the chair:

Vocal quarette	Messrs. Hayden, Kingscote, Varnes and Morphet
Mouth organ solo	Mr. Bert Hodgson
Instrumental duet	Misses Henderson and Sproule
Mouth organ solo	Mr. Roadhouse

A number of new members signed the roll during the course of the evening.

A FALSE STATEMENT CONTRADICTED.

The rumour having been circulated by interested parties that Ostrom's were not receiving Chicago meats, the following letter is published in contradiction of such an unfounded statement:

MESSRS. OSTROM BROS., Peterborough, Ont.

GENTLEMEN,—In accordance with instructions received through our representative, Mr. Clerihew, we have entered for shipment to-morrow 1,000 lbs. of tenderloins, which will go forward on the 3 o'clock train as desired. We are very much pleased to send these meats, and hope you will find it to your advantage to use them regularly. We are confident the grade of the meats will please you in every respect and will certainly give any orders entrusted to us our most careful attention.

With thanks for the favour, and hoping to hear from you soon again, we remain,

Yours truly,

NELSON MORRIS & Co.

A CO-OPERATIVE TOWN.

An English City Where Everybody Joins in Ownership.

Oldham (Lancashire), although comparatively speaking, a modern town, and peopled almost exclusively by the working classes, holds the lead in many respects, but especially in its co-operative movements. No town in the kingdom owns as many joint-stock or limited companies, which in their turn have created other co-operative combinations.

Its co-operative stores consist of two societies, each with a membership of nearly 11,000. These societies were the pioneers of the "limited" movement in Oldham., and the cotton industry was the first business they began with. Such rapid strides has it made that Oldham is known far and wide as the "divi." The co operative societies spread still further, and now, in conjunction with the societies in adjacent towns, own a large corn mill, thus sharing the profits to be made from grinding the grain.

There are in Oldham district, in the cotton trade alone, about 150 limited companies, the majority of which have been formed since 1872, with capitals varying from £10,000 to £15,000, chiefly divided into £5 shares. These companies, seeing the profits accruing from buying the raw material, at once formed the Oldham Cotton Buying Company, Limited, almost every company having shares; consequently it is to their own interest to do business with the company, and thus share in the profits. But they do not stop here. Seeing the large profit made by the insurance companies, they decided to form one of their own, and the Federative Insurance Company, Limited, sprang into existence, each company holding a number of shares, and encouraging it by transferring their insuring business to it.

It is no uncommon thing for some of the cotton companies to consist of 400, 600, and, in some cases, 700 shareholders; almost all residing in Oldham. Scarcely a family in the town but what owns shares in some cotton company or other.

The company movement does not stop with the staple trade (cotton). The butchers were not long behind, and then was formed the Oldham Hide, Skin and Fat Company, Limited, which effectually demoralized private enterprise in that direction. Even the bill posting and advertising business was invaded, the printers forming the Oldham Bill Posting Company, Limited, through it posting their own bills and advertisements. The publicans were not left out in the cold, and very soon two aerated water companies were in full swing, each publican, so long as he dealt with the company, holding so many shares. These he must relinquish when he ceases to deal with them. In fact, there is no business, not even poultry farming, which has escaped the company craze, and it is a by-word that at one time you could have floated a dog kennel in Oldham.

LIFE ON AN IRONCLAD AT SEA.

Ordinary Gales Seem Like Hurricanes and Existence is a Continual Misery.

Admiral von Werner, a high authority in naval matters in Germany, describes in a work recently published the behaviour of armor-plate men-of-war in a heavy sea. He says: "Even with a moderate gale and sea an armor-plate cruiser, if going against the wind, will find herself in conditions similar to those of a storm—at least the crew will have that impression. The movements of the stern of the ship are violent and exceedingly disagreeable. The waves pushed by the advancing prow sweep continually over the ship from bow to stern. All windows and portholes must be closed, and air reaches the lower decks, only through the artificial ventilators. With the exception of the specially protected command bridge, all the uncovered portions of the ship are impassable; thus the whole crew must bear as well as they can the hell of the closed decks. On such a ship no one can feel comforttable; and when there is a storm in which a sailing ship would feel comparatively at ease, the crew of an armor-plated ship imagines itself to be in a heavy hurricane which threatens destruction at every minute. The long, narrow forepart of the ship, which is not borne lightly by the water, and is rendered extremely heavy by the mighty ram and the armoured deck and the cannon and torpedoes, forces the ship in a high sea to pitchings and rollings of such an extraordinary kind that they cannot be described. The crew of such a ship is not only exposed to mortal dangers, but the voyages they make render them extremely and dangerously nervous; the mental impressions they receive wear them out and make the profession hateful."

Can't Always Tell.

It is mighty hard to tell what a colt will develop into; he may be likely looking and still never possess more speed than a cow; or he may look like a "skate," and still blossom out into a record breaker. The horse that wouldn't bring a century today may be worth thousands before he is two years older. Look at the case of Robert J., the whirlwind of the turf. He made his debut as a winner at Fleetwood two years ago, and before he won his race was offered for sale for $1,500 without a taker. "Pa" Hamlin, of Buffalo, knows a good thing when he sees it. As soon as Robert J. beat his own horse in a race at the spring meeting at Fleetwood he immediately bought him and his dam for $4,500. Like all the fast pacers of the present time he is purely trotting bred, being by Hartford—son of Harold (sire of Maud S., 2.08 3-4), dam Geraldine, by that grand stallion Jay Gould, who died recently.

A WIDESPREAD REPUTATION.

Earned After Years of Grand Work.

It is cheering and satisfactory to know that in England, the United States and in our own Dominion, the best authorities on dietetics and infant feeding, strongly recommend the well known Lactated Food as the safest, purest and most digestible form of nourishment for all infants who are artificially fed.

The ablest chemist emphatically declare that the composition of Lactated Food is perfect, and that it is the best known substitute for pure and healthy breast milk.

Mothers should bear in mind that Lactated Food is baby's strength-giver and builder. If the little one is frail and weak Lactated Food will soon give it vigor and robustness. This wonderful food is confidently recommended to all mothers in Canada. It has made more strong and healthy babies than all other combined foods, and well deserves the title of "King of Infant Foods."

FRATERNAL ASSESSMENT LIABILITY.

"Can't I get out when I please, and have no liability?"

Most people expect "yes" for an answer to this question, when they say they are members of an assessment insurance society, and begin to think of their responsibilities as such. It is important for them to know that they cannot escape liability; because every member, no matter when he drops out, is liable for any deficiencies that may arise in future, if they were developed during his membership. Here is an instance:

The United Masonic Benefit Association of Missouri was some years ago an active and apparently prosperous assessment concern. It provided no reserve, but offered low rates, cheap insurance, and seemingly hoped that new blood would make up for increasing mortality resulting from increasing age. By and bye its forces began to fall off, not enough "new blood" came in, and the cost of membership ran up in a very uncomfortable way. Presently the healthier lives began to feel their burden pressing heavily and steadily left the ranks, until so few were left in the association that the assessments amounted to $140—one hundred and forty dollars—on each certificate. The remaining members refused to pay such a sum, and the concern failed. But there were unpaid death claims for a large amount due, and the State Superintendent of Insurance thought they ought to be paid. So he began suits at law against individual members to enforce payment of the assessments against them; the court has decided that they must pay. The feelings of those who are thus compelled to pay what they never expected have undergone a change with respect to assessment insurance.

Replying to some enquiries which had been made upon this point of liability, and citing this case illustration of what may be expected in any similiar case which might be pressed to suit, the Insurance Monitor says: "The decision referred to answers our question which has been debated whether the member's liability is limited to sums which he may choose topay; in, other words, whether he can get out when he pleases without further harm. This he cannot do. Every member, no matter when he may drop out, is liable for any deficiencies which may crop up in future, resulting during his membership. The only safe course for parties that apprehend breakers ahead is to drop their membership before the breakers are reached; and the misfortune of this course is that the faster they drop, the faster the association drives towards the breakers."

There seems to be only one course open for the prudent man who may be determined to avoid possible liability; that is to keep out of such associations entirely and buy his insurance of the regular companies.—Monetary Times.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees.
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,
They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life!
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

DAVID DOIG.

ELOPED ON A STEER.

Two West Virginia Lovers Evade an Obdurate Parent.

Last Thursday morning a young couple appeared in the city. They were Miss Carrie Coats, a pretty, peachy-cheeked country damsel of 17, and Sandy Johnson, a tall, stalwart, goodlooking countryman of 22 years. They had traveled all night from the bride's home on Ground Hog Creek in order to elude the obdurate father of the girl. The girl was riding on the back of a dignified spotted steer, and Sandy was walking by her side. The unusual sight soon drew a crowd of people, and, as everybody loves a lover, half a dozen hurried off after a magistrate or a preacher. Unluckily for the lovers no official could be found who would marry them, on account of the girl's age. When the couple heard of this they both broke down and cried, the girl sobbing as if nearly heartbroken.

The tears of the pretty young girl brought about a determination on the part of the spectators to see them through in some way, and one suggested that they take the train, then nearly due, for Niagara Falls, N. Y., where they would find no difficulty in getting married. This proposition changed the tears of the bride into smiles of joy and Sandy's less apparent grief into open-mouthed delight for a moment, until he thought of the expense. Someone in the crowd, however, anticipated the young man and proposed the crowd pay all expenses, and in less time than it takes to write it pocket-books were out and enough money was contributed to carry the couple through, with a souvenir left over for the bride.

The spotted steer was stalled in front of a pile of oats and corn to ruminate in peace and plenty until the return of the couple, and the procession headed for the platform. Neither of the couple had ever seen a train before, and when it pulled in they got on the platform between the engine and the baggage car. Their sponsors soon remedied this mistake and had them conducted into a ladies' car, where the conductor was expressly charged to see them safely through. The last seen of Carrie and Sandy as the train was whirling out of sight they were folded in each other's arms, laughing and straining their eyes as they looked out of the window.

MAKES HOUSES IN MINIATURE.

A Clever Boston Mechanic Furnishes Models for About $100 Each.

Do you contemplate building a house? If so, here is an invaluable suggestion guaranteed to save you a lot of money and regret, and preserve the architect from untold aggravation. In Boston, says the New York Press, there is a man who from plans and specifications will make a tiny model showing in detail just how the completed building will look. He charged from $50 to $90 to duplicate in miniature a three-story dwelling of ten or fifteen separate apartments. Everything is accurately reproduced, from the slope of the roof to the tread of the staircase. In this way the prospective owner, seeing his ideas practically realized, is able to make timely and just criticism. For even with a lively imagination and some knowledge of building it is impossible to get a very clear conception of proportions. Verandas that looked luxuriously broad on paper become painfully contracted when actually planked over, and it is astonishing to see how cramped and cheap, or bald and big is the real house that one fancied free from flaws. The Bostonian's scheme is to save you any possible disappointments or blunders. On a platform five feet by four inches he sets up the little model, shingling, plastering, or painting the exterior, you propose using for the real structure. Every window is in its proper place, doors swing easily on their hinges, halls are low or lofty and rooms sunny or airy, just as you propose in the plans. These is the house that you may turn it round and round, view it from a dozen standpoints, see where it meets your expectations, or wholly fails to materialize your favorite theories. It is true that $90 may seem a tidy sum to throw away on a toy, but those who have experienced some of the tribulations of house building will think it rather an inexpensive expedient in the end.

A Dangerous Metamorphosis.

HE.

'Tis but a little thing I ask;
A trifle, nothing more, I swear;
'Tis not a heavy, grewsome task
That wrinkles brow or silvers hair;
'Tis something, dear, that if you give,
You cannot fairly deem amiss;
'Tis nothing more than, as I live,
A little, simple, single kiss.

SHE.

This little thing you boldly ask;
This trifle light, to you, as air;
Perhaps to me doth fears unmask
That well may cause me to beware,
For this same simple, single kiss
Might soon develop into kisses;
And I from having been amiss,
Become, in consequence, a Mrs.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

THREE RUNNING SORES

PHYSICIANS FAILED

BUT B.B.B. CURED

Dear Sirs—After having used Burdock Blood Bitters for Scrofula in the blood, I feel it my duty to make known the results. I was treated by a skilled physician but he failed to cure me. I had three running Sores on my neck which could not be healed until I tried B. B. B., which healed them completely, leaving the skin and flesh sound and whole. As long as I live I shall speak of the virtues of B.B.B., and I feel grateful to Providence that such a medicine is provided for sufferers.

A SCALY ERUPTION

UNENDURABLE ITCHING

Suffered Three Years—Now Perfectly Cured by B. B. B.

Gentlemen—I have used Burdock Blood Bitters for Skin Diseases, from which I have been a sufferer for three years. I have used six bottles and am now entirely cured. I have used other remedies, such as Donald Kennedy's Medical Discovery and the Cuticura Remedies, but all to no good. I doctored one year with the best physicians in the land; they pronounced my disease a Scaly Eruption, but could not remove it. It came on in red blotches and spread over my body; the skin became dry and formed hard dry scales. The itching was intolerable, but I am now completely cured, and I owe it all to B. B. B.

HER CONFUSION PLEASED HIM.

A Grand Stand Incident at the Great County Fair.

At the Fair the other day a pretty young woman accompanied by a little girl seated herself in the grand stand an hour before the first trotting match and took a little luncheon of sandwiches and cold tea. That she had come only to see the horses was evident, as she looked neither to right nor left at the fifty distractions in progress, but fixed her gaze in expectation on the ring which was being watered.

When the grand stand began to fill a good-looking young man, laying down his race-card, catalogue and umbrella, took his seat beside her.

The woman chattered away to the little girl about the forthcoming races, referring eagerly to her own card and catalogue as she did so, and quite unconsciously interesting the young man. He took more than one good long look at her when he got the chance, and seemed entirely pleased with his survey.

As soon as the first race began she grew unconscious of everything but the track before her. She stood on her tiptoes, called out loudly her remarks, dropped her own catalogue and umbrella without seeing them, and in turn laid hold of those of the young man.

She used his umbrella freely, describing the racecourse with many a sweeping gesture. When her favorite won she pounded valiantly with the umbrella and fanned her face with the man's catalogue after the exertion.

Then she sat down and pencilled little bits of enthusiasm after the winner's name, still in the young man's catalogue, her own having been trampled under foot in the excitement.

She was tremendously at home with the umbrella, and more than once had to apologize for poking the young man's toes with his own property. He smiled in return, and seeming to enjoy it all hugely, stopped looking at the racecourse and looked, instead, at her. And she was a good enough picture to look at.

At last she pulled out her watch, and in a flurry of excitement was preparing to go, when she noticed the umbrella. She picked up her own, with flushes and apologies restored the other to its owner, and with the catalogue rolled tightly in her hand, was making her escape.

"Won't you give me the catalogue too?" asked the young man. "It's also mine."

In hurried embarrassment the young woman restored it. The young man laid down the umbrella as a thing of small importance and quickly opened the catalogue. He scanned the little pencillings over and over, and then, with a smile, tore out the pages and tucked them away, neatly folded, in an inner pocket.

VERY FEW OF THEM LEFT.

Old-Time Plantation Darkies Almost as Rare as Black Swans.

One sees but little of the old-time southern plantation darkies nowadays. The reason is a good one—there are but few to be seen. The passing of the old southern body servant might serve as a theme for an interesting volume, so mysterious and so silent the march of the great throng of them to that bourne from whence no traveler ever returns. Nothing is said of them. They are not creatures of importance one would think, and their obituaries are never left after them in the public prints to tell people of the great work-a-day world that the poor old slaves of the past are dead and gone. Thus for more than twenty five years the race of genuine old-fashioned plantation darkies has been playing out in Dixie, and they have been "layin' down de shovel and de hoe" in very truth.

Few of them are left—just a few—and they are to be found only on the large wilderness plantations of the extreme south. Here and there throughout the State of Georgia they can be found—right where they were left after the storm of civil war had spent itself, and they had stood there around the "big 'ouse" like sentinels on the watch tower to guard the mother and little one while the father slept far away on some battle hill. The fidelity displayed in this entitles the darkies of the '60s to endless praise. There was a war going on involving their freedom, and yet they stood like a firm phalanx around the homes of the southern soldiers while they were out at war, and these black-faced knights braved death at the hands of northern hosts to save the families of the men who had gone to the front to fight for a result contrary to the darky's emancipation.

It was simply because the old fellows knew their masters were really their best friends and that they ought to stand by them. It was simply because they loved their life on the great plantations of the south, protected and upheld by their white friends and owners.

A Great Battle

Is continually going on in the human system. The demon of impure blood strives to gain victory over the constitution, to ruin health, to drag victims to the grave. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the weapon with which to defend one's self, drive the desperate enemy from the field, and restore bodily health for many years.

Hood's Pills cure nausea, sickness, indigestion and biliousness. 25c.

PROPER DISTRIBUTION OF CHARITY.

THE CLERGY REMONSTRATED LAST NIGHT.

A Deputation Appears Before the Town Council and Submits a Scheme, Which Will Defeat the Ends of Impostors and Award Charity only to Those Who are in Need of it.

At the regular monthly meeting of the town council last night there were present the Mayor and Messrs. Cahill, White, Best, Hughes. Dawson, Roger, Sutton, McElwaine, Mason, Brady and Hall.

The following

COMMUNICATIONS

were read:

From J. M. Fanning, asking for remittance of statute labour tax.—Referred to Court of Revision.

From Jas. Renwick, asking for correction of an error in his dog tax bill.—Referred to Court of Revision.

From W. G. Morrow, secretary of the Property Holders' Association, asking for the use of the council chamber for the meeting of the Association.—Granted on motion of Councillors Dawson and Roger.

From the Auburn Woollen Co., stating that it proposed supplying electric plant for the town and asking permission to erect poles on the street.—Received, and on motion of Messrs. Dawson and Roger a deputation composed of Messrs. Max. Dennistoun and John Carnegie was heard.

Mr. Dennistoun in speaking referred to the fact that at present there was a monopoly in the matter of electric lighting, etc., and that as competition was at all times desirable, he hoped the request would be granted. In putting up the poles the new company were perfectly willing to comply with any reasonable restrictions which the Council saw fit to impose.

Mr. Carnegie followed in the same vein, referring to the fact that at present much power was going to waste at Auburn and cheaper power would, no doubt, be supplied the public. No exclusive franchise was asked, a fair field and no favour was all that was desired.

Mr. Roger wanted to know what the advantage would be to the citizens. The streets were already pretty well crowded with poles. He would like some guarantee of the good which would be accomplished.

Mr. Dennistoun pointed out that the two companies could not compete without lowering the rates. In Ottawa, Lindsay and other places two companies were working.

Councillors Best and White moved that the matter be referred to the finance committee, as a committee of the whole council, where the whole question could be discussed. It is understood that a report be brought in on the 15th inst.

Mr. Cahill thought that the matter should be given the most full and careful consideration, as no doubt in the near future other companies would be seeking franchises to supply the town with electric power.

From M. J. Dunford, protesting against being assessed for dog tax—Referred to Court of Revision.

From James Noble asking for a remittance of his taxes for the year as he is unable to work, also from Robert Redner on the same subject—Referred to Court of Revision.

From Edwards & Murray regarding the Gibbons' decision in which the conviction of the local magistrate was quashed.

In regard to this Councillor Hall mentioned that Town Solicitor Edwards had been unfairly accused by one of the local papers in being instrumental in securing this conviction which was quashed at Osgoode at considerable expense to the town. Mr. Hall thought it only fair to explain that Mr. Edwards had no hand in the affair whatever and therefore not a particle of blame rested on his shoulders. The accusation in question did not appear in either of the evening papers.

From Charlotte Scott, asking for a remittance of her taxes, this year, as she was unable to pay them.—Referred to the Court of Revision.

From Esther Vass, asking for a remittance of taxes, for this year, being unable to pay them.—Referred to Court of Revision.

From Miss Macy O'Leary, protesting against being assessed for dog tax.—Referred to Court of Revision.

From Margaret O'Mara, asking for a remittance of her this year's taxes, being unable to pay them.—Referred to Court of Revision.

From W. Lech, protesting against what he considered exorbitant taxation on his property.—Referred to Court of Revision.

From Charles Minden, asking for remittance of this year's taxes or more time in which to pay them.—Referred to Court of Revision.

From the Young Women's Association, asking for remission of taxes.—Referred to Court of Revision.

From the Y. M. C. A., asking for a remission of this year's taxes.—Referred to Court of Revision.

From Margaret McDonald, stating her inability to pay her taxes and asking for a remission.—Referred to Court of Revision.

From John Kerr, asking for a remission of his taxes, as he was injured on the railroad and is unable to work.—Referred to Court of Revision.

From Susan Cornell, asking for remission of taxes.—Referred to Court of Revision.

From Wesley Howden, asking for a portion of his taxes to be remitted.—Referred to Court of Revision.

From Mary E. Griffith, asking that an error in her assessment be corrected.—Referred to Court of Revision.

From E. B. Edwards, submitting copy of Foley will, and other papers in connection therewith.—Received and referred to the Finance Committee.

From Edwards & Murray, stating that the town had won its case against George Dunsford, who sued to recover amount of taxes he considered wrongfully imposed.—Received, and witness fees of $2.70 ordered to be paid.

From the Barnardo Home, asking for a remittance of this year's taxes.—Referred to Court of Revision.

From Robert Grant, contractor, asking for return of $320 deposited at time of this tender.—Moved by Councillors Hughes and Dawson that the request be granted.—Carried.

From the County Treasurer, asking for the $100 fine which was imposed in the Welsh assault case.—Referred to the Finance Committee.

From J. W. Taylor, stating that his income assessment is fixed at too large a sum—Referred to Court of Revision.

From Fredric Nicholls asking for a date for a conference to be set regarding a bonus of $5,000, which was promised in the event of the Canadian General Electric Company removing their lamp works and the plant of the Ball Electric Light Co. to Peterborough.—Received.

THE LICENSE COMMITTEE

recommended that the market by-law be amended to permit shops for the sale of fresh meats, between Hunter and Brock streets, on George street, on the proper license being taken out.

In reference to the application from F. LaPlante for refund of a portion of the pedlar's license fee paid by him, the committee could not recommend that the request be granted, as he is not a ratepayer in the town.

Councillors Hall and McIlwain moved in amendment to the report that the first part of the report be struck out. The amendment was lost as there was a tie vote.

The report was then voted on, when another tie resulted. Once more was the vote taken, but another deadlock resulted, both Mr. Cahill and the Mayor refusing to vote. The report therefore went back again to the committee.

1. That a cheque for $64.75 be issued to the Treasurer of the County of Peterborough in settlement of the county's account for the Pigeon Creek bridge for 1893. The account has been adjusted on the basis of allowing the county interest on its account from Dec 31st, last and the town receiving interest on the part towards the Smith street bridge from the time it was completed until the grant was paid.

3. That the Finance Committee to whom the application from the Children's Aid Society was referred, after meeting a committee of the society, received a proposition from the society, which is as follows:

Thomas Cahill, Esq., Chairman Finance Committee.

DEAR SIR,—The committee of the Children's Aid Society appointed to confer with your committee with regard to the establishment of a temporary home or shelter under the provisions of the Children's Act, in turn appointed a sub-committee consisting of Mrs. Beck and Mrs. Kendry to collect all data necessary for the proper consideration of the question by the town council. The ladies report as follows:

That the only feasible plan for the establishment of their shelter is for the council to rent or buy a house, furnish it, provide light, fire, water &c., for it; then engage by advertisement a man and his wife who are ascertained to be both capable and reliable, to make them managers of the shelter, paying them so much per child to board the children. It is supposed that the house rent, fuel, etc., together with the price of board will obviate the necessity of paying salaries. The rent of the house, No. 388 Water street, belonging to the Hilliard estate, is $100 all told. This suggestive plan refers to the Protestant children only. As to the Catholic children, since the Catholic clergy have offered to provide for them a temporary shelter and board at a reasonable rate it is suggested that the council close with their offer.

JAS. A. HALL,
Hon. Pres. C. A. Society.
(MRS.) E. KENDRY,
Chairman sub-Committees.

Your committee while believing that the council is willing to co-operate with the society does not think it is necessary at present to establish a Children's Home, but believes that an arrangement might be made with some family to take care of such children as it might be necessary to place in a temporary home. The committee recommended that the Children's Aid Society be asked to make inquiries and to report such suggestions as are the outcome of their enquiries to this committee.

4. The committee issued one cheque for the payment of a witness in the arbitration.

5. It was recommended that cheques be issued to pay witnesses in the arbitration who are called by the town, on the certificate of the chairman of the Sewerage Committee.

6. That the account of the Wm. Hamilton M'f'g. Co. be re referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee, with instructions to enquire into the question of the maintenance of the steam fire engine.

7. That the payments on the outfall sewer on progress estimates and for other expenses authorized to be paid, be made through the bank until the proceeds of the debentures are available.

Moved by councillors Cahill and Brady that the report be adopted.—Carried.

THE STREET AND BRIDGE

Committee reported as follows:

As instructed by the Council, they had advertised for tenders for the winter's snow-ploughing and the following tenders were received:—

For Southern district,—
Wm. Breckenridge & Co	$ 79 75
Geo. Henry	94 50
M. Bolton	110 00
For the Northern district,—
John Parnall	95 00
J. Beodgett	95 00
Richard Parnall	100 00
John Fausett	100 00
James Cleaney	110 00

The committee awarded the contract for the southern district to Wm. Breckenridge & Co. at $79.75, and for the northern district to John Parnall at $95. John Parnall having since transferred the contract to his son Richard Parnall at the same price. We recommend that the contracts be executed accordingly.

2. The committee also recommend that 300 cords of stone for street purposes be advertised for and that this committee be authorized to award the contracts for the stone.

3. That no action be taken at present in regard to a caretaker for the Smith street bridge.

4. Your committee asked the town solicitor for his opinion regarding Mr. W. H. Moore's letter on behalf of Mrs. Tighe.

On motion of Councillors Best and McIlwain the report was adopted.

STREET INSPECTOR POPE

submitted his report, itemizing an expenditure on the streets, last month, of $258.—Received.

COUNCILLOR BRADY'S HORSE DEAL.

The special committee appointed to sell the old fire horse and buy a new one, reported the sale of the horse for $38, and the purchase of a new one from Mr. John Hull, of Lakefield, at $100.

On motion of Councillors Brady and Dawson, the report was adopted.

THE CHARITY COMMITTEE

Reported, that as instructed, they had advertised for tenders for wood and received the following tenders:—W. J. Hall, 50 cords mixed wood at $2.25 per cord; Thos. McWilliams, 25 cords mixed wood at $2.15 per cord; John Young, 40 cords tamarac at $2.90; R. McHenry, 30 cords tamarac at $2.90, and Wm. White, 50 cords mixed wood at $2.25.

The Committee considered the tenders for tamarac wood too high. They accepted the tenders of W. J. Hall and Thos. McWilliams, and recommended that the wood purchased from them be paid for on the certificate of the Relief Officer, as to the quantity delivered, and that the Relief Officer be empowered to purchase a few extra cords from either of them at the price named if he finds it is needed.

The amount expended in relief this year is as follows: Groceries, $1,262.25; wood, $478.26; tickets, $108.30; sundries, $21.00; total, $1,869.81.

Adopted on motion of Councillor White.

BY-LAWS.

A by-law to provide places in which to hold elections for the return of the Mayor and Councillors and the members of the Board of Education, and to appoint returning officers, was read a third time and passed:

No. 1 Ward—VanEvery's store—Joseph Lundy.

No. 2 Ward—Market Building—Charles Cameron.

No. 3 Ward—Metheral's shop—John Irwin.

No. 4 Ward—Wm. Reeve's shop—Geo. W. Powell.

Reference was made in council to the fact that the Water Works Company had not as yet replied to the last communication in reference to the hydrants.

DISTRIBUTION OF CHARITY.

A deputation composed of Rev. J. C. Davidson, Rev. Father Scollard and Rev. W. R. Young was heard in reference to the distribution of charity during the coming winter. Rev. Mr. Davidson was the first speaker. He congratulated the council on the great improvement in charity affairs which had taken place since Street Inspector Pope had been intrusted with the charge of the distribution. He dwelt on the fact that there was a great deal of indiscriminate giving to the poor by the citizens, and the clergy were of the opinion that this engendered a great deal of imposture, as many of those who received charity were undeserving, while others again joined a number of churches and received charity from all of them.

It had been thought that by a little care that much could be saved the town if the distribution of charity was placed in the hands of a central committee, who could every case as to leave no possible chance of imposture being practised.

Mr. W. R. Young then read the following report of a scheme, which had been formulated:—At a meeting, convened by the Mayor and attended by the ministers of the various churches of the town, a member of the Hall trust fund and several members of the town council, for the purpose of considering the best methods of distributing charity during the coming winter, the following scheme was approved and recommended to the favourable consideration of the town council:

That with a view to the satisfactory giving of charity during the approaching winter, and to avoid, as far as possible, any imposition or the drawing upon the various charities of the town by the same parties, we suggest the following scheme:

1. There shall be a Central Board, composed of one representative from each congregation of the town, including the Salvation Army, one representative from the Hall Trust Fund, one or more members of the town council and the town charity officer. This board shall meet once a week or more frequently if necessary, and shall have all monies voted by the council for charitable purposes, and such other funds as may be placed at its disposal by any individual or society for the relief of the poor.

CHARGE OF AND DISTRIBUTE

2. The town shall be divided into four districts corresponding to the division into wards for municipal purposes.

3. In each district there shall be a committee consisting of one representative from each religious denomination in the town, including the Salvation Army. The business of this committee shall be to investigate all cases where charity is asked, and to which attention is called, either by personal observation or otherwise. The members of this committee shall arrange for a systematic visitation of the district as soon as possible, and shall exercise such a constant supervision of the district as shall secure information of all cases of deserving charity. All such cases shall be reported to the Central Board.

4. Any applicant for charity shall furnish satisfactory proof of his being in destitute circumstances, and shall state whether or not he is in receipt of charity from any other source.

5. Nothing in this scheme shall be understood as depriving any individual church or society of the right of supplying any poor family, provided always that when any party receiving aid from applies for aid from the funds of this Board no such aid shall be given until a report is furnished of the amount that has been given by the church or society.

ANY CHURCH OR SOCIETY

6. A scheme for the actual distribution shall be perfected in detail by a committee to be appointed when the council shall have sanctioned the general scheme.

7. In case the scheme is sanctioned the several churches and bodies referred to shall be invited to appoint the members of the several Boards.

Mr. Young referred to the fact that many of the poor of the town appeared to grow more and more religious as the cold weather drew nigh and to join more and more churches, and it was with a view to curb such imposture that the clergy were willing to lend their aid.

Rev. Father Scollard endorsed all that the previous speakers had said and spoke most firmly as to the necessity of properly regulating the distribution of the town charity as well as that of the citizens.

On motion of Councillors Hall and Brady it was resolved that the council approved of the scheme, and referred it to the Charity Committee with instructions to report as to the sum to be given and how it should be paid over.

Holiday Bargains

- - AT THE

GOLDEN LION.

Our 60 Day's sale, which is to last, through the month of December, will afford a special opportunity for Holiday Buying of Gifts and Presents for Xmas and New Years.

We have a great swarming of Bargains for Ladies', Gentlemen, Misses and Children, including many choice new novelties per-onally selected during a recent visit to the Toronto wholesale houses, all to go at our remarkable 60 Day's Clearing sale Prices.

These prices are so near to the actual cost of production that we invite purchasing people to shop early and often.

"It's Fair's Way." We're all enthusiasm—

Now for the Proof

FOR INSTANCE—

TAKE MANTLES!—There is no dormant energy in this department. Fair's is the people's Mantle House—

—200 High-Class German Tailor-Made Mantles, ranging in price from $8 $15 each, can be purchased now for $3.50, $5 and $8 each.

—200 yards Tweed Ulsterings, reduced from $1.50 to 75c.

TAKE SEALETTES!—30 per cent. reduction on Lister's celebrated Sealettes ought to convince skeptical readers that we have reduced in earnest. Here are the figures to prove it:—

$13 00 per yard Sealette for $9 00
11 00 per yard Sealette for 8 00
8 50 per yard Sealette for 6 00
6 50 per yard Sealette for 4 50
5 00 per yard Sealette for 3 00

TAKE FLANNELS!—Surely these are things you need. What are the facts:—

—50 pieces more of those All Wool Grey Flannels, worth 20 and 25c., sale price 15c per yard.

—200 yards of those wide Flannelettes, worth 8c., for 5c. per yard.

TAKE UNDERWEAR!—1000 yards Black and Red Printed Flannelette, worth 12½ and 15c., for 10c. We have all the wanted kinds for men and women, but the whole secret lies in selling first-class quality at a second rate price. Look here for values:—

—Men's Knights of Labour All Wool Shirts and Drawers, worth 85c., sale price 65c.

—10 dozen Men's Natural Wool Shirts and Pants, worth $2.00, the garments clearing at $1.25 each.

—20 dozen Ladies' Undervests, worth $1.10 each, sale price 85c.

—15 doz. All Wool Vests, former price 75c., sale price 65c.

TAKE DRESS GOODS!—We want to "shame" the other fellows out who are crying Bargains under the ordinary conditions:—

—50 pieces Black and Coloured High-class Dress Goods, imported to sell at 75c. to $1.25 per yard, your choice for 50c.

—5 dozen Ladies' Knitted Shawls, for evening wear, ranging in price from $1.50 each to $3.25, your choice of the whole for $1.25.

—3 doz. Woven Shawls, starting at 65c., 85c., $1.10, $1.50, $2.50, $3.00, $3.10, $3 75, $4.00.

—10 doz. Ladies' Cashmere Gauntlets, worth 35 to 60c. per pair, clearing at 15 and 25c.

—500 yards Double-Fold Costume Cloths, your choice for 25c. per yard.

—$1.00 B & C Corsets really selling at 65c., and Fair's Half dollar Corsets at 35c.

—50 dozen Silk Hem Stitched Handkerchiefs, worth 10c., for 5c.

—50 All Wool Cradle and Crib Blankets for only 50c. each.

TURNBULL.

Sweeping reductions in Mantles this month at Turnbull's in order to have the stock all cleaned out by the first of January, as styles change so rapidly these days, we do not want to carry any over as our desire is to always show New Goods. We have only about 90 Mantles left, but they are well assorted, as we have only a few of each make. We have gone through them carefully and marked them down to prices that are sure to clear them out. Such as:

$5.00 Mantles in Blue and Black Cloth, for - - $3.00

$8.00 Mantles Neatly Trimmed, for - - - - $6.00

$10.00 Mantles, fine quality Beaver - - - - - $6.00

We have also a length of $8 Astrachan Curl (heavy weight) we are culling at $5 per yard, now is the time to leave your order for a Mantle that will wear better than any Dog Skin and cost only half the price. We have Leicester Sealettes, (acknowledged to be the best make in the world) in three or four qualities, but owing to hard times we are selling slowly and would rather clear them out than carry them over and will therefore make up Mantles at from $5 to $10 less than regular prices.

OUR MOTTO—Small Profits and Quick Sales, we undersell but are never undersold.

FRANCE WANTS A SLICE

If Chinese Territory is Divided She Will Take Formosa.

JAPS WANT A TREATY OF PEKIN

They Are Determined to Sign Peace Negotiations in the Celestial Capital —A British Steamer Landing War Materials—German Officers for China.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The Central News correspondent in Shanghai says that the British steamer Guy Manning is landing there from Hamburg war materials valued at £175,000.

A Central News despatch from Chee-Foo says that Commissioner Detring, who returned on Sunday from Japan, repeated in an interview the statements he made on Monday that he was empowered to negotiate for peace with Japan in the name of the Chinese board of affairs, and that he was recalled because the negotiations for peace had passed into the hands of the American ministers to Japan and China. Commissioner Detring added that Col. Hanneken, the commander-in-chief of the Chinese forces is raising 100,000 soldiers to be officered entirely by Europeans, mostly Germans. Some of these officers have already arrived and others are on the way to China.

Seven thousand soldiers have been ordered to reinforce Tung Chow, 50 miles west of Chee-Foo and are being supplied from Wei-Hai-Wei.

A despatch from Seoul Corea dated December 3 says: "Count Inouye, the Japanese Minister, is taking vigorous measures to restore internal order. Radical changes are being made in the departments of interior, justice and education.

A combined force of Japanese and Coreans was conveyed by steamer to Asan and marched to Kongji to attack Tonghaks. This force routed thousands of Tonghaks and killed a large number.

The Central News says that China has been offered all the money that the treaty powers are likely to allow Japan to claim as indemnity on the basis of a four and a half per cent. gold loan secured by the unchanged revenue of the treaty ports.

The Standard's Paris correspondent says: It is rumored in diplomatic quarters here that France means to have a share if the powers seize territory in the event of the disruption of China. It is supposed that she covets Formosa, which Admiral Courbet blockaded in 1884, occupying Kelung and the mines in the vicinity. Anyhow it is doubtful whether she will allow Japan or any other power to seize Formosa. It is understood here that the Japanese have set their hearts upon signing a treaty of peace in Pekin. The Japanese Minister here stated recently that Japan meant to have a treaty of Pekin as Europeans had a treaty of Paris.

Colorado Indians Troublesome.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 5.—A deputation of three leading citizens of Grand Junction, Col., has arrived here to make an appeal to the governor for protection against the Colorado Indians who have come in strong numbers over the state line. The committee say the Indians are in a defiant mood, that they vastly outnumber the whites and they declare they have come to stay in Utah. There is a feeling of exasperation among cowboys and settlers, and the least show of violence towards the invaders would lead to a serious outbreak.

Sentenced to Death by Cherokees.

WICHITA, Kas., Dec. 5.—An urgent plea for help was received here from A. J. Blackwell, who was lately arrested in the Cherokee Nation for high treason. Blackwell laid out a town named Davis in the Nation and sold part of it and this is counted treason under the laws of the Cherokees and is punishable by death. Blackwell writes that he will undoubtedly be shot unless some powerful influence is brought to bear on his captors.

Will Enforce the Dispensary Law.

COLUMBIA, S.C., Dec. 5.—John Cary Evans was inaugurated as governor yesterday. His address was characterised by unexpected moderation. He promises enforcement of the dispensary law and asserts it is now favored by 65 per cent. of the population. He recommends state control and appointment of police in cities where enforcement of the dispensary law is resisted.

A Reverend Rascal Sentenced.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Rev. Timothy O'Connell, the alleged Baptist minister, formerly of London, Ont., was tried in the Court of Special Sessions on a charge of indecently assaulting ten-year-old Dora Weber. He was convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary for twelve months and to pay $250 fine.

PLEASED WITH JERSEY

His Report Gives Great Satisfaction in Imperial Circles.

ANGLO-CANADIAN COPYRIGHT

Letter From a London Publisher on the Question—Liberal Papers Condemn Mr. Gardner's Action on the Embargo Question—Other Canadian Topics.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The Earl of Jersey's report on the intercolonial conference held at Ottawa in June last gives the greatest satisfaction, and it is believed that it will form the basis of early imperial action on the lines recommended. There is nothing surprising when it is noted that the imperial delegate to the conference points out that the Pacific cable, fast Atlantic steamship service and intercolonial trade proposals are sound and practical. The report is full of the great imperial advantages to be derived, though a preferential tariff with Great Britain would involve a fundamental change in the British free trade policy. Lord Jersey suggests that Great Britain divert some of the mail poundage from New York to the proposed fast Atlantic steamship service scheme of James L. Huddart, granting altogether a subsidy of £75,000. However, Lord Jersey cautions Great Britain to be careful in its proceedings with the Pacific cable. The colonies, he says, are impatient for imperial action in the matter and would be most sadly disappointed by indifference on the part of the mother country.

The Times says: "The Earl of Jersey's report of the intercolonial conference at Ottawa will be satisfactory reading to those who believe that the cause of imperial unity will be better promoted by a natural development of unfettered intercourse between the different parts of the empire and the consolidation of commercial and other interests than by any definite political scheme. The report will hardly fail to increase the earl's reputation, and it will be a matter for general congratulation if the adoption of his recommendations result in his permanent association with the colonial service."

Must Brand Their Cheese.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—In consequence of numerous complaints from London dealers that their orders for September cheese from Canadian shippers are often found to have been filled with cheese of an inferior quality and earlier manufacture the London Produce Brokers' Association and the Liverpool and Glasgow dealers held concurrent meetings and unanimously passed resolutions in favor of inerasably branding the day and month of manufacture upon the cheese itself instead of upon the box in which it is enclosed. Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian High Commissioner in Great Britain, to whom the resolutions were presented, promised that they should be forwarded.

The Canadian Copyright.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The Times publishes a long letter from Mr. Marston, of the firm of Low, Marston & Co., London, publishers, on the subject of Anglo-Canadian copyright. Mr. Marston expressed the opinion that if Canada requires cheap literature she can easily be supplied without going to the United States, and that if she cannot supply herself she can be supplied in abundance by Great Britain. The only Act she needs to pass, he says, is a local one, but one far more stringent than the acts of 1847 and 1875. He does not believe that if the proposed Act was sanctioned the Anglo-American copyright law would be endangered or rescinded.

The Premier Again in England.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The Canadian Prime Minister, Sir John S. D. Thompson, accompanied by his daughter, has returned here from the continent and is holding daily conferences with Sir Charles Tupper, the Canadian Commissioner, and with the Colonial Office. He refuses to discuss for publication the copyright and other unsettled questions. Sir John expects to be able to leave for Canada in time for Christmas.

Mr. Gardner's Obstinacy Condemned.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The agitation for the removal of the embargo on Canadian cattle continues. Such papers as the Daily Chronicle which usually suports the Government, condemns the obstinate standing taken in the matter by Right Hon. Herbert Gardner, President of the Board of Agriculture.

Mr. Wilson's Attack Falls Flat.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Mr. Wilson's renewed attack in the Investors Review on the Hon. George E. Foster and Canadian financial affairs, is not exciting any comment. This fact, along with the recent rush by the investors for the Canadian bonds, must be a bitter pill for Mr. Wilson.

Armenian Refugees Arrive at Athens.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The Armenian Society of London has sent circulars to clergymen of all sects, asking them to attend a meeting called for December 17 to protest against the atrocities in Armenia and call upon the government to force Turkey to institute reform. A despatch from Athens says that the twenty Armenian refugees who have arrived there in a destitute condition are being lodged at the expense of local Armenians who are themselves very poor. The refugees suffered greatly during their long wanderings. They embarked at Trebizond in a Greek coaster which had to call at Constantinople and Smyrna on the voyage. While in those ports the captain concealed the refugees in the hold and bunks, fearing that the Turkish police would search the vessel.

An English Murderer Hanged.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—James C. Read, the convicted murderer of Miss Florence Dennis, was hanged at Chelmsford yesterday. Despite all efforts to secure a confession the condemned man steadfastly refused to acknowledge his guilt. The murder for which Read was hanged was committed at South End on June 24 last. His victim was a young woman with whom he had maintained improper relations. Her body was found in a lonesome spot, and there was no direct evidence to connect him with the crime. His conviction was the result mainly of his reckless and unsupported denials and the proof of his extraordinary depravity in many directions. The murderer was a married man in comfortable circumstances.

CATASTROPHE IN HULL

A Terrible Dynamite Explosion Resulting in Four Deaths.

HOUSES BADLY SHATTERED

Thawing Out Dynamite to be Used in Blasting Causes the Disaster—Many Persons Were Wounded, Two of Whom Are in a Precarious Condition.

OTTAWA, Dec. 5.—The city of Hull—unfortunate Hull—which has narrowly escaped being destroyed twice or three times by fire, came very near being blown up by a dynamite explosion yesterday. As it is some fifty houses are badly smashed, four families are mourning for their dead; two more persons are dying, and some twelve others more or less injured.

The explosion was felt all over the city of Ottawa, and general opinion here was that it was a slight earthquake. The news, however, quickly came by telephone that another dynamite explosion had taken place at Hull.

The names of the killed are: Honore Larouche, 281 Kent street, aged 42. Norbert Martin, Britannia street, aged 34; Albert Barbeau, Little Farm, aged 15; Telesphore Seguin, Inkerman street, aged 70.

The injured are: N. Z. Louis, aged 30, left leg broken, face badly cut. Albert Beauchamp, aged 15, legs and arms broken and face badly cut. Mrs. Charron, head cut. Her little 3-year-old daughter also cut and bruised. Mrs. B. Prudhomme, scalp wounds and serious internal injuries. Albertine Prudhomme, aged 5, face and head badly cut. A. D. Cadieux, cuts on head and arm. Miss Clouthier, aged 20, face badly cut and bruised. Four-year-old daughter of Mr. Clouthier, and 5-year-old son, badly cut. Alexander Major, aged 9, very severely and dangerously cut on face and head.

The boy, Albert Beauchamp, residing near the scene on Wall street, was one of the badly injured. His left leg was broken and Dr. Beaudin thought it better to remove him to the hospital. He was a pitiable sight lying on the rough stretcher on his father's floor. A report was shortly after spread that he was dead, but it turned out to be untrue. Should he be strong enough to bear the operation, Drs. Beaudin and Aubry will take off the left leg as the only hope for his recovery.

Just exactly how the dreadful accident occurred will never be exactly known, since the only two men who could have explained it are cold in death. It is, however, known that there was between one hundred and two hundred pounds of dynamite in a shanty in the middle of Wall street. This dynamite was to be used blasting a dam which was for waterworks purposes and which was being constructed close at hand.

The dynamite was in charge of Telesphore Seguin, foreman, who it is said took for the first time a stove into the shanty Monday night. It is surmised that Martin and Seguin were engaged in thawing dynamite to be used on the waterworks excavations which are in progress. Woodwork close by became ignited and while engaged in extinguishing the flames the unfortunates forgot about the deadly explosive. Soon it was surrounded by flames and in a moment blew up. Martin was decapitated, his head being crushed to a jelly. Seguin was terribly cut up and is frightfully disfigured. Larouche, who was passing by at the time, was disfigured almost beyond identification. Barbeau, a school boy who was passing at the time, had a portion of his head blown off, along with one arm.

Some two or three years ago a dynamite factory owned by a man named Paton was blown to pieces near there. This time, however, the explosion took place in the city. It occurred about fifteen minutes to 8 o'clock. The sight was appalling to see, men battered to pieces beyond recognition and their wives hugging their bodies, praising them for their good qualities as husbands and bewailing their loss, was enough to make the stoutest hearts move with the deepest sorrow. One poor woman bent on her knee and kissed her husband's chin, about all that was left of his face.

The wooden shanty disappeared by the explosion altogether and nothing left to show where it was standing. There is no rent or excavation on the streets caused by the explosion. The damage consists of broken windows, which, as already stated, for fifty yards on each side, are smashed to pieces, broken doors and houses badly shaken.

The early hour at which the explosion took place prevented more from being included in the list of killed, as there were few people on the street at the time and only some of the workmen commencing to get around.

Contractor Bourque, speaking to a reporter, expressed the greatest sorrow for what had occurred. He was busy doing all he could to supply any aid required by the wounded. "Seguin was in charge of the dynamite and he should know all about the handling of it," said Mr. Bourque, "he has had many years' experience, but I find, unfortunately too late, that he transgressed a strict order I gave him. I have always insisted on there being no fire allowed in the shanty and now I find that only last night the old man got in a stove."

A Priest Missing.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Relatives and friends of Brother Fidelis of the Order of Christian Brothers, founder and president of St. Leonards academy on South Fourth street, Williamsburg, have just made public the fact that the priest has been missing since October 23. He left letters stating that he intended to leave the order. It is the general impression that the missing man has joined a Canadian order and is now in that country.

A Farmer Killed by a Train.

PRESCOTT, Dec. 5.—A farmer named Isaac Bradley who was returning home from town yesterday, while crossing the Grand Trunk track at Gladstone station, two miles west of this town, was struck by the express going east. He was killed instantly and his body fearfully mangled. The horses escaped unhurt but the waggon was broken to pieces. He leaves a wife and several children.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

It seems that an almost ominous silence prevails in the circle of civic politics, though so short a time intervenes between now and nomination day. This apathy from whatever cause it exists, is not a healthy sign of interest in the affairs of the town. The duties of citizenship vary according to the abilities which the individual citizen possesses. To some is given the discharge of the duties of citizenship in a private capacity—those who are unfitted by limited qualification in the matter of ability for any public position. There are others who are fitted by ability as well as inclination and amount of material stake to make good representatives. As to the degree of ability and fitness the electors must be the judges and the latter should have time to inquire into the qualifications upon which the candidate presents his claim for public support. It is high time that intending candidates declared themselves, and also that present members who intend to seek re-election should make known their intentions in this direction. In such an event the elector will be in a position to examine into the claims in one case and in the other into the record of the respective candidates so that he may arrive at an intelligent decision as to whom is most deserving of his support. Last minute candidates may offer themselves, be elected and make very indifferent councillors, who would not have been chosen had there been sufficient opportunity for the electors to canvass their claims, guage their capacity and appraise their fitness for the office sought; therefore it is desirable that intending candidates should early declare their intentions, and that the present members should also make known their intentions in regard to being candidates again. Representing a town of the importance of Peterborough is a weighty responsibility, and like matrimony, "is not," in the words of the marriage service, "by any to be enterprised nor taken in hand unadvisedly," but "discreetly, advisedly, soberly;" and the franchise is a responsibility that should be used with the same caution. Now intending candidates should declare themselves in time, so that they may have a fair trial at the bar of electorate opinion. Dont't all speak at once, gentlemen.

Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

THE BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNION.

On Tuesday, Dec. 11th, there will be held in the Murray street Baptist church a rally of delegates, representing the Young People's Societies in Peterborough, association of Baptist churches. A very interesting and profitable time is expected. The object of the B.Y.P.U. is the unification of Baptist young people, their increased spirituality, their stimulation in Christian service, their edification in Scripture knowledge, their instruction in Baptist history and doctrine, and their enlistment in missionary activity.

It welcomes to its fellowship all Baptist Young People's Societies, no matter by what name they are called, and also the young people of Baptist churches having no young people's organization.

There will be two sessions. The first will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m., beginning with devotional exercises led by Rev. C. E. McLeod, of the Gilmour Memorial church. The following programme will be introduced:

Reports from the churches re. young people's work.

Address, "Origin and aims of the B. Y. P. A."

Address, "Desirability of the local churches co-operating with this movement.

Question drawer.

Associational organization.

The evening session will begin at eight o'clock. Rev. J. E. Trotter will open with devotional exercises. At this meeting, among other things, will be given an address on the "Christian Culture Courses," and one on "The relation of the Young People's Societies to the local church." Mr. Thos. Urquhart, Rev. O. C. S. Wallace, M.A., and H. C. Priest, B.A., of Toronto, are expected to be present. These are prominent workers in the B.Y.P.U. movement. All the pastors in the association will also be in attendance and participate in the exercises. A cordial invitation to the public is given to attend these meeting.

THE LOCAL JUNIOR'S RALLY.

On Saturday afternoon, Dec. 1st, the Junior Societies of town held a rally in the Y.M.C.A. Hall. The attendance was good, considering the many counter attractions. Some of the Sunday schools of the town are making preparations for Christmas entertainments, and are practising for them on Saturday afternoons, and unfortunately some of these practices were taking place during the hour of the rally.

The programme was very interesting throughout. Miss Quinn, county superintendent, presided, and conducted the meeting in a manner that interested all present.

Rev. Mr. Rae addressed the children. His address was not only instructive but interesting, and at times very amusing. The address delighted the children very much, as well as imparted practical instruction to them, and it is safe to say that he won many new friends on this occasion.

Little Aggie Patterson, of St. Andrew's Junior Society, gave a very interesting report of the Kingston convention.

The different societies thus presented the plans of work that they propose taking up during the ensuing three months. We would like to publish the plans, but for want of space we are prevented from so doing.

The roll call was next in order, the different societies responding by singing an appropriate hymn and it was pleasant to see the children stand up in groups and sing in response to the roll call. A vote of thanks was tendered the Y. M. C. A. officials for the use of the hall and also to those who took part in the meeting and the children responded by a hearty clapping of hands.

The musical portion of the programme was indeed very good. The children all sang with considerable enthusiasm. Miss May Coulter presided at the piano and rendered valuable assistance. The societies represented were Charlotte street Methodist, Miss Kennedy, superintendent; Park street Baptist, Miss Mann, superintendent; Cold Springs, Miss L. Burnett, superintendent; Murray street Baptist, St. Andrew's, Miss White, superintendent, and St. Paul's, Miss Quinn, superintendent. The junior workers present were Misses Quinn, Kennedy, Mann, White, L. Bennet, E. Hall, M. Coulter, Morrow and Miss Hunt, and Revs. Mr. MacWilliams and Mr. Rae; and Mr. Owens.

The executive held a meeting immediately after the rally and discussed matters of importance pertaining to the junior work. Miss White, of St. Andrew's Society, will present a paper at the next meeting of the executive on "How to conduct a junior prayer meeting."

ANOTHER SWINDLER, LOOK OUT FOR HIM.

A Man Calls at Your House and Asks for Your Address.

A young married lady of this town had a caller a few days ago that she will not forget for some time. The man in question represented himself as a traveller for a music house and showed some of the latest compositions, which he was selling at the extremely low price of 5 cents per sheet. The whole series would cost $1.80. The lady did not like to contract for the music without consulting her husband, and she put the "agent" off in this way. Before leaving, however, he asked her to give him her address, and she wrote her name on a printed form, and thought no more of the transaction except to mention the cheapness of the music to her husband when he came home, and telling him that she had given the man her address.

The husband thought all was not right and was not much surprised to-day when he received a letter acknowledging the receipt of an order from his wife for a set of "Half Hours with the Composers" in thirty numbers at 60 cents a number.

Of course the printed form signed by the lady was a note and the amount of $18 will have to be paid. She will think twice before signing her name again.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Dec. 5, 1894.

Grand Trunk returns of traffic for week ending December 1 show an increase for 1894 of $4,205.

Canadian barley in Oswego is still 60 to 63c.

On the street here 500 bushels of wheat brought 60 to 61 1-2c for white, 59 to 60c for red, and 59c for goose. Some 2,500 bushels of barley sold at 40 to 45c, 100 of peas at 56c, 1,200 of oats at 31 to 31c, and load of buck at 42 1-2.

There was a strong selling movement in wheat in Chicago and prices were hammered down half cent. Corn was firm and half a cent higher. Oats were dull and easy, closing 1-8c lower.

At East Buffalo the sheep and lambs offerings were but 19, of which 11 cars were Canada lambs. Agents having Canada stock held off until near the close for an advance of 10 and 15 cents and finally secured it. Fair to choice Canadas sold $4 to $4.10.

The trifling movements on the New York stock market were the result as usual of traders' operations. On the one hand a very large short interest is outstanding and this must from time to time be covered. On the other hand, professional operators for the decline have drawn boldness from the market's lack of responsiveness to the several recent encouraging events. The tendency of prices as a whole was downward. Later, however, the covering movement overbalanced the selling tendency, a fact anticipated by the sagacious as soon as the leading speculator for the decline took pains to announce his bearishness on all the market.

SNUBBED THE INTERVIEWER.

John Burns' Adventure With a Socialist Colonel.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—John Burns says he regrets the existence of the factional differences in the ranks of organized labor in America as manifested at the meeting of the Coopers' Union. He hoped labor organizations the world over would see the folly of dividing their forces and destroying their energy in squabbles among themselves. He is strongly opposed to the "politician laborer," who works for individual gain. "The laboring classes must all work together for the common good; a mere organization is not sufficient. The time has come for administration," he remarked.

Returning to the subject of municipal government, which seems to have a fascination for him, Mr. Burns said: "I would like to spend all my time in the court room of the Lexow committee. I think I could obtain there a better insight into the true workings of administration of your laws than in years of study on the outside. Such opportunity for getting at the bottom facts and the true trend of the underground currents and the concealed motives of politicians are not often presented. It was a most valuable two hours spent there yesterday. I obtained a number of good points from which to make a start in my future investigations. At present my time is limited, and I shall have to wait until my return from Denver before beginning work."

Col. Hinton, G. A. R. veteran, socialist writer, had a "run in" with Mr. Burns after the close of the Cooper Union meeting last night. The colonel wanted an interview and photograph for the Arena magazine of Boston. Mr. Burns abruptly told him that he could be seen at his hotel and turned away. The old colonel poured out his phials of wrath upon Burns and the latter says the colonel insulted him. A crowd gathered about the two angry men, expecting blows, but Burns' escort drew him away. Col. Hinton afterwards remarked: "I don't care a d—— for Burns. He can't snub me, if he is a member of the British Parliament. I'm an American citizen and no Englishman can snub me with impunity. I'll resent it warmly, you bet, if he does."

Mr. Burns and Mr. Holmes were given a banquet at the Clarendon hall last night.

SECRETARY CARLISLE'S REPORT.

He Wants a Lower Interest and Shorter Time for Loans.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Secretary Carlisle's report anticipates a considerable addition to the revenue from the increased importation of woollen goods consignment upon the reduced rate of duty to take effect January 1, 1895. The prospective improvement in the business of the country causes him to estimate a surplus of $98,814,920 for the year 1896, according to the present rate of collection of taxes.

He recommends that the Secretary of the Treasury shall be empowered to negotiate loans at lower interest and for shorter time than now allowed. The present bond law was made in July 14, 1870 (the Refunding Act), and is too antiquated for the present situation. He asks, in this connection, legislation to preserve the purchasing power of silver.

The features of the present situation are: (1) The circulation of United States notes as currency and their current redemption in coins on demand; (2) The compulsory reissue of such notes after redemption; (3) The excessive accumulation and coinage of silver and the issue of notes and certificates against it upon a ratio which greatly overvalues that metal as compared with the standard unit of value in this and the other principal commercial countries.

This idea is to disconnect the government entirely from the business of issuing or reissuing circulating notes.

Conspiracy to Rob a Railroad.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Mark and Seymour Schwarts, respectively president and secretary of the Schwarts Iron and Metal Company, and Barnett Graff, head of the Graff Contracting Company, were arrested yesterday charged with conspiring to rob the Columbian Intramurel railway through collusion with W. S. Malone, who was in charge of the demolition of the plant at Jackson Park. The Schwarts Company and Graff were purchasers of large quantities of structural iron and other material that entered into the construction of the road, but according to the statements of detectives who have been working on the case they were allowed to take away several thousand dollars worth of material that they never paid for. The exact amount is unknown.

IN THE QUEBEC HOUSE.

Mr. Taillon Explains the French Loan and is Sustained by His Party.

QUEBEC, Dec. 5.—In the House yesterday Mr. Desjardins' motion to reduce the members' salaries from $800 to $600 was given a hoist of six months.

Mr. Taillon continued the debate on the French loan, giving explanations to the House about the loan which brought about Hon. Mr. Hall's resignation as provincial treasurer and Mr. Cooke's motion of want of confidence. Hon. Mr Taillon finished his speech amid the applause of the Conservative side of the House. Hon. Mr. Hall then began to lay out his views of the loan. His speech was moderate, but bore contradictory facts to those announced by the Premier.

There was a Government caucus in the morning, a large number of Conservative members being present. The French loan was discussed and the Government was almost unanimously sustained.

It's a Queer Woman who can't have confidence in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Here is a tonic for tired-out womanhood, a remedy for all its peculiar ills and ailments—and if it doesn't help you, there's nothing to pay.

What more can you ask for, in a medicine?

The "Prescription" will build up, strengthen and invigorate the entire female system. It regulates and promotes all the proper functions, improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and vigor. In "female complaints" of every kind and in all chronic weaknesses and derangements, it's the only guaranteed remedy. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in the case of every tired-out or suffering woman, she'll have her money back.

Nothing urged in its place by a dealer, though it may be better for him to sell, can be "just as good" for you to buy.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure constipation, piles, biliousness, indigestion and headaches.

ALD. HALLAM EXPLAINS.

He Admits Wanting to Purchase Stock in the Toronto Street Railway.

TORONTO, Dec. 5.—The chief feature of the civic investigation yesterday was Ald. John Hallam's explanation of his desire to purchase $50,000 worth of stock in the street railway syndicate. The statement that Mr. Kiely had made to the effect that he had applied for $50,000 worth of stock was correct. The application for stock was made on the day that the city took over the railway from Frank Smith. There was a little knot of people at the City Hall that day. Mayor Clarke, Frank Smith, Mr. Kiely and some others were there. Mr. Smith invited them up to his house, and on the way up in the cab Mr. Kiely said that a company was to be organized. He then said. "If you are going to take any Canadian gentlemen in, you can put me down for $50,000." Mr. Kiely mentioned some of the men who were to belong to the company, naming Mr. Everett and Mr. Woodworth.

Mr. Hallam said a few days after the offer was made he was told by Mr. Kiely that the company would not take him in. He said he voted against the syndicate in what he considered the interests of the corporation. He did not think that it was inconsistent as chairman of the committee to ask a tenderer to be let in as a stockholder. If he had thought so he would have resigned. The "clean skater" had asked him for his influence to support the Kiely tender, but had not offered him any inducements.

A considerable amount of evidence was afterwards taken, but nothing was elicited of startling importance. The inquiry was then adjourned until Saturday.

Friends of ex-Ald. Hewitt say he has gone to New York on business and that he will return in a few days. There is no intention, they say, of Mr. Hewitt leaving the country altogether.

FRUIT GROWERS IN SESSION.

Interesting Papers Read Before the Convention by Prominent Members.

ORILLIA, Ont., Dec. 5.—The fruit growers' convention was inaugurated here last night by a very well attended public meeting in Shaftsbury Hall. A considerable number of ladies were in the audience, rather a new feature at these meetings.

After a short introductory address by President T. H. Race of Mitchell, Ont., a very instructive and interesting paper on "Fungi Affecting Fruits and the Remedy," and an animated discussion which followed, took up a good part of the evening. A short paper by Mr. A. M. Smith of St. Catharines on "Frauds on the Fruit Trade," in which was pointed out some of the many dishonest methods practised through every phase of the business from the nursery to the manufactured jam and jelly. Mr. Smith did not suggest any remedies. A pleasing paper on "New Fruits" by Prof. Craig of the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, followed by another from Mr. J. H. Tool, a local gentleman, on "Apples Which Should be Grown in this District."

A communication was read by Secretary Woolverton from Dr. Beaton, superintendent of the Ontario Asylum for Idiots, inviting the visiting fruit growers to visit the institution, which was received with favor and will doubtless be freely accepted.

Little Chance for Truskey.

TORONTO, Dec. 5.—In the Court of Common Pleas yesterday Mr. W. R. Riddel appeared and asked that Truskey, now in Windsor jail under sentence of death for shooting Constable Lindsay, be given a new trial on the ground that at the time of shooting the officer of the law Truskey was suffering from an uncontrollable impulse which amounted to insanity. The prisoner's counsel held that some men might be conscious of what they did and still might commit crimes apparently without cause or motive. He thought Mr. Justice Robertson should have so charged the jury at the trial, but the learned justice of the Common Pleas Division did not look at it that way and would have dismissed the case had not Mr. Riddel asked for liberty to apply to Judge Robertson for leave to amend the reserved case. Leave was granted, and the matter will be disposed of in a few days. The hanging is fixed for December 14. It is more than probable that the court will not interfere on behalf of Truskey.

A Costly Fire on Broadway.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—A fire which originated in the workrooms of D. J. Solomon & Co., on the fourth floor of 547 Broadway, last evening caused a loss of at least $250,000 to the occupants of the buildings. The building was damaged to the extent of $30,000. There was nearly 100 girls in the building when the fire was discovered and for a time there was the wildest excitement. They were all taken out safely, however. Every one on the floor occupied by Solomon & Co., where the fire originated, had left the building when the flames were discovered and how the fire started is a mystery.

A Woman Murdered and Robbed.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 5.—The body of Catherine Gong, a dressmaker, 28 years of age, was found on the Excelsior road, half a mile beyond Lake Calhoun. A gun shot wound back of the right ear produced death, evidently a case of murder and robbery. The proprietor of the flats where Miss Gong lived says he saw in her possession only a few days a roll of money amounting to probably $2,000.

An Alabama Vendetta.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 5.—The Meachamites, a gang of outlaws to whom ten murders are charged, and six of whom have been killed by officers, have assassinated Pink Muree, a farmer, who gave testimony against them for illicit distilling. Bud and Dave Meacham, two of the murderers, have been caught.

Expelled From the Brotherhood.

H. LEBRUN & CO.

Threatened Libel Proceedings.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 5.—There is more trouble brewing in London West and ex-Auditor Duff has threatened Reeve Macdonald with libel proceedings unless the latter retracts the charges he made against the old auditors. Yesterday the reeve was served with a letter from Mr. Duff's solicitors, threatening that unless he retracted in words satisfactory to them they would issue a writ against him. Subsequently Mr. Macdonald replied to the communication, reiterating what he had previously said about Mr. Duff's auditing, and refusing to take back anything. What the outcome will be is awaited with much interest by the ratepayers and a specially lively campaign is looked for.

Sons of Temperance in Session.

PRESCOTT, Dec. 5.—The annual meeting of the grand division of the Sons of Temperance for the province of Ontario was called to order yesterday in Victoria Hall by the grand worthy patriarch, J. B. Brooks, of Toronto, assisted by M. M. Evenson, of Philadelphia, grand worthy patriarch of British North America and the celebrated temperance orator, F. M. Bradley, of Washington, D. C. Fully one hundred delegates were present representing all the principal temperance lodges in Ontario. It is expected that the conference will continue in session for three or four days as there is some special and important business to be transacted.

Committed for Trial.

David Crozier was this morning committed for trial by Police Magistrate Dumble on a charge of unlawfully making away with a bundle of bank bills which belonged to one Thomas Slater, who has of late been boarding at the Carew House. Thomas, it appears, was slightly intoxicated on Friday and he was advised by his friends to give his money to someone to keep until he was in a more fit condition to take care of it. He laid the money down on the bar of the Carew House, and Crozier, who had been chumming with him lately, picked it up and pocketed the roll. He then walked out the back door and wasn't heard of again until the Kingston police telegraphed that they had arrested the man on a description furnished them by Chief Rossel. The Chief brought the man back to town last night. He did not deny taking the money but says it was entrusted to him by Slater. He had spent the greater part of it in the saloons, and out of the $25.00 had only $7.80 left when arrested.

—The work, as far as allowed by the township, will be completed on the outfall sewer to-night.

—A free library by-law will be submitted to the electors of Belleville at the municipal election.

—The 45th annual session of the Grand Division Sons of Temperance, of Ontario, began at Prescott, yesterday.

—The County Court and General Sessions of the Peace will be opened, with Judge Weller presiding, on Tuesday next.

—The stairways, floorings and woodwork around the doorways and windows of the new Cox building are now being placed in position.

—The Ontario Fees Commission, which has been making enquiries in the United States as to the methods of filling offices, will shortly return.

—The new dancing clogs made for Danny Simons by Mr. Wes. Millar, are a sight to behold. Toes within a yard of Dan will not be safe when he has them on.

—A strong deputation of western lumbermen passed through Peterborough yesterday on their way to Ottawa to protest against the re-imposition of the boomstick duty.

—A dog in consequence of coming in contact with an electric car on George street north this morning is laid up with a broken leg. It tried to clear an approaching wagon, consequently the result.

—"Oh, girls, can you tell me how Stratton's can afford to sell such big dolls for 15c.—aint they cheap?" "Oh, never mind, we don't care, so long as we can get them at price for 'Xmas. But aint they lovely?"

—The little Lake was alive last night with skaters exercising themselves in doing the outside and inside edges, etc., until a late hour, and at the same time hugging the shore, as the lake is not as yet frozen over.

—At the close of the Yunck concert last evening a gentleman from Montreal—a musical gentleman, too—remarked that Peterboorugh was to be congratulated upon providing so fine an audience for so excellent a concert.

The Anti-Toxine which was administered to a diphtheria patient in the Nicholls Hospital last week has fully justified the reports of other marvellous cures accomplished. In this case the local practictioners are astonished at the effect, a perfect cure having resulted.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The Royal Templars Hold Their Annual Meeting.

The local lodge of the Royal Templars of Temperance met last night, and after transacting considerable business, proceeded with the election of officers, which resulted as follows:

PERSONAL.

Mr. P. Laurance, the eye specialist, is registered at the Oriental.

Game Warden H. K. Smith, of Belleville, was in town yesterday.

Bell, the active forward of the town Rugby club, is compelled to resort to the use of crutches on account of a swelling in the knee.

Laurance, the old and reliable optician, is now to be consulted at John McKee's drug store. Don't delay if you, or any of your family, have defective eyesight. Mr. Laurance is endorsed by almost every leading oculist in the Dominion, and all eyes will be examined free, and moderate charges for spectacles, if any are required.

Annual Tea and Sale at St. Luke's

Articles of use and ornament will be offered for sale, in St. Luke's school house, to-morrow evening, by the Ladies Aid and the Young Women's Chapter of the Guild. High tea will be served, commencing at 5 p. m. There will be a Jack-in-the-box for the amusement of the little ones; and the evening will close with a short, but first-class programme of music, readings, and a dramatic piece, by Mrs. Goldsmith, Miss Fawcett, Miss Hagerman, Miss Tivey and others. Admission 25c. 1td

Collegiate Institute Entertainment.

NEWMARKET, Ont., Oct. 4th, 1894.

Dear Mr. Kleiser:

Congratulations on the success of your monologue last evening. The entertainment was a treat to everyone present. I was looking for something of a superior character, but the realization was far beyond my most sanguine expectations. Throughout the monologue the impersonation was good; that of "Mccawber" and "Uriah Heep" could not be surpassed. I never saw a more delighted audience in Newmarket.

J. E. DICKSON,
Principal High School.

Mr. Kleiser will appear in the Opera House, in connection with the commencement exercises of the Collegiate Institute. General admission 25c, reserved seats 35c. Plan now open at Sallsbury's. 1d

The Re-Organization of the Charity Distribution.

Ex-Councillor John McNaughton dropped into the EXAMINER office last evening, and in reply to a query, stated that he had sat in the council for two years under Mr. John James Lundy, for two years under Mr. Harry Smith, and also under Mr. Geo. A. Cox and Mr. Jas. Stevenson, M. P., and during all this time only once had an attempt been made to reorganize the method of distributing charity. This was in the time during which Mr. Harry Smith occupied the Mayor's chair. Mr. McNaughton is very much pleased with the action taken by the clergy in the matter on Monday evening last. He states that he can corroborate their statement regarding the duplicity of certain applicants for charity who make a practice of living on the alms given them from various sources, when each giver is left under the impression that he is the only one upon whom the solicitor is depending for aid.

Opera House.

"The Police Patrol," pronounced as the greatest scenic melodrama on the stage today, is announced as the attraction at the Opera House for Tuesday, Dec. 11th.

Its sublime and wonderful scenic effects, realism itself, combined with an admirably constructed plot, makes the work in the hands of A. Y. Pearson's excellent company the acme of histrionic perfection.

The scenic effects are marvels of stage realism especially fine, of which can be mentioned an accurate representation of Haymarket Square, Chicago, and the famous West Lake Street Police Station; also the interior of the police patrol barn, the horses standing in their calls in readiness for the alarm. When the alarm sounds the horses dash under the swinging harness, and are off the stage in less than five seconds. This is one of the most realistic scenes imaginable, working the audience up to a high pitch of enthusiasm. Prices 25c, 50c, 75c.

Cold in the head—Nasa. Balm gives instant relief; speedily cures. Never fails.

WHY CHEESEMAKERS SHOULD COMBINE.

It Would be the Means of Protecting the Industry, as Well as Protecting Themselves.

It has been a noted fact amongst the majority of cheesemakers, the last few years, that the salaries they receive for their services, as cheesemakers, have been very small, so much so, that several of our best makers have got disgusted with the business and have given it up. Not one out of ten can hardly afford to pay a dollar per annum for a dairy paper, let alone afford to attend the Dairy Convention, or secure the services of an instructor. Perhaps this is why the poor cheesemaker is so ground down; for fear he may have a expert instructor come into his factory unknown to the patrons and reveal some of the doubtful work that is going on among them. It does not seem that the officers of the factories have the best interests of the business at heart. It is true that Canada is second to none for her ability to produce first class cheese, at present, but unless the manufacturers are more protected, it is hard to say how long she may retain this position.

Our Governments are spending thousands of dollars annually to further build up the industry, whereas, we see some who claim to be our most prominent dairymen pulling it down, although in a good many cases, they are not aware of it. A circumstance may explain one way, viz.,—A factoryman or company that had a good cheesemaker employed this past summer, one who made first class cheese all through the summer, considering the quality of milk used, and the salesman received a good price for it, yet the maker only received a small wage for his services, notwithstanding his success, he has been refused a reasonable advance, and the company are looking for a man to undertake to operate the factory for still less money than was given the maker for the past season.

Now this is the point—these people know this man and have confidence in him, and would it not be better for them to give him a little advance, than to engage a total stranger that would work for his health, so to speak and be liable to make an inferior article, which would be detrimental to the maker, the company and the industry to a certain extent? There have also been cases that are known to not a few, where companies have engaged men to manufacture cheese by the pound. An estimate of the cheese made in one year is a criterion for the following year. They will figure out what a man would receive at so much a pound for a certain number of pounds, and if it would appear as though a man could make about labourers' wages at it, they will endeavour to engage a maker at those figures, and not any more you can assure. A maker undertakes the work, he may be a good one, but if the quantity of the milk received exceeds the estimate, the proprietors are usually loth to give the maker the benefit of the advance, whereas he has had to work harder with more responsibility resting upon him.

It is also true that some companies that have larger factories are the ones that grind the poor cheese maker down the finer, as if it were an honour to operate such a factory.

The writer is acquainted with some makers who have said they did well to get out of the clutches of such companies with their hides on, let alone any money in their pocket to keep them until spring, and have enough left to buy a three-cent stamp to place on a letter which has been written applying for another situation.

A circumstance that occurred not long since, if made known, may be of benefit to some makers who are going to try to bear the brunt again another season. A certain maker was running a fair-sized factory. The president thought of a scheme to carve him, and for a few weeks before the annual convention of the Eastern Dairymen's Association he was trying to get the maker to accept a less figure than he had been receiving formerly. The maker refused to accept less. A day or so before the convention was to meet the President met the maker again, and says, "Here, now, are you going to take less or not? I am going to the convention, and if you will not accept less I shall have to hunt for another maker." The maker said he could not accept any less. "All right," says the President, "we will give it to you." Here was a President or a company using the convention as a means of grinding down their maker, and still at the same time he intended to engage him again.

Now when such means as these are resorted to, to almost force makers to work for a paltry living, the writer thinks it is high time they should in some way organize to protect themselves, and also the best interests of the business, for they are the men who, to a more or less extent, have placed it on the plane it is to-day.

It is true that some men call themselves cheesemakers who in reality have only been at the business a month or so, and then acted as washing boss. Put themselves alongside of men of long experience in the business, and expect to receive the same salaries, when in reality they would do themselves more good to work at the washing again another summer or two.

This certainly is not working to the best interest of the industry. What we want is men with some backbone in them, who have had enough experience at the business and can stand out for enough wages so they can afford to run a factory, assume the responsibility, at the same time educate themselves for still further advancement in their profession.

Our dairy schools will be opened again this coming winter, and the annual convention will be on in a month or so. How many cheesemakers can afford to take in the latter, let alone the former?

I will venture to state that not more than five or six out of all the makers in this section will be able to attend either or to join the association so as to receive the annual report and have an account of what has been going on during the past season.

The writer has attended several of the conventions and can now not afford to miss them so long as he is connected with the work, while others have received so limited salaries that they have never been able to attend them. Thus the convention comes and goes, and and they are scarcely aware there is such a meeting. For this reason it seems, if they organized, perhaps those that are in the business to stay, would not be cut down so fine but what they could afford to take a day or so, and attend some of those places which they ought to. Let us hear what are the opinions of a few of our makers on this subject.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space in your valuable paper, I am,

Yours truly,

A WATCH WHICH IS CHANGING HANDS.

A Shoemaker Sells or Pawns a Lady's Silver Timepiece.

Mr. Alex Evans, shoemaker, formerly of Peterborough, but who has been living in Warkworth lately has been "blowing himself" pretty freely in town for the last couple of weeks, and on Friday, finding himself short of funds, asked Mr. Cerise LeBrun to buy a watch from him, in order that he might have sufficient money to enable him to get out of town. Four dollars was paid over and the watch changed hands, Mr. LeBrun promising that he would sell the watch back at the same figure if Evans forwarded the money before he sold it to anyone else.

On Monday, the shoemaker came crying into the Palace Restaurant and told Mr. LeBrun that he had spent the money and asked for funds sufficient to get him a bed for the night and to buy him a ticket for Hastings. Mr. LeBrun kindly gave the man the money, but apparently it too was "blown in," as he is again stranded. He has arranged with a citizen to give him more for the watch than Mr. LeBrun is willing to and therefore wants the timepiece back, but unfortunately the watch has again changed hands, having been disposed of by the purchaser to Mr. George Lee, a commercial tourist, who is at present over in Lindsay, but is expected back to-night. Evans threatens to air the whole matter in the police court if he can not recover the timepiece, which, he alleges that he only pawned.

BILLIARDS.

Another world's record has been broken in New Hork. In his practice game Frank Ives made a run of 531. He might have run the game out had he not missed one easy carom. He not only made the biggest run on record, anchor barred, but he ran the game out in three innings and set up the average of 200 for a six hundred inning game.

HOCKEY.

At the annual meeting of the Hockey Association held in Toronto on Saturday the following changes in rules were adopted:—"After a game has been scored the puck shall be faced in the centre of the ice. The goalkeeper may wear pads, but he most not wear a garment of any description such as would give him undue assistance in keeping goal. In the event of a dispute the referee to decide upon the garment in question." At the next general meeting of the Association this proposed change in rule 8 will be discussed: "The puck may be stopped by hand or any part of the body, but not held, carried or knocked on."

The weather is considerably milder evidently in Peterborough than it is many of the surrounding towns and villages, as reports are constantly coming to hand already of hockey and curling matches being played.

The Address Seemed Incongruous.

Shooting and Fishing lately told the following story:

One of the fishermen, when he left home for the Rangeleys, said he would go by way of Lower Dam; he might stop at middle Dam, or go on to Upper Dam. His daughter wished to write to him; but, not knowing where the letter would find him, addressed it thus:

"Rev.——,
"Somewhere in the Dam Region,
"Rangeley, Maine."

And he received the letter.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

THE YUNCK CONCERT A DELIGHTFUL SUCCESS.

A Fine Audience and a Splendid Programme — The Violinist Wins a Triumph and the Singers Score Successes—Mrs. Blight an Incomparable Accompanist.

Mr. Hoover has again laid the musical people of Peterborough under a debt for the concert presented last night, which was a most ejoyable success in every feature. There was a large audience, and it was of an unusually fine character, highly representative of the musical culture of the town. The audience in its extreme orderliness and quiet indicated a marked appreciation of the excellent music presented.

The stage was beautifully adorned with the popular craze, chrysanthemums.

The programme opened with a little overture, a rondo, very brightly played by Mrs. Blight, who was the accompaniste of the evening. In this capacity this lady has few equals, and possibly no superiors. She is correct, sympathetic and artistically subordinates her part to that of the principal performance. She deserves great credit for the excellent work she did last night.

The first number was Mrs. Martin Murphy's solo "Ernani," Verdi, a rather exacting piece of vocalization, and the singer, by excellent execution and considerable taste, did justice to the spirit of the selection. She was warmly recalled and took a long "slide on our cellar door," from the classic heights of "Ernani" to "You can't play in our yard," which was given a very chic and taking rendering. Her second number, Arditi's L'incontro"—the meeting—was very finely sung, the resources of Mrs. Murphy's powerful soprano being most effectively displayed. For an encore number she sang her charming specialty, the laughing song. The natural ripple of of musical laughter was infectious, and the audience's sympathetic audible smiles were mingled with hearty applause. She met with equal success in her third song, "On Her Majesty's Service."

Mr. H. M. Blight, a Toronto baritone, made his first appearance in Peterborough and was accorded a most cordial reception. His spirited rendering of "The Yeoman's Wedding Song" fitted well the qualities of his robust baritone. His encore number, a sea song, was well sung and well appreciated. The same remark applies to his "Polly", by Molloy, but in his encore to this number he did his best work; his fine taste and sympathetic expression left a decidedly pleasing impression upon the audience. In their duet, Balfe's "Trust Her Not," Mrs. Murphy and Mr. Blight sang with fine accord and were heartily recalled.

Of Herr Yunck, the great violinist, much might be said, but all that could be said would do scant justice to the artistic brilliancy of his performance. The lion's share of the work of the evening fell to him and in every way he justified the high praise that heralded his appearance. His method is classically resposeful and his performance is at all times artistic and dignified. He develops a singularly broad round and pure tone. His technical work is never at fault and he plays with a refined sentiment that produces an eminently pleasing and satisfactory feeling in his auditors. His first number was Tartini's "Trill du Diable," and the varying moods of tempo and expression of this sonata received a masterly interpretation. In response to a stormy encore he gave with muted strings, Reber's Berceuse, a charming little gem whose lullaby spirit was developed by exquisitely dainty pianissimo effects that passed into silence in the almost imperceptible finale. Vieuxtemps' delightful "Reverie" received a splendid interpretation and displayed, perhaps, the most musicianly work of the evening. A hearty recall brought a dashing performance of a few of Ernst's pyrotechnic and varied variations on the Carnival of Venice. The piece de resistance of the evening was Sarasate's grand and ample "Faust Fantaisie," in which the performer honoured the heavy drafts on his artistic and technical resources, with masterly ease. His numbers closed with a brilliant performance of Bazzini's Ronde des Lutins—the hobgobblin's rondo—in which rippling showers of pearly harmonics fell upon the tripping measures punctuated with pizzicati. The inevitable encore, that would not be denied, brought a beautiful arrangement of "Lucia," a marvel of perfect double-stopping. Violin enthusiasts will perhaps be surprised to learn that Herr Yunck produced all his superb effects on a violin only fourteen months old, a copy of a genuine Guarnerius in the possession of the artist.

The concert as a whole gave the most unqualified satisfaction, and it is to be regretted that, large as the audience was, the financial results were not as satisfactory as Mr. Hoover's public-spirited venture in the interests of music, deserved.

THE OFFICERS AND NON-COMS. ASSEMBLE.

TWO MEETINGS AT THE DRILL SHED LAST NIGHT.

A Strong Effort Will be Made to Establish a Gymnasium in Connection With the Battalion—Other Attractions for Officers and Men—The Officers' Quarters to be Opened for Informal Discussion on Tuesday Evening.

The drill shed was light up last night and by the amount of activity displayed within it, where officers ank non-coms. were hustling around, one might be led to think that it was an evening prior to an outing trip or a parade for a general inspection.

The officers were in evidence as a meeting had been called to discuss some little business matters which had cropped up. Col. Rogers took the chair, and a communication was received from the Deputy Adjutant-General of the Third Military District, enclosing a

BATCH OF SECOND CLASS

B certificates for Sgt. F. Cox and Privates P. Langford, R. Hay, D. Fowler, G. Green A. Green, W. Metheral and T. Savigny; also attendance certificates for Privates E. Walton, V. LeBar, W. Dugan, H. Clegg and L. Craig. These attendance certificates go to show that the men attended the necessary classes to enable them to try examinations for second class B. certificates, but failed to write at the the time appointed. All the certificates are now in the hands of Adjutant Mason for distribution.

During the evening a resolution of condolence with the family of the late Dr. Vernon St. Clair Halliday, formerly assistant surgeon of the Rangers, was passed and ordered to be forwarded to the family of the deceased.

It was decided that the officers quarters should be open during the winter months, when it is expected that the officers will assemble to talk over battalion affairs and pass a social evening. A library will be added to the quarters to lend an additional attractiveness.

EVERY TUESDAY EVENING

The project of opening a gymnasium in connection with the battalion was broached and warmly discussed, all being apparently strongly in favour of such a step being taken. No definite move could be made for lack of sufficient data to go upon, but a committee composed of Capt. Brennan and Lieuts. Matthews and Hayes was appointed to look into and thoroughly investigate the matter.

A REPORT CONCERNING

the feasibility of the scheme, and the probable expense, etc., will be submitted next Tuesday evening.

Company D., Captain Millar, takes precedence this year as having won the greatest total of marks. The accurate rating of each company will be published in the course of a day or two.

The request of the non-commissioned officers, that they wished to keep their rooms open every evening until eleven o'clock, in order to keep the members of the non-com. contingent of the Battalion together during the winter, was granted.

The Non-Coms. were present to the number of thirty, and immediately on receiving permission from the officers, held an informal meeting with Sergt. Elcombe in the chair. It was resolved to make arrangements for the purchase of a number of games of various kinds, and to leave orders for the delivery of a number of daily papers and periodical magazines. A small library will also be put into the mess rooms, which will be made as cosy and attractive at possible for the winter.

If a gymnasium is added to the equipment of the drill shed, there is no doubt but that the Rangers will be as flourishing an organization in the winter as it is during the summer months.

WARMINSTER CHEESE FACTORY.

Report for the Season of 1894.

The annual meeting of the Warminster factory was held in the factory Nov. 21st. A good attendance was present and general satisfaction prevailed. The season's business amounts to as follows:

	Milk.	Cheese.	Cash.
May	211,968	19,431	$1,781.63
June	259,979	23,563	2,141.96
July	239,426	21,357	1,979.69
August	197,783	18,155	1 872.97
September	158,333	13,570	1,409.92
October	136,695	14,741	1,453.90
	1,184,174	110,717	$10,640.06

Lbs. of milk for 1 of cheese, 10.70c, price per lb. of cheese 9.618c, price for 1893, 9.729c; price per 100 lbs. milk for 1894, 89.85c; price per 100 lbs. milk, 1893, 90.14c. The lbs of milk for one of cheese is ¼ lbs less than in the season of 1893. The Babcock Test seems to have a good effect and our patrons are well satisfied with it. It is fair and satisfactory, as has been shown by all dairy authority time and again. The nonsense which appeared several times in the paper this summer has misled some in reference to this method of dividing the dividends, but "Truth crushed to earth will rise again, but error wounded writhes in pain and dies amid his worshippers." These things are the only dying writhes of error, it dies slowly, but surely.

At a meeting of Otonabee council, with all the members present, it was moved by Mr. Johnson, seconded by Mr. Lancaster, that the reeve be authorized to draw on the treasurer for $300.00 to meet the sewerage arbitration expense. Moved by Mr. Lancaster, seconded by Mr. Johnson that the Foresters have the use of the council chamber, Friday night. Moved by Mr. Johnson, seconded by Mr. Lancaster, that the township survey the original road allowance across the 5th concession, between lots 22 and 22, and a deed of it be given to James Fife, on condition he pays half the cost of the survey and give the council a surveyor's certificate that the present travelled road, between lots 23 and 21 and through part of lot 20, concession 5, established in lieu of the above described original road, is sufficient for the purposes of a public highway. Also survey the original allowance for road on the east half of 6th concession, between lots 21 and 22, and deed it to Wm. Lang, on condition that he pay half the survey and give surveyor's certificate that the present travelled road, established in lieu of the above original road, is sufficient for a public highway. Moved by Mr. Deyell, seconded by Mr. Lancaster, that the following accounts be paid,—Thos. Fry, refund taxes, $3.40; John Anderson, gravel, $3.43; Jas. Gray, excavating ditch between Indian reserve and lot 7, concession 12, $10; for selecting jury, W. Anderson, $4, G. W. Esson $3; J. M. Drummond $3; E. A. Deyell, removing four pine stumps off road allowance and drawing cedar for culvert, $4; R. McIntyre, sweeping hall and council chamber and carrying wood into hall, $1.15; J. Rennie, removing stones off road, $11.13; R. A. Deyell, gravel, $4.13; cedars, $1.60; D. Cameron, putting in wooden drain across road, between lots 21 and 22, concession 1, $3; R. English, nails and plank for Keene sidewalks, $7.50; H. T. Moore, excavating and filling in drain and tiles, across road between lots 26 and 27, concession 2, $4; John Lancaster, gravel, $14.19; M. Kenneally, 6 days repairing Keene sidewalks, $6; Jas. Wood, cedar, $2.02; John Matchett, cedar, $3.24; Wm. Stewart, cedar, $3.64; J. M. Drummond, copying names and attending voters' list Court of Revision by Judge Weller, $4.54. Council adjourned to Saturday, Dec. 15th, when statement of accounts will be made up for publication — that many women owe their beauty to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The reason — beauty of form and face, as well as grace, radiate from the common center — health. The best bodily condition results from good food, fresh air, and exercise, coupled with the judicious use of the "Prescription." In maidenhood, womanhood, and motherhood, it's a supporting tonic that's peculiarly adapted to her needs, regulating, strengthening, and curing, the derangements of the sex.

If there be headache, pain in the back, bearing-down sensations, or general debility, or if there be nervous prostration, and sleeplessness, the "Prescription" reaches the origin of the trouble and corrects it. It dispels aches and pains, corrects displacements and cures catarrhal inflammation of the lining membranes. It's guaranteed to benefit or cure, or the money paid for it is refunded.

CHILD WIVES OF INDIA.

LOVE SOMETIMES LASTS LONG IN HINDOO HOMES.

Ceremonies for Four Days—An Interesting Article on the Marriage Customs of the Country — Single Life Prohibited.

To give a fair idea of Hindoo women and marriage customs I must go far back to the ancient times and see how and why customs changed, writes a native of India in the Forum. There was a time when the Hindoo lady was educated and when there were no child-marriages. Some of the "Upanishads," speculations on philosophy, were written by ladies. There are books written by ladies also on mathematics and other abstruse subjects. Of course, they did not write sensational novels, but they were taught music and dancing—dancing, not jumping, hopping and skipping round a hall in the arms of strangers. There were no child-marriages at that time, and the young lady had liberty to select a husband herself.

It seems that the system did not prove a good one in the warm climate, where women develop very early, and it was changed, and the giving of the daughter by the father is the prevailing method at present.

The Brahman has to get his daughter married before she attains puberty. This custom has crept into religion. The Hindoo religion strictly forbids single life for woman or man; especially must the woman be married.

Owing to this rule, if a Brahman's daughter attains puberty before marriage the father is disgraced, he loses his caste and no one will marry the girl. Thus, when a poor man has more than one daughter it is a misfortune for him. The Hindoo father himself has to find out a suitable husband for his daughter, so he goes to a gentleman who has a son. He first makes inquiries about the family, the property, the health and education of the boy. Then he asks the father of the boy to marry his son to his daughter. The father of the son asks for dowry, and the amount of this is fixed according to the means of the man who asks for it, and not of the man who gives it; that is to say, if the father of the boy is very rich, he asks thousands of dollars.

The marriage ceremony is conducted like this: The party of the bridegroom comes to the place where the bride lives and stops in a big house or a temple. The bride's father has to arrange for all this. The bride's father has to look to the comforts of the whole party. They are to be treated as guests. On the evening of the appointed day the bridegroom rides on an elephant or a horse, or in a palaquin, and a long procession is formed. Torches and flower gardens made of wax and paper are carried on their shoulders. Nautch girls dance before the bridegroom. Band music is played and fireworks are set off. It is a beautiful sight to see this procession.

The bride's father greets the bridegroom, presents him with a new dress, a cocoanut, and many other things, and returns to his house. Then again the procession moves on. By the side of the bridegroom walks his sister with a silver lamp, and all the ladies lead the procession, the gentlemen following. In some parts of India the ladies sing marriage songs. When the bridegroom comes near the door the father of the bride again comes to receive him. He presents him a cocoanut and promises to give him his daughter in marriage. This promise is the betrothal. Then he takes the hand of the bridegroom, and escorts him to a seat which is raised in the middle of the canopy, and seats him on it. This raised seat is made beautiful, having small ornamental pillars and a charming arch and a small dome overhead. The whole canopy is illuminated. On the right of the groom sit all the ladies; on the left hand all the gentlemen are seated on cushions. The Nautch girls, in two parties, dance before the ladies and gentlemen. The bands play, and when the appointed time arrives (the time of the marriage must be observed to a second, and, therefore, there is always a great deal of bustle among the ladies to adorn and make the bride ready), the bride is escorted and brought before the bridegroom by her mother and sister. She stands in the presence of the bridegroom, who also stands, and a yellow piece of cloth is held between them. Meanwhile rice (colored red) is distributed in small quantities to all the guests assembled to be ready to throw it on the pair in token of their blessing.

Then the yellow cloth is removed, and the bride and bridegroom stand face to face. Then the father of the bride stands near and repeats the Sanskrit sentences, which mean: "The bridegroom is not deformed, has not lost caste or has not been polluted, and is healthy. To him I give my daughter in the presence of God, fire and the priests." The bride's father says: "My daughter is healthy; she has a brother. She is not of the same family as the bridegroom. This, my daughter, I give to you. Protect her as her father did."

Then the bridegroom promises: "In religion, in money, conjugal rights and in salvation I will never leave her." This promise is made three times and he knows that he now has a wife, and that he must love and take care of her. And he does this sacredly when, later, he lives with her. After this the sacred fire is kindled, and the bridegroom's and the bride's scarfs are tied together with a knot. The bridegroom takes the hand of the bride and walks seven times around the fire. This is called "the seven steps." All the while the priests chant the Vedic mantras. There are many minor ceremonies after this, and they continue for four days. On the fourth day the bridegroom takes the bride to his house with the same pomp as when he came for her. The young pair ride together, the wife sitting on his left side. The bride stays there one night with her mother-in-law, and returns to her parents. After some months she is sent back to her husband's house for a few months. While living there she occupies her mother-in-law's or sister-in-law's room. She does not even speak to her husband. The utmost modesty is to be observed by a Hindoo woman. She must not talk loudly or giggle and laugh in the streets. The young pair thus religiously married, love each other from childhood, and that love becomes stronger when developed and is everlasting.

When the girl becomes of age the wife and husband live together.

In India the woman is brought up from childhood in the mildest way possible, and is taught the home duties—to love her husband and to obey him. Sometime—I will say in one case out of a million—there is a disagreement, and the wife goes to live with her parents; but such cases are very, very few; I might almost say there is no such case. Of course the widow has not the privilege of remarrying, except in the lowest classes, but the man can marry again.

How a Swan Can Fight.

A correspondent writes: Yesterday (Sunday) morning some hundreds of visitors to Waterlow Park, Highgate, witnessed a curious and somewhat exciting fight. A ferocious wire-haired terrier was rash enough to attack the cygnets in the upper lake, but, though victorious for the moment, he was compelled to beat a hasty retreat as soon as the old swans put in an appearance. The two old birds and the four cygnets then lined out in battle array, and the dog returned to the charge. Each time he made an attack he was sent back howling with pain, but the birds did not follow him to the bank. When this mimic war had lasted about half an hour, two of the park-keepers came upon the scene, a lasso was made and eventually, amid the plaudits of the crowd, the dog was caught and taken to the police station.—London Daily News.

An Island for Turtles.

It is said that one of the West India islands is inhabited exclusively by turtles, some of which grow to an enormous size. Attempts to establish human habitations on the island have always failed. The turtles undermine the foundations of the houses, and not infrequently attack the inmates.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

THREE RUNNING SORES

PHYSICIANS FAILED

BUT B.B.B. CURED

DEAR SIRS—After having used Burdock Blood Bitters for Scrofula in the blood, I feel it my duty to make known the results. I was treated by a skilled physician but he failed to cure me. I had three Running Sores on my neck which could not be healed until I tried B. B. B., which healed them completely, leaving the skin and flesh sound and whole. As long as I live I shall speak of the virtues of B.B.B., and I feel grateful to Providence that such a medicine is provided for sufferers.

A SCALY ERUPTION

UNENDURABLE ITCHING

Suffered Three Years—Now Perfectly Cured by B. B. B.

GENTLEMEN—I have used Burdock Blood Bitters for Skin Disease, from which I have been a sufferer for three years. I have used six bottles and am now entirely cured. I have used all kinds such as Donald Kennedy's Medical Discovery and the Cuticura Remedies, but all to no good. I doctored one year with the best physicians in the land; they pronounced my disease a Scaly Eruption, but could not remove it. It came on in red blotches and spread over my body; the skin became dry and formed hard scales. The itching was intolerable, but I am now completely cured, and I owe it all to B. B. B.

PURIFIES THE BLOOD

FRATERNAL ASSESSMENT LIABILITY.

"Can't I get out when I please, and have no liability?"

Most people expect "yes" for an answer to this question, when they say they are members of an assessment insurance society, and begin to think of their responsibilities as such. It is important for them to know that they cannot escape liability; because every member, no matter when he drops out, is liable for any deficiencies that may arise in future, if they were developed during his membership. Here is an instance:

The United Masonic Benefit Association of Missouri was some years ago an active and apparently prosperous assessment concern. It provided no reserve, but offered low rates, cheap insurance, and seemingly hoped that new blood would make up for increasing mortality resulting from increasing age. By and bye its forces began to fall off, not enough "new blood" came in, and the cost of membership ran up in a very uncomfortable way. Presently the healthier lives began to feel their burden pressing heavily and steadily left the ranks, until so few were left in the association that the assessments amounted to $140—one hundred and forty dollars—on each certificate. The remaining members refused to pay such a sum, and the concern failed. But there were unpaid death claims for a large amount due, and the State Superintendent of Insurance thought they ought to be paid. So he began suits at law against individual members to enforce payment of the assessments against them; the court has decided that they must pay. The feelings of those who are thus compelled to pay what they never expected have undergone a change with respect to assessment insurance.

Replying to some enquiries which had been made upon this point of liability, and citing this case illustration of what may be expected in any similiar case which might be pressed to suit, the Insurance Monitor says: "The decision referred to answers our question which has been debated whether the member's liability is limited to sums which he may choose to pay; in, other words, whether he can get out when he pleases without further harm. This he cannot do. Every member, no matter when he may drop out, is liable for any deficiencies which may crop up in future, resulting during his membership. The only safe course for parties that apprehend breakers ahead is to drop their membership before the breakers are reached; and the misfortune of this course is that the faster they drop, the faster the association drives towards the breakers."

There seems to be only one course open for the prudent man who may be determined to avoid possible liability; that is to keep out of such associations entirely and buy his insurance of the regular companies.—Monetary Times.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,
They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life!
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A bride will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

LONDON'S PURITY WAR.

THE EMPIRE'S METROPOLIS MOVING FOR MORAL REFORM.

The Dance Halls Are An Evil of Giant Proportions—Night Scenes on the Promenades at the Alhambra and Empire Theatres

Mrs. Grundy is abroad with her broom and certain sections of the British public are undergoing one of those periodical fits of morality which Macauley found so ridiculous.

The struggle, which commenced in the Licensing Committee of the County Council, over the application for renewal of their licenses by those theatrical establishments which admit the demimondaines to the part of their audience rooms known as the "promenades," is very stern an uncompromising on both sides. Unless the Council yields the dispute is likely to be taken into Parliament.

This quarrel of the Council with theatres is like the Alhambra and the Empire is of long standing. The Councillors are constantly besieged by the representatives of "purity leagues," among the members of which are their own mothers, wives and daughters. The unhappy Councillors are well-nigh frantic over this vexed question. They are trying to follow out their declared policy of declining to renew the license of the theatres where the notorious promenades are maintained, and where the sale of liquor is permitted in the auditorium.

But the managers and their hundreds (in some cases thousands) of employees set up such a clamor against the proposed restriction that the protests of the "purity leagues" are faint by comparison. Men of prominence in the theatrical world, like Sir Augustus Harris, who has vast sums invested in the material and management of the "Palace" Music Hall, are in a position to make their remonstrances heard.

The thousands of fashionable young men about town who would feel as if life were no longer worth living were the attractions of the Empire and the Alhambra abolished, leaving Leicester Square enshrouded in its primitive darkness and fog, all join in the outcry against the reforming councillors.

If this is what you intend to do when you get "Greater London," they say, "we will take good care that your consolidation project comes to naught."

This outcry is not without marked effect on the councillors, who are very much in love with their project of creating a compact and centralized London, and who would not like to see their scheme opposed in Parliament by the aristocratic Sybarites who like to loll at evening upon the soft cushions of the Empire "promenade," drinking champagne or "b. and s." with famous Anonymas.

The fact is that the London man-about-town would give up almost any other cherished institution quicker than he would relinquish the freedom, the ease and the genteel abandon of these famous resorts.

The man about town had become too lazy to "dawnce;" besides, it was no longer "good form." He preferred to sit luxuriously ensconced among the cushions, watching the evolutions of beautiful dancers brought from every climate under the sun.

Presently it dawned upon him that he missed something, and that it was the society of the ladies whom he had met of yore at the dancing halls. So the "promenades" in the new monster theatres were invented to meet his requirements.

In the top story of the Alhambra was the original "promenade"—relegated to those lofty regions because London was then more Puritanical than it is now.

In this attic circle the Anonyma roamed at her own wild will, generally contenting herself with adjuring "Ducky"—as she called each gentleman whom she met—to buy her a drink. Sometimes the ignoring of this modest and trivial request was followed by rude language and by a sudden upward kick from the fairy's foot, which sent the refuser's glossy silk tile spinning along the passage.

But such incidents were comparatively rare save on holiday nights; and dames of high degree, who would not have entered a restaurant or the compartment of a railroad carriage had they known that an Anonyma was seated in it, viewed, as they still view, the colossal ballets of the Alhambra from the ten shilling seats, without troubling themselves concerning the "promenade," which is "out of sight, out of mind."

If with the progress of years the sirens have encroached on the public space at the Alhambra, they have also toned down their conduct, and are most careful to avoid the scandal which would forever close the doors against them.

By and by came the Empire, with its sumptuous decorations, floods of electric light and miraculous ballets and operettes, outdazzling those of similar Parisian resorts; and still later "Gus" Harris—the only "Gus"—took the field with the transformation of the deserted National Opera House, on the Thames Embankment, into a Palace Varieties. Then it was that Mrs. Grundy became greatly agitated.

The Empire "promenade" is the typical one. It is so near to the auditorium that with a step you are there, yet perfectly screened against observation from the audience.

Here, while exquisite music sweeps in floods through the vast hall, London celebrities of Parliament or press or peerage loll at ease on the soft cushions in the recesses of the promenades, and drink fiery wines poured by the white hands of stately Hebes, who vie in loveliness with the Marguerite Gautiers and Nell Gwynnes, elaborately dressed, swarming in by hundreds.

"This is the Englishman's harem," said a celebrated Turk, when he was taken for the first time to the "Empire promenade."

Future of Polite Society.

Dr. Lyman Abbott, in a late paper, thinks that polite society, in the exclusive sense, is hardly destined to sustain itself. His reason is that wealth is superseding birth as its basis. In this respect, however, his inference is doubtful, while the facts are true. He says that "some communities, like Boston, New York and Philadelphia, make a brave attempt to maintain a respect for old families; but this is an inheritance from colonial days, and visibly wanes." He might have gone farther and have said that in only one of these three cities—Philadelphia—has the "smart set" any particular connection with old families or gives itself any concern about them. The utmost that it does is to draw a feeble line at the recognized occupations of fathers, while the occupation or social position of the grandfather is pretty thoroughly ignored. Given a fortune, with a reasonable amount of tact, and one generation, or at most two, can accomplish the rest. There is a lingering rumor that at Newport a rich dealer in patent medicines was for years successfully kept from buying land on the fashionable avenue; but if so, the exclusion was in itself an absurdity, like those attempted distinctions between wholesale and retail trade. Surely it is absurd to assume it as plebian to sell tape by the piece, and not plebeian to sell it by the thousand pieces; to call it discreditable when a fortune is made by a medicine, and not when it is made by hotel keeping or laying water pipes or carrying on the express business. All these vocations, and a thousand others equally modest and respectable, have contributed to the gliding of our jeunesse dorse and no one need be ashamed of any one of them, except when it tempts him to sneer at some other.

When the Nerve Centres Need Nutrition.

A Wonderful Recovery, Illustrating the Quick Response of a Depleted Nerve System to a Treatment Which Replenishes Exhausted Nerve Forces.

MR. FRANK BAUER, BERLIN, ONT.

Perhaps you know him? In Waterloo he is known as one of the most popular and successful business men of that enterprising town. As managing executor of the Kuntz estate, he is at the head of a vast business, representing an investment of many thousands of dollars, and known to many people throughout the Province. Solid financially, Mr. Frank Bauer also has the good fortune of enjoying solid good health, and if appearances indicate anything, it is safe to predict that there's a full half century of active life still ahead for him. But it's only a few months since, while nursed as an invalid at the Mt. Clemens sanitary resort, when his friends in Waterloo were dismayed with a report that he was at the point of death.

"There's no telling where I would have been had I kept on the old treatment," said Mr. Bauer, with a merry laugh, the other day, while recounting his experiences as a very sick man. "Mt. Clemens," he continued, "was the last resort in my case. For months previous I had been suffering indescribable tortures. I began with a loss of appetite and sleepless nights. Then, as the trouble kept growing, I was getting weaker, and began losing flesh and strength rapidly. My stomach refused to retain food of any kind. During all this time I was under medical treatment, and took everything prescribed, but without relief. Just about when my condition seemed most hopeless, I heard of a wonderful cure effected in a case somewhat similar to mine, by the Great South American Nervine Tonic, and I finally tried that. On the first day of its use I began to feel that it was doing what no other medicine had done. The first dose relieved the distress completely. Before night I actually felt hungry and ate with an appetite such as I had not known for months. I began to pick up in strength with surprising rapidity, slept well nights, and before I knew it I was eating three square meals regularly every day, with as much relish as ever. I have no hesitation whatever in saying that the South American Nervine Tonic cured me when all other remedies failed. I have recovered my old weight—over 200 pounds—and never felt better in my life."

Mr. Frank Bauer's experience is that of all others who have used the South American Nervine Tonic. Its instantaneous action in relieving distress and pain is due to the direct effect of this great remedy upon the nerve centres, whose fagged vitality is energized instantly by the very first dose. It is a great, a wondrous cure for all nervous diseases, as well as indigestion and dyspepsia. It goes to the real source of trouble direct, and the sick always feel its marvellous sustaining and restorative power at once, on the very first day of its use.

SQUADRONS OF HORSE FLIES.

A Frenchman's Scheme for Carrying Disease Into the Camp of the Enemy.

Some amusing particulars of the inventions that have been offered to the French war office since 1871 have recently been published in a French newspaper, the majority of which, according to the London Court Journal, are about equal to the Laputan scheme for plowing fields, namely, by sowing acorns in rows and then turning in pigs to root them up. One genius sought a patent for the training of squadrons of horse flies. These auxiliaries were to be fed exclusively on blood served up beneath the delicate epidermis of mechanical figures clothed in the uniforms of members of the triple alliance, so that when political relations in Europe were strained the flies might be given daily a little of the juice of certain poisonous plants and on actual declaration of war be turned out in the path of the enemy. Another ingenious person proposed a scheme for educating war dogs. In times of peace he would train French dogs to bite lay figures wearing Prussian helmets, in order that on the outbreak of war the kennels of the whole country might be mobilized, and let loose on the enemy. Then there are numerous proposals for bridging rivers by means of ropes attached to cannon balls, and a photographer suggests a novel kind of captive shell, which, breaking over the fortified position of an enemy, would disclose a small camera attached to a parachute. The enemy's fortifications would be instantaneously photographed and the apparatus hauled back by the string and the negatives developed at leisure. Two ideas are very inhuman. One is a scheme for sending large quantities of poisoned needles, as if in charity, to the enemy's generals, who would, of course, distribute them to their forces, and so poison the unfortunate users and the other to charge explosive bullets with pepper. Two objects are pursued by the inventor of the pepper—its discharge would blind the enemy and the great demand for the condiment in time of war would stimulate the trade of the French colonies and increase the revenue of the country. There are also many other equally absurd proposals, such as suggestions for making soup by machinery, growing potatoes on barrack roofs in December and killing whole army corps of Prussians by post—but they are too numerous to be mentioned.

LAKEHURST LACONICS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.

The hunting season is over, and the parties have all returned with their game. While, Mr. Editor, I love field sports of all kinds, yet I sometimes think that our game laws could in somewhat be amended. The hunting parties come to the woods with hounds and rifle, and as soon as the hounds are upon the trail the settler who has no hounds can scarcely get a sight of a deer, much less take one for his own use. And then it seems to me that sitting in a canoe near the shore of some lake, waiting for the hounds to drive some unfortunate deer into the water, where he can easily dispatch him, is not conducive to the training of true huntsmanship. It would be a poor hunter who could not shoot a deer in the water. But he he who without such aid stalks his deer and kills it, he is the hunter. Could not the game law be more amended for the benefit of the settler, and not in favour of pot hunters?

From the many changes in the weather some wiseacres are prophesying an open winter, but at present it hardly appears to be that. Enough snow has fallen for good sleighing, but turning soft has left the roads in a bad state.

Union thanksgiving services were held by Revs. Mr. Jamieson, Presbyterian, and A. H. Fulford, Methodist, on their work at Bethel, Government road, 10.30, and Lakehurst Presbyterian church, in the evening at 7 o'clock. In spite of the bad roads there was a good attendance.

KEENE.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

On Wednesday, the 28th ult, Mr. John Lang, ex-M.P., while engaged in chopping wood in his bush had the misfortune of cutting his foot. Three of his toes were completely severed from his foot, while the other two were only held by a small piece of skin. Dr. Harrison was speedily summoned to dress the wound. We trust that Mr. Lang will speedily recover and be able to attend to his duties again.

TURNBULL.

Sweeping reductions in Mantles this month at Turnbull's in order to have the stock all cleaned out by the first of January, as styles change so rapidly these days, we do not want to carry any over as our desire is to always show New Goods. We have only about 90 Mantles left, but they are well assorted, as we have only a few of each make. We have gone through them carefully and marked them down to prices that are sure to clear them out. Such as :

$5.00 Mantles in Blue and Black Cloth, for - - $3.00
$8.00 Mantles Neatly Trimmed, for - - - - $6.00
$10.00 Mantles, fine quality Beaver - - - - - $6.00

We have also a length of $8 Astrachan Curl (heavy weight) we are culling at $5 per yard, now is the time to leave your order for a Mantle that will wear better than any Dog Skin and cost only half the price. We have Leicester Sealettes, (acknowledged to be the best make in the world) in three or four qualities, but owing to hard times we are selling slowly and would rather clear them out than carry them over and will therefore make up Mantles at from $5 to $10 less than regular prices.

OUR MOTTO—Small Profits and Quick Sales, we undersell but are never undersold.

U. S. CONGRESS NOTES

The Senate Takes Up the Surrender of the Two Japs to the Chinese.

FREE USE OF PUBLIC TIMBER

All Permits Granted in Certain States Revoked by the House—Nicaraguan Canal Bill—Tariff Difficulties With Germany—Armenian Troubles.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The features of chief interest in the proceedings in the Senate yesterday was the short and incisive speech of Mr. Vest (D., Mo.) in support of the cloture resolution which he modified so as to instruct the committee on rules to report before the 15th inst., a plan putting it within the powers of the majority to force a vote on any pending bill, resolution or motion. His resolution went over. The resolution offered last Monday by Mr. Lodge (R., Mass.) calling on the President for information as to the surrender by the United States consul at Shanghai of two Japanese citizens and as to their subsequent torture and death at the hands of the Chinese authorities was taken up and discussed for an hour and referred to the committee on foreign relations. Mr. Peffer's (Pop., Kas.) resolution instructing the judiciary committee to report as to the legality of the recent issue of United States bonds was, after remarks by Mr. Peffer, agreed to.

The House passed a bill to prevent the free use of timber on the public lands and to revoke all permits heretofore granted in certain states; also a Senate bill making land warrants applicable for the payment of all classes of public lands.

Speaker Crisp informed one of the friends of the Nicaragua canal bill that the committee on rules had decided to permit the measure to come before the House at an early date.

The Turkish legation has received a report of the Armenian troubles, denying the reports of the alleged cruelties and declaring that the Armenians were the aggressors and were guilty of gross outrages.

The report of Secretary Gresham on the difficulties which have arisen with Germany over the differential rate on all sugars was presented to Congress. Mr. Gresham gives the protest of the German ambassador, which lays down that the payment of a bounty is a matter of purely domestic concern, while the discrimination against bounty fed sugars by a foreign country is an infringement against the "most favored nation" clause of the treaty concluded with Prussia in 1828. The secretary of state comments at length on this contention and comes to a conclusion favorable to Germany, or rather to Prussia, as it is admitted that the duty is proper when applied to the countries of Germany outside of Prussia.

Could Not Bear Being a Thief.

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 6.—Jere Matthews, defeated candidate for county clerk, was found in an unconscious condition, resulting from morphine poisoning. Physicians revived him, and pressing him for an explanation, he reluctantly told them to look into one of his pockets, where they would find his last official report. The report disclosed that he was $1,924 short. On the back of the document was this confession: "Have taken morphine. Cannot stand disgrace of being a thief. Get a lot in Burson cemetery and bury me there, as I do not wish to disgrace my parents by being buried beside them." He relapsed into unconsciousness, and will probably die.

A Bomb in His Bedroom.

PERRY, O.T., Dec. 6.—T. J. Irwin, editor of the Pond Creek Leader, narrowly escaped death by a bomb thrown into his bedroom by an unknown person. Several men heard the shell burst or he would have been burned to death. He had been advocating the removal of the county seat from Pond Creek to Medford, both in L county, Oklahoma, and had been warned to desist. He will recover.

Victim of Poisoned Coffee.

GALVESTON, TEX., Dec. 6.—Dora, the third victim of the poison administered in coffee by her mother, Mrs. Louise Alberti, is dead. Lizzie, the fourth child, is not expected to live through the night. The mother is thought to be insane.

A New Orleans Alderman Convicted.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 6.—Numa Dudousat, a member of the city council, charged with bribery, was convicted yesterday. Eight other members are indicted and awaiting trial.

The December Marriage Market.

There are more marriages in December than any other month. There may be no profit in discovering the reason of this fact but there is profit in remembering that Mr. W. J. Green, merchant tailor, has a fresh supply of marriage licenses, and can furnish along with the license a wedding suit and ties, so that you can be mated, tied and suited, a combination that will insure a happy wedded life.

ENGLAND OF THE EAST

Victorious Japanese Claim This Title Belongs to Them.

THEIR INFLUENCE IN ASIA

Japan, They Say, Occupies the Same Position to the East as England Does to Europe—American Chinese Going Home to Help in the War.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The steamship Energia and Strathevon, from China and Japan, anchored in the lower bay yesterday. Both ships left Yokohama on September 5 and stopped at Shanghai, Foo Chow and Singapore. Capt. Cormick, of the Strathevon, and Capt. Saw, of the Energia, were seen at the custom house. They both said that they had not seen much fighting, but that in the different ports where they had anchored they had lots of chance to observe the feeling between the two countries.

"Why," said Capt. Cormick, when asked about the feeling in Japan. "you never saw a country yet have such a large bump of self-esteem as Japan has recently developed. They are very fond of calling themselves the 'England of the East.' One Japanese gentleman whom I met in Yokohama was talking to me about the future of Japan, and he got down a map and pointed out to me that Japan was in the same relative position to Asia that England is to Europe and then he said: 'Japanese influence may be felt throughout Asia as England is througout Europe. And then England has some interest in Asia. Possible we may have some in Europe. No one can tell.' And that Japanese was educated in France," said the captain.

The Chinese are not saying as much as they were the last time I visited their ports. They are divided into two factions —one in favor of old Li Hung and the other very much opposed to him. I think though that he has done as well as could be expected with the stuff that was at his command. I saw a Chinese regiment over there and it was one of the funniest things I ever saw. The soldiers all looked like skeletons and they were armed with Snikersneens, spears and old flint lock muskets. The armor they had on was of a very cheap tin that I could have made a hole in with a toothpick."

Both captains are of the opinion that the war will be ended in a short time and that it will be an overwhelming defeat for China. Neither one of the captains had seen any American ships there except the old wooden Monocacy, which has been there since the war. They left Foo Chow on the day that that port was closed.

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 6.—Woo Chung, an intelligent Chinese laundryman of this city, left for China via Chicago. He says to-day a large party will leave Chicago for San Francisco, whence about 2,500 will sail for China to help in the war. He says 2,000 left on the last steamer. This move is in response to a request of the Chinese minister at Washington, but the edict is not compulsory.

OPENING OF THE REICHSTAG.

No Reference to Agrarian Questions in Emperor William's Speech.

BERLIN, Dec. 6.—The new Reichstag building was opened yesterday with imposing ceremonies. Religious services were held according to the rites of the Catholic church in the Hedwig cathedral and under Protestant forms in the castle chapel. At 11.30 o'clock the attendants upon these services repaired to the rittersaal of the castle, whereupon at the stroke of twelve the Emperor entered. Chancellor von Hohenlohe handed to the Kaiser the speech from the throne opening the session of the Reichstag, which was read by his majesty.

In his speech the Emperor referred to the disturbing elements in the country and said: "Experience has taught that the existing laws are not sufficient, and you will receive a bill, the main provisions of which will be the extending of the criminal laws and the increasing of the protection of the state for the better maintenance of order."

He also stated that to relieve the oppressive condition of the various states of the empire a bill would be submitted providing for a tax on tobacco.

The Freisinnige Zeitung says: "The speech might have been written by Count von Caprivi, inasmuch as it contains nothing in favor of the agrarian demands. It is possible that the agitation of the Conservatives will force the Chancellor into a conflict with the present majority. Most Conservative newspapers praise the speech but regret the omission of all references to the agrarian questions.

THE ARMENIAN ATROCITIES.

A Private Letter From An Armenian in Constantinople.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—A private letter received from an Armenian resident in Constantinople says: "Twenty-three villages in Armenia have been compelled to embrace Islam. During the massacre soldiers ripped open, women, stuck their unborn babes on spears and marched through the streets in triumph. To complete the misfortune the Sultan while expressing his horror has sent a special deputation with presents and flags for the guilty troops as signs of his approval. Which of our misfortunes shall we lament the massacre of our brethren or the lot of those left in misery to be subjected to the most cruel treament by the commission? The news of our calamities is widely known yet none darest to speak. We look into each other's faces and there read the sorrow and pain of the heart."

The writer of this letter, which bears the date of November 6, was obliged to hide it for days owing to domiciliary visits made by the police.

Major Hamborough Loses His Suit.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Major Hamborough, father of Lieut. Hamborough, for whose murder Alfred John Monson was tried in Edinburgh last year, the trial resulting in the discharge of the prisoner on the verdict of 'not proven,' some time since instituted a suit against the Mutual Life Insurance Company to recover £20,000 insurance on his son's life. The jury in the case has returned a verdict for defendants.

SONS OF TEMPERANCE

The Forty-Fifth Session of the Grand Division Closes at Prescott.

PROGRESS OF THE SOCIETY

The Treasurer's Report Shows a Considerable Increase in the Expenditures—Discharge of a Member by the G.F.R. Condemned—Officers Elected.

PRESCOTT, Ont., Dec. 6.—The forty-fifth session of the Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance is an event of importance to the temperance people of Ontario. This order has been working for the last forty-four years in the province, holding its annual meetings in the different sections stirring up the workers to greater enthusiasm in the advancement of the cause of temperance.

At the meeting yesterday the treasurer reported as follows: The expenditures for this year show a considerable increase. The donation to the Central Committee, the literature we circulated and other expenses incurred in the plebiscite campaign are unusual and we would perhaps not have undertaken so much had we not had the Farewell bequest to draw upon. However, we believe we made commendable efforts in a worthy cause and we endeavored throughout keep our order prominently before the people of this province. The district division competition cup and other extra items of expense have gone to swell the total. It has also been necessary during the year to replenish our stock of supplies which has increased our disbursements, but gives us of course a corresponding increase of assets.

He reports receipts from all sources at $3,867.45, together with cash on hand of $705.32, making the entire amount $4,072.77 and the expenditure $3,977.85, and cash balance on hand of $95.42, division supplies on hand $474.31 and supplies owing by new divisions of $73.50, showing after all liabilities are paid a balance of $51.43 in favor of Grand Division.

The superintendent of Young People's Work reported a slight gain in this branch, though not up to expectations. The auditors reported that the books, etc., of the grand scribe and grand treasurer for the part year were correct.

The question of the discharge of W. W. Smith of Sutton Junction by the C. P. R. for his loyalty to the temperance cause being brought up, the following report of a special committee on the subject was unanimously adopted: Whereas W. W. Smith of Sutton Junction, president of the Brome County Alliance, in the province of Quebec, for his fidelity to law and order has been summarily dismissed from his position as agent of the Canadian Pacific railway for the express reason of his advocacy of the cause of temperance, this Grand Division desires to express the view that this action of the railway company is a distinct violation of the rights of citizenship and deserves strong condemnation as being tyrannical and unjust in the extreme, and is calculated, if not redressed, to destroy public spirit and inflict deep injury to the civil rights of the people.

The following officers were duly elected: G. W. Patriarch, J. B. Brooks, Toronto, G. W. Associate, Mrs. Ida L. Morton; Blackstock; Grand Scribe, W. H. Bewell, Whitby; Grand Treasurer, J. M. Walton, Kettleby; G. Chaplain, Rev. S. J. Hughes, Prescott; G. Conductor, Miss A. Holly, Kingston; G. Sentinel, R. W. McCrea, Brockville; Superintendent of Young People's Work, Miss Gertrude H. A. Buck, Palermo; G. Trustee, W. H. Orr, Toronto. Tilsonburg was selected as the next place of meeting. The time of meeting of the next session was fixed on the first Tuesday of December next.

The question of the Sons of Templars' Relief Society was fully explained by F. M. Bradley and on resolution Grand Division heartily recommended the scheme. Telegrams of congratulation were received from Royal Templars of Temperance and Dominion Alliance, which on motion was ordered to be answered by the G. Secretary. The usual subscription to the Dominion Alliance was passed.

THE ALLEGED CHEESE FRAUDS.

Bristol Importers Join the Others in a Demand for New Regulations.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—In addition to the cheese importers of London, Liverpool and Glasgow those of Bristol have resolved to send a petition to the Canadian Government, asking for legislation in the matter of alleged cheese frauds. The dealers of Bristol met on the same call as that which caused their London, Glasgow and Liverpool colleagues to assemble. In addition to the branding mentioned the dealers wish the Canadian Government to institute a system of compulsory inspection to prevent the alleged substitution of other cheese for September cheese. It is claimed that this practice is increasing. The dealers do not make any specific charges as yet, but there is an impression current that such charges are included in the correspondence that the high commissioner for Canada will forward to Ottawa.

A Halifax Divorce Case.

HALIFAX, Dec. 6.—A case will shortly be heard in the divorce court here, the petitioner in which is Mrs. Lena Boomer, wife of Alonzo Boomer. The latter formerly resided in Halifax but is now in Walla Walla, Washington. Petitioner states she was married on November 6, 1888. The wife claims that her husband was unfaithful to her; that while married to her he kept company with another woman; that he made his wife do a man's work when he knew she was physically unfit to do such. The husband is alleged to have left his wife without money or means and with only enough food to last a few days. Mrs. Boomer asks for absolute divorce.

North Renfrew Reformers.

PEMBROKE, Ont., Dec. 6.—The Liberal Association of North Renfrew, met in this town yesterday for the purpose of re-organization and to choose a candidate to contest this constituency in the party's interest for general election for House of Commons. The old officers were re-elected with the exception of President Henry Jamieson, who refused to accept re-nomination. R. C. Miller was elected in his stead. Thos. Murray, ex-M.P., was nominated as candidate for the Commons. Mr. Murray desired two weeks to consider the matter.

Daily Examiner.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1894.

SOUND economy, says the Montreal Witness, is the characteristic of the President's recommendations in regard to the tariff. He has not been daunted by the election returns, nor does he think that the tariff should be allowed to remain as it is for a time. He believes that the more tariff reform that is had the better for trade, that it cannot be too soon secured, and that the temporary disturbance of business is not to be compared with the permanent benefits that will accrue. He therefore recommends forcibly the passage of the bills placing iron ore and coal on the free list, and declares in favour of sweeping away the last vestige of protection enjoyed by the sugar combines. He turns against them their own arguments for protection, namely, that with the little they have they are running at a loss or are compelled to close down. If that be the case after the high protection they have so long enjoyed, then the task of bolstering them up is a hopeless and impossible one. Mr. Cleveland boldly declares against any extra taxing of sugar from countries that pay bounties for export. He also recommends with extraordinary force in a magnificent passage the freeing of the ocean commerce of the United States from the protection disabilities which have almost killed American shipping.

IN "Bradstreet's" appears a very valuable article from Mr. Cornwell, the president of the City Bank, Buffalo, on the banking systems of the United States and Canada as exhibited during the late panic. During this period deposits in the United States decreased 20 per cent., while in Canada they decreased less than 3 per cent., and loans in the United States decreased 12½ per cent., while in Canada they decreased 1½ per cent. As to the savings banks, while the decrease in the United States during the whole period was something like $113,000,000 out of $1,500,000,000 total deposits (or nearly 8 per cent.), the savings banks' deposits in Canada have, as near as figures can be obtained, remained stationary or slightly increased. The contrast is certainly a striking one.

THE Toronto News says: "The Executive (of the Toronto City Council) performed a commendable act in voting $1,000 more to the children's shelter. Every dollar, wisely expended in preventing children from becoming criminals, saves the expenditure of ten for the punishment of crime." This would apply with equal force to the Peterborough town council, providing a shelter for the unfortunate children rescued through the efforts of the local Children's Aid Society.

A Chicago paper pertinently suggests that Colonel Bob Ingersoll should sit down some day and devote a few minutes of his valuable time to the calm consideration of the question, which of the two is doing the more good in the world—himself or General William Booth, of the Salvation Army?

"FAMILIARITY breeds contempt" in many cases and carelessness in all. The unfortunate victims of the explosion at Hull accustomed to handling a mighty giant, with apparent impunity, evidently became careless and the result is known. The lesson is obvious.

THE REVOLT OF THE GIRLS.

In the latest bulletin of the Ontario Bureau of Industries we get a little insight into the farmers' views of the troublesome servant girl question. Reading over the remarks of the various correspondents on this question it appears to us that the farmer has about reached the exploding point. He has a mighty poor opinion of the girls of the present day. One writer in Harwich, Kent, thus characterizes the situation:

Domestic servants cannot be got. Girls flock to the towns, where work is light and the hours short, and where they can parade the streets and patronize the amusements in the company and at the expense of some fool whom they expect to marry. They, too, often settle down in poverty and squalor, and a whole tribe of offspring is almost sure to follow. I cannot suggest a remedy. Human nature appears to prompt the course which most of them are bound to run to mad ruin.

A correspondent in Raleigh, the same county, says that farmers' daughters are not going to hire out to be slaves for other people. If the town and city dames used them like white people they would not have so much trouble in getting them.

A writer in the County of Grey thinks domestic servants will be scarce until society treats them with more respect. "Servant girls are out of the question," says a Waterloo correspondent, "and will be until the female tides shall change."

Another writer in the same county states that domestic servants are scarce on farms and wages are high, as most of the girls of our generation don't like to wash, milk cows, or do any other kind of hard work.

"Plenty of girls to marry, but few to hire on the farm," is the lament of a horny handed son of toil in Durham.

From Peterborough district, we learn that domestic service is considered too degrading for Canada's daughters.

Speaking of domestic servants, a Huron correspondent says it is rather hard to "domesticate" them.

Farmers' daughters are leaving home to be trained at colleges and fitted for other callings and professions, leaving mothers without sufficient help. There is much need of good girls, who have been trained for domestic service on the farm. This is an opinion from Elgin county.

A few of the correspondents say that domestics are not so scarce as they have been, but on the whole the extracts we have made above give a pretty fair idea of the farmers' views respecting servant girls. It is evident the revolt of the farmers' daughters is widespread, serious and complete. Neither will city girls go to the country, nor will those who have been born and brought up on the farm remain there if an opportunity to remove to the city is presented. The question is a serious one, not only for the farmer but for the citizen. The most serious feature about it lies in the fact that no one is able to light upon a remedy. The evil, in fact, is getting worse instead of better every day.—World.

ANOTHER VICTIM IN HULL.

Young Beauchamp Dies of His Injuries—The Jury's Verdict.

OTTAWA, Dec. 6.—Another victim is added to list of killed in connection with dynamite explosion in Hull. He is Oliver Beauchamp who died at the hospital. This makes five deaths in all.

There is a good deal of comment in Hull over the verdict by the Coroner's jury as to the dynamite explosion. Many of the workingmen after the inquest thought the contractor should have been censured.

Contractor Bourque was not examined at the inquiry and no one asked for him to be heard. Many people thought he should have been called. Only in one case did the witnesses subscribe their names to their evidence. The exception was the manager of the powder company. A peculiar thing, which probably is Quebec law, was that there was no evidence produced to identify the bodies on which the inquest was being held.

Coroner Graham being asked where he intended to hold the inquest on the other bodies, replied he did not intend to hold any inquest unless he received material evidence to show necessity for it.

The Journal says in regard to the verdict: "What a farce it is for a jury to impute to the 'negligence' of a couple of dead unfortunates the conditions which permitted this horrible explosion in the public street of the city. Four persons were killed; two or three more are dying; another score injured; a dozen houses are wrecked; the only wonder is that forty people instead of four are not dead, and here comes a verdict to the effect that the unfortunate workingmen, who merely acted under the orders of the contractor, are wholly responsible for the terrible business. This matter, in justice to the poor men who were killed and the others who were injured, should not be allowed to rest. The verdict would almost seem to be framed to protect the contractor and the corporation of Hull from the consequences of their carelessness. The poor victims or their surviving relatives would ordinarily have recourse at law for damages, but here comes a verdict blaming the death and ruin upon the shoulders of those who suffered it. It is rather surprising that this jury (how was it selected?) did not add to its verdict a rider that the wounded and the people who owned the houses that were wrecked should compensate the contractor for the loss of his dynamite."

Another Dynamite Accident.

LITTLE GLACE BAY, N. S., Dec. 6.—A fatal accident occurred here yesterday. A young man named Archie Gilles, belonging to Whycocomagh, N. S., was killed, and Johnson Fraser, of East River, Pictou county, seriously injured. The men were thawing a large quantity of dynamite used in blasting at the Dominion Coal Company's waterworks near this place, when it exploded with above results. Both men are unmarried. An inquest will be held on the body of Gilles. Fraser is not expected to recover.

Michigan Log Towers at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Dec. 6.—The Log Towers Committee, from Bay City, Mich., appointed to protest against the action of the Canadian Government in imposing a duty of 20 per cent. on American boomsticks arrived here and were joined by Congressman Weadlack, of Michigan. The committee consists of E. T. Carrington, Selwyn Eddy, D. L. White, jr., and Benj. Bentill, of Bay City, and Temple Emery, of Tawas City. To-day they will lay their grievance before the Government. They contend that the United States Government does not levy a duty on boomsticks, and all they demand is reciprocity in this respect, in so far as it relates to the boom logs which are chained together for conveying other timber in tow to Canada.

An Anti-Toxine Patient Dies.

TORONTO, Dec. 6.—Dr. Sheard, medical health officer, reports that the diphtheria patient at the isolation hospital, who was treated on Sunday with the anti-toxine remedy for diphtheria, has died of heart failure. The little fellow, who was six years of age, had a very severe attack of diphtheria, and the case was not considered a hopeful one from the outset.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Dec. 6, 1894.

On the street here 50 bushels of wheat brought 60 to 62c for white. Red was nominally quoted at 59c and goose at 58 1-2c. Some 1,500 bushels of barley sold at 40 to 45c, 100 of peas at 55 1-2 to 56c; 600 oats at 30 to 31c, and one load of buckwheat at 42c.

There was a little more inquiry for barley in Buffalo, but sellers are forming up on both prices, and no doubt this will again check the demand. No. 1 Canada quoted at 64c.

There was a pronounced selling movement and consequent weakness in wheat in Chicago, the close being 1-2c lower. Corn was strong at the opening, but afterwards developed weakness and closed fractionally higher. Oats were dull and unchanged.

At East Buffalo the sheep and lambs offerings were 45 cars, including 27 cars Canada lambs, 3 cars Canada sheep, the second largest run of Canadas this season. There was rather an easier feeling in Canadas, but prices were no lower and are not likely to be unless the general run becomes such as to glut the market. One load of rather common Canada lambs sold at $3.85.

The London stock markets generally were dull. Americans were flat, but closed better. The disposition is to realize generally as the end of the year approaches, but the best authorities do not look for much of a fall.

The course of the New York stock market was a proper commentary on the gambling sensation in the "sugar crowd," Chicago Gas, lately a kind of diminished shadow of sugar on the market, ran up 1 1-4 points, then suddenly fell below its opening. The railway market, although dull and irregular, was weak. In the last half hour, after the sugar stock gymnastics had practically ceased, the restless speculators began to bid up even the railway list. Through this manipulation, with comparatively small purchases, prices of many stocks closed at the highest of the day.

A Railway Manager says:

"In reply to your question do my children object to taking Scott's Emulsion, I say No! on the contrary, they are fond of it and it keeps them pictures of health."

NORWOOD NEWS NOTES.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mrs. Chas. Dawson, Miss Edith, and Masters Bert and Percy, of Peterborough, are visiting friends in Norwood this week.

Mrs. Askey and Mrs. F. Fraser visited Havelock last week.

Misses Edith Kidd and A. Fraser, Warsaw, were in Norwood this week.

The youth of our town indulged in skating for a few days last week. The snow storm of Sunday afternoon spoiled their sport.

Miss Beatrice Roxburgh has been chosen valedictorian for the Model School this term. Miss Roxburgh and Miss May Hamilton were equal in the number of marks obtained for teaching during the term. Lots were cast and Miss Roxburgh drew the lucky straw. The valedictory will be read at the final concert to be held in the town hall on the evening of Friday, Dec. 14th.

A meeting of the Norwood Branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society will be held in the Methodist church on the evening of Monday, Dec. 10th. The meeting will be addressed by the agent of the society and by the resident ministers.

COUNCIL MEETINGS.

The village council held a regular meeting on Monday evening. Reeve Pearce in the chair, and councillors Reynolds, Ebbs and Stuart present. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. The following accounts were presented and ordered to be paid: A. Hoffstetter, 50c.; W. H. Tucker, 60c.; Squire Bros., $15; Jas. Jotcham, 85c.; Geo. Patterson, $2.50; Chas. Wood, $1.00; J. Kellett, $0.00; R. Scriver, $2.10; H. G. Buck, ——. It was reported that application for charity had been made on behalf of a resident of Belmont street, who, however, lives outside the corporation limits. On motion of Messrs. Stuart and Ebbs, the Asphodel council be notified.—Carried. A report of the financial standing of the Mechanics's Institute was handed in by Mr. D. Booth, secretary-treasurer. On motion of Messrs. Reynolds and Stuart, an order was issued for $25, the amount of grant made to the Institute. A communication from Mr. B. Baker was read, stating that certain peddlers were accustomed to visit Norwood and peddle vegetables and this greatly hurt the trade of the local dealer. The reeve stated that he had replied to Mr. Baker's communication to the effect that the village council has no power to license hawkers or peddlers. By-law No. 178, providing for the holding of a meeting in the town hall, on the evening of Monday, Dec. 31st, for the receiving of nominations for reeve, councillors and trustees and appointing Jas. Pengelly as Deputy Returning Officer, was passed, signed and sealed. By-law No. 179, repealing the Transient Traders' by-law was passed. By-law No. 180, being a new by-law for the licensing of transient traders, was passed. It places the license for a transient trader at $50, and the license of a booth or stand, run by a person not a resident in the village at $2 per day, and provides for the crediting of the amount paid for a license against the taxes, if any, afterwards assessed against the person taking out a license.

MILLBROOK.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Last Saturday afternoon a team of horses attached to the front part of a wagon came dashing up King street, but when in front of the post office they ran up against a telegraph pole. One of the horses was thrown to the ground in which position it was held until it was unhitched. They belonged to Mr. Robt. Widdis, who lives about two miles east of here and who came walking in shortly afterwards. It appears that Mr. Widdis was about to come to Millbrook with a grist and left his horses standing on the road while he went in to get his overcoat. On coming out again he was surprised to see his horses dashing towards Millbrook. They ran down Allen's hill, left the hind part of the wagon and the grist at the foot of the hill and came rushing up street with the above mentioned result.

The Royal Templars gave a concert in their lodge rooms on Friday afternoon. Although the audience was small a good programme was given.

The Mechanics' Institute was opened on Saturday for the first time. The rooms are comfortably fitted up, and all the leading newspapers, magazines, etc., are on file. The library is not in working order yet, as the books have not arrived.

GALWAY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

On Wednesday, Nov. 28th, the Rev. Father O'Connell, P. P., united in the holy bonds of matrimony Mr. Cornelius Hickey with Miss Katie O'Brien, both of this township. The bride was assisted on this important occasion by her sister, Miss Hannah O'Brien, while Mr. Patrick Hickey ably performed the duty of groomsman. The young bride looked very charming, being attired in beautiful cashmere, made in the latest fashion. After the matrimonial knot was tied, the happy couple proceeded to the residence of the bride's father, where they received warm congratulations from many of their acquaintances already collected. As Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien spared not an effort in making preparations for receiving and entertaining their friends, the young couple, with their numerous guests, soon found themselves enjoying the hospitality of their host to the fullest extent. The light fantastic toe being tripped throughout the evening, until the wee small hours all too soon proclaimed its end, each returning home, nursing within their breast, the rememberance of a gay time and some fair face. Mrs. Hickey was made the recipient of a large number of beautiful and valuable presents, as a token of the high esteem in which she was held by her large circle of acquaintances. Mr. and Mrs. Hickey will take up their future abode in Galway, where all their friends will tender them their sincerest wishes for a happy and prosperous life.

SMITH.

Jubilee L. O. L., No. 178, Elects Officers

There was a large attendance at the annual meeting of the above lodge held last night in their hall, 4th line, Smith. W. Bro. Samuel Stinson, County Master, presided. The various reports received showed the Lodge to be in a flourishing condition, both numerically and financially. After the transaction of a large amount of important business, the election of officers took place, and resulted as follows:

Spectacles and Eye Glasses
In Gold, Silver, Nickel, Aluminum and Steel.

Whether you wear glasses now or not, if you are conscious of any difficulty in seeing—no matter how slight it is—do not neglect it for another day. It will cost you nothing to talk the matter over with me, and have your eyes skillfully examined.

No effort will be made to sell you Glasses unless you need them.

If you have never worn glasses, I will tell you if you ought to begin; if you already wear them, I will tell you whether they are suited to your eyes. What I have learned with long practical experience, concerning the best methods of ascertaining the different defects of the eyes and their proper correction, you can have the benefit of. I will guarantee to fit you properly with glasses that will strengthen and improve your eyesight, instead of rapidly ruining it, as poorly fitted glasses always do. Bring your whole family and have their eyes examined. No charge for examination.

I always keep a full and complete stock of the best Optical Goods manufactured, including pure White Axis Cut Brazilian Pebbles, which I can furnish in the newest and best styles of Frames for Spectacles and Eye-Glasses, in gold, silver, nickel, aluminum and steel. Also, Telescopes, Opera and Field Glasses, Reading and Magnifying Glasses, Microscopes, Thermometers, Lorgnettes, &c. Spectacles and Eye-Glass Cases of all kinds, including the latest styles of Chatelain Cases, which are now the most fashionable. Gold, Gold Plated, Silver and Silk Eye-Glass Guards.

SUGGESTION.—A Pair of Gold Spectacles or Eye-Glasses makes a most acceptable Christmas Present.

City Clothing Store.

Custom Tailoring.

The gratifying activity of our Fall trade in this department is a proof that we have got what's wanted in seasonable and fashionable Cloths, and that in the matter of making we are correct in style, sure in fit, and none better in finish. Remember we guarantee every garment or no sale.

15 to 20 per cent. REDUCTION will be made on all Clothing made to order from now to New Years. We have too large a stock of Suitings, Pantings and Overcoatings, and offer the above liberal inducements on genuine goods in order to reduce our large stock.

See our window dressed with an exhibition of our fabrics and prices.

Our $3.50 Pants have had a great run and it still continues.

Overcoats and Ulsters

That will wear and give satisfaction, ready-made. If you are a big or small built man, your size Coat is here ready to put on. Keep nothing but the best—this store does'nt do a catch business. Good clothes cost no more than poor clothes, if you go to a reliable clothier.

A large proportion of our stock of Overcoats and Ulsters for men and boys are our own make, cut and trimmed up on our own premises, under the eye of our regular cutter, and are as good as if made to order—but very much lower in price.

UNDERCLOTHING.

Decidedly colder—and it makes you feel the demand for something warmer to wear—whether in Underwear, Hosiery, Gloves or Flannels. Prices so low that no one need go cold.

JUST RECEIVED—a large stock of beautiful Underwear direct from the manufacturers at lower prices than ever.

Cold Weather Comforts

—IN—

Blankets and Quilts.

We are doing our best to provide against the cold, damp, chilly weather. It is folly to be neglectful of warm Bed Clothing this time of the year. If you are a good judge of a Blanket we can prove to you that our values are better than usually offered.

We keep a large stock of good quality of White Wool Blankets, fine, soft, clean wool, with red or blue borders.

Heavy Extra Large Blankets, of finely graded long wool, with beautiful soft downy finish.

Cold Weather Underwear.

Health and comfort demands warm Underwear, and it's better to be too soon than too late putting it on.

Ladies' Fine Woollen Vests, very comfortable.

Gentlemen's Suits in various grades of Wool, fine, extra fine and superior.

Children's All Wool Underwear; which we can strongly recommend to give lasting satisfaction.

More New Hosiery.

We have done wonderful selling in Hosiery already. Our new lines possess value and quality of unusual merit.

We have also full ranges of new Grey Flannel, New Fancy Flannel, New Opera Flannel and New Flannelettes, which form some of our everyday bargains.

The Late Mrs. Sarah Howell Wilson.

The remains of the late Mrs. Sarah Howell Wilson, wife of Mr. George Wilson, senior editor of the Port Hope Evening and Weekly Guide, were buried at Port Hope yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Wilson endured a painful illness of three months unmurmuringly and with Christian fortitude. She was very much esteemed, both at Port Hope and Port Dover, in each of which she had been a long resident, for her kindly qualities of heart and mind. For 44 years she was a member of the Methodist church, and a devoted Christian worker. At the time of her death Mrs. Wilson was president of the Ladies' Aid Society of Port Hope. In addition to her husband, Mrs. Wilson is survived by four sons and four daughters. The sons are: C. A. Wilson, of the North-Ender Publishing Company, Toronto; S. Frank Wilson, president and managing director of the Wilson Publishing Company, Toronto; G. H. Wilson, of the Post, Lindsay, and F. W. Wilson, of the Guide, Port Hope.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

Items of Interest to Local Sportsmen

The establishment of "Sanctuaries" for the wild animals of the country not unnaturally suggests the possibility of introducing game from other countries, which do not at present exist in Canada. A correspondent writes that an effort might be made to introduce the "Cock of the Woods" or "Capercailzie," from Norway or Scotland. This is a good idea. Another, evidently with an eye to keen sport suggests the introduction of the wild boar. This is a bad idea. It is perfectly evident that the gentleman making the suggestion has no personal knowledge of the habits of the wild boar. They certainly afford good and, at the same time, dangerous sport. But they would not confine themselves to the "sanctuary" and as they multiply very rapidly and are of roving habits, they would work great harm, by their depredations in any locality to which they might penetrate. The line must be drawn at wild boars.

RUGBY FOOTBALL.

As financial difficulties stood in the way of a Canadian Rugby team taking a trip to England, the Kent Wanderers, an English team, has volunteered to come to Canada, next season, if an arrangement can be made, whereby expenses can be covered.

This morning, Mr. Max Poussette, secretary of the local Rugby club, received a communication from Mr. Alexis Martin, Hon. Sec. of the Canadian Rugby Union, asking if Peterborough could give the Englishmen a match. The visitors would probably remain in Canada for about a month next fall and would like to play 14 or 15 matches in that time.

The town club will discuss the matter in a day or two.

Trent Valley Canal Land Valuators.

Mr. George H. Pope, of Belleville, who has been appointed land valuator in connection with the Trent Valley Canal, passed through this morning, on his way to the upper or Simcoe and Balsam Lake division, where he will begin the purchase of land for the great waterway. Mr. E. D. McEachern, of Victoria county, will be associated with Mr. Pope in the work.

Over the Route of the T. V. C.

Captain Charles Calcutt will have the steamer Daisy off the ways again in the morning, and will again launch her in the endeavour to bring up 250 cords of wood from Healy's Falls, before the river again freezes up. The little steamer will have both a night and day crew on, and a big effort will be made to complete the job. Four scows will be loaded with the wood.

Solving a Difficult Problem.

There is apt to be in the coming holidays a great deal of worry among both sexes in choosing suitable presents for 'Xmas offerings to their friends. If any lady or gentleman has upon their mind that some gift must be selected for a friend, sister or brother, a visit to the Peterborough Bookstore will certainly help them out. The beautiful and artistic novelties too numerous to mention are suggestive of Yule tide. A. H. STRATTON & Co., 417 and 419 George street.

Collegiate Institute Entertainment.

The press throughout the country speaks in the very highest terms of the talented young elocutionist, Grenville P. Kleiser, in his new role as impersonator of the of the main characters in Charles Dicken's David Copperfield. Mr. Kleiser's selections show literary taste, as well as histronic talent and in the interesting succession of scenes from that celebrated novel, the story is revealed even to those who have never read it. Mr. Kleiser will appear at the entertainment to be given in connection with the Collegiate Institute commencement exercises, Friday, Dec. 7th. General admission 25c, reserved seats 35c. Plan now open at Sallsbury's.

Opera House Attraction.

Real horses, real patrol waggon and real policemen are a few of the inducements offered to play-goers in A. Y. Pearson's "Police Patrol," which comes to the Opera House, Tuesday, Dec. 11th. This will be refreshing news to the weary public and will, no doubt, be appreciated. A satisfy of alleged realism has quite prepared theatre-goers for something that is really real, and it is scarcely necessary to dwell upon the fact that there is nothing make-believe about the "Police Patrol." Those who have not read or seen of this excellent production have doubtless been appraised of its merits by their friends, for it has toured the continent season after season with unvarying success, and promises to retain its popularity for many years to come. Prices 25, 50 and 75c. 1d

—A teacher in one of the schools recently gave her scholars, as a lesson, to mark on their slates the Roman numerals from one to twelve. In about three minutes one of the boys held up his hand, signifying that he had accomplished the work. "Why, Johnny," said the teacher, "you are real smart. None of the other scholars are half done. Tell us how you came to finish so quickly." Johnny, in great glee, replied, "I copied them from the clock on the wall up there."

ACCIDENT AT THE GENERAL.

An Employe Knocked into Insensibility and Badly Cut.

Mr. H. E. Hunt, of the Carpenter Department of the Canadian General Electric Works met with a very severe accident this morning, whereby he will be incapacitated from work for several weeks probably.

Mr. Hunt, it seems, placed a couple of long heavy plank leaning against one of the beams in the department and turned to attend to some other work when the plank suddenly slid off the beam and in falling to the ground struck Mr. Hunt a stunning blow on the head, rendering him unconscious and inflicting a gash of about nine inches in length. A physician was summoned and the injured man conveyed to his home where he will be confined for several weeks.

TWO LIVES SAVED.

Husband and Wife have a Narrow Escape From Inevitable Death.

London, Dec. 6th.—A London South resident favoured your correspondent with particulars of the remarkable case of Wm. Langley and wife, referred to in yesterday's despatches. Langley was a sufferer for years from Bright's disease, and his wife was subject to fits, undoubtedly due to kidney disorder. Doctors could give them no relief, but Dodd's Kidney Pills did what physicians could not, and both are now strong and hearty. Whatever the remarkable properties of these pills may be, they certainly effect wonderful cures.

Dinner, Tea and Chamber Sets, Silver Ware, Lamp Goods, Ornaments, etc., at prices that cannot be repeated again. Buy now for Christmas. China Hall and Silver Bazaar, Saturday, Nov. 24th.

WILL THE TANNERY CHANGE HANDS?

An Offer Made by a Syndicate—The Price of Leather Raised.

A most important meeting of the tanners of the province was held in the council chamber of the Board of Trade, Toronto, yesterday afternoon, at which Mr. J. Patterson, town, was present.

Mr. Mooney, hide and leather inspector, of Montreal, was also present. On behalf of a Montreal syndicate, this gentleman offered to buy up all the tanneries in the province of Ontario. Many of the gentleman present seemed willing to sell, but the majority were not inclined to consider the proposition, which was finally referred to the Executive Committee, with instructions that all particulars should be ascertained and reported upon.

A resolution was adopted advancing the price of leather all round from 10 to 15 per cent. on present prices. After the resolution had been passed, one of the members remarked that it would do no good. "Every one would expect everybody else to put up the price, but as a matter of fact everyone would make a cut, in the hope that his stock might be reduced."

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

Yesterday we referred generally to the municipal elections, and ventured a few suggestions in regard to the duties of candidates in relation to the electors. Now a word or two may be offered in regard to the relation of the electors to their municipal representatives and candidates for municipal honours. This is the time when the town requires in the management of her municipal matters, the services of her most capable citizens and the difficulty of inducing such men to take their places around the council board, largely arises from the abuse of the canvassing system, and the system of personal solicitation of a voters' suffrages. This has obtained so greatly that a large number of electors have passed into the habit of thinking in relation to their votes, "that what is worth having is worth asking for." This is, of course, an entirely wrong principle, and the practice of it deters the best candidates from entering the field. They will not submit themselves to what they consider the humiliation of begging their fellow-citizens the privilege of serving them. Thus the field of civic politics is barred against our best men. The electors should feel it, as it is, their duty to freely tender their votes to good candidates and urge their claims instead of waiting to be addressed, hat in hand, and have their vote begged from them. It is the interest of the ratepayers to elect a representative and it is the privilege of the elector to decide who should represent him. No representative, who sees his duty in the right light, enters the council to benefit himself. He does so to serve the public interests and he must, instead of receiving personal benefit, expect to make personal sacrifices, if he does his duty fully and honestly, so that, from this point of view, the electors should be the first to discourage the anxiety of a candidate to seek a position, whose duties properly discharged, are arduous and the subject of too little gratitude. Speaking on the general principle involved, that candidate is to be regarded with suspicion, who seems to be unduly anxious for a seat at the council board, where any personal advantage is necessarily gained at the expense of the interests it is his duty to guard. It is to be hoped that our leading citizens will duly appraise the importance of the present civic situation and make some practical effort to render the services of our best qualified citizens available in the capacity of representatives, and that the electors may come to the feeling that it is their privilege to vote for good men, and that in so voting they are not conferring, but receiving, a favour.

It is learned that there are to be several vacancies caused by the retirement of present members, whose places should be filled by as good, if not better men, and here we approach a suggestion which we believe is in the public interest, and one which it is hoped will not be misconstrued or attributed to any other motive than a desire to promote the best welfare of the town. It is submitted that in the present condition of affairs, it is clearly the duty of Mayor Kendry to retire. Not on the ground of inefficient discharge of his duties for the past three terms—the electors are able to judge as to that—nor on the ground that he has had his share of the honour which the occupancy of such a position gives; but on the higher ground of his relation to a private corporation, that is seeking privileges and favours from the corporation of the town. We are sure we are doing Mayor Kendry no injustice when we point out the extreme impropriety of his occupying the position of head of the corporation of the town of Peterborough, and at the same time that of head of the corporate company that is applying temporarily through two of its directors, for a franchise in the matter of electric supply. This application on the part of Mr. Dennistoun and Mr. Carnegie is a step in the direction of amending the charter of the Auburn Woollen Company, so as to permit it to take over the interests of the proposed new electric supply company. Under such circumstances the impropriety of the head of the Auburn Company occupying the position of Chief Magistrate, is too obvious to require comment. Mr. Kendry, Mayor of Peterborough, signing a contract with Mr. Kendry, president of the Auburn Woollen Company, is strongly suggestive of a phrase, historical in connection with land grant abuses in the evil days of the Family Compact:—"I, Peter Russell, grant to you, Peter Russell." Mr. Bradburn took a proper view of the principle involved, when as president of the Street Railway, he retired from the Council, recognizing the incompatibility of the two positions. And Mayor Kendry himself feels the awkardness of the situation. At the last council meeting, when it was proposed to refer the application of Messrs. Dennistoun and Carnegie to the committee of the whole council, he suggested, in view of his relation to the interests represented by those gentlemen that he would prefer being relieved from the duty of calling a meeting to consider interests in which he was personally involved, and that the meeting should be referred to the Finance Committee, to meet as a committee of the whole, so that the duty of calling the meeting should fall upon the chairman of the Finance committee, Mr. Cahill. After the exhibition of aldermanic iniquity in Toronto it is wise to avoid the very appearance of evil.

We think we have put this matter fairly before Mr. Kendry and at the same time pointed out to the ratepayers that if they are going to have their interests properly safe-guarded, it must be done by men whose only interest is the public weal. Should the council entertain the application, it is not enough that the Mayor should stand aside when a contract is being made; he should take the most active part in seeing that the public interests are most thoroughly and safely guarded.

SUCCESS AND FAILURE OF THE SERUM.

Satisfactory Tests in Montreal and Something Wrong in Toronto.

The Montreal Star says: The first experiment with the new Roux Anti-toxine Serum ever made in this city, was undertaken last week by Dr. Hervieux, of Notre Dame street. The subject of the experiment was a little girl of about five years of age, who was suffering from a bad attack of diphtheritic croup. Previous to using the serum Dr. Hervieux had thought that he would have to use a silver tube in the throat in order to allow the patient to breathe, but although the child was very nearly choking when he injected the serum, she was breathing freely within twenty-four hours afterwards. The doctor is enthusiastic in his praise of the new medical discovery.

The boy Smith who was treated with the anti-toxine on Sunday evening at the Isolation Hospital, Toronto, died last night. In his case the serum seemed to have had no effect whatever. His death occurred from blood poisoning just as it would had no serum been used. Elsie Douglas, four years, is now under the treatment. Hers is a very bad case of laryngeal diphtheria.

The Nicholls Hospital has received a communication from the Provincial Board of Health, offering to supply them gratis with Anti-Toxine for a period of two months for the purpose of making a thorough test of the new remedy. This offer is made under certain conditions, viz:—That a bacteriological examination of the membrane is made to establish the fact, without doubt, that the case treated is one of genuine diphtheria. Another condition is that one practitioner, only, use the injection (not necessarily treat the case) and that he make a complete report of the progress and results of each case to the Provincial Board of Health.

The staff of the Nicholls Hospital met a few evenings since, and appointed Dr. Clarke, Medical Health Officer, to make the required injections.

THE CHILDREN'S AID.

Arrangements have been made whereby Rev. J. E. Starr will address the public in the Opera House, on Thursday, Dec. 13th, on the aims and scope of the Children's Protective Act.

Contributions will be accepted at the door in order to defray the expenses incurred in renting the Opera House, etc. The Mayor will occupy the chair.

The public is respectfully requested to come and hear this well known former resident of Peterborough.

A Canadian Centenarian.

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—William Chambers, of Chatham, Ont., 108 years old, passed through this city en route from Portage la Prairie, Man., to his home in Chatham. He was travelling alone, and toddled around the Dearborn street station as sprightly as any young fellow of 50 or 60. He had been up in Manitoba to see his boys who are 78 and 83. He was born in England. When Napoleon was changing the map of Europe he was a sturdy young man. He fought with the Duke of Wellington in Spain for several years, but left the service before the Duke beat Napoleon, so he does not claim to be a Waterloo survivor. He came to America soon afterward and settled in Canada.

A Plucky London West Girl.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 6.—The other evening when Mrs. Peter Brant, of London West, was at the village Methodist church, two men attempted to break into the house. Two of the daughters, Nellie and another of tender years, were home at the time, and when the men were heard at a side window Nellie warned them to get away. They left, but went direct to the front door and commenced to pound on it, demanding admittance, but the plucky girl refused to open the door. On the men refusing to leave, Nellie got her brother's revolver and fired a shot through the door. It had the desired effect and the would-be burglars took their departure.

To Lecture on Conference.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Sir Henry Wrixon, delegate from Victoria to the recent colonial conference at Ottawa, will deliver a lecture in this city in December upon "The Conference and its National Significance." The Marquis of Lorne will preside at the meeting and introduce Sir Henry. Sir John Thompson, the Canadian Premier, who is now in England, has signified his intention of being present.

Col. Tyrwhitt Gets the Nomination.

ALLISTON, Ont., Dec. 6.—The Conservatives of South Simcoe met here yesterday for the purpose of selecting a candidate for the Dominion House in the coming elections. Col. Tyrwhitt, the present member, captured the convention, his majority over Dr. Buchanan, the other aspirant, being 190.

SEPARATE SCHOOL BOARD.

A Regular Meeting of the Board—Accounts and Communications.

The regular meeting of the Separate School Board was held last evening. There were present Dr. Brennan (chairman), presiding, and Messrs. Quinlan, Sheehy, Hickey and LeHane.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

Accounts were received from the following:

A McDonald, lumber	$ 3 20
R Gordon, labour	6 25
T Cleary "	1 60
Geo H Kane "	2 00
Kathbun Co, coal	51 80
Kathbun Co., lumber	5 25

They were referred to the Finance Committee.

An account of Paul Costello, for wood, of $2.50, was paid since last meeting by order of Property Committee, and the payment was confirmed.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The reports of school attendance was as follows:

Central school—Number on register, 193; average attendance, 178.

Convent school—Number on register, 222; average attendance, 195.

Lake street School—Number on register, 161; average attendance, 130. A total on roll of 576, with an average attendance of 503.—The reports were received.

Mr. Burke, of the Central School, asked for supplies required for school. This was referred to Property Committee with power to procure the supplies.

ACCOUNTS PAID.

The Finance Committee, through Mr. Sheehy, chairman, reported the payment of the accounts of A. H. Stratton & Co., $24; Peterborough Hardware Co., $11.43; Jas. Galvin, $5.90.

On motion of Mr. Sheehy, seconded by Mr. Quinlan, the report was accepted.

Moved by Mr. Quinlan, seconded by Mr. LeHane, that the Secretary make the necessary arrangements to hold the nomination and election of trustees, as provided by law.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

CHARACTER IN FEET.

THEY ARE CERTAIN INDICATORS OF PERSONALTY.

At Least So Say Some Artists—How Fashion Distorts Nature—One of the Latest Fads Among the Wealthy People.

It is said by prominent artists and well known chiropodists that a truly perfect foot, from an artistic standpoint, is as rare nowadays as black-birds in May. When we remember the famous beauties of olden times, whose feet were tenderly cared for and exquisitely shaped, this appears truly deplorable.

There was no question in those art-loving days of what kind of shoe to buy so that one's foot would show off to the best advantage. Helen of Troy, to whose beautiful and shapely foot sonnets innumerable were written, would have been horrified at the sight of the average modern foot, and would probably have been thrown into convulsions to hear the amount spent each week at the chiropodist's.

That our women of the better class are paying more attention to the care of the feet than formerly is an indisputable fact. A prominent society woman on her return from Paris several months ago exhibited to a room full of admiring friends the sweetest, daintiest little plaster cast of a foot, which, she declared, was a counterpart of her own, made by a sculptor of world wide fame. She was at that moment having a life size one carved in marble to be mounted on cerise velvet, and several small ones, one-half the size, struck off in different shades of pale pink, blue and old rose.

It was quite a fad across the sea, so she said, to have your foot photographed as well as your hand or your face—that is, if you were lucky enough to possess one blessed with artistic curves and outlines.

The secret of this is that persons are beginning to find out what sculptors have known all along, namely, that a foot is as much indicative of personality and character as any other active member of the human form, and after being made aware of what delightful and characteristic charms a graceful, poetic foot indicates, the majority of fashionable women are supremely anxious to preserve the model by statuary or pictures.

Some excellent leading points to remember, if a woman wishes to read the lines in her own pretty feet, are that a full, well rounded heel denotes good breeding, and a straight one, of course, just the opposite. When the heel forms a kind of arch with the instep it is sure sign of blue blooded stock, and if it should extend behind to any marked degree you can make sure that great force of character goes with it.

The arched and high instep, as all students of art know, acts as an unfailing indication of a long line of ancestors, together with the refinement of temperament, innate delicacy of feeling and true gentleness of character which distinguish the bona fide lady from her common sister.

Nothing in the wide world will so rapidly remove all natural lines of beauty as an ill-fitting shoe, and as friction is as fatal as pressure, too large a shoe does as much damage as if it were several sizes too small. Have the last used in building your footgear resemble the model as closely as possible and don't let the shoemakers persuade you that the vamp ought to come where it will undoubtedly raise ridges and furrows.

In caring for the feet, particular attention ought to be paid to paring the nails, which, according to Dr. Westervelt, should be cut perfectly straight, if anything a little shorter in the centre than on the sides.

The desire among our aristocrats to be spoken of as the owners of prettily shaped feet has been increasing for the last few years. When a woman realizes that she can wear an "A" shoe in width or a one and a half in length she then begins to think about the contour of her foot and immediately seeks to remove all blemishes that will disfigure it any way. She visits her particular chiropodist as religiously as her dentist or manicure, and from him learns the proper method of preserving the beauty and softness of skin. Following out her foot doctor's orders minutely and being particular about the make and cut of her shoe, there is no reason why the majority of women who have time and leisure should not be blessed with as artistic pedal extremities as those of Mrs. Secretary Belknap, whom they used to say invariably attracted a group of admirers, who gathered to gaze at her lovely and daintily clad feet whenever she stepped into her carriage.

Many of our well-known New York society women can boast of extremely aristocratic feet. Mrs. E. Marcy Raymond, of Fifth avenue, has a noticeably pretty foot, the artistic contour of which is enhanced by the delicate soft grays and tan suedes she wears. Mrs. Edwin Gould's foot is thoroughly characteristic of the charming disposition of its pretty owner, and Mrs. Theodore Sutro's foot is always incased in shoes that not only match each costume, but fit to perfection at every point. The lines in Mrs. Sutro's foot indicate a purely artistic and musical nature, with high intellectual endowments.

Mrs. Frank Leslie can be happy in the knowledge that she is one of the few women whose boot number only reaches to the height of "one," and whose width does not exceed that of a child. The lines in this foot, as read by an expert, denote great power, indicated by the noticeable rise of the big toe, unusual executive ability, a keen intellect, charm of manner, versatility and high breeding.

One of the first things you notice about the Marquise de Lanza is her extremely pretty foot. It is exquisite in outline, and Mme. Lanza might well take it as a subject in some of her writings.

A Gambler's Superstition.

They were playing a quiet rubber of whist and had called for a new deck of cards. One of the players was an old timer, a card player of years of experience, and he took up the old wornout pack and put them on the window sill.

"Throw them in the fire," said the young man who was his partner.

"What!" said the elder, "throw a pack of cards in the fire? Young man, you don't know what you are talking about. I wouldn't do it for $1,000."

"Why not?" "Superstition," was the answer. "Burn a pack of cards, and they'll never give you another hand and will mock you to the last. They're bad enough at best, but you never saw a gambler curse the cards or abuse them. He doesn't dare to. I knew a 'successful' card player who did it. He was dwelling on velvet then. In a year he was a beggar, and he never won a game worth metioning forever after. It's a whim, but the gentlemen of the cloth of green respect it. They won't burn a pack of cards."

A Firm Believer.

"The Bible, if I remember right," said Mr. Hungry Higgins, "says that six days a man shalt labor and do all his work."

"Guess you are right," assented Mr. Weary Watkins, wondering what was coming next.

Well, I allow that I have done as much as six days' work in my life, and if I don't read the text wrong, that is all the work a man is permitted to do. It says 'do all thy work,' don't it?"—Detroit News.

Salt rheum with its intense itching, dry hot skin is cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla because it purifies the blood.

A Narrow Escape.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease),
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all.
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,

They gave us every one, a kiss.
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home.
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life!
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny.
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

When the Nerve Centres Need Nutrition.

A Wonderful Recovery, Illustrating the Quick Response of a Depleted Nerve System to a Treatment Which Replenishes Exhausted Nerve Forces.

MR. FRANK BAUER, BERLIN, ONT.

Perhaps you know him? In Waterloo he is known as one of the most popular and successful business men of that enterprising town. As managing executor of the Kuntz estate, he is at the head of a vast business, representing an investment of many thousands of dollars, and known to many people throughout the Province. Solid financially, Mr. Frank Bauer also has the good fortune of enjoying solid good health, and if appearances indicate anything, it is safe to predict that there's a full half century of active life still ahead for him. But it's only a few months since, while nursed as an invalid at the Mt. Clemens sanitary resort, when his friends in Waterloo were dismayed with a report that he was at the point of death.

"There's no telling where I would have been had I kept on the old treatment," said Mr. Bauer, with a merry laugh, the other day, while recounting his experiences as a very sick man. "Mt. Clemens," he continued, "was the last resort in my case. For months previous I had been suffering indescribable tortures. I began with a loss of appetite and sleepless nights. Then, as the trouble kept growing, I was getting weaker, and began losing flesh and strength rapidly. My stomach refused to retain food of any kind. During all this time I was under medical treatment, and took everything prescribed, but without relief. Just about when my condition seemed most hopeless, I heard of a wonderful cure effected in a case somewhat similar to mine, by the Great South American Nervine Tonic, and I finally tried that. On the first day of its use I began to feel that it was doing what no other medicine had done. The first dose relieved the distress completely. Before night I actually felt hungry and ate with an appetite such as I had not known for months. I began to pick up in strength with surprising rapidity, slept well nights, and before I knew it I was eating three square meals regularly every day, with as much relish as ever. I have no hesitation whatever in saying that the South American Nervine Tonic cured me when all other remedies failed. I have recovered my old weight—over 200 pounds—and never felt better in my life."

Mr. Frank Bauer's experience is that of all others who have used the South American Nervine Tonic. Its instantaneous action in relieving distress and pain is due to the direct effect of this great remedy upon the nerve centres, whose fagged vitality is energized instantly by the very first dose. It is a great, a wondrous cure for all nervous diseases, as well as indigestion and dyspepsia. It goes to the real source of trouble direct, and the sick always feel its marvellous sustaining and restorative power at once, on the very first day of its use.

ALLIGATORS AT HOME.

THE ANCIENT SAURIAN IN HIS NATIVE HAUNTS.

How They Live and How They Fight—An Encounter With One of Them—Some of Their Peculiarities—An Ugly, Vicious Brute.

A great deal that has been written for the press the past four years about alligators appears to have come from the pen of winter tourists who spend a brief season in Florida when alligators are enjoying their long nap at the bottom of the lakes or covered with mud in the swamps.

It is safe to say that they have never met the ancient saurian in his native haunts.

If an alligator meets you on land he is at your mercy. If you meet him on the water the conditions are reversed. On land he is an awkward fellow. His flippers are not made for walking, and he gets along through perseverance and endurance. In moving on land he lifts his body up, but drags his tail on the ground, making a trail as though with a stick.

In April and May the males make a great noise, bellowing like a bull. In the latter part of May they make their nest, selecting a quiet place on the banks of a lake or river. It will be two or three feet long, built of sticks, grass and sand. The female lays from twenty-six to thirty-two eggs. They are as big around as a hen's egg and nearly twice as long. Boys hunt the eggs and sell them to the curio stores, where they are either hatched or blown out.

The negroes have an idea that an alligator prefers a black man to a white one, and they say that a 'gator will swim all around white men if there is a negro in the crowd. The negroes look upon the 'gator as a natural enemy.

Two years ago, during orange packing, not wishing to spare one of the men from work to go to town every day for the mail, I made a small cypress boat not more than ten feet long. It was so light and easy going that I could cover the distance of one mile in nine minutes. After I had the boat finished, I painted it red. "A strong, bright red," as the Dutchman said.

Just as I was starting to town one day, Dr. Whitfield, of Grand Rapids, S.D., who was seeking health by hunting 'gators, told me that a whopping big alligator had recently made a bed in the weeds on Shaw's grove near an old wharf. "He's a whopper," said the doctor, "and you watch out and report."

When I approached the place, I went about forty feet from the shore. I soon saw the monster, an ugly looking fellow. He was about four feet above the water, partly hidden in the weeds. I noticed a slight motion as I passed, so I concluded to return, in hopes of seeing him slide into the water, as they usually do, and thus secure his dimensions. But I was greatly surprised to see the monster rise and plunge into the water like a man taking a header. It was an unusual performance. I had heard of such a thing, but in my ten years' residence on the lake, this was the first plunge I ever really saw. This, together with his immense size, warned me that I had encountered a dangerous enemy.

He struck the water about twenty-five feet from the boat and as he passed under it, I felt and heard his rough scale-like hide rub on the keel of the boat. Instantly I thought that my time had come, all the blood in my body rushed to my heart and it beat against my ribs as though it would come out. If he had capsized the boat I would have never lived to write this episode. He came up about twenty-five feet on the other side and turned toward the boat. He churned the water with his tail until the lake looked like Buttermilk Falls. I knew he was mad and that he was determined to get at me. He came toward the boat with his jaws open at such speed that if he had struck it it would have gone to pieces. Death, a horrible death, was staring me in the face and no help at hand. There were some people on the opposite shore watching the battle, but they had no boat, and if they had, could not reach me in time to be of any service.

I realized that I must keep cool if I would win the fight. I suddenly became as strong as a lion, my jaws set and my teeth ground on each other. As he came near the boat, I pulled on my off oar with all my might. This swung the boat around so we passed each other side by side. He was going at such speed that he went fifteen or twenty feet before he turned and then he had to make a large circle, lashing the water into a foam. I tried to get away from him but he was between the boat and the shore and it would be folly to push toward the middle of the lake. He was disappointed, mad, furious, and came for the canoe with renewed vigor.

I must either kill or be killed.

I again pulled on my off oar and what made the situation more desperate, the other oar slipped from its lock and slid into the lake. There was no time to be lost in trying to recover it, for in another instant the battle would be lost or won, man or 'gator. Quick as lightning I raised the remaining oar and brought it down with all my power, aiming for his eyes. I fell short of the mark, but struck him on the end of the nose. He spurted blood and hesitated. That was fatal to him, for the next instant I struck him across the eyes. He stopped and commenced sinking and another blow sent him out of sight.

The spot was watched for some days and at last he was found sunning himself in his old bed, where he was shot. He measured fourteen feet and was thought to be 80 years old. The old alligator hunters said he attacked the boat because it was red, so for future safety I painted "Red Rover" white.

THREE RUNNING SORES

PHYSICIANS FAILED

BUT B.B.B. CURED

Dear Sirs—After having used Burdock Blood Bitters for Scrofula in the blood, I feel it my duty to make known the results. I was treated by a skilled physician but he failed to cure me. I had three Running Sores on my neck which could not be healed until I tried B. B. B., which healed them completely, leaving the skin and flesh sound and whole. As long as I live I shall speak of the virtues of B.B.B., and I feel grateful to Providence that such a medicine is provided for sufferers.

MRS. W. BENNETT, Acton P. O. Ont.

A SCALY ERUPTION

UNENDURABLE ITCHING

Suffered Three Years—Now Perfectly Cured by B. B. B.

Gentlemen—I have used Burdock Blood Bitters for Skin Diseases, from which I have been a sufferer for three years. I have used six bottles and am now entirely cured. I tried other remedies, such as Donald Kennedy's Medical Discovery and the Cuticura Remedies, but all to no good. I doctored one year with the best physicians in the land; they pronounced my disease a Scaly Eruption, but could not remove it. It came on in red blotches and spread over my body; the skin became dry and formed hard dry scales. The itching was intolerable, but I am now completely cured, and I owe it all to B. B. B.

How Slate Pencils Are Made.

In making slate pencils broken slate is put into a mortar run by steam and pounded into small particles. Then it goes into a mill and runs into the "bolting" machine, such as is used in flouring mills, where it is bolted, the fine, almost impalpable flour that results being taken to a mixing tub, where a small quantity of steatite (soapstone flour, similarly manufactured, is added, together with other materials, the whole making a stiff dough. This dough is kneaded thoroughly by passing it several times between iron rollers. Thence it is conveyed to a table, where it is made into "charges," or short cylinders, four or five inches thick, and containing eight to twelve pounds each. Four of these are placed in a strong iron chamber, or "retort," with a changeable nozzle so as to regulate the size of the pencil, and subjected to tremendous hydraulic pressure, under which the composition is pushed through the nozzle in the shape of a long cord, and passed over a sloping table slit at right angles with the cords to give passage to a knife which cuts them into lengths.

They are then laid on boards to dry and, after a few hours are removed to sheets of corrugated zinc, the corrugating serving to prevent the pencils from warping during the process of baking to which they are next subjected in a kiln into which superheated steam is introduced in pipes, the temperature being regulated according to the requirements of the article exposed to its influence. From the kiln the articles go to the finishing and packing room, where the ends are thrust for a second under rapidly revolving emery wheels, and withdrawn neatly and smoothly polished. They are then packed in pasteboard boxes, each containing 100 pencils, and these boxes are in turn packed for shipment in wooden boxes containing 100 each, or 10,000 pencils in a shipping-box. Nearly all the work is done by boys, and the cost, therefore, is light.—Exchange.

That Black Silk Gown.

A plain black gown fashionably cut is a blessing to the woman who owns it. It may be made of any of the new black silks, crystalline, Pekin stripe, moire or Persian gro grain. Such a gown made with a plain full skirt and a bodice equally plain, but with enormous sleeves, may be transformed many times with but little expense and trouble. Just a stock collar of bright velvet gives it a pretty, fresh touch. A yoke of lace Van Dyke points in addition to a stock and belt of velvet will transform it into a concert, lecture, or theatre costume not to be despised.

Jet is always an effective trimming for a black gown, and in combination with a jeweled passementerie is very elegant.

Which Was It?

The mother of two sons, twins, met one of the brothers in the yard.

"Which of you two boys am I talking to?" asked the mother; "is it you or your brother?"

"Why do you ask?" inquired the lad prudently.

"Because if it is your brother, I'll box his ears."

"It is not my brother; it is I."

"Then your brother is wearing your coat, because yours had a hole in it."

"No, mother; I'm wearing my own coat."

"Good heavens," shrieked the mother looking at him intently; "you are your brother after all."—Texas Siftings.

England's Safe Railways.

England has the advantage of us in safety of railroad travel. In 1893 not a single passenger of the 40,000,000 conveyed during the first six months of the year was killed while traveling on the trains. It must be remembered that the English trains are more crowded and run at more frequent intervals than any others in the world. But then, too, England fences in her tracks.—Springfield Republican.

Survival of an Odd Custom.

On Monday night the ancient custom of selling the herbage and common rights in the parish of Warton, near Tamworth, by candlelight, was duly observed, the Surveyor occupying the chair. The operation was as follows: A tallow candle was cut into pieces of about half an inch, and the last bidder before the candle expired was declared the purchaser.—London Daily News.

AN EXCELLENT RECORD.

The Work of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute—Far in the Lead of the Provincial Percentage of Passes This Year.

In view of the fact of the annual commencement exercises of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute taking place to-morrow evening in the Opera House, the presentation of a few statistics in reference to the Institute will serve to show that this institution, which is doing such excellent work under its present management and staff, is well worthy of the encouragement and sympathy of all citizens having at heart the interests of higher education.

Below will be found the tabulated result of the work done in the Peterborough Collegiate Institute for the past five years:—

PUPILS PASSED.

	1890.	'91	'92	'93	'94
Primary	10	17	27	43	35
Matriculation	1	6	13	11	9
Junior Leaving	6	12	18	19	22
Senior Leaving	0	0	0	5	9
	17	35	58	78	75

NOTE—The Primary corresponds with the third class; the Junior Leaving with the second class; the Senior Leaving with the first class non-professional certificates respectively. The Matriculation is the entrance examination to any university in Ontario.

It may be remarked that the average attendance at the Institute during the the past two years has been 185, although, during the past three months of the present term, the average has been the high figure of 202. Without desiring to institute comparisons specifically, it may be pointed out that the average, of successful candidates writing on the above subjects throughout the province, is 40 per cent., and that this year, the average of candidates from the Institute successfully passing was 68 per cent. or 28 per cent. above the provincial average. Last year, the but this circumstance is modified by the fact, that of the thirty-five candidates failing this year, thirteen obtained marks in excess of the total required, but fell short in one or more subjects, so that in effect the percentage this year is higher than the figures indicate. Last year only two were in this list. Another fact is worthy of note. A reference to the figures of the past two years shows that 40 per cent. of the average attendance at the Peterborough Collegiate Institute passed their examinations, a circumstance that gives cause for congratulation upon the steady excellence of the work being done.

INSTITUTE PERCENTAGE WAS STILL HIGHER

Another feature of the facts in this connection may be adverted to, to put in stronger light, the prominent position in the matter of results which the Peterborough Collegiate Institute occupies. There are in the Province of Ontario 135 Collegiate Institutes and High Schools. Of this number there are 20 that have a larger attendance than the Peterborough Institute. In the face of this fact the Peterborough school has held absolutely fifth or sixth place in the matter of successful candidates, while relatively to attendance it would be entitled to rank amongst those at the head of the list.

CHEESEMEN DINE.

BROOKLIN, Dec. 4.—The annual meeting of the patrons of the Brooklin cheese factory was held here to-day. There was a large attendance of those specially interested in this new industry which was started two year ago by Mr. Chas. Mills of Hastings. All were well satisfied with the reports presented and the general results of the season's work. In the evening a complimentary supper was given to Mr. Thos. Borland, head cheese-maker, previous to his departure for his home in Hastings, which was a splendid success. Upwards of 100 representative farmers and personal friends gathered in the dining room of the Brooklin House, where, after a feast of oysters, the following toast list was presented and duly honored:—"The Queen," "Our Guest," "The Cheese Industry," "The Learned Professions," etc. Appropriate music was furnished by a mouthorgan and autoharp orchestra, which was greatly appreciated. The gathering broke up at a seasonable hour with hearty good-byes to Messrs. Mills and Borland and with the best good wishes for the further success of this enterprise.

FRUIT GROWING IN ONTARIO.

Important Questions Discussed at the Convention in Orillia.

ORILLIA, Dec. 6.—At the fruit growers' session yesterday papers were read by Mr. T. Beall, of Lindsay, on "Affiliated Societies." Mr. M. Pettit presented a report on grading of grapes and several amendments recommended were approved of and Mr. G. C. Caston, of Craighurst, read the report of the committee on the grading of apples and pears and presented several amendments to last year's list, most of which were accepted by the meeting. Prof. Craig's paper on "Experiments in spraying was the main feature of the afternoon meeting. A lively and instructive discussion followed it, in which a large number of well known fruit men took part.

"Score Cards for Judging Fruit," by Secretary Woolverton, was a good paper and contained valuable hints for the judges. Mr. A. Pattullo of Woodstock gave an excellent address on "Roads and Roadmaking," which was much appreciated. Prof. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, followed with a short address on general topics. "Statistics" included some returns of sales of a few consignments of apples in England, showing prices ranging from 80c to $4.25 per barrel. This was an object lesson easily understood that only the best apples, put up in the best possible shape, should be sent to the English markets.

It was shown that the average cost of conveying a barrel of apples from Ontario and putting them on the market in London is $1.25. Add to this what the farmer gets and the cost of picking and barreling and the loss or profit on the prices given is easily arrived at.

The evening meeting was a grand success, nearly 600 being present and many turned away from the door unable to gain admittance. More than half the audience were ladies, an almost heretofore unknown feature at the association meetings.

The meeting opened with a capitally rendered selection by a splendid orchestra. The mayor of Orillia, Geo. Thompson, made a short address of welcome which was briefly and happily responded to by the President, T. H. Race, of Mitchell. Very clever papers on flowers and kindred subjects were read by Mrs. McKinnell and Miss Hodge.

Mr. Pattullo again spoke briefly on the desirability of good roads. This is a matter which Mr. Pattullo has close to his heart and never loses an opportunity of bringing the matter to the front. These papers were pleasantly interspersed with musical selections, vocal and instrumental by local amateurs and a couple of recitations by an Orillia young lady. A most successful meeting and enjoyable evening were brought to a close at 10.30 by the whole audience joining heartily in the national anthem.

Fattening Poultry on Horseflesh.

HAMILTON, Dec. 6.—John Dunn, sanitary inspector for Caister township, was in the city yesterday and reports that a number of farmers throughout Lincoln township have been killing used up horses and other animals, and after skinning them and boiling them down their flesh and bones are fed to the hogs and turkeys, chickens and other poultry for the Hamilton and other city markets. Mr. Dunn will inquire of Dr. Bryce, provincial medical health authority, if he cannot prosecute these farmers for their doings.

Hamilton's Mayoralty Candidates.

HAMILTON, Dec. 6.—For some time past ex-Ald. James Dixon has been considering the advisibility of acceding to the wishes of a large deputation of Reform and Conservative voters by accepting the nomination for Mayor for 1895 in opposition to Mayor Stewart. It is now said Mr. Dixon has decided to come out and it is probable there will be a lively contest for the mayor's chair. Mr. Dixon is Reform and ex-P. P. A. while Mayor Stewart is P. P. A. and ex-Reformer.

A Canadian Forger Arrested.

DETROIT, Dec. 6.—Angus McTavish, aged 24, who gives his residence as Orchard, Ont., was arrested at the Union depot just as he arrived from Petoskey, Mich., on a charge of forgery, preferred against him at Mount Forest, Ont. The prisoner acknowledges forging signatures to notes aggregating in value $1,100, some of which bear his father's and his brother's names. He will go back to Canada without requisition papers.

Sensational Shooting in Sherbrooke.

SHERBROOKE, Que., Dec. 6.—An unusually exciting event for this quiet town occurred last evening. A young widow named Josephine Begin entered the butcher stall of J. Herbert and upon receiving a negative reply from him as to whether he would marry her, fired two shots from a 32-calibre revolver at him and one at his assistant. Herbert was removed to his residence in an unconscious state. The assistant was not injured.

TURNBULL.

Sweeping reductions in Mantles this month at Turnbull's in order to have the stock all cleaned out by the first of January, as styles change so rapidly these days, we do not want to carry any over as our desire is to always show New Goods. We have only about 90 Mantles left, but they are well assorted, as we have only a few of each make. We have gone through them carefully and marked them down to prices that are sure to clear them out. Such as:

$5.00 Mantles in Blue and Black Cloth, for - - $3.00

$8.00 Mantles Neatly Trimmed, for - - - - $6.00

$10.00 Mantles, fine quality Beaver - - - - - $6.00

We have also a length of $8 Astrachan Curl (heavy weight) we are culling at $5 per yard, now is the time to leave your order for a Mantle that will wear better than any Dog Skin and cost only half the price. We have Leiscester Sealettes, (acknowledged to be the best make in the world) in three or four qualities, but owing to hard times we are selling slowly and would rather clear them out than carry them over and will therefore make up Mantles at from $5 to $10 less than regular prices.

Satisfactory State of the Finances Shown by the Auditor's Report—Officers for the Coming Year—A Valuable Addition to Growers' Literature.

ORILLIA, Ont., Dec. 7.—The meeting of the Fruit Growers' Association opened with the auditor's report, presented by Mr. A. H. Pettit, of Grimsby. The finances show receipts and expenditures during the year to have been equal in amount, which may be considered on the whole as satisfactory in this age when deficits appear to be chronic if not fashionable. Routine work such as regards of committees followed and occupied the greater part of the morning.

The following office bearers for 1895 were appointed:—Murray Pettit, Winora, President; W. E. Wellington, Toronto, Vice-President. Directors, Div. No. 1, W. S. Turner, Cornwall; No. 2, R. B. Whyte, Ottawa; No. 3, Geo. Nichol, jr., Cataraqui; No. 4, W. Boulter, Picton; No. 5, Thos. Beall, Lindsay; No. 6, Wm. Mitchell, Orillia; No. 7. W. Orr. Stoney Creek; No. 8, A. M. Smith, St. Catharines; No. 9, E. H. Chapin; No. 10, J. A. Morton, Wingham; No. 11, T. H. Race, Mitchell; No. 12, Alex. Mitchell, Windsor; No. 13, G. C. Caston, Craighurst. Auditors, A. H. Pettit, Grimsby; G. E. Fisher, Freeman.

A resolution was passed respecting the death of the late David Nichol, of Cataraqui, for many years a director of the association, expressing the great loss which his death entailed on the association and tendering to his family the sympathy of the association.

In the afternoon Mr. A. H. Pettit read his paper on "Cold Storage." It was good and to the point and brought on a lengthy and interesting discussion, in which the matter was pretty well threshed out.

Mr. H. L. Hutt gave a report of his inspection of experimental stations and visits to the chief fruit growing districts under the "Notes of travel among Ontario fruit growers" was of much interest.

A paper entitled "Fruit growing in the Beaver Valley," by Mr. John G. Mitchell, was read by Mr. C. W. Hartman from that neighborhood. This beautiful and fertile valley must be a veritable fruit growers' paradise. Prof. Beach, of Geneva, N.Y., experimental station, gave an address illustrated by diagrams on the fertilization of flowers in orchards and vineyards, which, although of a rather scientific nature, appeared to be much appreciated and brought on a brisk discussion. Mr. W. W. Hillborn, of Leamington, gave a practical and interesting address on strawberry growing. Mr. Hillborn grows this and other fruits on a very large scale and is fully competent to write on the subject.

The evening meeting was opened by Secretary Woolverton reading his paper on "Grading and Inspection of Apples." Orchardists were more especially interested in this matter and seemed to fully appreciate the address. Several committee reports were next presented and adopted. On motion of Mr. A. H. Pettit it was resolved that the offering of prizes for large collections of mixed apples is not productive of benefit, but that if such prizes were offered for collections of apples suitable for export that much greater advantage would be derived. On resolution of the same gentleman the thanks of the association were tendered to Hon. A. R. Angers, Minister of Agriculture, for having placed the services of Prof. Craig at the disposal of the association for conducting spraying experiments and other matters.

Prof. Fletcher, entomologist, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, then gave his address on "The Plum Curculio and Codling Moth." The professor held the close attention of his audience for an hour, his pleasing address and eloquent language more than compensating for the dryness of the subject to an audience composed very largely of ladies. This paper contained more valuable pointers for fruit growers than any which preceded and will be a valuable contribution, when printed, to fruit growers' literature. Rev. Wm. Bacon on "Bulbs" then followed, and made a pleasing and interesting address on his chosen subject.

MISTRUST THE WHITEWAYITES.

London Financiers Refuse to Advance Funds—The Telegram Apologizes.

ST. JOHN, Nfld., Dec. 7.—The libel suit instituted by Colonial Secretary Morin against the Telegram, the Whitewayite organ, was ended by the Telegram publishing an apology and paying all the costs in the case.

The paper had alleged that Mr. Morine was willing to be a party to the misappropriation of public moneys. In its apology it declares that it had no intention to impute to him any misure of his official position. This is the first of a series of seven libel suits instituted against the same paper.

The Goodridge government will send a delegation to England to raise a loan of $1,500,000 authorized at the last session of the legislature. London financiers absolutely refuse to advance any funds to the Whitewayites on the ground that their corruption while in office proves that they are unfit to be trusted with the control of the country's finances.

MADE A BRAVE DEFENCE

Heroism Displayed by the Armenian Women at Andakh.

HELD OUT AGAINST THE TURKS

Until the Force of Numbers Compelled Them to Give In—The Wife of Their Chief Prefers Death to Capture—The Outrages to be Seriously Inquired Into.

BERLIN, Dec. 7.—The Vossische Zeitung prints the folling narrative obtained from Armenian sources:

"Andakh was besieged in August. Grgo with his followers strengthened their position and defended it heroically for six days, fighting with stones and daggers. The women often took the places of the men who had been killed. The position becoming untenable, Grgo left the women to defend it and took his troops out to forage for food and ammunition. The women maintained the defence twenty-four hours and then yielded to greater numbers after being surrounded on all sides. Their condition was terrible. Many carried babies on their backs, while the elder children stood beside them.

The women saw that they never could fight their way through the ranks of the enemy. Grgo's wife stepped on a high rock and cried: "Sisters, you must choose between two things: either fall into the hands of the Turks and forget your husbands, homes and your holy religion to adopt Islam and to be violated, or you must follow my example." Thereupon, holding her young child in her arms, she dashed herself into the abyss. Others followed her example, and the ravine was soon filled with corpses. Those who jumped last were not hurt, as their companions' bodies were piled high. About 50 women and 100 children were taken prisoners. The women bore the torture silently and refused to betray Grgo and his brave followers. Grgo's wife was named Schakha."

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The Daily News has this despatch from its correspondent in Constantinople: "News from various sources confirms the belief that the first reports of the massacre were not overdrawn. There is reason to believe that the truth was hidden from the Sultan, who on November 3 requested the United States minister to send a delegate to accompany the commission of inquiry. The minister communicated with Washington, but the decision of the Washington government is yet unknown. The Sultan on December 2 requested Gen. Blunt Pasha to go to Bitlis and report directly to the palace. Blunt's health prevented his going, which was regrettable, inasmuch as he would have been a trusty investigator."

Lord Kimberley, Secretary of the Foreign Office, was the chief guest at a dinner of the Eighty Club last night. He said in his speech that the Armenian atrocities had excited the horror of everyone in every civilized country and this feeling was shared fully by the British Government. Every effort was making to secure an impartial and searching inquiry. The Foreign Office was in active correspondence with its agents near the scene of the massacre and would not fail to perform its full duty to the country.

LONDON KIDNAPPING CASE.

The Four Accused Young Men Found Not Guilty and Discharged.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 7.—The Morkin election kidnapping case drew a big crowd. There was a formidable array of witnesses who filled the benches and seats until one of the defendant's lawyers asked that they be excluded. They were escorted to a room down stairs to wait their turn. It will be remembered the charge is that the defendants kidnapped John Morkin of King street the day before the election in order to prevent him voting for Mr. Hobbs and that they "seized, confined, imprisoned" him. Morkin was the first witness called and was in the witness box for over three hours. He admitted that he has been a heavy drinker since he was 14 years of age, and that fifteen glasses of whiskey a day "was easy." The lawyers for the defence put him through a severe cross-examination, and after a lengthy trial the accused quartette were found not guilty and discharged.

Hamilton's Radial Railway.

HAMILTON, Dec. 7.—The Hamilton Radial Railway Company has submitted an amended offer to the finance committee, one which will likely prove much more popular with the council and ratepayers generally. They ask for a straight bonus of $300,000, the money to be divided as follows: $100,000 for the line from Hamilton to Woodstock; $75,000 for the line to Shaw station; $50,000 for the line to Guelph, and $75,000 for the line to Berlin. The line to Woodstock will be operated by steam and the others by electricity. The company will ask no bonus for line from Hamilton to St. Catharines to be operated by steam and to connect with the Niagara Central at the latter point. They will, however, ask for the use of Cannon street for this line and in return they will agree to pave with gas tar asphalt and curb this street. The radial company yesterday afternoon let the contract for the line between Hamilton and St. Catharines to Bracey Bros. & Co., of Chicago, and the latter firm has agreed to have the line completed from Hamilton to Grimsby by January 10, 1895. In order to do this work will be commenced next week.

Premier Taillon Sustained.

QUEBEC, Dec. 7.—At the Legislative Assembly the debate was continued on the French Loan. Hon. Mr. Shehyn, Provincial Treasurer under the Mercier Government, spoke against the loan. He was followed by Messrs. Savaria and Turgeon. Hon. Mr. Nantel, Minister of Public Works defended the Government against Mr. Cooke's motion of want of confidence. Hon. Mr. Marchand, leader of the Opposition, spoke in favor of Mr. Cooke's motion of want of confidence. Messrs. Martineau, Kennedy, King and Cooke also spoke in favor of the motion. The vote gave 18 majority to the Government.

TEXAS TRAIN ROBBERY

A Passenger Train Successfully Held Up by Three Men.

THEY SECURE A BIG HAUL

About $140,000 Supposed to Have Been the Amount Robbed—The Fireman Forced to Break in the Door of the Express at the Point of the Revolver.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Dec. 7.—One of the most daring train robberies ever committed in Texas took place eight miles west of here and two miles east of Benbrook station last evening.

As an east-bound Texas and Pacific passenger train was nearing Mary's Creek it was brought to a sudden stop by a danger signal displayed on the trestle. The engineer was covered by three unmasked men who boarded the cab and ordered that the train be backed up about half a mile. Upon arriving at the place indicated the fireman was covered and ordered to break in the express door. He refused, but the robbers pulled the triggers of their guns and a number of shots in the air brought the fireman to terms. He burst in the express car door with a pickaxe.

One of the robbers then kept the fireman and engineer covered while the others went into the express car. Fort Worth is the end of the express run and the safe doors were open. One of the robbers rifled the safes while the others kept guard over the messengers. At 6 o'clock the train was stopped, and 30 minutes later it was in Fort Worth.

The exact amount the robbers secured is not known, but it is said to have been about $140,000 in money, gold bullion en route from San Francisco to Washington and Texas Pacific checks. After the hold-up the robbers mounted their horses, told the engineer to go on and then leisurely made off in a northwesterly direction. The express officials here say they do not know the amount taken, but that it is the only through train from the west and carries every evening a large amount of money. On the arrival of the train at Fort Worth posses were immediately organized to chase the robbers.

Minneapolis Murder Mystery.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 7.—The sensation in the Minneapolis murder mystery was the discovery that Miss Catherine Ging had with her the $7,000 borrowed from Harry T. Hayward, and that she had been robbed by the murderer of every penny of it. Not only this, but at least $5,000 more had been taken from her. In his story told to the police and taken down by a stenographer, Hayward said Miss Ging must have had at least $12,000 with her on the night of the murder. The signing over of the two insurance policies to Hayward had been held by some to be the most significant bit of news that has been brought to light since the murder was committed. The mayor said yesterday, "I have no doubt this woman was murdered for money. There was either a conspiracy to get possession of the money this girl had or Miss Ging was infatuated with some bloody scoundrel, who prevailed on her to draw this money and then inveigled her to go for this lonely ride. Both are probable theories, and at any rate I feel justified in keeping Hayward under surveiliance until it is conclusively shown that he is not implicated."

Torn to Pieces With Shot.

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., Dec. 7.—Jack and William Duncan went to Harry Windhurst's saloon at Acton early yesterday morning and demanded that he open the place and give them whiskey. He refused and closed his door just in time to stop a brick which was thrown at him. The Duncans then opened a fusilade on the saloonkeeper. Mrs. Windhurst was struck in the face with a brick and her skull crushed. She cannot recover. Windhurst brought his revolver into play and emptied it without effect. The bombardment was continued. He then brought out his shot gun and fired on the Duncans. Jack was literally torn to pieces and William was dangerously wounded.

Ports of Entry on the Niagara.

SUSPENSION BRIDGE, N. Y., Dec. 7.—Special Deputy Collector Nichols says that the published statement that Schlosser landing on Niagara river had been abolished as a port of entry was untrue. Surprise is expressed that Olcott ceases to be a port of entry, as there is a harbor there and lake craft put in there. There are also some shipments from that port to Toronto and other Canadian points, and the absence of a customs officer will cause great inconvenience.

To Divide the Land.

GUTHRIE, O.T., Dec. 7.—The Osage Indians have made a partial agreement with the government commission to divide up their lands. Chief Big Heart has taken the proposition of the commission to give each member of the tribe 320 acres and will submit it to a vote of his people.

Father Ducey Continues Defiant.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Rev. T. J. Ducey, rector of St. Leo's Roman Catholic church, gave a statement to the press last night in which he charges among other things that Archbishop Corrigan has been prosecuting him for ten years. Father Ducey continued to attend the sessions and last night declared that he will attend them in the future. "I have been most faithful and sacrificing as a priest and I have never been a frequenter of disreputable places. The Lexow committee is seeking to know something of the character of Rosa Bella and her successor, Evelyn Belle, on 30th street. Inspector Williams and Capt. Westervelt might give some ecclesiastical information as to that house to the senate committee.

Demonstration in the Brussels Chamber.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 7.—The socialists made an exceptionally aggressive demonstration during the debate on the royal civil list in the Chamber yesterday. Their attacks were so bitter that eventually the Conservative deputies rose in a body and led by the premier drowned the socialist speeches with cheers for the King. The Socialists replied: "Hurrah for the people." The Conservatives continued to cheer and waive their handkerchiefs until the confusion became hopeless and the Chamber adjourned.

"PEARLS AND PEBBLES"—MRS. TRAILL'S NEW BOOK.

The Royal Psalmist placed the limit of man's life—that is, of its mental and bodily vigour, at three score and ten. To this rule there are, of course, numerous exceptions, and there are, perhaps, no more remarkable modern instances of nature's departure from the normal operations of this rule than Mrs. Catharine Parr Traill, who is entitled to take rank, if not precedence, in this respect, with such veterans as Lord Brougham and W. E. Gladstone, who retained, (or retains), an almost undimmed intellectual vigour, almost, and quite, in the one instance, a score of years beyond the recognized time limit of human life. Mrs. Traill's name is pleasantly familiar, especially in this district, where she was a long resident—at Lakefield. Her name is familiar, and with the most pleasing associations, in the literary world as the graceful author of "The Canadian Crusoe" and "Plant Life in Canada."

The remarkable feature in this clever lady's life is this, that at the advanced age of 93 years she is engaged upon, or, rather, has finished, another book of ambitious dimensions, an octavo volume of 250 pages, entitled "Pearls and Pebbles, or Notes of an Old Naturalist." The EXAMINER has been favoured with a view of the advance sheets of this charming new work of Mrs. Traill, which the reader will find has all the vivacity, literary excellence, accuracy of detail, and instructive elements that mark her "Plant Life in Canada." The charm with which Mrs. Trail has invested this work, robs the study of natural history which, its reading will so delightfully involve, of all its dryness,, and makes what, under other circumstances, would be a mental labour, a most instructive recreation. A large part of the materials for Mrs. Traill's new book was gathered in the vicinity of Peterborough. Staff in hand she has been seen traversing the rocky islands of Stony lake intent on finding new treasures in plant life. Her realistic descriptions of nature in all her moods, and of the haunts, habits and look of almost every form of Canadian animal life, shows her not only to have been a keen and shrewd observer and student of nature, but reveals a graceful literary facility in placing her impressions on paper, and clothing otherwise nude details, with word vestures of beauty and grace. The keenest study and appreciation of nature can be greatly helped by a study of Mrs. Traill's charming new book.

"In the three chapters entitled "Memories of a May Morning," Another May Morning," and "More About My feathered Friends," we are introduced to nearly every bird to be found in deep Canadian woods. The snowbird, the chickadee, the house wren, the yellow warbler, the catbird, the mocking-bird, the scarlet tanager, on to the great cat-owl and the whiskey jack. With all these and many more of our beautiful birds we are brought into the utmost intimacy. We see them coming and going with the changing seasons; returning to the same old spot to rebuild their nests; we are allowed to share their joys and sorrows, their fortunes and misfortunes; we peep at their eggs, admire their nests, count their pretty nestlings, and wish them God-speed when they disappear, whether it be to the shelter of the swamps or to the summer lands of the south.

Nor are our beautiful butterflies and moths overlooked, nor the gorgeous dragon-flies that haunt our streams, nor, indeed, many rare and curious flies that come and go with the breezes.

A whole chapter, "The Spider," is devoted to the wonderful habits and instinct of this wonderful insect, of which even Solomon wrote, and Bunyan made a spiritual object lesson.

Lovely illustrative stories and anecdotes are interwoven with the whole of the subject matter, so that the correctly scientific and descriptive relations of the names, habits and customs of our "feathered friends," fall naturally upon the mind and stay there.

Of flowers and trees we have never had a better teacher than Mrs. Traill has been. Her "Plant Life" is well known to hundreds of lovers of nature and to students, and the chapter in the present work, "In the Canadian Woods," is redolent of the forest, its hemlocks, pines and beeches, its flowers and ferns; while the numerous little creatures for whom "He hath spread a table in the wilderness" flit about and gather their small harvest in our very sight. "Thoughts on vegetable instinct," "Some Curious Plants," "Some varieties of Pollen," are chapters which in beautiful guise carry us with them into the authoress' more scientific lines of thought, and awake our enquiry, while adding to our knowledge.

To some readers it may be that the several sketches of early pioneer life in Canada will have the more attractiveness, and, indeed, the choice, if choice were needed, would be fully justified. To the Englishman — or woman — in Canada, "Pleasant Days of My Childhood" will come with all the power of homesickness—a spectre hard to lay—and prove the gem of the collection. To the Canadian sons and daughters of the pioneers, "The First Death in the Clearing," will appeal very powerfully. The pathos of the story, and the incidents' hard lives drawn in it by the exigencies of the life of those early days, constitute it a piece of historical narrative we ought carefully to preserve. A lovely poem by Agnes Strickland fittingly concludes this touching relation. In a beautiful sketch, "Sunset and Sunrise on Lake Ontario," a reminiscence, we have a charming description of those wonderful effects of sea and sky which are the despair of the artist and the delight of the poet."

Several poems add to the graceful treatment of the various subjects, and a short biographical sketch of Mrs. Traill, by her grand-niece, Miss Fitzgibbon, the authoress of that most interesting book, "A Veteran of 1812," a lady already well known in Canadian literature, will be welcomed warmly. The book is nicely illustrated with a portrait of the author and several etchings of Canadian and English scenes.

For interesting their pupils in the works of God and the natural history of their own country, teachers can have no more attractive or useful book than "Pearls and Pebbles." The work will be published shortly by Wm. Briggs, Toronto.

THE COAL TRADE OF CANADA.

The Coal Trade Journal of New York has issued a Canadian number, which is now being circulated throughout this country. Nearly all the representative Canadian coal firms are referred to in it. A special article is devoted to the coal trade of Canada. We quote:

The consumption of coal in the Dominion for the year 1893 might be figured thus:

Production of	Nova Scotia	2,467,261
"	British Columbia	1,095,669
"	Northwest Territories	328,295
"	New Brunswick	6,300
		3,897,825
Imported:	Bituminous	1,899,609
"	Anthracite	1,196,956
"	Dust	75,000
		3,175,000
Total		7,012,565

From the above there are to be deducted the exports, as follows:

From Nova Scotia	130,000
" British Columbia	600,000
" other provinces	50,000
The coal in transit	100,000
	930,000
Which would leave as the consumption of Canada	6,082,565

All amounts are expressed in tons of 2,000 lbs.

The imports were mainly from the United States to the Province of Ontario—Anthracite free of duty, Bituminous paying 60 cents per ton. There is a small supply of British coal to St. Lawrence River ports. The British Columbia coal goes to the United States ports on the Pacific Coast mainly.

A BALTIMORE RAT'S STRANGE DEATH.

He Killed Himself Extinguishing Many Electric Lights and Doing Lots of Damage in the Act.

A rat extinguished every incandescent electric light in a large number of buildings in the central part of Baltimore city the other night, set fire to the switch board in the Brush Electric Light Works on Monument street, near Constitution; smashed up the switch-board, destroyed the insulation and ruined a lot of wire, causing a damage that will cost many dollars to repair. The rat entered behind the switch-board and started towards the machinery in front. Just as he got under the switch-board there was a bright flash of light and the catastrophe was accomplished. The rat had been standing with his hind feet on the brass terminal and put his front feet on another, instantly 2,700 volts of electricity passed through his body, a voltage able to produce 1,000 horse power. He was wet, and his hair was completely burned off, his body becoming rigid, as if suddenly frozen in the act of stepping across from one brass plate to the other.

LONDON WANTS IT.

Big Rivalry to Secure a Large Manufacturing Concern for This City.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The despatches from Brantford intimating that there is a possibility of a branch of Dodd's Kidney Pills business likely to be established west of Toronto, has put local capitalists on their mettle and an attempt will be made to secure the factory for London, which is generally acknowledged to be a far superior distributing centre to any other place in the west. Besides so popular have become Dodd's Kidney Pills throughout the counties of Middlesex, Elgin, Kent and Lambton, that a branch establishment could not fail to pay here. The remedy was given an impetus by the miraculous cures of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Langley, of this city.

IRRITATING TO UNCLE SAM.

So the Duty on Booms Should be Removed—Capital Notes.

OTTAWA, Dec. 7.—The American lumbermen who are here opposing the duty on booms and boom sticks waited on the members of the Government in the office of the Minister of Trade and Commerce. There were present besides Mr. Bowell, Messrs. Foster, Ouimet, Angers, Costigan and Daly, United States Consul-General O'Reilly and a number of local lumbermen accompanied the delegation to the ministers.

W. R. White, of Pembroke, addressed the ministers in behalf of the delegation, showing that the duty on booms and boom sticks was a policy of irritation against the United States and might lead to difficulties, if not abolished, in regard to free lumber.

Congressman Weadock, of Michigan, put the whole case very forcibly, and Mr. Bowell replied, stating that the Government would take the whole matter into consideration and would try to do what was just in the matter. It was not, he said, with a view of irritating the States that the duty was imposed. The question was as to whether the booms were not manufactured timber.

A difficulty has cropped up between the Ottawa Typographical Union and the Queen's Printer in reference to the use of the Mergenthaler typesetting machines at the Government Bureau. At present the machines are standing idle, and, as there are quite a number of unemployed printers in the city, Dr. Dawson offered such of these men as wished to learn how to run the machine the use of one in the bureau. The typographical union, however, takes the ground that such men must be paid the union rate for learners, which is in Ottawa $12 a week. The Queen's Printer says that he is not justified in expending the public money in that way.

The famous case of the Union Bank of Canada vs. M. O'Gara, Q. C., of this city, who, in 1897 endorsed paper to the extent of $40,000 for Starrs, Askwith & Co., local railway contractors, has been settled out of court. It has been through all the courts of Canada since 1898, and was to have been argued before the Privy Council in England next Tuesday. The parties interested in the case are pledged to the secrecy in the case and will not divulge the terms of settlement under any circumstances. Mr. O'Gara, who is Ottawa's Police Magistrate, is now out of the city.

Mr. J. S. Larke, Canadian Trade Commissioner to Australia, left for Vancouver, whence he sails on the 16th for Sydney, N. S. W.

RESPONSIBLE FOR THE DISASTER.

The Montreal Coroner's Jury Returns an Important Verdict.

MONTREAL, Dec. 7.—The coroner's jury which for some weeks has been holding an inquest into the catastrophe to the Montreal Street Railway Company's building, by which a number of workingmen were killed, has reached an important verdict, holding the architect and several others responsible.

The jury declares: "We think that the catastrophe was due to the lack of reasonable precaution which should have been exercised in the construction of the said building by Edward C. Hopkins, architect, a gravel engineer of the Dominion Bridge Company, and Joseph McLaughlin foreman of the company. We cannot excuse them for their laxity in the performance of their duty."

The jury also recommends to the civic authorities that their regulations relating to buildings in Montreal be amended that catastrophes may be avoided in the future. Criminal proceedings are expected against the parties named.

Burned to Death in a Barn.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Dec. 6.—By the burning of a barn on the outskirts of the city last night Robert Lawton, aged 20, lost his life. With another man he was engaged in pitching straw the forks struck the lantern, upsetting it and setting fire to the straw. After fruitless endeavors to put the flames out he rushed to save the cattle and lost his life. Four head of cattle were burned to death.

Sailors Drowned in a Collision.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Dec. 6.—The British tramp steamer Dorian, bound from New York to Halifax, N. S., ran into and sunk instantly the schooner Clara E. Simpson of Portsmouth, N. H., off Eaton's Neck in Long Island Sound. Three members of the Simpson's crew were drowned.

Identified as a Brockville Boy.

TORONTO, Dec. 7.—The identity of the young man who was killed on the Southern Pacific railway in California on November 28, and was supposed to have been Henry Mitchell, of this city, has been identified through a photograph sent by the Los Angeles police as Frederick Curtis, who lived here until a few weeks ago. He had no relatives here, but his mother lives in Brockville.

Madagascar Appropriation Passed.

PARIS, Dec. 7.—The Senate has passed the Madagascar appropriation bill by a vote of 267 to 3.

Killed by a Horse's Kick.

ST. STEPHEN, N. B., Dec. 6.—John McArthur, blacksmith, was thrown out of his sleigh in Calais. In attempting to hold his horses he was kicked on the forehead and died instantly.

Ballington Booth Dangerously Ill.

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—The condition of Ballington Booth, of the Salvation Army, has become worse during the last twenty-four hours and he is reported to be dangerously ill.

King Humbert's Donations.

ROME, Dec. 6.—In addition to his former gift of £1,600 for the relief of the sufferers by the earthquakes in Italy, King Humbert yesterday made a donation of £4,000, to be devoted to the same purpose.

Samoan Rebels Active.

APIA, Samoa, Dec. 6.—The rebels have been active recently and just given notice of their intention to attack Apia. The Australian cruiser Wallaroo is here.

It Sharpens

the appetite, improves digestion, and restores health and vigor; all the organs of the body are aroused to healthy action by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. More than all, the liver—and that's the key to the whole system. You have pure blood or poisonous blood, just as your liver chooses. The blood controls the health, the liver controls the blood, the "Discovery" controls the liver.

You can escape just about half the ills that flesh is heir to, by being ready for them. Brace the system up with this medicine, which prevents as well as cures. For all diseases caused by a disordered liver or impure blood—dyspepsia, biliousness, the most stubborn skin, scalp and scrofulous affections, the "Discovery" is the only remedy so certain and effective that in can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure you have your money back. You pay only for the good you get.

To remove worms of all kinds from children or adults use Dr. Low's Worm Syrup.

An Old Boatman Drowned.

PICTOU, N. S., Dec. 7.—Jas. Sproull, aged 77, a respected resident of Boat Harbor, was drowned yesterday at that place. He was alone at the time the accident occurred, but it appears he was endeavoring to get his boat ashore through the thin ice, which had formed near the beach and must have fallen overboard. An aged Indian heard his cries but was too infirm to rescue him, and the unfortunate old man perished before help arrived.

Charges Dismissed.

PETROLIA, Ont., Dec. 7.—The parties who were arrested some days ago by Detective Crawford and Policemen Ferguson and McColl for timber stealing came up before Mayor Gurd yesterday. The accused were all dismissed, no case being made out against them.

Tribute to Departed Worth.

"That man Ardup," said the man in the mackintosh, "was as good hearted a fellow as ever lived, but he was always in debt and always hounded by creditors. Poor fellow! He deserves a better epitaph than an unfeeling posterity will engrave on his tombstone."

"'Well dunned, good and faithful servant,'" suggested the man who had his feet on the table, and a deep silence fell on the group.

A Landslip in Italy.

ROME, Dec. 6.—A landslip damaged part of Gire in the Italian Tyrol yesterday and killed many cattle. No person was injured. Many extensive vineyards in the neighborhood of the village were buried.

Captain Dreyfus' Trial.

PARIS, Dec. 6.—The trial of Captain Dreyfus, the French army officer who was accused of selling French military plans to a foreign power, will take place on December 19.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Dec. 7, 1894.

On the street here 500 bushels of wheat sold at 61 to 62c for white, 60 to 61c for red and 58 to 59c for goose. Some 2,000 bushels of barley brought from 40 to 47c. 200 of peas 55 1-2c and 800 of oats at 30 to 31.

At Buffalo barley was firm; inquiry fair; No. 1 Canada quoted at 64c.

Wheat was stronger in Chicago on reports of the heavy exports, sales closing 3-8 to 1-2c higher. Corn was firm and 1-4c higher. Oats were steady, closing 1-8c higher.

At East Buffalo the sheep and lambs offerings were 51 cars, 30 cars of which were mostly Canadas. Of the opening supply nearly all were natives. Market was fair and closed steady, but prices for Canadas broke off. On the whole prices were 5 to 10c lower than yesterday; for Canada sheep, good to choice fat and not too heavy, top prices were paid $3.75 to $4, and for these there was brisk enquiry.

The London stock markets are still dull. The foreign markets are disinclined to active operations, pending the coming issue of Russian and French loans. Americans were better.

At the opening on Wall street sugar certificates were advanced 1 1-8 points further on. This stock closed at a material net decline. In other stocks, the usual irregularity prevailed. There was a rather general tone of firmness through the forenoon and several advances of some consequences were made. But the whirl in sugar suppressed even the faction of legitimate business elsewhere. The closing was dull with few important changes.

Sunday Saloons.

Dr. Rainsford, well known to Canadians, wants New York's saloons opened wide on Sunday. He argues that children are depraved under the present system by being sent to the side doors by their parents to buy beer and whiskey. "Reformers" have broken up disorderly houses in New York but Dr. Rainsford complains that the women thus dispersed are now scattered all through the east side of the city, contaminating all with whom they come in contact. The reverend gentleman considers it futile to base a system of reform upon narrow, unscientific grounds.

A Foxhound Treed a Wildcat.

Mr. J. McKee visited town, on Tuesday, bringing with him a fine large Canadian lynx, which he had shot in Mr. Wm. Stinson's swamp, near Janetville. It appears that he was out fox hunting, when his hound brought the animal to bay in a clump of bushes. Mr. McGee coming on the scene just at the right time, got an excellent view of it and succeeded in killing it at the first shot. It weighs fully 70 pounds and is very fat. Mr. McGee has been lucky as a sportsman, this season, having killed foxes, one deer and now the lynx.—Lindsay Post.

Just the Thing you Want.

In furniture you will find at A. Clegg's, just the thing you are looking for. Furniture of good design, well-made out of kiln-dried lumber, and at prices within the reach of all. The C. L. A. will open this winter's season to-night at their rooms on George street with what promises to be a first-class entertainment. The management are sparing no pains to make this winter's entertainments a source of genuine pleasure and enjoyment to its members and friends. To-night's programme, consisting of vocal and humorous selections, banjo, mandolin, guitar, and piano selections, will be a treat to all lovers of music. An address detailing the object of the C. L. Opera House Attraction.

Real horses, real patrol waggon and real policemen are a few of the inducements offered to play-goers in A. Y. Pearson's "Police Patrol," which comes to the Opera House, Tuesday, Dec. 11th. This will be refreshing news to the weary public and will, no doubt, be appreciated. A satiety of alleged realism has quite prepared theatre-goers for something that is really real, and it is scarcely necessary to dwell upon the fact that there is nothing make-believe about the "Police Patrol." Those who have not read or seen of this excellent production have doubtless been appraised of its merits by their friends, for it has toured the continent season after season with unvarying success, and promises to retain its popularity for many years to come. NEWS NUGGETS

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

No fires this week so far.

—The sewer arbitration is once more in session.

—No arrests and no session of the police court this morning.

—The "At Home" of Otonabee Lodge, I.O.O.F. this evening promises to be a great social success.

—The plate glass windows in the stores of the new Cox Block on Water street are being placed in position.

—Mr. J. C. Turnbull has his store window very daintily decorated with pretty designs in ladies pocket handkerchiefs.

—Ashburnham once more boasts a steam whistle. It has been placed in position in connection with the brewery within the last few days.

—"Oh, girls, can you tell me how Stratton's can afford to sell such big dolls for 15c.—aint they cheap?" "Oh, never mind, we don't care, so long as we can get them at price for 'Xmas. But aint they lovely?"

—Quite frequently advertisements appear offering a reward for the return of articles lost or stolen, and promising that "no questions will be asked." The criminal law says that both advertisers and publishers who assist in making such announcements shall be subject to a penalty of $250.

—Toronto has resolved not to engage any teachers who do not reside in the city. Toronto Junction, not to be outdone, declines to allow any of its employees to live in Toronto. This is along the line of policy adopted by the Kent Co. Board of Education in deciding not to renew the certificates of teachers who procured them outside that county.

—On Sunday last a young girl named Hannah Beamish, residing temporarily with the family of Captain Fee, Lindsay, became violently insane and upon threatening harm to the family, the police were sent for. Chief Bell was soon on hand and conveyed her in a carriage to the jail. She was brought before McIntyre yesterday and was committed to gaol on the ground that she was insane and it was in public interests that she should be in a place of safety.

PERSONAL

Mr. T. Callighan, District Agent of the Rathbun Company, was in town, last night.

Mr. John Boyer, of Orillia, District Agent for the Muskoka section of the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company, and Mr. C. S. Scott, of Toronto, Inspector for the same Company, are in town, today.

Y. P. S. C. E.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—I believe that when a person has a good thing he ought to tell of it, and now for the sake of those that don't know, I want to say that the Methodists of our town have a regular bonanza in the form of a Young People's Society of Christian Endeavour. They seem to take the lead in promoting the broad, tolerant sympathetic spirit which is the true necessary result and sequence of true Christianity. Why if you go into their meeting any evening you are made to feel at home immediately. They give you a hearty handshake, say they are glad to see you and hope you will come again, or if you happen to drop in while they are singing, with pleasure your neighbour shares his or her book with you; and while on the subject of song, let me say you just ought to hear the music from those hundred voices or more. I tell you they sing with the spirit and the understanding also. Mr. Editor, any young man or young woman couldn't fail to enjoy the hour spent there. And it matters not who they are; saint and sinner alike will be made welcome. Although not present this week, I understand the service was especially interesting, and and during the winter months it is expected that the society will be largely augmented in numbers. Every week lately new members have been received, and it must be admitted that this organization is one of the greatest and grandest powers for good in our midst. Well may it be designated the "Church's nursery," and as long as the society is blessed with such enthusiastic, active, devoted, godly, Christian officers are now in command, trusting in the Omnipotent for guidance, this institution is bound to flourish and prosper.

Solving a Difficult Problem.

There is apt to be in the coming holidays a great deal of worry among both sexes in choosing suitable presents for Xmas offerings to their friends. If any lady or gentleman has upon their mind that some gift must be selected for a friend, sister or brother, a visit to the Peterborough Bookstore will certainly help them out. The beautiful and artistic novelties too numerous to mention are suggestive of Yule tide. A. H. STRATTON & Co., 417 and 419 George street.

And Still Another Windmill.

Mr. George McWilliams is just making arrangements for the shipment of another Queen windmill. The purchaser is Mr. Alex. Humes, the great stockman of Seymour, who is well known all over Canada for his progressive ideas regarding stock raising. Mr. Hume, it will be remembered, was one of the big cattle exhibitors of the World's Fair. The mill in question will be provided with frost-proof tanks and pipes, the latter connecting the house, stables and barns.

ALMOST A WATERY GRAVE IN THE OTONABEE.

Escape From Drowning.

An accident, which almost resulted in a fatality, occurred in the village of Ashburnham, this morning, at about 11 o'clock.

Little nine year old Harold McCabe, son of Mr. Earnest McCabe, of Crescent street, was sliding on the ice on the mill race, just below the cricket grounds, when he ventured too far out and in sliding across a weak spot the ice suddenly gave way and he was precipitated into the freezing water.

The little fellow struggled bravely to save himself, but the cold water soon numbed his energies and he lapsed into insensibility and would most undoubtedly have been drowned, and thus added another to the long list of water fatalities which is associated with the name of the Otonabee, but for the timely aid extended by the members of a gang of the Dickson Company's men who fortunately happened to be near and witnessed the event in time to rescue the lad from his perilous position.

He was tenderly carried to his home after being rescued, but remained unconscious for some time. The services of Dr. Goldsmith were called into requisition. Circulation was finally restored by means of hot water and warm blankets, and the little fellow is again as part and lively as ever.

THE GREAT FRASERVILLE SHOOT

The Local Sports do Well at the Ranges.

The "Archie Reynolds" 4th annual shoot came off most successfully yesterday at Fraserville, quite a number of our best long distance target fealers being noticed amongst the hundreds present. The weather was most brilliant and the shoot, financially, most successful. There were in all some one hundred turkeys to be shot for, the majority of which were brought to Peterborough. The crack shots from Port Hope, Cobourg, Millbrook and Lindsay, did not fare so well with their Winchesters as our boys, but, however, did effective work with their No. 10 and 12 shot guns. The target was fixed at one hundred yards range, while the 10x12 paper was placed at 60 yards. Mr. Geo. Fitzgerald grazed the tack in the centre of the bull's eye with his first bullet, while Mr. Charles Curtis followed, driving it home. Among a few of those arriving home laden with spoil were Chas. Curtis, 8 turkeys; Geo. Fitzgerald, 6; David Evans, 4; Matt. Jamieson, 5; "Jay" Gould, 7. Taking into consideration that a charge of 10 cents a crack was made, some of the gentlemen had to dip down deep and often in order to secure their bird.

Some who were fortunate secured one for the 10 cents entrance fee, while others again had to put as high as $1.50, (rather expensive munching.) The party broke up at dusk, the local men returning home highly delighted with their day's outing.

Mr. Reynolds will have another shoot early next week on the same range.

THE ARBITRATION ONCE MORE IN SESSION.

Watson, Q. C., Not Present this Morning Measurements of the Flow.

The sewer arbitration once more reopened this morning before Judge Ketchum. Mr. E. B. Edwards represented the town, and Mr. Geo. Edmison the townships. Mr. Watson was not present.

For the town Mr. Edwards called Mr. J. A. Aylmer, civil engineer, of Coteau Landing, Quebec.

Mr. Aylmer had made measurements concerning the flow of the water of the Otonabee water shead at Young's Point, and stated that according to his computations, the flow was 150,000 cubic feet at low water, 500,000 at high water, and 900,000 feet during floods.

This evidence was adduced in rebuttal of that of Mr. Innis, who took the measurements of the river at the Waterworks' dam. Mr. Aylmer stated that a proper estimate could not be reached by means of measurements taken at this point, as the rainfall would be held back to a certain extent by existing natural reservoirs.

Mr. Mackenzie, Toronto, of the Provincial Board of Health, gave evidence on behalf of the town which corroborated that previously given by Dr. Bryce. Mr. Mackenzie is an experienced bacteriologist, and affirms it as his opinion that diphtheria cannot be contracted by drinking water in which the germ exists. An opinion of this nature from a student of Mr. Mackenzie's calibre, comes with telling force.

THE WEEKLY GLOBE.

For 50 years The Weekly Globe of Toronto, has had an enviable reputation as the one great Liberal weekly of the Dominion. It has always been a high-class journal, and a welcome visitor in thousands of homes. It was never better as a newspaper than it is to-day. The Globe's enterprise is proverbial. Its correspondents have traversed and written up almost every section of the country. All great events have been fully reported. The speeches of leading politicians, whether on the floor of Parliament or on the stump, have been presented as they were uttered, and all are fairly treated, whether Liberal, Conservative or Patron. The Globe is the only weekly paper in Canada that gives such full and fair reports of Parliamentary proceedings, great church meetings, and other similar occurrences of Provincial and national interest. Among leading features of recent numbers may be mentioned speeches by Mr. Laurier, Sir John Thompson, Sir Richard Cartwright, Mr. Marter, Mr. Haycock, members of the Ontario Cabinet, and others; letters from members of the The Globe's editorial staff, who travelled through the Province of Quebec and over the route of the Trent Valley Canal, interviews and letters on that most important question, the reform of the law system, long reports from the scene of the Jessie Keith murder, the McWherrel trial, and other sensational events. The aim of The Globe is to be trustworthy. The Globe has the best cable and telegraphic service obtainable; its foreign, American and Canadian despatches are unexcelled, and every week the whole world is brought under review. The agricultural department is right up to the times; the crop and market reports are full and reliable. Reasonable space is given up each week to lighter reading, and good stories is one of The Globe's attractions. Another popular feature are the weekly contributions from the Khan's poetical pen. As a family newspaper The Weekly Globe is unrivalled. Weekly Globe and Weekly EXAMINER for one year, $1.50.

Largest Family on Record.

In the Harleian Manuscipt, Nos. 980 and 78, in the library of the British Museum mention is made of the most extraordinary family that has ever been known in the world's history. The parties were a Scotch weaver and his wife (not wives), who were the father and mother of sixty-two children.

The majority of the offsprings of this prolific pair were boys, (exactly how many of each sex is not known) for the record mentions the fact that forty-six of the male children lived to reach manhood's estate, and only four of the daughters lived to be grown-up women. Thirty-nine of the sons were still living in the year 1630, the majority of them then residing in and about New-Castle on-Tyne. It is recorded in one of the old histories of Newcastle that "a certyne gentleman of large estaytes" rode "thirty and three miles beyond the Tyne to prove this wonderful story." It is further related that Sir J. Bowers adopted ten of the sons, and that three other "landed gentlemen" took ten each. The remaining members of this extraordinary family were brought up by the parents.

The Jenkins' Three-Eyed Cat.

The Jenkins family, who resides at Leesville, a village south of Massillon, are in possession of a cat which has three distinct eyes. The cat is near a year old and a great pet. People visit the Jenkins home daily out of curiosity, and the cat is the centre of attraction. The two eyes are in their usual places, but the additional one is directly back of the cat's left ear. The cat has perfect use of the three organs and blinks all at once. The cat is invaluable as a mouse catcher, for it can see before and in the rear at the same time.—Cleveland Leader.

The Care of the Hair.

Do not use such mineral oil products as vaseline and petroleum jelly for the hair. Only good animal oils will improve the quality and supply the nutriment needed to quicken hair growth. The reason for this is obvious, since the natural oil of the scalp is of the animal nature.

How to Clean Oily Bottles.

To cleanse glass bottles that have held oil, place ashes in each bottle and immerse in cold water, then heat the water gradually until it boils; after boiling an hour let them remain till cold. Then wash the bottles in soapsuds and rinse in clear water.

A Desperate Effort.

Cobble—I put my best suit on last night and called on my girl's father.

Stone—Did he seemed pleased?

Cobble—He seemed pleased with the suit. He tried his best to get a sample from it.—Cloak Review.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

A DECIDED SUCCESS.

Our New Dress and Mantle Making Department has proved a decided success.

We employ a large staff of the most skilled help and are able to turn out large quantities of work at short notice.

We are noted as always having the largest selection of High-Class Dress Stuffs in town, which, combined with our reputation for Style and Fit, keeps our staff busily employed, while other stores are complaining of hard times.

ST. LUKE'S TEA AND SALE AN UNQUALIFIED SUCCESS.

The Church's Name for Unstinted Hospitality Draws an Immense Crowd.

The high tea and sale held last evening in St. Luke's Sunday school, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid, for the augmentation of the church funds proved to be a most unqualified success. The tea was served from five until eight o'clock, and not once during this time was there a seat vacant for more than a minute or two at any of the five tables. A couple of hundred Peterboroughians must have been present as well as many villagers, and of turkey, goose, duck, roast beef or ham vanished in the twinkling of an eye. There was abundance for all and the supplies provided were served without stint by the many graceful and pretty waitresses who flitted hurriedly about the tables.

The serving of the tea devolved largely upon the members of the Young Women's Guild and in a most satisfactory manner were their duties performed and the hungry wayfarer did not have to wait long before a steaming hot dinner was set before him. Among the young ladies, who performed the

OFFICES OF WAITRESSES

during the evening were the Misses Packenham, Miss Willis, Miss Byshe, Miss Phillips, the Misses Lipsett, Miss Manlece. Miss Hedley, Miss Meade, Miss Spillsbury, Miss Mamie Rogers, the Misses Denne, Miss Hettie Bennett, Miss McNeil, Miss Adams, Miss Armstrong, Miss Alice Tivey, Miss Beattie, Miss Dora Speers, Miss Lillie Fitzgerald, Miss Alice Turner and Miss Minnie Strickland.

Mrs. Meade and Mrs. R. B. Rogers presided over the carving department.

When the supper tables had been cleared all were given an opportunity to examine the many pretty and useful articles which have been made by the members of the Ladies' Aid, and by the time that the preparations for the carrying out of the literary part of the programme was completed, great inroads had been made into the large quantity of articles displayed for sale, and in fact these tables were stripped almost as bare as were those which had been used for the accommodation of those patronising the dinner earlier in the evening.

The fancy table was in charge of the Misses Armstrong and Miss Maggie Calcutt, while Miss Burke and Miss Addie Calcutt looked after the fish pond. The sale at the Ladies' Table was conducted under the supervision of Mrs. John Burnham, Mrs. Card, Mrs. Nimmo and Mrs. Whitney.

This most enjoyable evening was closed by the presentation of the following

MOST ENJOYABLE PROGRAMME, participants in which had to respond to enthusiastic encores in almost every instance:

Song..."The deathless Army"..Mr. Mulligan
Reading.....selected.....Mrs. Goldsmith
Song....'I'll be your sweetheart".....Miss [Hagerman

A pause was made while the above programme was being rendered and Miss Eva Tivey, who has been connected with St. Luke's church and Sunday school for a considerable period of time, was presented by the rector, Rev. H. Symonds, on behalf of the congregation, with a handsome travelling bag, containing brush, comb, glass, scissors, etc. When making the presentation, the rector availed himself of the opportunity of addressing most complimentary remarks to Miss Tivey, concerning her earnest and faithful work in church circles.

THE NEW CZAR AND THE PEACE OF EUROPE.

(The December Forum.)

There is no safety in predicting any turn in a game in which a youthful monarch of Russia holds a strong hand; but, though many rumors have been running around about the new Czar, Nicholas II., there seems no probability of his undertaking any inflammable role. Russia has so much more to gain by peace than war. Barely a third of her army has the new small-bore rifle, and it will be two years before the other regiments are so equipped. Her revenues are none too great. Russia needs her money for the trans-Siberian railway; and she ought not to blow it out of the mouths of big guns. No doubt there is tension in many of the international relations; but that is always present; and diplomats are growing more reasonable. It is probable that what has been said of the character of Nicholas is in the main true; and this should lead him to follow in the footsteps of his illustrious father and make Russia still the dictator peace.

No man will be rash enough to say that war may not come. Every one of the continents has spots where an accidental outbreak, the blunder of an over-zealous servant, may work such a hardship, actual or ideal, to some great power as shall call for an excited demand for reparation. It is then that cool heads, if not thick skins, are in demand; and it is then that the effervescence of journalists in search of circulation or notoriety does most harm. The human animal, according to his kind, is the silliest of all animals, if we measure him rightly; I know of no other that is capable of such irrational freaks; and it is on these that peace or war hangs by a hair. But, to resume, I do not believe, despite all the talk, that there is in the present status of the world a set of conditions which will lead to early war.

The December Marriage Market.

There are more marriages in December than any other month. There may be no profit in discovering the reason of this fact but there is profit in remembering that Mr. W. J. CURLIANA.

At a meeting of the Granite Division of the Curling Club last night, Mr. E. H. D. Hall took the chair and the following officers were elected:

Chairman—E. B. Edwards.
Secretary—Geo. A. Schofield.
Managing Committee—G. W. Hatton, D. W. Dumble and J. H. Connal.

It was impossible to select the personnel of the different rinks, as the membership is not as yet completed for the season. One of the rules of the Division is that no one can be chosen on a rink until the membership fee has been paid in. The tickets are now in the hands of Mr. Geo. A. Schofield.

The Granites will play on the rink on the same days of the week as last year, and by the large attendance at the meeting last night, look forward to a season of prosperity and success. Another meeting will be held on Monday evening next at 8 o'clock in the rink parlours, when the question of the composition of the different rinks will be settled.

HOCKEY.

Mr. George J. Horkins will attend a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Ontario Hockey Association in Toronto to-morrow.

BILLIARDS.

Chicago, Dec. 6th.—For the fourth time Ives has overwhelmed Schaefer, running 600, while his opponent gathered up 278. The total score is now—Ives, 2,400; Schaefer, 1,431. Ives broke the balk-line record of 331 points twice to-night. When the game closed last night, he had made a run of 281, and the balls were his when the game closed. To-night, he added 53 to his 281, making a total run of 334. Later in the game, he made a run of 359, breaking the record for the second time. Aside from this one run of Ives', Schaefer played better billiards. He had a good lead and was putting up a strong game, when Ives settled matters by making this big run. At the request of Schaefer one of the cushions was changed early in the game, and the result was better work all roud, although both men were badly bothered by bad leaves, the balls rolling very poorly for them. The score:—Ives, 53, 0, 29, 3, 5, 19, 1, 0, 1, 1, 359, 41, 82. Total, 600. Average, 46 2-13. Schaefer—33, 60, 54, 4, 7, 34, 23, 27, 4, 129, 7, 6. Total, 298. Average, 32 1-3.

CHARITY APPLICANTS ALLOWED REMISSION OF TAXES.

The Court of Revision Considered the Applications, Last Evening.

The Court of Revision met, last night, and transacted a great deal of business. A large number of charity applicants were granted a remission of their taxes and a few mistakes remedied.

F. W. Taylor protested against a double assessment on his income and $500 was stricken off the No. 1 ward assessment.

Mrs. O'Leary, Mrs. Mary, J. Dunsford, Jas. Renwick and John Trombley were granted remission of taxes.

The applications of Joseph Noble and Agnes Larmour for remission of taxes were granted and that of Wesley Howden refused.

The Young Women's Christian Association, Y. M. C. A. and Barnardo Home were all three granted exemption this year from all but the school taxes.

The taxes of Mrs. Ellen Rogers, John Rogers, Robert Redmond, Margaret O'Meara, Charlotte Scott and Jane Welsh were all ordered to be remitted.

The assessment of Charles Munden stands, as do those of Mrs. George Moore and Mrs. Vass.

Mrs. Mary J. Griffith complained of an error of $50 in her assessment, and a rebate of eighty-five cents was granted.

The applications for remission of taxes on the part of Elizabeth Duncan and Mrs. Joshua Butler were refused.

"THE AUTOCRAT."

Oliver Wendell Holmes. Born 1809. Died Oct. 7, 1894.

"The Last Leaf!" Can it be true,
We have turned it, and on you,
Friend of all?
That the years at last have power?
That's life's foliage and its flower
Fade and fall?

Was there one who ever took
From its shelf by chance, a book
Penned by you,
But was fast your friend for life,
With one refuge from its strife
Safe and true?

Even gentle Elia's self
Might be proud to share that shelf,
Leaf to leaf,
With a soul of kindred sort,
Who could bind strong sense and sport
In one sheaf.

From that Boston breakfast table,
Wit and wisdom, fun and fable,
Radiated
Through all English-speaking places.
When were Science and the Graces
So well mated?

Of sweet singers the most sane,
Of keen wits the most humane,
Wide, yet clear,
Like the blue, above us, bent;
Giving sense and sentiment
Each its sphere.

With a many breadth of soul,
With a fancy quaint and droll;
Ripe and mellow,
With a virile power of "hit;"
Finished scholar, poet, wit,
And good fellow!

Sturdy patriot, and yet
True world's citizen! Regret
Dims our eyes
As we turn each well-thumbed leaf;
Yet a glory 'midst our grief
Will arise.

Years your spirit could not tame,
And they will not dim your fame;
England joys
In your songs, all strength and ease,
And the "dreams" you "wrote to please
Gray-haired boys."

And of such were you not one?
Age chilled not your fire of fun,
Heart alive
Makes a boy of a gray bard,
Though his years be, "by the card,"
Eighty-five!

STALKED BY A LION.

A STRANGE ADVENTURE IN THE WILDS OF MONTANA.

The Brute's Intended Victim Was in a Helpless Condition—Over Him, Lying in a Hammock, the Lioness Sprang—Help Came in Time.

There were five of us encamped at the base of Chickasaw mountain, Montana, and I had given my ankle a bad twist and was laid up for repairs. We had a shanty in the edge of the thicket, and before leaving camp after dinner the boys slung me up a hammock between two cedars and helped me into it. We had a half-breed for a cook and all-around man, and so I was not to be left alone. I smoked a couple of pipes after getting into the hammock, had some conversation with Jim about the horses and the supply of food, and before I realized that I was even sleepy I had departed for the land of Nod. The half-breed saw that I slept and went over to the grazing-ground, half a mile away, to see that all was right with the horses. He meant to return at once, but found diversion and delay in setting snares for the hares he saw running about.

I slept for perhaps half an hour—not more. When I awoke I was still lying on my right side and facing the heavy growth of cedars clothing the base of the mountain. There was no yawning or stretching; I simply opened my eyes and was wide awake. My head was elevated so that I could see about me, and my eyes were scarcely open when they fell upon a mountain lion and her cub advancing upon me. The shanty was to the west of me and about two rods away. To the south, and about the same distance, was a "wick-up" of brush for the cook and his campfire. The lioness and her cub were advancing from the east. They need not pass the shanty nor the fire to reach me. They were out of the underbrush and into the open, and had probably had their eyes on me for ten minutes before I awoke. While the hammock seemed to puzzle them, the mother at least had the scent of a man in her nostrils and her actions went to show that she meant to attack me. The cub was about half-grown, and I had not had my eyes on the pair thirty seconds when I concluded that the mother was coaching him. When I awoke he was ten feet behind her and acting as if he meant to run away. She coaxed and threatened him by turns until he advanced to her side. She then crouched down and wormed herself along the ground and gave him a lesson in advancing upon his prey. At the end of twelve or fifteen feet she looked back and growled and switched her tail and he reluctantly imitated her. This brought them to within thirty feet of me, with the ground all clear.

Had I started up and shouted for Jim the lions might have run away or the mother might have attacked me. Their presence was a proof that I was alone in the camp, and the fact that I was practically helpless decided me to wait. The return of the cook would frighten them away, and I expected to hear his whistle or voice any minute. The lioness advanced another ten feet and after considerable persuasion the cub followed. It was plain that he had never stalked big game before and did not feel sure of himself. If the mother had not held him up to his work he would have turned tail a dozen times over. She must have seen that my eyes were wide open, but as I lay perfectly quiet I doubt if she knew whether I was awake or asleep. At the distance of twenty feet she crouched down with her hind feet under her, switched her tail from side to side, showed her yellow fangs, and I knew that she was about to spring. Her idea was to give the cub a lesson in attacking, and he watched every movement and prepared to imitate. I think the mother made two springs to cover the distance, though she moved so swiftly that I was not sure. She cleared the hammock like a ball sailing through the air, and struck the ground to return to the cub and demand that he go through the same motions. He got down and made one spring, which left him ten feet away, and then skulked back. The mother flew at him and gave him blow with her paw which rolled him over and over and made him whine and cry like a puppy. He lay for a time on his back with his feet in the air, and then she advanced him seven or eight feet and forced him to crouch down for another spring.

The question with me now was whether the cub would go over the hammock or light upon me, but before I could decide it he made his spring and went under it. I was about thirty inches above the ground, and he grazed the netting as he passed under. It was a false spring, and he had no sooner returned to the old lady than she bowled him over again and bit him so savagely that he yelped with the pain. He started to run away, but she forced him to return and then crouched down to show him how it should be done. The distance she took was fourteen feet, and I believe it was her design to come down on top of me. This time her claws were exposed and she had eyes of fire. Only a few seconds were given me in which to make up my mind. I was about to start up and shout at the top of my lungs when the sound of Jim's voice reached my ears. He was singing as he returned. The lioness and her cub caught the sounds at the same instant, and the cub at once ran away. The mother arose, looked this way and that in surprise and alarm, and presently as the sound of footsteps came to us she turned tail and bolted for cover at a much faster pace than the cub had gone. I am ashamed to add that when all danger had passed—when the lioness was half a mile away and Jim was close at hand—I played the baby act and fainted dead away. None of the crowd ever knew it, though, for Jim looked into the hammock and thought I had fallen asleep, and I was careful to conceal that part of the incident from the boys when they came in. My excuse is that it was a new sensation to be stalked by a mountain lion, and that I was as helpless as if caught in a trap a mile away from camp. When I told Jim of the adventure he went out and looked at the tracks and measured the distance and then carelessly remarked:

"Good thing for you, I guess, that the cub hadn't got worked up to bizness yit and that the mother had to cut it short."

And that has always been my opinion of the affair.—Detroit Free Press.

Strange Properties of Cryostase.

A German chemist is reported to have discovered a new substance which has the remarkable and unique property of solidifying when heated and remaining liquid at temperatures below zero. It has been named "cryostase," and is obtained by mixing together equal parts of phenol, camphor, and saponine, and adding a somewhat smaller proportion of essence of turpentine. Certain substances, like the albumens, harden on heating, but this is the only product that again liquefies on cooling.

Stole the Monument.

According to the Natal Times, the monument sent out by Queen Victoria to Zululand as a token of her sympathy with the bereaved mother of the late Prince Louis Napoleon has been stolen. A reward of £50 has been offered. The monument took the form of a memorial cross of plain marble, and was erected on the exact spot upon which the Prince fell when surprised and attacked by a party of Zulus who had been lying in ambush. The memorial bore the following inscription: "This cross is erected by Queen Victoria in affectionate remembrance of Napoleon Eugene Louis Jean Joseph, Prince Imperial, to mark the spot where her while assisting in a reconnaissance with the British troops, on the 1st of June, 1879, was attacked by a party of Zulus, and fell with face to the foe." It was surrounded by a dwarf wall of rough stones, which also enclosed the graves of the two troopers who were killed at the same time as the Prince. Shrubs and violets (the Napoleonic emblem) were planted about the place, which thus became a kind of miniature cemetery. It is interesting to recall that after the erection of the cross the Zulu chief Geboodo and the chief men of his tribe, to which the party who attacked the Prince belonged, assembled at the place, and, standing with their right hand uplifted, solemnly declared that the memorial and the graves should never be desecrated. The stealing of the cross is, therefore, all the more remarkable, especially as the Zulus entertain a deeply-felt superstition regarding the spirits of the dead.

A Narrow Escape.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all.
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I mix,
They gave us every one, a kiss.
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home.
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life!
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

When the Nerve Centres Need Nutrition.

A Wonderful Recovery, Illustrating the Quick Response of a Depleted Nerve System to a Treatment Which Replenishes Exhausted Nerve Forces.

MR. FRANK BAUER, BERLIN, ONT.

Perhaps you know him? In Waterloo he is known as one of the most popular and successful business men of that enterprising town. As managing executor of the Kuntz estate, he is at the head of a vast business, representing an investment of many thousands of dollars, and known to many people throughout the Province. Solid financially, Mr. Frank Bauer also has the good fortune of enjoying solid good health, and if appearances indicate anything, it is safe to predict that there's a full half century of active life still ahead for him. But it's only a few months since, while nursed as an invalid at the Mt. Clemens sanitary resort, when his friends in Waterloo were dismayed with a report that he was at the point of death.

"There's no telling where I would have been had I kept on the old treatment," said Mr. Bauer, with a merry laugh, the other day, while recounting his experiences as a very sick man. "Mt. Clemens," he continued, "was the last resort in my case. For months previous I had been suffering indescribable tortures. I began with a loss of appetite and sleepless nights. Then, as the trouble kept growing, I was getting weaker, and began losing flesh and strength rapidly. My stomach refused to retain food of any kind. During all this time I was under medical treatment, and took everything prescribed, but without relief. Just about when my condition seemed most hopeless, I heard of a wonderful cure effected in a case somewhat similar to mine, by the Great South American Nervine Tonic, and I finally tried that. On the first day of its use I began to feel that it was doing what no other medicine had done. The first dose relieved the distress completely. Before night I actually felt hungry and ate with an appetite such as I had not known for months. I began to pick up in strength with surprising rapidity, slept well nights, and before I knew it I was eating three square meals regularly every day, with as much relish as ever. I have no hesitation whatever in saying that the South American Nervine Tonic cured me when all other remedies failed. I have recovered my old weight—over 200 pounds—and never felt better in my life."

Mr. Frank Bauer's experience is that of all others who have used the South American Nervine Tonic. Its instantaneous action in relieving distress and pain is due to the direct effect of this great remedy upon the nerve centres, whose fagged vitality is energized instantly by the very first dose. It is a great, a wondrous cure for all nervous diseases, as well as indigestion and dyspepsia. It goes to the real source of trouble direct, and the sick always feel its marvellous sustaining and restorative power at once, on the very first day of its use.

CANADIAN TOBACCO.

HOW IT IS SUCCESSFULLY GROWN NEAR WALKERVILLE.

Interesting Details of the Method of Culture—Cultivating and Hoeing—Topping the Plants—The "Suckering" Process—Poultry and a Diet of Green Worms.

Mr. William Bonner, who for ten years has been manager of Hiram Walker & Sons 110 acre tobacco farm near Walkerville, talked interestingly to a Windsor Record reporter the other day. He said:

I may as well begin at the beginning if I am to tell you what I know about tobacco-growing, here and elsewhere. I came to this farm just ten years ago last April—a year after a beginning had been made in cultivating tobacco on this farm. The season had been an unfavorable one, and only about 1,600 pounds of tobacco was raised on the farm. The most of that crop is, I think, still on our hands.

Before coming here I had been engaged in raising tobacco in Massachusetts, and had been so employed ever since I was ten years old. I may say that, in that State—and it is pretty well the same in Kentucky and Virginia—there are no large tobacco plantations to speak of, the rule being for each farmer to have only a few acres under tobacco in addition to what other crops he may raise.

I can hardly say that tobacco growing in this part of the county is a uniformly profitable industry. Some years there is money in it, and other years money is lost in it. We grow two varieties of tobacco on this farm, the "Connecticut Seed Leaf" and the "White Burley." The former thrives well here, but the season is rather short for the Burley, which is a Southern variety, and is largely grown in Kentucky and Southern Ohio. The Connecticut Seed Leaf grows anywhere in this latitude—in Massachusetts, New York, Connecticut and, to some extent, in Wisconsin. It is an early variety and therefore more suitable for cultivation where the season is comparatively short. It is not, however, so saleable as the Burley because it is a cigar tobacco, and the demand for Canadian tobacco for cigar purposes is very limited indeed.

We plough up the land in May and thoroughly pulverize it, using chiefly disk harrows for that purpose, then the soil is thrown up into ridges, four feet apart, by a machine made for the purpose, called a "ridger."

The plants are grown in hot-beds, the seed being sown under glass about the first of April, and they are ready for transplanting about the first of June. They are then taken and planted in the ridges on the field, two-and-a-half feet apart. The transplanting is neatly and expeditiously done by a machine invented for the purpose only two or three years ago. I could not explain the process very intelligently to you unless you saw the machine at work. It is enough for the present purpose to say that three men and a team can plant 4 1-2 acres in a day, the machine watering the plants as it sets them. One man drives the team while the other two feed the machine, putting in a plant alternately.

The next operations are cultivating and hoeing. These begin in the last days of June and are continued throughout July. In fact the cultivating is kept up until the plants get so large that it is impossible to get through them with a horse without breaking the leaves.

Next comes the "topping," which means the breaking off of the bulb or blossom, leaving from 15 to 20 leaves on each plant. On a thriving plant we leave more leaves, breaking off the bulb at a higher point of the stalk than we do on a stunted one.

Then follows the "suckering" or "sprouting" as it is sometimes called. This is done about ten days after the "topping," the suckers or sprouts making their appearance about that time. "Suckering" is a tedious job, as you may easily imagine when I tell you that every individual leaf has its sucker, that there are, on an average, 18 leaves on each plant and that we have about 550,000 plants in the field. That gives us 9,900,000 suckers or thereabouts, and the work of breaking them off has all to be done by hand. We employ about fifty men to do this job.

About this time the Green, or Tobacco Worm puts in an appearance and the pests have to be picked off by hand—that is, if the grower has not, as I have done, fallen on a plan of disposing of them in a way that is much more expeditious and quite as effective. Picking them by hand entails, of course, a heavy outlay in wages. If we picked the worms off the plants on this farm by hand it would cost, at least, $600 each season, an amount which would put a big hole in our profits on the crop. As a matter of fact the disposal of the worms does not, by the method I have adopted, cost more than $100, if so much.

It occurred to me, some time ago, that, if I turned a sufficiently big flock of chickens into the field, and gave them nothing else to eat, they would fall to and gobble up the worms. The plan worked like a charm. The birds got away with, I verily believe, millions of worms, but, strange to say, they got very lean on the diet. They cleared the plants of the pests, however, in short order, and, after their work was through, we shut them up and fattened them on more nutricious food. I don't know how their flesh would have tasted had they been killed and cooked at the time they were feeding on the green worms, but, after getting a change of diet and undergoing the fattening-up process, they tasted just like any other chickens.

The harvesting of the leaf begins about the 20th or 25th of August, or about three or four weeks after 'topping,' the time varying with the favorableness, or the reverse, of the weather. We begin by removing the suckers, which still continue to sprout, in spite of their having been broken off. We then cut down the plants with a hatchet and allow them to lie on the ground until they are thoroughly wilted, great care being taken that they do not get sun-burned during that time. Then the plants are picked up and strung on a lath by a needle which pierces the stem about 8 inches from the butt. Five or six plants, according to size, are placed on a four-foot lath. They are then loaded on a rack, made for the purpose and fitted on a wagon, and on this they are conveyed to the barns to be cured. The barns are 14 in number, each 96 x 42 feet and 16 feet in height at the eaves. Every third vertical board in the walls is a door for ventilating. The plants are hung up there on the lathe and remain so until they are thoroughly cured.

The leaf is cured, usually by about November 1, when the plant is taken down and the leaf stripped from the stalk, tied up in what is known to the trade as "hands" and packed, if sold in early winter, in bales of 50 lbs. to the bale. If not so sold, the leaf is packed in boxes containing 350 lbs. to 450 lbs. each; the boxes vary in length according to the length of the tobacco.

ITCHING PILES

AND PIN WORMS.

No More Misery.

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affection, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The physical discomforts are a severe itching, which is worse at night or when the skin grow heated or warm in bed. To scratch in this manner gives but momentary relief, as it is impossible to prevent sleep. Often the affected parts become inflamed from scratching, and ulceration and fistula will follow. Dr. Chase's Ointment allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief, and effects a permanent cure in every case. Every sufferer is earnestly requested to try this remedy. Thousands of cases have been cured by it after all other remedies had failed to give even temporary relief. Sold by all druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 60 cents. Dr. Chase's Ointment.

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause from Itching Piles, yet its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same intolerable itching; the same creeping, crawling, stinging sensation, characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment cures this magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

THREE RUNNING SORES

PHYSICIANS FAILED

BUT B.B.B. CURED

DEAR SIRS—After having used Burdock Blood Bitters for Scrofula in the blood, I feel it my duty to make known the results. I was treated by a skilled physician but he failed to cure me. I had three Running Sores on my neck which could not be healed until I had used B. B. B., which healed them completely, leaving the skin and flesh sound and whole. As long as I live I shall speak of the virtues of B.B.B., and I feel grateful to Providence that such a medicine is provided for sufferers.

A SCALY ERUPTION

UNENDURABLE ITCHING

Suffered Three Years—Now Perfectly Cured by B. B. B.

GENTLEMEN—I have used Burdock Blood Bitters for Skin Diseases, from which I have been a sufferer for three years. I have used six bottles and am now entirely cured. I have been a subscriber to the Culicura Remedies, but since using Burdock Blood Bitters I have not used any of the Culicura Remedies, as all to no good. I doctored one year with the best physicians in the land; they pronounced my disease a Scaly Eruption, but could not remove it. It came on in red blotches and spread over my body; the skin became dry and formed hard dry scales. The itching was intolerable, but I am now completely cured, and I owe it all to B. B. B.

TURNED THE JOKE

A Ventriloquist Who Was Made to Leave the Car.

A ventriloquist had great fun the other night on the Sixth avenue elevated train, and at the same time put a train guard in danger of being attacked by a score of indignant passengers. Then he was warned that he had better leave the car.

It was a rainy night and the train was crowded with passengers going downtown. In the rear car every seat was taken when the train left the Ninety-third street station in Columbus Avenue. In one of the rear seats was a person who appeared to be enjoying a calm sleep.

Just as the train was approaching the Seventy-second street station a voice at the forward door cried out:

"Fifty-ninth street —— change cars for Ninth avenue."

The voice was clear and resonant. Everyone in the car heard it, an unusual thing on elevated trains, as everyone knows. A dozen passengers who thought they had been carried beyond their stations at Seventy-second and Sixty-sixth streets hurried toward the door, and as many more who wanted to change cars at Fifty-ninth street joined in the forward movement. Passengers for Seventy-second and Sixty-sixth streets were angry because they believed they would have to go back in the rain.

As the head of the procession reached the door the train guard poked in his head and called:

"Seventy-second street."

The train halted with a jerk which threw a half dozen passengers off their feet. There was a struggle at the door between those who wanted to get off the train and those who didn't, and by the time the train moved forward there were a dozen passengers angry enough to assault the conductor.

"What in thunder do you mean by this performance?" demanded one of them, as he approached the conductor. "Why did you call out Fifty-ninth street when the train was at Seventy-second?"

"But I didn't," said the train guard.

"Yes you did," shouted the angry passengers in a chorus, and one big man put himself in a position to attack the guard.

"But I know he didn't," piped a shrill voice just under the roof of the car.

Everyone looked up in astonishment and the amazement was increased when a voice which seemed to come from beneath the car floor said, soothingly: "Calm yourselves, gentlemen; calm yourselves. I called out the station."

The passengers, recognizing the situation, retreated to their seats and began looking around. Then suspicion began to fall upon the sleepy man in the rear corner. A big man—the one who wanted to fight the train guard—went over to him and said:

"That was a fine joke, but don't you think you had better get off at the next station?"

The sleepy man left the car at Fifty-ninth street and took another train down town.—New York Herald.

The Everett Syndicate in Detroit.

DETROIT, Dec. 6.—After a vigorous contest with the existing street railway lines in this city, the Park-Everett syndicate, headed by Wm. A. Everett, vice-president of the Toronto Railway Co., was awarded the street railway franchise. The new company will be at once formed and the work immediately proceeded with. Public opinion is strongly in favor of the proposed new syndicate, which has agreed to supply rapid transit and give reduced rates of fare. The system in use in Toronto will be the one used. There are many rumors of boodling in the air, and the Citizens' Railway Company are said to have tried to improperly influence city aldermen. One of the promoters of the successful combination stated that if the ordinance had not been passed when it was it could never have been got through. Names of some of the council who are under suspicion are given.

A Body Found on the Track.

TORONTO, Dec. 6.—The body of a man was found lying on the railway track at Claremont station. He had been walking on the track, and was run down by a freight train. From papers found in his pockets he is supposed to be Joseph Kelly of Montreal.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

A Resolution to Make the President Ineligible for Re-Election.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The Senate spent two hours in session yesterday, transacted some business of minor importance and adjourned over until Monday. Mr. Turpie (Dem., Ind.) occupied about an hour in the presentation of an argument in favor of making senators elective by the people of each state instead of by the legislatures. No action was taken on the resolution.

The pension and fortifications appropriation bills for the year ending June 30, 1896, were reported to the House with the notification that the former would be called up next Wednesday and the latter when the railroad pooling bills will have been disposed of.

When the Democratic senatorial caucus adjourned those who had been endeavoring to get some action that would make it possible to pass the so-called popgun tariff bills and strike the differential duty of one-eighth of a cent a pound on refined sugar from the sugar schedule gave up all hope. No organized effort will be made to push these bills, nor will there be any cloture rule offered in the Senate with the endorsement of the democratic caucus.

W. J. Bryan (Rep., Neb.) has introdnced a joint resolution submitting an amendment to the federal constitution making the President of the United States ineligible for re-election.

Statements were circulated that the Republicans in the House would make a strong partisan fight against the urgency deficiency bill making provisions for the income tax. The sub-committee of the appropriations committee, to whom is delegated the work of preparing the urgency deficiency bill, which includes the appropriation for the income tax, will meet to-day. The two Republican members of this sub-committee are Mr. Cannon, of Illinois, and Mr. Henderson, of Iowa. Both gentlemen when spoken with yesterday, disclaimed any purpose of antagonising the appropriation either in committee or on the floor of the House Representative Bingham, of Pennsylvania another Republican member of the appropriations committee, stated very frankly that he would oppose the appropriation by his vote and voice. He could not say what other Republicans might do, but he regarded it as probable that every member of the House, Republicans or Democrats, who opposed the tax on principle, would again voice their antagonism to it when the opportunity presented itself.

NEWS FROM NICARAGUA.

The Treaty With Great Britain Being Ignored by the Government.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Dec. 7.—Somewhat startling news has been received here from Nicaragua. The treaty between Great Britain and Nicaragua has been quietly ignored by President Zelava's officials Gen. Cambeza has been named governor of Mosquito, at a salary of $300 per month. His brother has been named governor of Corn Island, off the coast of Nicaragua. Recently he obtained a concession for a number of years to use the island, it is said, for a coaling station. In the event of a completed Nicaragua canal Corn Island will have an immense value, both as a coaling station and owing to its strategical situation, practically commanding the Atlantic entrance to the canal. The governor obtained this remarkable concession direct from President Zelava.

Gen. Cambeza, on taking his official position as governor of the Mosquito territory, gave a state banquet. He issued formal invitations to the officers of H.M.S Mohawk and to the officers of the U. S. cruiser Marblehead. The officers of the Mohawk promptly declined, while the officers of the Marblehead accepted and were welcomed with a salute of 21 guns.

Comments on the Kaiser's Speech.

BERLIN, Dec. 7.—The newspapers comment rather unfavorably on the Emperor's speech from the throne. The Hamburger Nachrichten (Bismarck's mouthpiece) says: "The speech is a proof that the Emperor personally directs the government's policy. Therefore it is immaterial who is Chancellor." Eugene Richter's Freisinnige Zeitung says: "If the debate on the anti-revolutionary bill end in the dissolution of the Reichstag it will soon be clear to all that the struggle against the revolution means the restriction of the suffrage to obtain for the government new taxes without the consent of the people." The National Liberals will question the government as to the protection of German sugar interests from the American differential tariff.

Pleading for Colored Workmen.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7.—The Christian Recorder of this city published in the interest of the African Methodist church, publishes an open letter addressed to John Burns, the English labor leader, urging him to use his influence at Denver toward having the word "white" eliminated from the constitution of the great labor organizations of this country. The letter claims that colored workmen in the United States are boycotted by organized labor.

A Mean Thief.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Dec. 7.—Fred Flanders, worth $50,000, was convicted yesterday in the police court of stealing fifty cents' worth of coal from a railroad car. The railroad detectives asserted that Flanders had stolen all the coal he used.

A Young Woman Fatally Burned.

NEWARK, N.J., Dec. 7.—Marguerite Glentworth, a young writer known as "Gladys Hamilton," was probably fatally burned by the explosion of a lamp last night.

The Ministers at Tilsonburg.

TILSONBURG, Ont., Dec. 7.—The Government party arrived here yesterday and were met by a delegation of prominent townspeople at the station and were escorted through the principal streets. The meeting at night was an enthusiastic one. Addresses were presented from the town council of Tilsonburg and the Conservative Association of North Norfolk. The principal speaker here was Senator Ferguson, who dealt at length with the tariff question and especially its effect on the agricultural classes. The visitors were entertained to a banquet after the close of the meeting. They leave here to-day for Dunnville.

Want to See the Execution.

WINDSOR, Dec. 7.—Sheriff Iler is just now worried n h unto death with applications for tickets to the execution of Murderer Truskey at Sandwich next Friday. Letters are pouring in by the basketful asking for tickets to see the hanging. They go into the waste paper basket. It would naturally be supposed that no one but men would care to see anything of the kind, but several women are clamoring for tickets, and, if anything, show a greater desire to be present than most of the men. Sheriff Iler has distributed all the tickets. The limit is 300 and he will not allow one more than that number to enter.

Killed by a G. T. R. Train.

RICHMOND, Mich., Dec. 7. — A young woman yesterday morning threw herself in front of a Grand Trunk train, about two miles south of town. She was brought to this place but died shortly after arrival. From papers found in her purse it was thought that her name must be Miss Celia Fowler, of 105 Baltimore avenue, Detroit. The case is mysterious. Miss Fowler had lived until two months ago with an uncle in Toronto, and it is said she is temporarily insane.

Funeral of Hull Victims.

OTTAWA, Dec. 7. — All Hull was in mourning yesterday when the last sad rites were performed over the five victims of Tuesday's dynamite disaster. The funerals were separate, but reached Notre Dame church together where one solemn requiem mass was chanted over the bodies Archbishop Duhamel presided.

Fatal Level Crossing Accident.

OTTAWA, Dec. 7. — Passengers on the train from Montreal brought news of an accident at the Alexandria level crossing. A rig containing two farmers, Alex. McDonald and Arch. McCormack, was struck and the latter was killed outright. McDonald is probably fatally injured.

Fire in Port Hope.

PORT HOPE, Dec. 7.—Fire broke out in F. Doney's bake-shop and considerably damaged all the outbuildings and dwelling; no insurance on buildings or contents. Doney's loss is about $500. The buildings were rendered useless. The property is owned by J. Harcourt.

A French-Canadian Suicide.

QUEBEC, Dec. 7.—Jean Labrie, a resident of the parish of St. Croix, was found in his barn hanging by the neck. It is thought that Labrie was suffering from mental disease.

Sherbrooke's Shooting Was Fatal.

SHERBROOKE, Que., Dec. 7.—Joseph Herbert, the young butcher who was shot by Josephine Begin because he refused to marry her, died a few hours afterwards. Herbert is a member of a most respectable and well known family, one of his brothers being in Sherbrooke seminary studying for the priesthood. Codere & Co.'s clerk is much censured for selling Begin the revolver in the condition she was in. The woman is in custody.

Last of Famous Slums.

Nobody save the thieves, the beggars and the dram-shop keepers expressed any sorrow when in the early years of Her Majesty's reign the greater part of the old and infamous St. Giles's was demolished and with equal equanimity did respectable New York witness the introduction of light and sanitation into the wretched slum known as the Five Points, described so vividly in the "American Notes" of Charles Dickens. There is scarcely a ghetto left in any city of Italy; and no voice of protest was audible in the Italian press when the old quarters at Florence was pulled down some two years ago Still would there seem to exist among the studious youth of Paris a feeling of genuine regret to learn that the old Latin Quarter, which was almost pulled to pieces by Baron Haussmann, under the Second Empire is doomed structurally, and at no distant date to total disappearance. Long since the Rue St. Jacques was modernized, widened and prolonged from the Petit-Pont to Rue Soufflot; while the Rue Ecole de Medecine has likewise been prolonged to the Boulevard St. Germain.

And now has come the turn of the Place Maubert, the narrow streets clustering about which interesting relic of old Paris are to be cleared away by the municipality The Rue St. Severin des Anglais is in particular to give place to a brand-new avenue, or boulevard. Three cabarets our Paris correspondent told us a few days since, are to vanish. These are the establishments known by the signs of the Pere Lunette, the Senat and the Chateau Rouge The first is a literary rendezvous, a cafe-chantant, and a picture gallery. The Senat has a somewhat doubtful reputation as the favorite resort of ragpickers cabotins and stripling candidates for the bench of the accused at the Assize Court but the Chateau Rouge—not to be confounded with the elegantly dissipated Moulin Rouge in the Champs Elysees—has long enjoyed genuine celebrity as a typical feature of the Quartier Latin scholastically treated, and as the happy hunting-ground of the male and female students of the left bank of the Seine.—London Telegraph.

Simplicity and Charity.

We smile at the childlike simplicity of the kind-hearted man whose charity "believeth all things," even of those whom the man of the world distrusts. "But," as Dr. Holmes says, "the angels laugh too, at the good he has done." Dr. Dobbin, an old-fashioned clergyman of Dublin, was noted for his kindness to the poor and for the simplicity which trusted them as though they could be guilty of no deception. Once a man was begging at the clergyman's carriage window. Having no change about him, he handed the beggar a guinea, saying: "Go, my poor man, get me change of that, and I will give you a shilling." He never saw the beggar's face again. One day his wife, on coming home, found him in the hall with his hands behind his back, as if hiding something She insisted on knowing what it was, and he timidly brought out from behind his back a roasted leg of mutton. He had quietly taken it from the spit in the kitchen, to give to a poor woman waiting at the door.—Youth's Companion.

TURNBULL.

Sweeping reductions in Mantles this month at Turnbull's in order to have the stock all cleaned out by the first of January, as styles change so rapidly these days, we do not want to carry any over as our desire is to always show New Goods. We have only about 90 Mantles left, but they are well assorted, as we have only a few of each make. We have gone through them carefully and marked them down to prices that are sure to clear them out. Such as:

$5.00 Mantles in Blue and Black Cloth, for - - $3.00

$8.00 Mantles Neatly Trimmed, for - - - - $6.00

$10.00 Mantles, fine quality Beaver - - - - - $6.00

We have also a length of $8 Astrachan Curl (heavy weight) we are cutting at $5 per yard, now is the time to leave your order for a Mantle that will wear better than any Dog Skin and cost only half the price. We have Leiscester Sealettes, (acknowledged to be the best make in the world) in three or four qualities, they, owing to hard times, are selling slowly and would rather clear them out than carry them over and will therefore make up Mantles at from $5 to $10 less than regular prices.

OUR MOTTO—Small Profits and Quick Sales, we undersell but are never undersold.

MINISTERS AT THE FALLS.

The Government Party, With Dr. Montague, Address the Electors.

NIAGARA FALLS, Dec. 8.—The Ministerial party arrived last evening in the Canadian Government car. After supper they were escorted to the town hall, which was crowded, many ladies being present. On the platform were: Hon. J. C. Patterson, Hon. John Haggart, Hon. Senator Ferguson, Dr. Montague, William McCleary, ex-M.P.P., John Waugh, president County Conservative Association; Capt. Carter, James Lawson, Thorold; Sylvester Neelon, Dr. Ollie and Col. Carlisle, Mayor of St. Catharines; Mayor Geo. Harman, Niagara Falls; Wm. Doran, Lieut.-Col. King and others. The chairman, John Waugh, after a few appropriate remarks welcoming the distinguished visitors to the Cataract town, introduced the first speaker, Wm. McCleary, who made a speech welcoming the visitors. Mr. Patterson spoke at some length on the trade question and denounced the policy of the cry of reciprocity by the Opposition.

The next speaker was Dr. Montague, who spoke to some length on the trade policy of the Government, contrasting the policy of the two political parties of Canada. The party represented by Mr. Laurier, he said, wished to sweep out of existence every vestige of protection on manufactured goods and raise the revenue by direct taxation on raw material and obliterate the manufacturing interests of this country, while the Conservative party policy was to place a tariff on all manufactured goods and admit the raw materials, and to give employment to thousands of artisans. He stated that under free trade sugar was ten cents per pound and that 98 per cent. of the sugar used on the Canadian table was refined outside of the country. At present under protection sugar was twenty pounds for a dollar and 96 per cent. of that used in Canada is being refined in Canada, giving employment to thousands of artisans.

Senator Ferguson and Hon. John Haggart also spoke at some length on the trade policy of the Government, after which the usual cheers were given.

Montague Nominated for Welland.

WELLAND, Ont., Dec. 8.—Hon. J. C. Patterson, Senator Ferguson, Dr. Montague, M.P., and W. McCleary, ex-M.P., addressed a large convention of Conservatives here yesterday, when Dr. Montague was tendered the nomination for this county, but asked a few days to consider.

Minard's Liniment is the best.

DOING RUSSIA A FAVOR

England's Attitude on the Armenian Question Severely Criticised.

ANOTHER DENIAL OF THE PORTE

Turks Claim the Troubles Originated in an Armenian Outbreak, and That the Alleged Outrages Are Improbable—Forming a Commission of Inquiry.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—The Morning Post prints this despatch from Constantinople: "Great Britain was asked at the same time as the United States to appoint a member of the Armenian commission. The Washington government assented immediately and then Mr. Cleveland telegraphed that he had reconsidered the matter. Great Britain, the United States and Turkey are still in communion but nothing final has been arranged.

"The Porte again explains that the affair originated in an Armenian outbreak against Turkish authority accompanied by conflicts between Armenians and Kurds. Troops were sent to repress the disorder, it is said, and possibly in effecting their orders, they killed a number of people, but the alleged murders and outrages are deemed wholly improbable, inasmuch as Turkish troops would only fight against armed rebels.

The Daily News says that Milo A. Jewett, United States consul in Sivas, has been instructed from Washington to attend the commission of inquiry in Armenia while maintaining a strictly independent attitude toward representatives of European powers.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 8.—The Sultan despatched an invitation to the President of the United States to participate through a representative in a mixed commission of the powers to visit Armenia and investigate conditions there. President Cleveland declined the invitation but intimated a willingness to permit an American representative to accompany the proposed commission in an independent capacity. The Sultan thereupon cabled to the President inviting the appointment of such a representative and learned that the United States would accept the modified invitation.

VIENNA, Dec. 8.—In Austrian political and official circles much bad feeling has been aroused by England's advocacy of the Armenians. The Pesther Lloyd and the Neue Freie Presse attack England hotly, both contending that she wishes merely to do Russia a good turn. The Neue Freie Presse says; "Russia's sending troops to the frontier constitutes a menace to Turkey and can be done only with England's consent." The Pesther Lloyd says: "Worse atrocities were committed against the Jews in Russia, but England ignored them."

Italian Socialists to be Checked.

ROME, Dec. 8. — Napoleon Calajanni socialist deputy for Castro-Giovanni questioned the government in the chamber concerning the disappearance of important official documents which were needed to fix the blame in the Banca Romana scandal. Premier Crispi replied that he had no power to explain the matter. Camillo Prampolini, socialist for Guastalla, then made a violent attack upon the Ministers, whom he denounced as the protectors of rich criminals. The socialists in the Chamber are more truculent than ever before, as they are smarting under the severity with which their former colleague, DeFelice, was treated by the government On Tuesday the Chamber will discuss the enforced dissolution of socialist and anarchist societies throughout the kingdom. A stormy session is expected.

Pitched Battle Among Rangers.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Dec. 8.—A pitched battle took place on the highway between Alva and Eagle Chief. James Brown, J. R. Knight, Charles Kitchen, Sam Wescott and a man called "One Eyed Taylor," who live near Eagle Chief, were returning home drunk. On the road they met Sam Crocker and three rangers en route to Alva. The drunken men stopped and one without provocation opened fire on Crocker. A fusillade of shots followed. Kitchen and Brown were killed outright. Sam Wescott was maimed for life, and Taylor and one of the rangers were badly wounded.

Releasing Prisoners in Odessa.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—The Daily News correspondent in Odessa says that since the imperial amnesty was declared many persons have been released from the Odessa prisons. Among them are fourteen murderers and Captains Pesce and Krium of the steamers Columbia and Valdimir. The captains were recently sentenced to four months' imprisonment and church penance for the criminal carelessness which resulted in the collision of their vessels in the Black Sea last July and in great loss of life.

Drastic Measures for Socialists.

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—The Koelniche Zeitung says that in consequence of the scene in the reichstag the government will prepare and introduce immediately a bill empowering the reichstag to suppress such demonstrations summarily and to discipline any member speaking disrespectfully of the Emperor.

Guelph Manslaughter Case.

GUELPH, Dec. 8.—The preliminary hearing of Cass and Keating, charged with manslaughter, was opened before Magistrate Saunders. The evidence was similar to that given at the inquest. After sitting on the case nearly all day it was adjourned until to-day.

A Young Czech Leader Murdered.

PRAGUE, Dec. 8.—The author and Young Czech leader, Helicius, and his wife were found dead yesterday on the porch of their house near Prague. They had been robbed and murdered. Helicius was 70 years old and his wife 37.

Belgian Royal Civil List Passed.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 8.—A long and bitter debate in the chamber was ended yesterday with the passage of the royal civil list. The socialists surpassed themselves in the denunciation of the capitalists and the nobility.

COUNT DE LESSEPS DEAD

The Famous French Engineer of Suez Canal Fame.

A LONG DISTINGUISHED CAREER

He Pushed the Suez Canal to Completion When the Engineers of the World Were Dubious—His Connection With the Panama Canal Project.

PARIS, Dec. 8.—Count Ferdinand de Lesseps is dead. Count de Lesseps died at Lachenaie, near Vatan, in the department of L'Intre. During the night he received the last Sacrament, and his physicians remained at his bedside from Thursday evening, from which time his death was expected.

Ferdinand de Lesseps, diplomatist and engineer, was born at Versailles November 19, 1805. He was appointed attache to the French Consulate in Lisbon in 1825 and after holding various consular positions was appointed to the consulate of Barcelona in 1842.

His fame rests chiefly on his scheme to pierce the Isthmus of Suez and his successful completion of this extremely difficult work. He first opened the plan to Said Pacha during a visit to Egypt in 1854. The scheme was sanctioned the same year and a letter of concession was granted by the Viceroy in 1856.

The practicability of the scheme was questioned by leading engineers, even Stephenson being doubtful. In spite of all obstacles, however, he pushed on the work, and on November 17, 1869, the canal was formally opened amidst the most imposing ceremonies. A few days afterwards Lesseps married Mlle Aniard de Bragard, a young Creole of English extraction. In February, 1870, the Paris Societe de Geographie awarded him the Empress' prize of 10,000 francs, which sum he contributed to the society's expedition to Equatorial Africa. He received the Cross of the Legion of Honor on November 16, 1869, and was created by Queen Victoria an honorary K. G. C. of the order of the Star of India, August 19, 1870. On July 20 of the same year he was presented with the freedom of the city of London. In July, 1873, he was chosen a member of the Academy of Sciences, and on June 21, 1881, was elected president of the French Geographical Society.

His connection with the Panama project is too recent and has been too thoroughly threshed out in the recent investigation to need more than a passing reference. The company went into liquidation after an expenditure of 600,000,000 francs and it has never since recovered. Lesseps' connection with it has thrown a cloud over an otherwise illustrious life and has darkened a reputation which deserved a better fate. Admiration will always be accorded to his width of vision and daring enterprise, but the lack of those moral qualities which win respect must ever mitigate against his occupying a first place amongst the leading minds of the race.

HUDSON BAY RAILWAY.

The Government Will Grant the Assistance Asked for the Scheme.

MONTREAL, Dec. 8.—The Canadian Pacific Railway company has bound itself to construct and operate the Montreal and Ottawa Railway as far west as Alfred village in 1895. By the agreement which the Canadian Pacific Railway has entered into it is to expend $60,000 on construction, in addition to the $100,000 which it had in its agreement with the Dominion Government bound itself to expend during the year 1896.

Regarding the assistance asked from the Dominion Government for the building of the Hudson Bay Railway, Robert Rogers of Winnipeg, who has just arrived from Ottawa, states that he has the best authority for stating that it will be granted, and that the Government's answer to that effect will be announced in a few days. In this event the work on the road will be proceeded with at once.

"Billee Taylor" Wilson Heard From.

HAMILTON, Dec. 8.—Since Herbert Wilson and James Smith skipped out a week ago the affairs in connection with the three performances of "Billee Taylor," produced by amateurs in the Opera house last week, have been in a terrible muddle. All those having accounts against the show have sent them in and the full amount of the liabilities is $700, with assets of $1. A letter from Wilson, who is in Buffalo, says he left the city to trace Smith, who took all the cash with him. Wilson says he has written his relatives in England for $1,000, and will return here and straighten up accounts. The creditors hope he will, but are inclined to doubt it.

Killed by a Freight Train.

NORTH BAY, Ont. Dec. 8.—A man named Jno. Quigley, of Powassan, was killed here by a freight train going east. Quigley had been out in Algoma working on a government road and was returning home. He arrived here Thursday night and missed yesterday's train. It is known that intoxication was the cause of his missing the train and it is supposed that he started to walk to Powassan, for which place he had a ticket in his pocket and fell asleep on the track.

The December Marriage Market.

There are more marriages in December than any other month. There may be no profit in discovering the reason of this fact but there is profit in remembering that Mr. W. J. Green, merchant tailor, has a fresh supply of marriage licenses, and can furnish along with the license a wedding suit and tips, so that you can be mated, tied and suited, a combination that will insure a happy wedded life.

The Daily Examiner is delivered to any part of the Town for 10c. a week 25c. a month, $2.00 for six months.

MR. MARTER'S DOUBLE SHUFFLE.

Mr. Marter seems determined to show himself a worthy successor of Mr. Meredith as leader of the Opposition, especially in the chameleon character of policy pursued. Mr. Meredith neutralized the unquestionable abilities he possessed, by a rather shifting policy on important public questions, but he never took a sharper curve than his successor, Mr. Marter, has taken. In his speech at London on behalf of Mr. Essery, the Conservative candidate, who was carrying on the campaign under the flag of sectarian bigotry, Mr. Marter thought it wise to pitch his pipe to the same key and in relation to the Separate schools he said :—

"It is a great pity we ever had Separate Schools. If I could remove them I would. If it can be done I am willing to assist in doing it. So long as we have Separate Schools we will have these troubles."

The results, however, showed that the electorate was not in sympathy with his position in the line of religious intolerance by long odds—800 of a majority in favour of Robbs. Mr. Marter evidently feels that his oppositionist policy was a mistake and he has bettered Mr. Meredith's teaching in the matter of taking a sharp curve. In an address at a Ward meeting in Toronto a night or two ago, Mr. Marter tells his hearers that he has taken advice on the subject of Separate Schools from "eminent lights," and they gave him the rather commonly distributed information, amongst intelligent persons, that it was absolutely impossible to abolish Separate Schools. Mr. Marter's declaration on this subject as reported in the Empire is, in relation to his position as Opposition leader, worth reading in extenso, as reported by the Empire :—

"If we cannot abolish that which has caused so much discussion,' he continued, 'is it worth keeping up agitation when that is all that can come of it?'

"In the matter of teachers for the Public and Separate Schools, Conservatives wanted all to pass the same examinations, and Roman Catholics objected to this. Mr. Marter asked : 'Is it our place to try and force it down their throats?'

"He went on :—'We say in the Local Legislature that the schools, Public and Separate, should be inspected by the Public School Inspector ; he may be Protestant or Roman Catholic ; we want one set of inspectors only. But we find our friends of the church opposed to us. We want the text-books the same ; and we thought this would at least be a move in the right direction. But here are facts : We have been fighting this matter for about fifteen years, and what progress has been made on the question? I have no quarrel with any Roman Catholic, friends, and we should pull together, eye to eye, towards the upbuilding of this Province.'"

Further on Mr. Marter said :—"I say I don't think it wise to keep up an agitation on the question solely for agitation's sake. I don't want to do it. I am speaking for myself."

Flop-over and somersault are mild terms to apply to Mr. Marter's change of mind or change of policy. While as the pole star of his party, Mr. Marter is not justified in such violently sudden political gymnastics, he has doubtless an excuse in the pressure that has been brought to bear upon him from the direction of Ottawa. As has been hinted by the EXAMINER previously the sectarian agitation is to be relegated to the back ground for the purposes of the Dominion elections ; and, these being imminent, the orders from Ottawa had to be obeyed by Mr. Marter. In his prompt compliance with the wishes of the Ottawa "bosses," Mr. Marter has again shown himself a worthy follower of Mr. Meredith, who in the matter of Provincial rights, took his cue from his leaders at the Capital, instead of from his duty towards the Province of Ontario.

Mr. Marter also felt moved to make a radical change of base on another question. At London, in his strong attitude on the temperance question, he incurred the hostility of the anti-prohibitionists, and King Dodds in the Sportsman came down in tremendous style upon the leader of the Opposition ; and in the Advocate, Mr. L. P. Kribbs, the editor of the organ of the Licensed Victuallers, copies with approval King Dodd's "flailing of Marter." At London Mr. Marter said that when the party he had the honour of leading in the Legislature could not follow him on the prohibition question—I would let them find another leader." But instead of his followers leaving him in this question, Mr. Marter has left his followers and gone back on his past position. At the meeting of the Conservative Association of Ward No. 5, Toronto, as reported in the Empire, Mr. Marter promulgated his recantation on the temperance question, as follows :

"I possibly was foolish in my stand on this (temperance) question. I had more confidence in temperance men than perhaps I should have."

That Mr. Marter's recantation is complete is shown by the fact that Mr. Kribs, the editor of the Licensed Victuallers' official organ, seconded the motion making Mr. Marter honorary member of the Association, thus putting the hall mark upon the distinguished pervert from prohibition. Now that Mr. Marter has dropped the P. P. A. and prohibition, we may expect him to forfeit his claims upon the eggs and anchovy sauce policy. In respect to the local aspect of the matter, the local spouter in prohibition interests, at the June elections, has certainly reason to feel aggrieved that Mr. Marter has taken so sudden a change of front and caused a waste of so much eloquence.

However, if the great Conservative party in Ontario know where to find Mr. Marter and are satisfied with his shifting stand, the Liberal party has no reason to complain.

OTTAWA'S ICE CARNIVAL.

An Ice Famine Will be the Result of the Large Demand for the Buildings.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—There is likely to be a corner in ice, as every available inch of territory is being secured owing to the coming carnival, as the demand is likely to be so great for the palace, forts, etc. A rough estimate of the amount required for the construction of the ice palace shows a demand for 100,000 cubic feet of ice. The blocks required are to measure 40x20x15 inches. The ice palace is to be completed at least by Monday, January 21. The carnival contract has not been given out yet, in fact tenders were only advertised for yesterday. Meantime hotel men and others are looking ahead, but are surprised at the changed condition of the market.

There was a meeting of the railway committee of the privy council yesterday. Hon. Mackenzie Bowell occupied the chair and these were also present: Sir Adolphe Caron, and Hon. Messrs. Ouimet and Daly. A batch of applications were before the committee but none of importance, all being old cases.

A big insurance deputation from Montreal arrived yesterday and waited upon the Minister of Finance at 2.30 o'clock. The deputation was composed of Geo. Simpson, Royal Insurance Co. ; G. F. Smith, London, Lancashire and Globe ; E. P. Heaton, Guardian Insurance Co. ; Thos. Davidson, North British and Mercantile ; W. M. Ramsay, Standard Insurance Co., and R. Hall Brown, of the London and Liverpool and Globe. They are silent as regards the purpose which brought them here and as to what they said to Hon. Mr. Foster. A member of the deputation, however, went so far as to say that the point at issue was not of local but of general interest and was principally a matter of bookkeeping.

Attempt to Bribe a Juryman.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—At the general sessions yesterday when the Exeter woollen mill robbery case was called, of the full docket of 48 jurors nine did not answer to their names. Of 39 remaining only eight were allowed to go on the jury unobjected to. John Mawson, a middle-aged farmer residing on concession 12, lot 20 of McGillivray was called. "I challenge him for cause," said the Crown Attorney. "The cause is that he has been approached on behalf of prisoner Hodgins to give a verdict in his favor. I am prepared to prove it now." The statement was made deliberately and caused a sensation in court. The prisoner Hodgins was evidently greatly excited. A good deal of argument followed as to the proper legal course. Finally two jurors were ordered to try the case. Mawson admitted that he had been approached. The judge expressed surprise that Mawson had not resented the bribe to break his oath and agreed with the trying jurors, who said they thought it would be more satisfactory if Mawson was challenged.

A Woman Suicides in Essex.

ESSEX, Ont., Dec. 8.—Mrs. John Morrin, wife of a man living near Oldcastle, has just died at the Royal hotel here from the effects of a dose of morphine administered by herself. She went to the hotel and asked for a room and gave orders that she be called at 7 o'clock in the morning. Soon after she called for something to eat, and when the proprietor went up to her room with a lunch she remarked that she was not well. Dr. Dewar was called, and he saw at once that the sleep the woman was in was the result of a dose of poison. He worked all night to restore her to consciousness, which he succeeded in doing about morning. It was only a temporary restoration, however, as she soon sank again into unconsciousness and died in a few hours. Mrs. Morrin had made an attempt to commit suicide here about a month ago by the same means. She has been known to be a user of morphine for some time past.

Trolley Smash in Toronto.

TORONTO, Dec. 8.—Samuel Clayton who is employed as a motorman by the Toronto Street Railway Company, had a narrow escape from death yesterday. He was on a south-bound car on Sherbourne street, when he noticed two loads of hay on the track ahead of him. The farmers saw his car and turned out on the east track, but just then noticed a north-bound car. Turning back again in front of Clayton's car, the first waggon got clear of the track, but the king-bolt in the second one broke and the big load came to a dead stop right in front of the trolley. Clayton applied the brake and reversed his motor, but the down grade and slippery rail made it impossible for him to stop the car, which crashed into the waggon. The vestibule was broken to pieces and Clayton had his nose badly cut, besides receiving painful internal injures. He was taken to his home and attended there by Dr. Frederick Fenton.

A Step from Insanity

Nervous System Completely Broken Down.

No Sleep! No Appetite!

Reduced to a Skeleton!

Paine's Celery Compound Saves the Life of a Postmaster.

Postmaster P. J. Kilbride, of Inverness, P. E. I., owes his life and present good health to the life-giving powers of Paine's Celery Compound.

Some months ago disease had so preyed upon Mr. Kilbride's body that insanity was feared. Her nervous system was shattered and broken, he was a stranger to sleep and rest, and his appetite was lost. Suffering had reduced him to a mere skeleton, and those around him, knowing that medical skill had failed, were expecting him to die.

Friends who had used Paine's Celery Compound, urged Mr. Kilbride to give it a trial. The suggestion was a happy one for the afflicted man. The wonderful medicine soon proved able to cope with the disease. Five bottles of Paine's Celery Compound raised Mr. Kilbride to such a condition of health, that enabled him to say, "I feel myself a new man."

We give Mr. Kilbride's letter in full, it graphically sets forth his struggles with, and his triumph over disease and death:—

"I now write you about Paine's Celery Compound, having just finished the fifth bottle. It is impossible for me to say sufficient, or find words strong enough to praise Paine's Celery Compound as I ought.

"To-day I feel myself a new man. Six months ago, I was on the brink of insanity; my nervous system was completely broken down; I could not sleep more than one or two hours at night, and often did not sleep for four nights in succession. Oh! I never can describe the agony I suffered. I was almost reduced to a skeleton: could only work an hour, when I was so fatigued I would be obliged to lie down and rest before I could resume work.

"The use of your Compound has given me rest and sweet sleep, and I can now work all day. To tell the honest, candid truth I have not felt so well for fourteen years. When I commenced taking Paine's Celery Compound my weight was 144 lbs., now I weigh 168 lbs. I am gaining in flesh every day; my friends are all surprised at my wonderful cure and changed appearance. Oh! if I had only known of this life-saving remedy years ago, I would have escaped many days and nights of terrible pain and agony. Thank God the terrible times have passed, I hope never to return. How I wish I could reach the ear of every man in Canada—those who are suffering as I once suffered—how I would plead with them—yes, on my knees I would ask them to give Paine's Celery Compound a fair trial and I feel confident they would bless me afterwards for my recommendation.

"Young men, take my truthful and candid advice; if you are suffering from a broken-down nervous system, use Paine's Celery Compound; it will thoroughly restore you physically and otherwise.

"I am now in perfect health through no other agency than Paine's Celery Compound. You may use these statements as you choose."

American Trade Report.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Bradstreet's says: At larger eastern cities retail trade has assumed characteristics of the holiday season. Demand from jobbers is mainly to fill out depleted stocks and activity is mainly among retailers. Exceptional quiet is reported at Buffalo, due in large part to the close of lake navigation, and more employes are idle there than previously. At the south there is a seasonable activity in staple goods with a moderate improvement. Among central western cities Cleveland and Cincinnati are exceptional in reporting moderate gains in demand. North of Kansas City and west of Chicago trade reports are less favorable because of unseasonable open weather and throughout Nebraska and adjacent regions owing to need of rain. The tendency of prices is to increased firmness. The improving character of trade of late is showing itself in bank clearing totals, that for this week amounting to $1,061,600,000, an increase of 44 per cent. of the preceeding week.

An Injured Footballer Will Die.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—George Baben, of Richmond, Va., the Georgetown University student, who had his back broken in the football game between the University, Ill., and that of the Columbia A. C. on Thanksgiving day is still alive and conscious, but the doctors say death is certain to result. The injured boy has been told that he will die and has taken the news manfully. He asked that no blame be attached to anyone in connection with his injuries, but partisans of the university are making open accusations that Columbia men deliberately injured Baben.

Fraudulent Use of the Mails.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Dec. 8.—Daniel F. Beatty, the organ manufacturer, was convicted in the United States court here for using the mails for a fraudulent purpose. The complainant, E. D. Sawyer of Reading, Pa., claimed that the organ received by him was not the same which he ordered. The order was given from a cut in the catalogue. The respondent claimed that he did not advertise to ship exactly according to cut, but the jury decided that failure to do so constituted fraud.

HACKED HIM TO DEATH

Brutal Murder of the Janitor of the Hiawatha Flats, Chicago.

HIS BODY FOUND IN A BOX

The Assassins Attempt to Conceal the Crime by Hiding the Corpse Under the Sidewalk—The Dead Man's Assistant and Several Others Arrested.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—Hacked and mangled in a frightful manner the body of an unknown man about 40 years old was found in a pine board shipping case yesterday in the alley back of Woodlawn avenue. Apparently he was a machinist. The wounds on the body are believed to have been inflicted with an axe. The blows were directed against the trunk, and the head escaped injury. The box was marked "G. P. P. Peterson," numbered 2,168 and stamped "made in France." The man's clothes had been removed and the body was wrapped in an old piece of carpet. A bundle of woman's hair was found in the box.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—A. D. Barnes, who was employed as janitor of the Hiawatha apartment building, 258 East 27th street, was murdered in a brutal manner in the basement of the building and an elaborate effort was made by his slayer and accessories after the fact to conceal the crime by hiding the hacked and mutilated corpse in a hole under the sidewalk on South Park avenue. The packing case in which the remains were hidden was discovered in the morning and every person, except perhaps one woman, who is suspected by the police to have had any knowledge of the crime are under arrest.

The circumstantial evidence so far secured against Edmund Jordan, the assistant janitor at the Hiawatha flats, is of the strongest kind and only his confession is lacking to establish beyond any doubt the fact that he hacked the life out of his superior with an axe, cut and broke the limbs of the bleeding corpse so that it could be stowed in the box which he had prepared for it, and then, accompanied by a man and woman, took it in a stolen rig to the lonely hiding place at midnight.

The persons who are in the Woodlawn police station charged with the murder or complicity in the disposal of the body, or held as material witnesses, are: Edmund Jordan, assistant janitor of the Hiawatha flats, the alleged murderer. John Benson Jersey, a boon companion of Jordan, and the man who is suspected of being on the waggon seat with him. A. R. Winslade, engineer of a flat building, 744 Rhodes avenue. Mrs. Andrew R. Winslade, his wife, who is said to have been intimate with Barnes. Annie Mahoney, mistress of Barnes, who loaned him $1,500 and did not get it back. Mrs. Edmund Jordan, wife of the alleged murderer, who is also said to have been unlawfully intimate with Barnes.

The police are trying to find another woman who called at the Hiawatha flats and was anxious to see Barnes, who was out at the time.

It is known by several witnesses that two men with a woman seated between them drove a waggon containing a box south on Cottage Grove avenue from the Hiawatha flats. It is also in evidence against Jordan and Jersey that they met shortly after the time the murder is supposed to have been committed and that Jordan said that the job was done and it did not take an hour to do it. This meeting was in a saloon near the scene of the murder. As to the motive of the deed, the police say that Barnes received his month's pay yesterday and no money can be found in his bloody clothes or in the basement where the man met his death. Robbery on the part of Jordan, who is a good for nothing fellow, may have been one of the motives. Then there was the relationship which is said to have existed between the murdered janitor and the wife of the supposed murderer. But the police believe more than anything else that Jordan wanted to get rid of Barnes for the sake of getting his job, and that in this view of the case Jersey was willing to aid in the hiding of the body and as a reward be installed by Jordan as his assistant.

Sentenced for Obstructing Mails.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 8.—United States Judge Ross sentenced W. H. Clune, Isaac Ross, Philip Stanwood and A. T. Johnson to imprisonment in the county jail for eighteen months and to pay a fine of $1 each. The men compose the mediation board of the local division of the American Railway Union and were convicted on the charge of obstructing the mails during the recent strike.

A STEALTHY FOE.

Bright's Disease May Exist a Long While Before it is Suspected

DROMORE, Dec. 8.—Bright's disease has no symptoms of its own, and may long exist without the knowledge of the patient or practitioner, as no pain may be felt in the kidneys or their vicinity. There may be no albumen in the water or tube casts, yet Bright's disease may be present. It often develops suddenly and may run a fatal course before it is recognised. Bright's Disease is thus recognized as a mysterious, every day malady, which is increasing at an alarming rate. Before Dodd's Kidney Pills were placed within reach of the public, these diseases were considered by medical men and the public to be incurable. Thanks to this popular remedy, thousands are now enjoying perfect health who without it, would to-day be laid away in their graves.

DRUGGISTS AND OPTICIANS

We Don't Talk Much

About our prices, nor are we often found quoting extravagantly —so that what we DO say now, may be taken as BONA-FIDE.

We will, for the balance of the season, offer the remainder of our new selections of

LADIES' and CHILDREN'S MANTLES and ULSTERS

At prices that should make a complete clearance before New Years. Every garment is of this season's newest and latest design, and has only left the makers' hands a few months.

As we do not purpose to carry over a single Mantle or Ulster, buyers can rest assured that no obstacle will be put in the way of letting them go at a BARGAIN.

OUR MANTLE CLOTHS and SEALETTES . . . . .

Will, of coure, have to share the same fate, for the same reason. The pick of our High-Class Stock of any of these Cloths at any of the reduced prices we now offer will be

A SNAP FOR ANY BUYER

who is a judge of the goods.

ALL TRIMMED MILLINERY

Must also come in for a SWEEPING REDUCTION to clear the way for more seasonable goods. One-half former prices will be the tariff that will prevail, and no exceptions or deviations will be made on any of the beautiful class of goods now remaining.

WINTER DRESS GOODS

Of every kind have all been re-examined and re-marked, with Reduced Price Tickets. The former value of these high-class goods have been fully recognized and appreciated by customers, but the reduced prices will enhance their value at least 25 per cent.

WOOL and KNITTED SHAWLS

Still very seasonable, and so much worn, will be dropped in price to ensure a speedy sale at this season of the year.

Inspection invited. No trouble to show goods, and no obligation to buy. What we want is lookers as well at buyers. We don't talk much about prices, but when we say they're down—THEY'RE DOWN.

Solving a Difficult Problem.

There is apt to be in the coming holidays a great deal of worry among both sexes in choosing suitable presents for Xmas offerings to their friends. If any lady or gentleman has upon their mind that some gift must be selected for a friend, sister or brother, a visit to the Peterborough Bookstore will certainly help them out. The beautiful and artistic novelties too numerous to mention are suggestive of Yule tide. A. H. STRATTON & Co., 417 and 419 George street.

A Piano is a Princely Present.

It is not an expense or a luxury—it is an investment—an education. J. W. Crosby sells on the cash or instalment plan, and offers a substantial discount off any high class instrument purchased from him during the holiday season. Think it over, pay a visit to his ware-rooms, No. 343 Water street, and get the benefit of his best terms. He gives you a choice of some of the highest grade pianos from the most popular makers. December is the month when most pianos are sold. Better speak now.

Lynx vs. Wild-cat

Newspaper paragraphers, and hunters who should know better, are accustomed to use the term "wild cat and lynx" synonymously. There is a decided difference, the chief points of difference being the larger feet and shorter tail of the lynx. Any person wishing to have ocular demonstration of the difference between these two members of the cat family may do so by calling at the taxidermic studio of Mr. E. Elcome, 176 Harvey street. He has finely mounted specimens of both lynx and wild cat, which may be examined freely.

The Pains of Rheumatism

According to the best authorities, originates in a morbid condition of the blood. Lactic acid, caused by the decomposition of the gelatinous and albuminous tissues, circulates with the blood and attacks the fibrous tissues, particularly in the joints, and thus causes the local manifestations of the disease. The back and shoulders are the parts usually affected by rheumatism, and the joints at the knees, ankles, hips and wrists are also sometimes attacked. Thousands of people have found in Hood's Sarsaparilla a positive and permanent cure for rheumatism. It has had remarkable success in curing the most severe cases. The secret of its success lies in the fact that it attacks at once the cause of the disease by neutralizing the lactic acid and purifying the blood, as well as strengthening every function of the body.

THE LAST OF THE EVIDENCE NOW IN.

THE SEWER ARBITRATION WILL SOON CLOSE.

The Evidence of the Last Witness has Been Adduced and all That Now Remains is the Argument.

Mr. John J. MacKenzie continued his evidence at the sewer arbitration, yesterday afternoon. He had made a number of tests to ascertain the present purity of the water in the Otonabee. On the fourth of December last, he had taken a sample at waterworks dam and found 302 bacteria per cubic centimetre. The test of the sample from Mr. Irwin's tap in the office there per cubic centimetre. At Auburn, about 20 feet out, a sample showed 525 bacteria per cubic centimetre. This increase was due to the discharge of the mills at this point. Another sample taken just at the mouth of the King street sewer showed about 35,000 or 40,00 bacteria to the cubic centimetre. In testing a sample from the C. P. R. bridge only 560 bacteria were discovered. This he considered a fair proof of what the process of sedementation did towards purifying the water. He found 4000 bacteria per centimetr at the mouth of the Edison sewer and about three hundred yards lower down only 400 per centimetre in the sample.

SHOWED 256 BACTERIA

COULD BE DISCOVERED

At five o'clock, Professor Adami, bacterialogist, of McGill University, was called on behalf of the town. The Professor has been a student of sanitary science and bacterial life for many years and his evidence was strongly corroborative of that offered by Dr. Bryce and Mr. MacKenzie, regarding the impossibility of harm being done by the emptying of the sewage into the river. He had studied and taught in Cambridge and Manchester, Eng., and studied in Paris. Anthrax, he said, was the only disease that cattle could contract by drinking polluted water. It was to be feared in tannery product, but this could be disinfected. He described the growth of typhoid in the human body. The change of atmosphere the germ encountered when discharged from the body would undoubtedly kill it.

TYPHOID GERMS,

when entering a stream were invariably absorbed by by existing micro-organisms which were to be found in every stream. Germs, he was positive, could not multiply in ice. There was no danger, he thought, in cows drinking water from the Otonabee after the sewer had been laid to discharge into the river. Danger only arose when the amount of bacteria exceeded 5000 to the cubic centimetre and this would be out of the question in the river a few yards away from the point of discharge.

Typhoid germs, he said, could not pass into the milk direct of a cow. They might get into the blood but could not live there.

A couple of hours were occupied this morning by the cross-examination of Mr. Mackenzie by Mr. Edmison, but he failed to shake his direct evidence.

Dr. Vanderburg, of Buffalo, an expert witness, who has given evidence on sanitary questions in a great was put on the stand for the town next. Dr. Vanderberg was analytical chemist for Buffalo for a number of years and was also connected with the staff of the Guelph Agricultural College for some time. By his observations and taking into account the evidence of previous witnesses regarding the flow of the stream and the population of the town, he was of the opinion that there would be nothing apparent to the ordinary observer, if the sewage of Peterborough was discharged into the stream. From the chemist's point of view their would exist an

NUMBER OF LAW SUITS

in the stream, but this should not be construed as a menance to the health of the consumer. This referred to both two and four-footed animals, men and cattle. He did not consider any danger could arise from the use of the milk of cattle which drank the river water. The milk could not possibly be contaminated from anything which the cattle drank, as a cow was, practically, a walking laboratory and germs imbibed would be entirely transformed from their elementary state before they had been inside the cow long. The supposition that typhoid could be transferred by water was altogether contrary to the views of scientists. He could state that beyond the shadow of a doubt there could not possibly be danger from the droppings of horses which had drank water in which there were diseased germs. He had never known of a case in all his experience where a horse had become infected with cerebral spinal meningitis from drinking water into which sewage was discharged.

The arbitration is still going on, but it is supposed that the witnesses will be finished by this afternoon, when the argument will probably be heard.

The children's anniversary entertainment will be on Monday, Dec. 17th.

—Don't fail to see J. W. Crosby's superb stock of pianos and organs, the most reliable in tone and durability, the lowest in price, and far cheaper than you can buy from any outside agent. He sells for cash or on the instalment plan. Buy this month, and get the benefit of Crosby's liberal discount during the holiday season. Warerooms, 343 Water street.

—A meeting of the council of the Children's Aid Society of Peterborough, will be held on Monday, at 4.30 p.m., in Mr. G. M. Roger's office. As the Rev. J. Edward Starr, (formerly of this town) will lecture in the Opera house on Thursday evening next upon "The aim, need and scope of the work," it is to be hoped that every member will be present to assist in the preparatory arrangements.

—On Monday afternoon last, while Mr. M. Harrigan of Douro, was starting for Peterborough with a load of wood, the team became frightened and started to run out of the yard. The team made a sudden turn and upset the load of wood on top of Mr Harrigan, who besides receiving severe bruises, had the flesh of his left arm from the elbow down badly torn by the wood. The team made a circuit and returned home.

—The Cobourg Sentinel-Star says that the new railway project has been advanced a stage by an appointment being made for a meeting on Friday last, of Hon. John Haggart, Minister of Railways, Mr. Shaughnessy, of the C.P.R., Mr. Guillet and Mr. Cameron, are at Ottawa, for the purpose of receiving the joint approval of the plans by the Government and the C.P.R. This is another evidence of the material progress being made towards active work on the construction of the line.

A BOLD STEAL.

Over a Hundred Turkeys Raised in a Night.

Mrs. Patrick Ryan, of Douro, who is known far and near for the splendid fowl which she markets, met with a great misfortune recently, when a flock of 116 turkeys belonging to her, was raised and stolen in one night. The miscreants who perpetrated the robbery took their spoil away in two wagons and as no complaint was made to the police, they were suffered to get clear away with the turkeys.

Some of the big gobblers weighed from 16 to 18 pounds each and the hens averaged about ten pounds and the flock was probably worth about $150 at the least. Nineteen turkeys, which were confined in another building, were left unharmed and will be kept to form a nucleus for next year's stock.

A turkey, strange to say, will not make the least outcry of any nature if disturbed at night, and so the thieves calmly loaded up their wagons, without fear of discovery. Mrs. Ryan had a flock of 110 ducks, but these were left undisturbed, luckily for the interlopers, as any effort to capture a duck would certainly have resulted in detection of the raid.

CATHOLIC LITERARY ASSOCIATION.

With the President in the Chair a Most Enjoyable Evening is Spent.

The C. L. A. gave its friends and members a pleasant evening's entertainment on the occasion of the opening of the winter's season. Mr. W. Rudkins, President of the Association, in a neat little speech, welcomed the audience, and expressed the hope that the programme would be a source of enjoyment to them, which, judging by the frequent applause and hearty encores, certainly was.

The ladies and gentlemen participating in the programme deserve great credit. Messrs. Alf. Reynolds and Geo. Butcher in their funny sayings and character sketches, fairly took the house by storm. Miss Maud Morrow contributed a clever and sympathetically played piano solo. The mandolin selections of Mr. W. J. Ricketts, drew forth unstinted applause, proving Mr. Ricketts an artist of no small merit on his instrument. Mr. Alex Miller struck the right chord in his lively selections on the English concertina. Stirring applause greeted the appearance of the ever popular Irish comedian, Dan Donahue, who rendered several Irish songs to the great delight of the audience. Miss L. Jackson, Peterborough's talented soprano, rendered several selections in faultless style. One of the best features of the evening was the clever handling of the fire balls, by Mr. E. Ballard, manipulated by a master hand while burning fiercely. Mr. Ballard appeared to be totally enveloped in flames, and the spectacle presented was decidedly unique and realistic. A duet by Messrs. Mackenzie and Hillier was heartily encored.

Miss K. Hurley acted as accompaniste of the evening, and by her sympathetic playing, added in no small measure to the success of the entertainment.

It is the intention of the Association in the near future to give an "at home," to which all friends and well wishers are cordially invited.

COPPERFIELD AND THE COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

PRESENTATION OF THE NICHOLL'S SCHOLARSHIPS,

And Dicken's "Favourite Child"—Diplomas Conferred — Kleiser's Masterly Monologue -A Delightful Evening.

Last night the Opera House held a fair-sized audience assembled to "assist" in Commencement Exercises of the Peterborough Collegiate, the term "Commencement" in this case being used something on the lucus-a-non-lucendo principle to denote the end instead of the beginning of the fall term. The entertainment, for such the occasion was, in every sense, was varied from those of former years. There was the usual presentation ceremony, but instead of the, to the lads, rather prosy speeches—and the more sensible and apt the prosier, there was a monologue of Kleiser, reflecting the sparkling wit to be found in

DICKENS' FAVOURITE NOVEL,

"David Copperfield." The boys on such an occasion prefer a minute with Micawber to an hour with the sagest orator of them all.

Mr. Grenville P. Kleiser began the entertainment with his splendid monologue founded on David Copperfield, and between the acts the presentations of scholarship and diplomas took place. Mr. J. A. Fife, B. A., Classical Master of the Institute, briefly explained the course of study and referred to the examinations, whose significance was indicated and also referred to the Mrs. Nicholls scholarships, which are provided for from the revenue accruing from a bequest of $2,00 made by the late Mrs. Nicholls. There are three scholarships, of $50, $30, and $20 respectively, amounting to $100, but as the bequest sum only draws interest at 4½ per cent. the amount of interest available for scholarships was only $90 and the deficiency was kindly made up by the School Board at its last meeting.

THE YOUTHFUL LAUREATES.

Miss Lilian Primeau, of Ashburnham, having made the highest marks in the Primary examinations, which correspond with the third class non-professional certificate, was awarded the scholarship of $20. She has been two years in the Institute.

Master Douglass Thom, also of Ashburnham, from, which, however, the family of his father has removed to Welcome, having won the highest marks in the Junior Leaving examination, second class certificate—was awarded the scholarship of $30. He has been three years at the Institute.

Master William Spence, Peterborough, having taken the highest marks in the Senior Leaving examinations, was awarded the $50 scholarship. This brilliant lad is only 16 years of age and as his almost infantile figure appeared upon the the stage to receive his cash,

——"The wonder grew
That one small head could carry all he knew."

What adds to the merit of his achievement is the fact that last year Master Spence captured the Junior Leaving scholarship.

The Education Department grants diplomas to all candidates passing the Primary, Junior Leaving and Senior Leaving Examinations. Mr. Fife also distributed those diplomas last night. Below will be found the names of those who passed at the last examinations:—

Senior Leaving—Miss B. Duff, Miss L. O'Brien, Miss A. Wood, Miss B. A. Best, Miss M. Hamilton, W. J. Spence, J. F. Sullivan, S. G. Cowan, J. Reesel.

Honour Matriculation—A. F. Anderson, C. W. Bell, E. G. Porter.

Pass Matriculation—C. Cragg, J. C. Cummings, V. H. McWilliams, H. B. Orde, C. S. Stone.

Junior Leaving—E. Brown, C. Butler, H. Cahill, E. Carey, M. Carrol, H. Cragg, M. Dobson, A. Elliott, A. Fife, L. Fitzgerald, E. Gillespie, J. Hall, H. Huffman, H. Kindred, E. Matheson, L. Meharry, M. Miller, M. O'Connell, A. Scott, W. Stacey, D. Thom, W. VanEvery.

A SOUND MIND IN A SOUND BODY.

Mr. W. J. Drope, science master, on behalf of the Physical Culture department—as he explained it was the desire of the staff to advance mental and physical development pari passu—prefaced the presentation of the all-round-athlete cup to Mr. Garnet Bell by the remark that the cup was given to the student scoring the largest number of points at the annual Collegiate sports and games tournament.

The first of these was held in 1892, and Mr. Drope on behalf of the staff and pupils, thanked the merchants and citizens for their assistance in contributing prizes. The beautiful silver cup donated by the staff, was won the first year by Harry Orde, the second by Robt. Cairns, and this year by Garnet Bell, to whom Mr. Drope made the presentation in the midst of a big burst of applause.

The audience was composed largely of Institute boys, and they had not by any means left their animal spirits at home. They are noble-spirited lads, too, with no lurking spice of envy in their fresh young hearts, for when the winners of the scholarships advanced to the stage, they were saluted with a perfect cyclone of congratulatory applause, which was strong enough to put out the lights of the central gasalier—at least they went out.

MR. KLEISER'S MONOLOGUE.

Mr. Grenville P. Kleiser, one of our leading Canadian elocutionists, presented a charming dramatization of his own in monologue of Dickens' David Copperfield, and he was most successful in emphasizing the strongly drawn characters of the great novelist's favourite work. He was artistically successful in individualising the several characters he personated so capitally—in face, voice and bearing. The most prominent were: That splendidly drawn type of a grand humble man, the uncouth but thoroughly genuine Peggotty; that almost repulsively clever picture of a cringing, crawling, cork-screwing type of a perfect hypocrite and humbug, Uriah Heep, and the evergreen, super-sanguine or dolefully, hopeless and cast-down Wilkins Micawber.

These as well as the accessory characters Master Davy, Steerforth, Aunt Betsy, Agnes and Lawyer Wickfield, were very strongly pictured, and Mr. Kleiser's presentation of their peculiarities was at all times histrionically excellent, and at times powerful. He held the undivided attention of the audience from the opening scene in Peggotty's "Ark" to the shipwreck, in which the grand, rough deceived "Ham" sacrificed his noble life in the attempt to rescue the scoundrel Steerforth, who had wrecked the hero's life and happiness. Mr. Kleiser well deserved the hearty applause which he received all through his monologue. By special request Mr. Kleiser gave a humourous recitation in such a capital manner that he was compelled to give another, which he did "to a moral." Since his last appearance in Peterborough Mr. Kleiser has greatly broadened and matured and now he deserves to take rank with the leading elocutionists, and more than that, histronic artists of the day. Mr. Kleiser is head of the elocution department of the Toronto College of Music, and if he is as successful in imparting his abilities in this line to his pupils as he is in the public exploitation of them, that institution should present excellent advantages to the student.

Unfortunately Mr. Fessenden, pater Institutionis Collegiensis, principal of the Collegiate Institute, was, unfortunately, unavoidably absent in Toronto, attending an important educational meeting. His absence was the only spot on the sun.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Will Loch is still confined to the house with illness.

Miss Nellie Rose, Havelock, is spending a few days in town.

Mr. C. B. Laine, of Cavanville, is in town for a couple of days.

Grand Master Hoyle is the guest of Mr. D. Belleghem, Hunter street.

Mrs. Geo. Boyce, of Manitoba, is visiting at Miss Downer's 144 Murray street.

Miss Eva Denne, of Peterborough, is visiting friends in the village.—Lakefield News.

Messrs. W. S. Anderson and R. J. Holmes, of Hastings, were up in town this morning.

Mrs. W. McDonald has returned home after a three weeks visit with friends in Peterborough.—Lakefield News.

Mr. Binch, of the Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co., was taken ill while at work, this morning, and had to be removed to his residence in a hack.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

An "informal," "free and easy," "go as you please" affair means a royal good time without the restraint of formality, and that is what our song service will be to-night. We will gather around the piano in the parlours and enjoy forty-five minutes of song. Your favourite will be sung. Be there to join in. First chapter begins at 8 o'clock—"finis" 8.45.

Does it pay to advertise? Why, certainly. When people believe you will do what you advertise. Our "advertised" time for closing our Sunday afternoon meeting is 5 o'clock, and we make it a point to live up to that. To-morrow you may expect a treat in the shape of an address by Rev. Symonds, of St. Luke's, a solo by Mr. Mulligan and a duet by Messrs. Steers and W. J. Squires. All this happens between 4.15 and 5 o'clock. All young men are welcome.

That "Glee Club" will meet Monday night at 8 o'clock.

HORSEFLESH FOR FOOD.

The Taste for It Spreading in Europe—Sentiment and Science Against It.

Hippophagy, or to speak less euphemistically, the habit of eating horseflesh, is spreading in Europe. While savage man is known to have sated his ravenous hunger on horseflesh or any other variety of flesh he could find, the modern origin of this peculiar taste dates from the siege of Paris, during the Franco-Prussian war, when the populace were compelled from dire necessity to sacrifice this noble quadruped to sustain life. Many acquired a taste for the meat and the demand for it did not cease with the capitulation of the city.

"It was to be seen on sale at many of the butchers' stalls, and has been ever since a staple article of diet for thousands of the poor of the French capital. For horseflesh is much cheaper than beef. Beef in Paris is worth 20 cents a pound, while horseflesh can be had for 8 cents a pound, which affords a reason why the barbarous custom should take such a firm hold upon these people when once necessity gave it root.

Once planted in Paris the practice spread to other Continental cities, especially Berlin, where horseflesh is now consumed in considerable quantities by the poorer classes, and the medical authorities and humanitarians are raising their voices against what they justly consider a barbarous and dangerous custom.

The medical men warn the eaters of horseflesh that the horse is particularly liable to the disease known as trichinosis, also found in hogs, and while cooking generally destroys the germs of this disease, it cannot always be depended upon to do so. The disease is frightfully fatal in its effects and baffles medical skill.

The humanitarians take the ground of sentiment, urging the almost human affection of the horse and the close companionship he has shared with man since the dawn of the human race. A base return, they deem it, to slaughter and eat this noble creature. In spite of these warnings and protests hippophagy is on the increase in Europe. It has not yet reached England, nor is it likely to as long as the roast beef and mutton of Australia and New Zealand last. Still, if the sentimental Britishers are too squeamish to eat their horses, they are not too squeamish to sell them to the Continent to be eaten. Quite a number of superannuated equines are exported for that purpose.

OTONABEE LODGE'S 12TH ANNIVERSARY.

IN COMMEMORATION OF THE RESUSCITATION.

A Most Pleasant "at Home" Attended by Hundreds of the Citizens—Presentation of a Programme of Unusual Excellence.

Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, I. O. O. F., celebrated the 12th anniversary of its resuscitation, last night, by the holding of an "at home," in the spacious and handsomely furnished apartments of the two local lodges of Oddfellows. The mode of the entertainment consisted in a concert of unusual excellence, followed by a hop.

The chair was taken by Dr. Bell, who welcomed the guests most cordially and made a few timely remarks concerning which Oddfellowship had made in Peterborough during the last few years. Twelve short years ago, Otonabee Lodge was defunct and the total number of Oddfellows in town was forty-two. There had been a steady increase in the membership of the organization since that time until now the membership rolls of the combined lodges show an increase to over 300. As all were cognizant of the good work done by the Order, the doctor considered it needless to go into particulars and make any lengthy remarks.

THE PROGRAMME

was presented as follows:

Selection	Butcher's Orchestra
Solo	Mrs. Stapleton
Solo	Mr. Kelly (encored)
Selection	Mr. Adams (encored)
Solo	Miss Fawcett
Instrumental	Misses Hall and Wrighton
Legerdemain	Mr. R. M. Roy
Selection	Messrs. Mercer and Adams
Address	W. H. Hoyle, Grand Master
Selection	Butcher's Orchestra
Solo	Mr. H. King (encored)
Whistling solo	Master E. Hall
Solo	Mrs. W. A. Sanderson
Humorous song in character	Messrs. Mercer and Adams (encored)

Accompanists, Miss Grant and Mr. Crane.

The selections played by the orchestra during the course of the evening were most excellently rendered, and the general style of the execution of the personnel was of a high standard. Mrs. Stapleton was in unusually good voice, and sang with pleasing effect a solo

She was followed by Mr. Moore Kelly, of Toronto, in the vocal solo, "Tell Her If I Love Her So." Mr. Kelly is an old favourite in Peterborough, where his magnificent vocal powers are always appreciated to the fullest extent.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC ENCORE

was accorded him to which he kindly responded although suffering from the effects of a heavy cold.

A humorous selection by Mr. Adams won him hearty applause and he was forced to respond to an encore.

Miss Annie Fawcett's voice never appeared to better advantage than it did last evening, when she sang "Daddy" a vocal solo, carrying a most harmonious swing and rythm with it.

The audience was much pleased and greatly appreciated an instrumental duet which was brilliantly executed by Misses Hall and Wrighton. Much mystification was engendered by Mr. R. M. Roy in his clever manipulation of a number of large iron rings and other feats of legerdemain.

MR. W. H. HOYLE,

Grand Master, was then introduced by the chairman, and made a short address. Mr. Hoyle is a most engaging speaker, as through all his remarks runs a vein of delicate humour which lends a peculiar interest and attractiveness to his utterances. He referred to Mr. Roy's sleight of hand tricks with the rings as doubtless most mystifying, but stated that the mystery which was attached to the three links of Oddsellowship was still greater. These links though apparently small, were yet sufficiently elastic to encircle the globe. He was most proud of the fact that he belonged to what was sometimes called the "chain gang."

When invited to attend the present "At Home" he had been led to think of that

PLEASANT OLD ENGLISH WORD

"home," and all its pleasant attributes. No language in the world possessed a synonym for it. The nearest he believed was that of the French—chateau, but it must be noticeable how far such a word was from expressing the feeling and pathos of "home." The Order of Oddfellowship was essentially an organization which benefitted the homes of its members. Through its teachings men were taught to lead manlier and purer lives and Oddfellowship had not a great deal of use for bachelors as would be evidenced by the fact that the position of chairman of the Widows and Orphan's fund was always occupied by one of

of the lodge. Oddfellowship was no fiction, but something which commended itself to every upright and intelligent person in the land.

Otonabee's number was 13, but the evidences of prosperity which were apparent in the lodge were a complete refutation of the idea that 13 was an unlucky number. In Ontario there was now an enrollment of 23,000 Oddfellows, and under fifteen governments there was an existing membership of over a million. The order was the largest numerically, fraternally, socially and financially in the world.

The remarks of the Grand master were listened to with and when he concluded the warmest applause was accorded him.

Mr. H. King was in unusually good voice last night and received an encore for his tasteful rendering of his number.

A whistling solo by Master E. Hall was a novelty and was warmly applauded.

Mrs. W. Sanderson, as a vocal solo, contributed Clifton Bingham's "Leonore" in a particularly pleasing manner. Her tasteful rendering of this pretty solo was well received and greatly appreciated.

Messrs. Mercer and Adams made the hit of the evening in their humourous character sketch entitled "Two Irish Cuckoos." It was a rollicking duet sung in a very catchy strain, and brought down the house. The two clever singers were recalled twice before the audience was satisfied.

During the evening refreshments were served and at the conclusion of the literary part of the programme a hop was conducted for several hours to music furnished by Butcher's orchestra.

The members of the Lodge wish to express their great appreciation of the services of those who so kindly assisted in the presentation of the programme.

THE FATE OF CHRISTMAS.

It Will Yet Be a Day to Satisfy Every Human Being.

Those who are anxious about the fate of Christmas, whether it is not becoming too worldly and too expensive a holiday to be indulged in except by the very poor, mark with pleasure any indications that the true spirit of the day—brotherhood and self-abnegation and charity—is infusing itself into modern society. The sentimental Christmas of thirty years ago could not last; in time the manufactured jollity got to be more tedious and a greater strain on the feelings than any misfortune happening to one's neighbor. Even for a day it was very difficult to buzz about in the cheery manner prescribed, and the reaction put human nature in a bad light. Nor was it much better when gradually the day became one of the Great Expectations, and the sweet spirit of it was quenched in worry or soured in disappointment. It began to take on the aspect of a great lottery, in which one class expected to draw in reverse proportion to what it put in, and another class knew that it would only reap as it sowed. The day, blessed in its origin, and meaningless if there is a grain of selfishness in it, was thus likely to become a sort of Clearing-house of all obligations, and assume a commercial aspect that took the heart out of it—like the enormous receptions for paying social debts which take the place of the old-fashioned hospitality. Everybody knew, meantime, that the spirit of goodwill, the grace of universal sympathy, was really growing in the world, and that it was only our awkwardness that, by striving to cram it all for a year into twenty-four hours, made it seem a little farcical. And everybody knows that when goodness becomes fashionable goodness is likely to suffer a little. A virtue overdone falls on t'other side. And a holiday that takes on such proportions that the Express companies and the Post-office cannot handle it is in danger of a collapse. In consideration of these things, and because, as has been pointed out year after year, Christmas is becoming a burden, the load of which is looked forward to with apprehension—fear has been expressed that the dearest of all holidays in Christian lands would have to go again under a sort of protest, or into a retreat for rest.

But the writer is enabled to announce for the encouragement of the single minded in this best of all days, at the close of a year which it is best not to characterize, that those who stand up on the social watch-towers in Europe and America begin to see a light—or, it would be better to say, to perceive a spirit—in society which is likely to change many things, and, among others, to work a return of Christian simplicity. As might be expected in these days, the spirit is exhibited in the sex which is first at the wedding and last in the hospital ward. And as might have been expected, also, this spirit is shown by the young woman of the period, in whose hands are the issues of the future. If she preserve her present mind long enough, Christmas will become a day that will satisfy every human being, for the purpose of the young woman will pervade it. The tendency of the young woman generally to simplicity, to a deference to her elders, and to tradition, has been noted. The present phenomenon is quite beyond this, and more radical. It is, one may venture to say, an attempt to conform the inner being to the outward simplicity. If one could suspect the young woman of taking up any line not original, it might be guessed that the present fashion (which is bewildering the most worldly men with a new and irresistible fascination) was set by the self-revelations of Marie Bashkirtseff. Very likely, however, it was a new spirit in the world, of which Marie was the first publishing example. Its note is self analysis, searching, unsparing, leaving no room for the deception of self or of the world. Its leading feature is extreme candor. It is not enough to tell the truth (that has been told before) but one must act and tell the whole truth. One does not put on the shirt front and the standing collar and the knotted cravat of the other sex as a mere form; it is an act of consecration, of rigid, simple come-out-ness into the light of truth. This noble candor will suffer no concealments. She would not have her lover even, still more the general world of men, think she is better, or rather other, than she is. Not that she would like to appear a man among men, far from that; but she wishes to talk with candor and be talked to candidly.

The statesman who is busy about his tariff and his reciprocity, and his endeavor to raise money like potatoes, may little heed and much undervalue this advent of candor into the world as a social force. But the philosopher will make no such mistake. He knows that they who build without woman build in vain, and that she is the great regenerator, as she is the great destroyer. He knows too much to disregard the gravity of any fashionable movement. He knows that there is no power on earth that can prevent the return of the long skirt. And that if the young woman has decided to be severe and candid and frank with herself and in her intercourse with others, we must submit and thank God.

And what a gift to the world is this for the Christmas season! The clear-eyed young woman of the future, always dear and often an anxiety, will this year be an object of enthusiasm.

CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER.

DR. EVANS' OPEN LETTER.

CAREFULLY INVESTIGATED BY THE CANADA FARMERS' SUN.

Miss Koester and her Parents Endorse the Statements Contained in the Open Letter The Doctor's Action in Making the Facts Public Fully Justified.

From the Farmers' Sun.

In an open letter published in the Canada Farmers' Sun of Sept. 19th, over the signature of Dr. Evans, of Elmwood, attention was called to the remarkable case of Miss Christina Koester, of North Brant, who was attended by the doctor in March, 1892, when suffering from inflammation of the left lung, which subsequently developed all the signs of consumption. In June of the same year she wasted to a skeleton, and was suffering from an intense cough, with profuse expectoration of putrid matter, accompanied by hectic fever. Her recovery was despaired of until Dr. Evans, at a stage when other remedies had proved valueless, administered Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Within a week the symptoms had abated, and a month after the change of medicine Miss Koester was able to drive to Elmwood, a distance of six miles, and was in good health, except for the weakness occasioned by so long an illness.

The publication of the doctor's statement of which the above is a condensation, created considerable interest, especially when it was rumored that Dr. Evans was likely to be disciplined by the Medical Council for his action in certifying to the efficacy of an advertised remedy. A representative of The Canada Farmers' Sun was commissioned to carefully investigate the matter and ascertain how far the doctor's statements were corroborated by the patient's family.

An interview with Christina Koester, her father and mother, was held at the homestead, in the township of North Brant. Miss Koester is a well developed, healthy looking girl of eighteen years of age. She stated that she was now in the enjoyment of perfect health and able to do her part in the labours of the farm, and had not since her cure had any recurrence of her former trouble.

Tado Koester, father of Christina, said that the statements as published in Dr. Evans' open letter as to his daughter's recovery were correct. She was first taken sick about the 15th of March, 1893, of inflammation of the left lung, and after treatment by Dr. Evans seemed to recover after about two weeks, but again relapsed with the apparently hopeless conditions described in the letter. She was terribly wasted. Every night she coughed up a large bowlful of fetid matter. The family had completely given up all hopes of her recovery, and for two nights sat up with her expecting that she would die. After beginning the Pink Pills a change for the better was speedily noticeable. The cough began to discontinue and in one month had entirely ceased, when, as stated in the doctor's letter, she was sufficiently recovered to drive to Elmwood. She continued taking the pills until October. Christina had been quite well since and this fall had been pitching sheaves and helping in the harvest field.

Mrs. Koester concurred with her husband's statements throughout, and was emphatic in testifying to Christina's reduced and weakly condition at the crisis of the disease and the completeness of her recovery.

In view of the corroboration by Miss Koester and her parents of the statements made in Dr. Evan's letter, all doubts in the matter must be set at rest, and the doctor's action in giving the facts of this remarkable case to the public is fully justified.

Where Potatoes Can't Be Boiled.

When the barometer stands at thirty inches sea level, showing an atmospheric pressure of fifteen pounds to the square inch, the boiling point of water is 212 degrees Fahrenheit. When part of this pressure is removed by ascending to higher levels, water will boil before coming to a heat of 212 degrees, or if a descent is made into a level below the level of the sea the boiling point will rise accordingly. Thus it is plain to see that in highly elevated regions, where there is less atmospheric pressure upon the water, the boiling point is much lower than at sea level—in other words, it will boil before it is sufficiently heated to cook potatoes, beans, etc. An elevation of but 510 feet makes a diminution of one degree in the boiling point. At the City of Mexico, where the elevation is 7,471 feet above sea level, water will boil at 196 1-2 degrees; at Quito, which is 9,541 feet, the boiling point is reached at 194 degrees. It will be seen, therefore, that boiling is not always equally hot. At the places mentioned and in several localities in our own country, many articles of food cannot be cooked at all by boiling; or, if they can, it takes several hours, where a few minutes should suffice.—St. Louis Republic.

Scraped With a Rasp.

Sirs,—I had such a severe cough that my throat felt as if scraped with a rasp. On taking Norway Pine Syrup I found the first dose gave relief, and the second bottle completely cured me.

A Wise Young Woman.

Estelle—I am going shopping for Christmas presents to-morrow. Don't you want to go too?

Mabel—No, I can't say I do. Fact is, I've made all my purchases. Did it before the holiday rush began.

Estelle—When did you go?

Mabel—About the middle of last January.

Christmas Giving.

The moment a gift is expected it loses all its sacredness and worth. It is often the surprise of a present which makes its charm. We ought to make an effort to surprise the deserving poor on Christmas in this way, to seek them out and lighten their needs by some offering when they least look for it. It would be an excellent training for children who have been reared in wealth or even in confort to take them about among the poor people the week before Christmas and let them decide whether they would receive their usual load of expensive toys or donate the money to the relief of the destitute.

Not Exactly a Moment of Triumph.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
[illegible] Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but step, I mean,

They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home.
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life!
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

Trade in the Dominion.

MONTREAL, Dec. 8.—Throughout the Dominion the holiday trade is conspicuously active. Mild weather here has checked the distribution of dry goods, woolens and furs and collections are only fair. Groceries and fancy goods are in better demand at Toronto, but dry goods and clothing are quiet. At St. Johns, N. B., general trade for the year is about equal to that of 1893, as the fish business was increased. Nova Scotia crops, except oats, are quite satisfactory. Bank clearings at Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax aggregate $20,658,000 this week against $19,545,000 last week and $21,704,000 in the week a year ago. There are 33 business failures reported from the Dominion of Canada this week. Last week the total was 35, last year it was 28 and in the week two years ago 31.

Fruit Growers Conclude Their Convention.

ORILLIA, Ont., Dec. 8.—Yesterday was devoted by the delegates to the fruit growers' convention in visiting points of interest in and about the town, not the least being the asylum for the feeble minded, where the association had been invited to an inspection of the institution and to lunch afterwards. Dr. Beaton presided, and at the close of the banquet he and others made short and happily worded addresses. The visiting delegates and officers left by the afternoon train for their several homes, all pleased and delighted with the success of their convention.

Arrested on a Serious Charge.

TORONTO, Dec. 8.—On the charge of criminally assaulting two little girls David Thompson, a twenty-year-old resident of Malvin, appeared before Squire Wingfield yesterday. The crime is alleged to have been committed while Thompson was boarding with Mrs. Matthews, the mother of the girls, at Scarboro Junction. The girls are 14 and 12 years old respectively, and their father, a sailor, is away on the lakes. County Constable Burns, assisted by Constable Booth, captured Thompson. He was remanded until Wednesday.

A Farmer Killed by Bandits.

GUTHRIE, Ok., Dec. 8.—Farmers living near Cushing recently gave deputy marshals information about the gang of outlaws that infested that region. Yesterday four of the outlaws visited the home of Cyrus King, one of these farmers, shot him to death and burned his property.

Killed by Whitecaps.

LOUISVILLE, Dec. 8.—Tom Edgington, living near Springfield, Ky., was killed by whitecaps yesterday. He had been notified to stop beating his wife.

Plot to Kidnap the Young Heir.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—The Morning Post prints a story to the effect that soon after the birth of the Duke of York's son a plot to kidnap him was disclosed. A special detective, it says, was appointed to protect the child and he is still on duty.

Twenty Years for Wife Murder.

JERSEY CITY, Dec. 8.—The jury in the case of Edward Mahaffey, of Harrison, N.J., who kicked his wife to death on September 2, returned a verdict of murder in the second degree. He was sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment.

A Kick That May be Serious.

HAMILTON, Dec. 8.—Hattie Finlayson, aged 9 years, daughter of Mr. John Finlayson, 41 Elgin street, was kicked in the stomach by a 7-year-old lad named Johnson on Sunday afternoon just coming out of Knox Sunday school. The little girl is now suffering from inflammation of the bowels as a result of the kick. Her condition is serious and fatal results are feared.

An Absconder Dies Abroad.

MONTREAL, Dec. 8.—The death is announced of Dal Whitney, the former secretary of the Montreal Harbor Commissioners, was obliged to leave town a few years ago owing to a discrepancy in his accounts. He died at Seattle, W. T., from typhoid fever.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Dec. 8, 1894.

On the street here 50 bushels of wheat brought 61 to 62 for white and 60 to 61 for red; 1,500 bushels of barley 40 to 45, and 500 of oats at 30 1-2 to 31.

There have been 3,011,000 bushels of wheat (flour included) exported from the United States (Canada none) this week, compared with 2,558,000 bushels in the like week one year ago, 4,404,000 bushels two years ago, and 6,033,000 bushels three years ago.

At Buffalo sellers of barley are not quite so firm in their views, but have made no concessions as yet. The demand continues light.

Wheat declined in Chicago on lower cables, closing 5-8 to 3-4c lower. Corn was firm on light receipts and closed 1-4 higher. Oats were steady with an upward tendency.

At East Buffalo the sheep and lambs offerings were 73 cars, of which 16 cars were Canadas. The market was dull Canada lambs sold at $3.90 to $4.10, and there was a fair clearance at these figures mostly at $4 to $4.05.

Americans were dull to flat in London on the expected gold shipments from America. The Bank of England is said to have reduced the selling price of eagles and a half penny per ounce. South Americans were weak on the continued rise in the Argentine gold premium.

On Wall street the improving tendency in grangers was heightened by conjectures as to the possible success in Congress of the interstate law amendment, permitting, subject to the commission, pooling of railway earnings. That it will pass both Houses still seems a matter of great doubt, for western sentiment is strong against it. It was natural that this movement, in its way more legitimate in character than any witnessed for many days, should have influenced the general list. Sugar stock also rose, partly because of the Congressmen's decision to take no further action on the tariff. The coal stocks rose with reports that the trade was already more firmly held in hand.

Universal Testimony

Cannot be disputed, and the case is yet to be heard from in which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor has failed to perform a perfect cure. This with painless and rapid action and freedom from annoyance during use. The great corn and bunion cure stands unrivalled. Sure, safe, painless. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

THREE RUNNING SORES

PHYSICIANS FAILED

BUT B.B.B. CURED

DEAR SIRS—After having used Burdock Blood Bitters for Scrofula in the blood, I feel it my duty to make known the results. I was treated by a skilled physician but he failed to cure me. I had three Running Sores on my neck which could not be healed until I tried B. B. B., which healed them completely, leaving the skin and flesh sound and whole. As long as I live I shall speak of the virtues of B.B.B., and I feel grateful to Providence that such a medicine is provided for sufferers.

UNENDURABLE ITCHING

Suffered Three Years—Now Perfectly Cured by B. B. B.

GENTLEMEN—I have used Burdock Blood Bitters for Skin Diseases, from which I have been a sufferer for three years. I have used six bottles and am now entirely cured. I tried other remedies, such as Donald Kennedy's Medical Discovery and the Caticura Remedies, but all to no good. I doctored one year with the best physicians in the land; they pronounced my disease a Scaly Eruption, but could not remove it. It came on in red blotches and spread over my body, the skin became dry and formed hard dry scales. The itching was intolerable, but I am now completely cured, and I owe it all to B. B. B.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

A Colored Father's Crime.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 8.—William Jones, colored, was convicted yesterday of the murder of his daughter. The girl was cut to pieces last spring in a lonely part of the city. Examination disclosed the fact that she would soon become a mother. The theory of the state was that Jones was responsible for his daughter's condition and murdered her to prevent his unnatural liason becoming known. It was proven that Jones had attempted to procure an abortion on the girl.

Minneapolis Murder Mystery.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 8.—Harry T. Hayward and Adry A. Hayward, were arrested on suspicion of being connected with the murder of Catharine Ging, were arraigned yesterday before Judge Holt and notwithstanding the appeal of counsel for defendants for an immediate hearing, the court continued the case until Thursday next. There are no new developments tending to unfold the mystery.

A Colored Murderer to be Hanged.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—David Hampton, the colored hostler, who murdered Annette Aherns on December 29, 1892, was arraigned before Judge Martine yesterday. He was brought down from Sing Sing to hear his death sentence repeated. Judge Martine fixed the date of his execution for the week beginning January 28, 1895. Hampton heard the court's decree with stolid indifference.

Confessed His Awful Crime.

ZANESVILLE, Ohio, Dec. 8.—Jacob Cherry is under arrest here as the self-confessed murderer of his wife. He says that he and his wife had an altercation after they went to bed Tuesday night and she threatened to leave him. He became enraged and choked her until she was insensible and then cut her throat with a razor.

"Two Feet on the Fender."

Dr. Holmes, several years ago, asked a friend: "What is your idea of happiness?" And the prompt answer, "Four feet on the fender," gave him great satisfaction. Some time later, perhaps a year or more, this friend found Dr. Holmes in his study, sitting alone by the fire, looking not very happy. To the visitor's solicitous greeting came the reply: "Only two feet on the fender."

BOOTS HAVE HAD THEIR DAY.

Trade Affected by the Increased Wear of Shoes by Americans.

The diminished use of boots is a matter of concern to the manufacturers of them and to the producers of heavy leather and heavy calf skins, says the Shoe and Leather Reporter. Twenty years ago the calf boot industry was a leading one in New England. Whole towns were studded with factories which produced calf boots exclusively. For a decade the sale has been gradually falling off, and to-day it is of hardly any importance. A few manufacturers of shoes include boots as a specialty, but the demand is too light to amount to much. When calf boots were more in vogue manufacturers consulted the partialities of the cowboys, to whom price was a secondary consideration. The legs were frequently corded with silk stitching. The star and crescent and other fanciful ornamentations were inlaid on the legs of the boots; there were high heels and the boots were striking specimens of mechanical art. The soles were inlaid with copper, zinc and brass nails. The cowboys no longer pay $15 or $20 for a pair of boots. They want substance instead of show. But they were not the only wearers of calf boots. They were extensively worn. Many men prefer them to day, though the number is growing less. The old fashioned stoga boots were formerly sold in large quantities; they are well nigh obsolete. There followed a demand for a lighter and more stylish article. A kip boot of lighter texture was produced, about equal in appearance to the best calf boot, but this, too, has fallen somewhat into disuse, and the sales this season are scarcely over one-half the usual amount. Where there were twenty factories producing boots exclusively there is now not one. Even the farmers are using heavy shoes instead of boots, and if it becomes a necessity to wear long legged boots they buy rubbers. Twenty years ago the entire product of Salem and Peabody was heavy boots and brogan leather. To-day there are less than half a dozen tanners making it. Brogans and plowshoes are indispensable in many sections of country, but there are comparatively few exclusive manufacturers of these now. The Creedmoor, Dom Pedro, English ties and Creole congress are supplanting them. The decline in the consumption of calf boots affects the tanners of calf skins. It is a question what is to be done with heavy skins. The tanners must necessarily buy more or less of them. They cannot select light and medium weights exclusively, and if they tan them they feel no certainty of being able to dispose of them in the finished state. There is, nevertheless, a use in this world for whatever is good for anything, and there will be some way of disposing of heavy calf skins, though for the moment it appears difficult to point out the direction into which they will be moved.

When Others Fail

Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the shattered system by giving vigorous action to the digestive organs, creating an appetite and purifying the blood. It is prepared by modern methods, possesses the greatest curative powers, and has the most wonderful record of actual cures of any medicine in existence. Take only Hood's.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, and do not purge, pain or gripe. 25c.

Pleasant as Syrup.

Mr. Douglas Ford, Toronto, Ont., states that Milburn's Cod Liver Oil Emulsion with Wild Cherry Bark is free from objectionable taste, being almost as pleasant as syrup, while for coughs and colds it gives complete satisfaction, acting promptly even in obstinate cases.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

THE LITTLE MEETING LASS.

When meeting bells begin to toll,
And pious folks begin to pass,
She deftly tied her bonnet on,
The little sober meeting lass,
All in her neat white-curtained room, before her tiny looking-glass.

So nicely round her lady cheeks
She smoothed her bands of glossy hair,
And innocently wondered if
Her bonnet did not make her fair—
Then sternly chid her foolish heart for harboring such fancies there.

So square she tied the satin strings,
And set the bows beneath her chin;
Then smiled to see how sweet she looked;
Then thought her vanity a sin.
And she must put such thoughts away before the sermon should begin.

But, sitting 'neath the preached Word,
Demurely in her father's pew,
She thought about her bonnet still—
Yea, all the parson's sermon through,
About its pretty bows and buds, which better than the text she knew.

Yet, sitting there, with peaceful face,
The reflex of her simple soul,
She looked to be a saint—
And maybe was one on the whole—
Only that her pretty bonnet kept away the aureole.

The Earth in Miniature.

Four leading French scientists, Villard, Cotard, Seyrig and Tissandier, have succeeded in making a wonderful model of the earth. It is a huge sphere, 42 feet in diameter, and has painted upon its outside all the details of the earth's geography At Paris, where this pigmy world is being exhibited, an iron and glass dome has been erected over the globe. The building is eight-sided and is well provided with elevators and stairways, which make it an easy task for the visitor to thoroughly examine "all parts of the world." The globe weighs 18 tons, but is so nicely balanced that it can be easily rotated by a small handwheel. The entire surface area is 32 feet which is sufficient to exhibit all the mountains, rivers, islands, cities, etc., even to the principal thoroughfares the latter.

SPREEWALD MAIDENS.

STILL RETAIN MEDIAEVAL DRESS AND BRIDAL COSTUMES.

Some of the Quaint Things to Be Seen Only a Few Miles From Germany's Capital—The Island of the Amager and Its Old-Fashioned Inhabitants.

There is a little island lying in the sound a few miles from Copenhagen, the highly cultured capital of Denmark. It is called Amager, or Amak. Its quaint community, numbering 10,000 inhabitants, descends from a colony of Hollanders, who were induced by King Christian II., in 1516, to come and cultivate its fertile soil. The fame of the Dutch for growing fine flowers, especially tulips, luscious fruits, and vegetables had spread far and wide, and the Copenhagen market at that time was sorely in need of these staples. The Amagers have occupied their little isle for nearly four centuries. Their Dutch boats have plied to and fro, between Copenhagen and the insular towns, their maids have served the aristocracy of the Scandinavian metropolis, and all have lived in constant intercourse with the most refined and enlightened of Danish society, but all this has not been able to overthrow their national individuality. Their patois still savors of the idiomatic Dutch and provincial gutturals, the same strange costumes are worn by men, women, and children which Jan Steen and Van Dyke have perpetuated on canvas, and their manner of marriage and living and baptismal customs are precisely what they were 400 years ago. Matrimonal alliances outside of their own environment are scarce. Here, however, their remains little of the superstitious. A holy reverence for evangelical faith and life makes jails and poorhouses superfluous, and their scruples against intermarriage, do not cause either mental or physical deterioration. The conscientious cleanliness, proverbial of all Hollanders, has also been transplanted and maintained on Danish soil.

In the Bresse and Vendee provinces, not far from fashionable Paris, men and women still cling to the grotesque headgear of the knightly period. Corsets are ridiculed, and the independent bourgeoisie of the Atlantic provinces snap their fingers at all new-fangled caprices of fickle society.

The same strict adherence to traditional life, costumes, and jargon, characterizes the peasants and fishermen of Friesland and Heligoland, across the Znider Zee from historic Amsterdam, though not extravagantly pervaded by religious eccentricities. The Dutch chocolate companies who exhibited at the World's Fair arrayed the girl waiters in the peculiar dress and gold and silver caps which the Frisian women wear to the present day.

That in the heart of Prussia, a few miles from Berlin, the quaint Spreewalders have been able to uphold their Wendish individuality, is remarkable. The graphic sketches which Artist Westphalen, of Moderne Kunst, has gathered on the banks of the Spree show that they have not yet been influenced by the modern progress with which the great Prussian capital has always been identified.

Much that is new and much that is peculiar is encountered in the Spreewald. Both nature and people differ from the rest of Germany. For centuries this has been a most picturesque region, separated from the historic highways of the North. Many usages and customs have outlived all innovations of modern times from the early Wendish period. The saga spring is still kept running, the forest and meadows are still peopled with all sorts of ghostly gnomes and uncanny water folk.

One thing must not be expected on a tour through the Spreewald—luxurious hotel accommodations. Sumptuously equipped buffets, with haughty-mienced kellners, have not yet deprived these parts of their simple rusticity. There are nevertheless a few unassuming gasthoefe (roadside inns), with amiable hosts who provide plain palatable food and wolesome beverages.

Malcontent epicures had better steer clear of the Spreewald, but let all who yearn for air and sunshine, for sweet seclusion for soul and body, come to these shaded woodpaths and brook-watered meadows, where overfilled highways are unknown, where, instead of the everlasting wagon rattle and horse trot, resound the song of the lark, the call of the cuckoo, and the beat of the blackbird.

What a charming variation of park and rural landscapes and prettily bridged river scenes! Here and there an oddly constructed cottage, an old fashioned farmyard, and occasionally a hoary church, that seems to have withstood the storms and ravages of ages. And such attractive little gardens aroound the houses, such a tasteful arrangement of fruit trees and flower beds!

Baptisms, weddings, and funerals remain in every detail just what they were when Christianity first weaned the Wends away from pagan practices. As well do away with the sacrament altogether as to seek to alter the least in the ceremonies and usages here connected with them.

The women go to the Lord's supper in funeral attire—an all black dress with white neckwear and white bonnet. The bride also appears in white on the wedding day. It differs from the funeral and sacrament in that for the marriage ceremony a plain black skirt and bodice is surmounted by a broad royal white ruffled collar, such as Norwegian and Danish pastors wear over their ministerial gowns while officiating. The collar almost conflicts with the large myrtle crown so that the rosy face can barely peep from between the tulip-shaped adornaments. The metropolitan who witnesses the ceremony wonders how the bridegroom will be able to impart the traditional wedding kiss without serious damage to the starched envelopment.

LARGE SORES ON FACE

Last Use of Hands from Blood Poisoning. Physicians and Remedies No Benefit. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

I have used your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and can truthfully say that they are everything and more than you represent them. Last spring I was greatly troubled with blood poisoning caused by Diphtheria. Large sores made their appearance on my face, and my hands were in such a condition that I could not use them. After trying numerous physicians and remedies and receiving no benefit therefrom, I was advised to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and did so, and I am now free from all my skin trouble. I cannot speak praise enough for your remedies.

BABY SEVERELY AFFLICTED

My baby was severely afflicted with some dreadful skin disease. Its head, face and hands for awhile were nearly one solid sore. I had doctors prescribe for it, tried several remedies, but all seemed to do no good. I saw an advertisement of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and concluded to try them. I bought a complete set, and began using, and now my little girl seems to be completely cured.

CUTICURA WORKS WONDERS

Since a single cake of CUTICURA SOAP, costing 25c., is sufficient to test the virtues of these great curatives, there is now no reason why thousands should go through life tortured, disfigured and humiliated by blood and skin diseases, which are speedily cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES at a trifling cost.

TURNBULL.

Sweeping reductions in Mantles this month at Turnbull's in order to have the stock all cleaned out by the first of January, as styles change so rapidly these days, we do not want to carry any over as our desire is to always show New Goods. We have only about 90 Mantles left, but they are well assorted, as we have only a few of each make. We have gone through them carefully and marked them down to prices that are sure to clear them out. Such as:

$5.00 Mantles in Blue and Black Cloth, for - - $3.00

$8.00 Mantles Neatly Trimmed, for - - - - $6.00

$10.00 Mantles, fine quality Beaver - - - - - $6.00

We have also a length of $8 Astrachan Curl (heavy weight) we are cutting at $5 per yard, now is the time to leave your order for a Mantle that will wear better than any Dog Skin and cost only half the price. We have Leiscester Sealettes, (acknowledged to be the best make in the world) in three or four qualities, they, owing to hard times, are selling slowly and would rather clear them out than carry them over and will therefore make up Mantles at from $5 to $10 less than regular prices.

OUR MOTTO—Small Profits and Quick Sales, we undersell but are never undersold.

LONDON CABLE LETTER

The Excuse the Porte Will Offer for the Armenian Outrages.

WALES AS A DIPLOMATIST

Result of the Bye-Election In the Brigg Division of Lancashire—Conservative Estimate of Its Importance to the Liberal Government—The Kidnapping Plot.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The communications from the Porte to the British Foreign Office indicate that the line of defence to be pursued regarding the Armenian atrocities will be that the Armenians and Kurds were engaged in civil war and that outrages were committed by both sides. Turkish regulars were called upon to suppress the feud, and, finding the Armenians entrenched, called upon them to surrender. The Armenians refused to comply with the demand and were thereupon attacked by the troops, who were at first repulsed. It is admitted that a number of Armenians who surrendered upon being offered pardon for their share in the trouble were executed, but the stories that fortified villages were stormed by the troops that they might murder the male inhabitants and outrage the women are denied.

Zekk Pasha, who was in command of the force that is said to have committed the outrages, caused the women who were taken prisoners by the Turkish troops to be closely guarded. The Sultan, it is said, is desirous that severe punishment shall be meted out to those guilty of committing the outrages. The Speaker, referring to the subject, says that if the Porte shall do nothing in the matter the only alternative will be European occupation of Armenia. A precedent for this step, the paper says, will be found in the French occupation of Syria subsequent to the massacre of the Maronites and Christians at Damascus in 1860.

The election for the seat in the House of Commons for the North Lindsay or Brigg division of Lincolnshire, made vacant by the appointment of Mr. Samuel Danks Waddy to the recordership of Sheffield, resulted in the return of Mr. J. Mansell Richardson, the Conservative candidate. Mr. Richardson received a majority of 77 over his Liberal opponent, Mr. Harold J. Reickitt, the vote standing: Richardson 4,377, Reickitt 4,300. At the last election Mr. Waddy, Liberal, received 4,448 votes to 4,021 for Mr. Richardson, the Conservative, who has now been returned.

The defeat of the Liberal party's candidates in the bye-elections in Forfarshire and the Brigg, or North Lindsay division of Lincolnshire, has struck a chill to the hearts of the Liberals. These Liberal defeats are held to prove that the cries of the party against the House of Lords and in favor of the disestablishment of the church in Wales, etc., are falling of effect against the reaction towards the Unionist policy and especially in regard to the social reforms initinted by Mr. Joseph Chamberlain. The Conservative organizers attribute the successes of their party's candidates to the combined operations of numerous Ulster delegates who are now paid to act as canvassers in every important English constituency. The opinion prevails in Liberal circles that the Cabinet must reconsider its position.

Mr. Balfour will test the strength of the Government at the coming session by moving an amendment in the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne insisting upon the immediate necessity for the production of the anti-Lords proposals. The Opposition will have a very strong case, as, according to every precedent of the House of Commons, when any great constitutional change is announced, it should be dealt with without delay. If the Government shall prove to have a bare majority dissolution will be imperative.

The Prince of Wales has taken heartily to diplomatic games. Instead of resting over night in London on Thursday His Royal Highness hastened to Windsor where Count Tornielli Brusati, de Vergano, the retiring Italian Ambassador to Great Britain, who is to succeed Baron de Marochetti as Italian Ambassador at St. Petersburg, was being entertained. Lord Rosebery and Earl of Kimberley were also at Windsor. Before the retiring Ambassador left the castle he had an interview with Lord Kimberley and subsequently the Queen granted an audience to the Prince, the Count and the two Ministers. The inference generally drawn from their interviews is that the Anglo-Russian rapprochement is not intended to affect in any way the relations of the Governments of Great Britain and Italy. The simultaneous presence of four generations—represented by the Queen, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York and the latter's son at Windsor—is a fact unique in the history of the English monarchy.

Persons who inquired at York house concerning the reported discovery of a plot to kidnap the infant son of the Duke and Duchess of York were told that nothing was known there about the alleged plot. The police has a story corroborating the report, alleging that the would-be kidnappers belonged to a gang that had been successful in America and afterwards came to England with the intention of stealing William Waldorf Astor's child. It was for this reason, according to the story, that the Cliveden woods were closed to the public by Mr. Astor.

OUR VESSELS NOT IN IT

The American Route Captures the Bulk of Manitoba's Shipments.

ARE OUR MILLIONS WASTED?

The Money Spent by the Government on Our Waterways Would Seem Not to be Productive of the Best Results—A Chicago Man's Story.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Dec. 10.—The Canadian marine has not had much benefit from the Manitoba wheat crop the last season. Shipments of Manitoba by way of Port Arthur and Fort William are 8,400,000 bushels, but 90 per cent. of it was carried in American bottoms to Buffalo for export via New York and Boston. Hitherto, the Canadian export route via Kingston and Montreal has had a fair share of the trade in carrying Manitoba wheat, but this season the Americans have absorbed practically all the business. Duluth took 1,000,000 bushels of the Manitoba crop and ground into flour 2,550,000 bushels. This makes the total Manitoba crop moved this fall, 12,500,000 bushels.

BUFFALO, Dec. 10.—The Courier has the following: "The Canadians have ceased to have a marine. A prominent Chicago vessel man said Saturday, referring to the complaints from Port Arthur that 90 per cent. of the Manitoba wheat had been carried in American vessels to Buffalo and had been exported from New York and Boston. 'Not many years ago the Canadians could have been said to have been competitors with the United States in the lake trade, but that day has passed. It has been many months since a Canadian boat has appeared in Chicago and the competition of Canadian vessels now amounts to nothing in general lake trade. Not only has the Canadian marine passed out of existence practically, but the past season the great Canadian route by way of Kingston and down the St. Lawrence river has shown a heavy decline. Small wonder is it that the Canadians are now so anxious to unite with our Government in making the St. Lawrence a deep water channel to the Atlantic. In 1893 the Canadian route down the St. Lawrence by way of Kingston carried 1,365,085 bushels of wheat, 7,860,111 bushels of corn and 458,019 bushels of oats from Chicago which found its way abroad on board of ocean steamers from Montreal.

"'Many thought that the ocean route via Montreal was to prove a dangerous competitor to American routes. Reports of shipments for the season just closed show that these fears were illy founded. Shipments by way of Kingston were but 1,365,965 bushels of wheat and 1,191,251 bushels of corn. The export business by way of Montreal practically ceased early in September, owing to the fact that the ocean business of that port had dropped to such an extent that it was useless for Chicago shippers to send grain abroad over that route. Taking all the lake ports together, the ocean business by way of Montreal fell off during the past season over 75 per cent.

"'The Canadians have spent many millions of dollars on their waterways, including the great locks and canal at Sault Ste. Marie. Their own merchant marine has ceased to be a factor in the commerce of the great lakes, while the Americans have been building modern steamers carrying from 3,000 to 4,000 tons, the Canadians have been literally distanced in the race. It will not be many years before a Canadian vessel outside of a few old passenger steamers engaged in local trade will be a great rarity on the great lakes.'"

SHOT DOWN BY BURGLARS.

Important Arrest Effected Through the Shooting of a Constable.

MONTREAL, Dec. 10.—One of the cleverest and most important arrests ever made in this city was effected through the shooting down of Constable Curran at midnight by burglars. For two months past diamond swindlers and safe-crackers from the United States have been plying their business here a very successful manner, many of the largest financial and manufacturing concerns being defrauded and robbed out of thousands of dollars. A week ago the diamond swindlers were located in a fashionable house on Mansfield street, but before the police could take action they skipped out to Toronto. On Thursday they came back and took up quarters in a low dive in Griffintown in company with the safe-crackers. Last Friday the gang were located and while attempting to arrest one of the number, "Baltimore Whitney," Constable Curran was shot. He is in a very low condition. Four more of the gang were arrested Saturday morning. The police are now looking for the women.

Burglars Working Niagara Falls, Ont.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 10.—Burglars seem to have taken a look over the ground here recently. They broke into the bazaar of James A. Geagan at the head house of the whirlpool rapids elevator and carried off a quantity of jewelry and other novelties. The Ontario police are working on the case. William R. Hunter, the man whose arrest here some time ago created a sensation owing to his being well-known and who was charged with obtaining money under false pretences, has been held for trial at the next Welland assizes. The complaining merchants stated that Hunter claimed to have a bank account in Toronto and gave notes on this falsely obtained credit.

A Seized Tug to be Sold.

WINDSOR, Dec. 10.—Collector of Customs Gott is advertising for tenders for the purchase of the tug E. C. Oggle at Amherstburg. This is the Sandusky tug that was seized by the Canadian steamer Joe Milton for illegal fishing in Canadian waters and has since been lying at the Michigan Central dock at A. Amherstburg. She was put up at auction in Windsor some time ago. The highest bid was $800, and as this did not nearly cover exp[illegible] she was bid in. She is said to be in such a bad shape now that the Government will not get enough out of the sale to pay the watchmen's wages.

NO LONGER A MYSTERY

An Accomplice of the Murderer of Miss Ging Confesses.

ONE OF A SERIES OF PLOTS

The Woman Was Murdered for the Insurance on Her Life—Other Cold-Blooded Plots of the Same Nature Were Hatched by the Guilty Pair.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 10.—Still another confession has been made in the Catharine Ging murder case. It has been the theory of the police that G. A. Blixt, the engineer of the Ozark flats, where both Miss Ging and Harry Hayward resided, committed the murder at the instigation of Hayward. Yesterday Blixt broke down and made a complete confession in which he charges Harry Hayward with committing the murder.

According to his story he was sent by Hayward to the scene of the murder. Hardly had he arrived there than Hayward drove up with Miss Ging. When within fifty feet of him the shots were fired and Hayward alighted from the buggy.

"The deed is done," said he. "Get in and drive it around until it is dead and then dump it out."

Blixt took Hayward's place in the buggy and drove along the road for about a mile until he became satisfied that Miss Ging was dead. Then he drove back and when near the place where the murder was committed he rolled the body in the robe and pushed it out of the buggy. He then drove the horse about a mile until he reached the Lyndale Ave. car line. Then he turned the animal loose and rode into town in a car. The horse went direct to the stable and this was the first intimation that any one discovered that anything was wrong.

The murder, according to Blixt, was committed shortly after 7 o'clock and as soon as he got into the buggy Hayward walked to the Hennepin Ave. car line and then took the daughter of a prominent lawyer to the theatre.

Blixt claims that the murder was originally fixed for the preceding Sunday night, but circumstances were such that it had to be abandoned. According to this plan Hayward was to "slug" Miss Ging with a piece of railroad iron which Blixt had provided, the body was to be thrown out near the curb of a street corner, the horse turned loose and the buggy wrecked to give color to the theory that the woman had been killed in a runaway. This plan, so Blixt says, could not be carried out successfully and it was decided to shoot her.

Blixt tells of several other jobs which had been proposed by Hayward, but which fell through, and says that after this job, for which he was to receive $2,000 or one-fifth of the life insurance involved, he was to receive $400 for "doing" a Chicago man.

O. L. Erickson, who took the bundle of clothes to Iowa Falls, is believed to have been a dupe and it is expected he will be released from custody.

Blixt has told a story to the effect that Hayward wanted his assistance in disposing of the father and mother of a young woman in Minneapolis whom he wanted to marry to secure her property.

A Row Among Georgia Politicians.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 10.—There is probability of a duel between President of the Senate Venable and Speaker of the House Flemming growing out of a scene in a committee room. The registration bill passed by the House had been hung up in the Senate, and it was to expedite its passage that Speaker Flemming appeared before the Senate committee having it in charge. In stating his case he declared that the rumors current in the capitol were that President Venable had bargained with the Populists to kill the registration bill if the latter would help him pass the House an insurance bill. Senator MacGregor violently denounced Speaker Flemming on the floor of the Senate.

Archbishop Ireland and Secret Societies.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 10.—Archbishop Ireland was asked what the present status was before the Catholic church of certain so-called secret societies such as the Sons of Temperance, the Oddfellows and Knights of Pythias. He stated that the question of whether Catholics could belong to them or not was now being considered by the authorities at Rome, and that a decision would probably soon be given, but that meanwhile Catholics would do well not to seek membership in those societies.

Indicting Iowa Officials.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Dec. 10.—The grand jury has found about 52 indictments against various ex-county officials and members of the board of supervisors. It is believed that the crimes for which indictments were returned spread over a term of four years, and that during that time the county officers named and the members of the board of supervisors have conspired to rob the county of nearly $200,000.

Fatal Row Over Cards.

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—As the result of a row over a game of cards at 18 Genesee street last night, Guiseppe Oliva and his wife Theresa, are now dying at the city hospital and Antonio Constanina, their confessed assailant, is locked up on the charge of assault with a knife with intent to kill. It is extremely probable that one or both of the Oliva's will die before to-morrow. The parties are all Italians.

A Bank Cashier's Big Embezzlement.

DALLAS, Texas, Dec. 10.—Bank Examiner Gannon has made an affidavit charging William F. Brice, late cashier of City National Bank of Quanah, with embezzling $30,000 by a note on the Midland National Bank of Kansas City, dated October 8, 1894. The bank has no record of this note. Brice's embezzlement, it is claimed, aggregates $37,000.

A Footballer Insane.

LAPORTE, Ind., Dec. 10.—Carl Beardstro, the missing Michigan university student, has been found hopelessly insane in a small town in Canada, where he evidently wandered. Beardstro went to Detroit with the university football team on Thanksgiving day and that was the last seen of him. He is a son of the late Senator Beardstro.

FARMERS' INSTITUTES.

Mr. F. W. Hodson, superintendent of Farmers' Institutes, has written to Mr. J. Fred Davidson, president of the West Riding Institute, suggesting that the dates of the holding of the Institute meetings in this riding would be early in January. Whilst promising that three practical level-headed delegates would be sent to address the meetings, Mr. Hodson hinted that it was most desirable to have the local talent well represented. There are scores of local agriculturists who are abundantly capable, if they would only take a little trouble to put the facts of their experience in shape, to address a West Riding Institute meeting to the edification and profit of those attending. Farmers in this riding cannot afford, if they wish to keep up with the procession, to neglect the Institute meetings. All other callings have their associations for promoting their special interests, and they hang together, too; and if farmers as a class would work together more energetically, they would present a strong front that would bring success to a greater degree than now obtains. Every farmer in the course of a year's work on his farm certainly discovers for himself something new in the way of tillage, or method of work, that he never knew before, and which others may not have discovered, and if he comes to an Institute meeting, where there are a hundred other farmers, and tells his experience, the hundred will be as wise as himself on the subject, and if every one of the hundred has a similar contribution, the amount of practical information that would be distributed would be very great. The idea of having local talent well represented at Institute meetings is one that should be acted upon.

THE POLITICAL CHAMELEON.

Evening News.

Who am I?

Marter!
If you don't like my style
I can change it
Quicker'n you can say "mush!"
I think Separate Schools should be wiped out—

Votes!
We must

That's the word!
Let us stand

And the Man Behind the Bar.
Separate schools must go—
But not just now—
Prohibition must come—

I'm dead tired!
Excuse my frankness,
But You fellows dont know
What it is to get knocked out in the first round.
In fact
I Think
The People
Don't Undertand
Me.

"Don" says in Saturday Night: "I am free to admit that Mr. Marter's views are necessarily the laughing stock of the people when he contends that agitation is no longer profitable. As far as I am concerned there never was any agitation for agitation's sake; it was agitation for principles' sake, and if the agitation is to be abandoned, I contend that the principle is being abandoned. In regard to prohibition I think Mr. Marter was wrong, and out of sympathy with his party. It is a strange time to ask advice after the damage has been done. If the party elected Mr. Marter as a prohibition leader they should sustain him; but I imagine they did no such thing. If they do not sustain him as such there is only one thing for him to do, and that is retire. There are too many Conservatives in Ontario who are unwilling to be pupils of a teacher who is willing to teach that the world is either round or flat according to the prevalence of the prejudice at the time, to follow Mr. Marter in his extraordinary elastic programme. In Mr. Meredith the Ontario Opposition often had fault to find with regard to his assumption that he was the party, and needed no help or advice from the rank and file. The greatness of the man was the excuse of the occasion; this excuse does not exist in the case of Mr. Marter."

THE Dominion Government, says the Montreal Witness, seems to be preparing to spring the elections upon the people. It seems to be impossible for elections to take place legally before June, yet the preparations of the government's supporters are being so urged that there is a feeling of uneasiness among other parties lest the government has found some means of completing arrangements so as to hold them earlier and secure the advantage of a sudden election, for which its party only would be prepared. This unfair and sneaking course has always been pursued by the Dominion Government, and it is only custom which blinds us to the iniquity and meanness of it. A strong, just government does not resort to such expedients. Ample and due notice is always given of the Ontario elections by the Mowat Government, which depends upon the merits of its administration for the people's support. The Dominion Government should inform the country definitely whether the approaching session of parliament will be of the usual length and whether the elections are likely to take place early in the summer or late in the fall or winter.

IT is proposed to license the sale of dynamite. Mr. Marter might bring in a prohibitory bill if he could be trusted to not change his mind during the readings; but the danger is that if he were blown up with an explosion, as a prohibitionist, he would change his mind before he came down.

THE Opposition chameleon policy according to the Toronto News:

1883—Facts for Irish electors;
1886—The Protestant horse;
1893—Prohibition;
1894—No prohibition and a fresh call for the Catholic steed.

"GENTLEMEN," said the American politician, "these are my opinions, but if they do not suit you I can change them." The story has a local application now.

OUTBREAK AT WU-HU.

Admiral Freemantle Goes to the Scene of the Disturbance.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The Times correspondent in Shanghai says that Admiral Freemantle has left that port for the Yang-Tse-Kiang.

The Shanghai correspondent of the Central News says that a serious outbreak is reported at Wu-Hu on the Yang-Tse-Kiang, and that an American warship and Admiral Freemantle of the British fleet have gone to the scene of the disturbance.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Confirmation by cable has been received at the Japanese legation here of the United Press despatch from Tokio that Japan had refused to treat with China in the peace negotiations unless China sends a duly accredited ambassador to make the overtures. This is announced from the Japanese legation. No confirmation of the cable despatches of several days ago stating that an envoy had been appointed has reached Washington.

It is reported that Secretary Gresham sides with Japan in her ultimatum that an ambassador fully authorized by the Chinese Emperor is the only person who can properly make the formal proposals for peace, and the opinion, which is purely personal, of course, coincides with the action of the Japanese government in declining to treat with Commissioner Detring on the ground that he was not properly accredited and not given the power to treat.

Kurino, the Japanese Minister in Washington, made an informal statement concerning the Detring affair. He contends that the despatches on the subject published in the London Times and other papers and cabled to this country emanate from Chinese sources. Mr. Kurino claims that Japan could not negotiate with Detring for several reasons.

Romance of a Penitentiary.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 10.—There was a remarkable wedding at the Kansas State Penitentiary at Lansing. The contracting parties were Arthur Winner and Miss Charlotte Moore. Winner was sentenced to life imprisonment 22 years ago for murder, arson and robbery. Charlotte Moore was convicted ten years ago as accessory to the murder of Major Johnson, of Junction City, Kansas. While in prison she and Winner fell in love. Winner was released last May and the woman in July. After that they corresponded and finally agreed to be married in the penitentiary. Winner is now a travelling salesman for the shoe factory connected with the prison.

People who are exposed to the sudden changes of our northern climate have little chance of escaping colds, coughs, sore throat and lung troubles. The best safe-guard is to keep Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam at hand. It is a quick relief and reliable cure for such complaints.

Hood's Cured After Others Failed

Scrofula in the Neck—Bunches All Gone Now.

Sangerville, Maine.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:
"Gentlemen:—I feel that I cannot say enough in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. For five years I have been troubled with scrofula in my neck and throat. Several kinds of medicines which I tried did not do me any good, and when I commenced to take Hood's Sarsaparilla there were large bunches on my neck so sore that I could not bear the slightest touch. When I had taken one bottle of this medicine, the soreness had gone, and before I had finished the second the bunches had entirely disappeared." BLANCHE ATWOOD, Sangerville, Maine.

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy any other.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

WHERE WOMEN HAVE SUFFRAGE.

In a Great Many Countries They Have a Say at the Polls.

The countries of the world where women already have some suffrage have an area of over 18,000,000 square miles, and their population is over 350,000,000. Political Progress enumerates the following:

In Great Britain women vote for all elective officers except members of parliament.

In France the women teachers elect women members on all boards of education.

In Sweden women vote for all elective officers except representatives; also, indirectly, for members of the house of lords.

In Norway they have school suffrage.

In Ireland the women vote for the harbor boards, poor law guardians, and in Belfast for municipal officers.

In Russia women householders vote for all elective officers and on all local matters.

In Finland they vote for all elective officers.

In Austria-Hungary they vote, by proxy, for all elective officers.

In Croatia and Dalmatia they have the privilege of doing so in local elections in person.

In Italy widows vote for members of parliament.

In the Madras Presidency and the Bombay Presidency (Hindoostan) the women exercise the right of suffrage in all municipalities.

In all the countries of Russian Asia they can do so wherever a Russian colony settles. The Russians are colonizing the whole of their vast Asian possessions, and carrying with them everywhere the "mir," or self-governing village, wherein women who are heads of households are permitted to vote.

Women have municipal suffrage in Cape Colony, which rules a million square miles.

Municipal woman suffrage rules in New Zealand, and at parliamentary elections.

Iceland, in the North Atlantic, the Isle of Man (between England and Ireland) and Pitcairn Island, in the South Pacific, have full woman suffrage.

In the Dominion of Canada women have municipal suffrage in every province and also in the Northwest Territories. In Ontario they vote for all elective officers except in the election of members of the legislature and parliament.

In the United States twenty-eight states and territories have given women some form of suffrage.

School suffrage in various degrees is granted to women in Arizona, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Texas, Vermont, and Wisconsin.

In Arkansas and Missouri women vote, by petition, on liquor license in many cases.

In Delaware suffrage is exercised by women in several municipalities.

In Kansas they have equal suffrage with men at all municipal elections.

About fifty thousand women voted in 1890. In Montana they vote on all local taxation.

In New York they can and do vote at school elections. The question of the constitutionality of the law is still undecided. They vote also in many places in this state on local improvements, such as gas and electric street lighting, paving, sewerage and municipal bonds.

In Utah women voted until defranchised by the "Edmunds law," when they promptly organized to demand its repeal.

In Pennsylvania a law was passed in 1889 under which women vote on local improvements by signing or refusing to sign petitions therefor.

In Wyoming women have voted on the same terms with men since 1870. The convention in 1889 to form a state constitution unanimously inserted a provision securing them full suffrage. This constitution was ratified by the voters at a special election by about three-fourths majority. Congress refused to require the disfranchisement of women and admitted the state July 10, 1890.

In the senate of the United States, Feb. 7, 1889, a select committee reported in favor of amending the federal constitution so as to forbid states to make sex a cause of disfranchisement. Congress adjourned, however, on March 4 following, without reaching the subject.

Yawning as a Remedy.

Yawning, though contrary to the canons of good society, is undoubtedly very beneficial to the individual. Muscles are brought into play during a good yawn which otherwise would never obtain any exercise at all, and its value as a sort of natural massage is considerable. The muscles which move the lower jaw and the breathing muscles of the chest are the first ones used during the process of gaping, then the tongue is rounded and arched, the palate tightly stretched, and the uvula raised. The eyes generally close tightly toward the termination of the yawn, the ears are raised slightly and the nostrils dilated. The crack sometimes heard in the ear proves that the aural membranes are also stretched and exercised, something impossible by any process but a yawn. It has recently been recommended by some doctors that sufferers from nasal catarrh should make a practice of yawning six or seven times a day and good results will follow. It is also considered valuable in inflammation of the palate, sore throat and earache.

Sober Enough to See That.

It was a convivial party, and it had reached that stage where the "invisible spirit of wine" makes itself decidedly visible. One of the party was one of the kind that carry well a heavy load and even when fully cargoed present but few evidences to the eye of such a condition. Another was of exactly the opposite nature, one of those individuals who when in their cups look it, smell of it, and are alternatedly laughing and crying, aggressive and affectionate. The quieter looked the noisier over while the latter was making an unpleasant exhibition of himself and remarked to a neighbor:

"How—hic—how much a drunken drunkard disgusts a sober drunkard!"—Boston Courier.

GOT WHAT HE DEMANDED.

The Policeman Picked Him Up and Carried Him Across the Street.

It was an easy matter to see that he was a citizen with a full sense of his responsibilities, both municipal and national. There was a firmness about his tread on the sidewalk denoting proprietary interest, and he gazed up at the public buildings with the keen glance of one who had money invested in them, and expected its value to stand out boldly. He always gazed at a policeman whenever he passed one, sternly, his eyes clearly denoting that the official was under the surveillance of an employer who expected him to earn his wages, and when he entered any public office his eagle looks penetrated to every nook and corner for a possible reason of complaint, and pierced each and every official through and through in a way that clearly said:—"You are a public servant, sir. I hope you have a due regard for that fact. If you have not I shall lose no time in reminding you of it."

Such was the little man who approached a tall policeman of the Yonge street squad the other day at King street, with indignation glistening in his eyes.

"I demand to know," he said in a firm voice, "why I am forced to remain on this side of the street, when my business calls me to the other."

The policeman looked a trifle startled for a second or so, but recovering himself, he replied:—

"Well, who in blazes is keepin' you from goin'?"

"The traffic, sir, the traffic of vehicles—yet pedestrians are supposed to have the right of way."

"Well," gruffly responded the officer. "What are you going to do about it?"

"I am going to insist upon my rights, sir," said the responsible citizen.

"That's easy," said the officer, coolly.

"And see that I get them."

"That will be harder."

"You are a public servant, in the public's pay, and at the call of the public. I therefore demand a safe passage for my person across this thoroughfare. It is your duty to see that my demands are complied with."

And the little man expanded his chest with real citizen independence.

The big policeman looked at him for a moment in a quandary, then seeming to solve the problem he said with a wink in his eyes:

"A safe passage you want, is it? Well, begorra, you shall have it."

And before the responsible little citizen could divine his intentions, he had picked him up, tucked him under his arm and was dodging between the horses' heads in a sortie across King street. The little man had not recovered his breath before the bluecoat had dropped him on the opposite sidewalk, and was on a return expedition, gallantly escorting a pretty store girl.

PEARLS OF GREAT PRICE.

The Finest Known Gem, Owned by Princess Yousoupoff, Is Worth $180,000.

The Iman of Muscat possesses a pearl weighing twelve and a half carats, through which you can see the daylight; it is worth about $165,000. The one owned by Princess Yousoupoff is unique for beauty, says the Gentleman's Magazine. It was sold by Georgibus of Calais, in 1620, to Philip IV. of Spain for 80,000 ducats; its present value is about $180,000. The pope, on his accession, became the owner for the time being of a pearl, left by one of his predecessors upon the throne of the vatican, which cannot be of less value than $100,000. The Empress Frederick has a necklace composed of thirty-two pearls, the total value of which has been estimated at $175,000. Her mother, Queen Victoria, has a necklace of pink pearls valued at $80,000. That of the Baroness Gustave de Rothschild, made up of five rows of these precious stones, is valued at $200,000, while that of the Baroness Adolphe de Rothschild is even more costly still. Both these ladies have given orders to their jewelers to bring to them any "pearls of great price" which may come into their hands in the way of business; the gems are usually purchased by one or other of these ladies and added to her necklace.

Good judges are doubtful whether to award the palm to either of the above two or to that of the Empress of Russia, which has two rows of pure white pearls valued at something like 80,000 rubles, but the stones of which are perhaps less beautiful to the eye. The one belonging to the Grand Duchess Marie has six rows, and is said to have cost $180,000.

Mlle. Dosne, a sister of M. Thiers, has a necklace of several rows, which has taken her thirty years to collect, and has cost her upward of $75,000. The Empress of Austria possesses some of the most beautiful black pearls it is possible to find; her casket, and that of the Czarina of Russia, are, in fact, the most famous in the world for pearls of this color.

Mme. Leonide Leblanc sold her necklace of pearls a year or two ago for nearly $400,000, but in consequence of certain matters which were whispered about at the time she bought it back. The stones it it graduate in size and are exceedingly beautiful in shape and lustre.

ORMOND & WALSH

COR. GEORGE AND SIMCOE STS.

We Don't Talk Much

About our prices, nor are we often found quoting extravagantly —so that what we DO say now, may be taken as BONA-FIDE.

We will, for the balance of the season, offer the remainder of our new selections of

LADIES' and CHILDREN'S MANTLES and ULSTERS

At prices that should make a complete clearance before New Years. Every garment is of this season's newest and latest design, and has only left the makers' hands a few months.

As we do not purpose to carry over a single Mantle or Ulster, buyers can rest assured that no obstacle will be put in the way of letting them go at a BARGAIN.

OUR MANTLE CLOTHS and SEALETTES . . . . .

Will, of coure, have to share the same fate, for the same reason. The pick of our High-Class Stock of any of these Cloths at any of the reduced prices we now offer will be

A SNAP FOR ANY BUYER

who is a judge of the goods.

ALL TRIMMED MILLINERY

Must also come in for a SWEEPING REDUCTION to clear the way for more seasonable goods. One-half former prices will be the tariff that will prevail, and no exceptions or deviations will be made on any of the beautiful class of goods now remaining.

WINTER DRESS GOODS

Of every kind have all been re-examined and re-marked, with Reduced Price Tickets. The former value of these high-class goods have been fully recognized and appreciated by customers, but the reduced prices will enhance their value at least 25 per cent.

WOOL and KNITTED SHAWLS

Still very seasonable, and so much worn, will be dropped in price to ensure a speedy sale at this season of the year.

Inspection invited. No trouble to show goods, and no obligation to buy. What we want is lookers as well at buyers. We don't talk much about prices, but when we say they're down—THEY'RE DOWN.

A Question Answered.

In a certain school in the vicinity of Peterborough a teacher, in examining the class in English history, asked the meaning of the "Interdict." A brisk boy gave the usual signal that he was ready to answer by holding up his hand. "Well, Frank, what is it?" Frank said: "It was a law passed by King John, prohibiting births, marriages and deaths for the space of six years." The teacher after great difficulty was resuscitated by the aid of electricity. As a unique answer he does not think any school in the district can Match it.

AUCTION SALE.

Do not fail to attend the Auction Sale of Books and Fancy Goods at Thompson's old stand, commencing on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock, and continuing each evening this week.

A splendid line of Bibles, Prayer Books and Fancy Goods, ALL NEW, will be offered for sale. Sale during the day as usual.

A. H. STRATTON & CO.

Short Days.

Already the afternoons are at their shortest, the sun now setting at 4 o'clock, 28 minutes, at which point it is substantially till the 15th inst., when the afternoons will have lengthened one minute. The forenoons, however, continue the shrinking process, and will till December 31st, when the sun will rise at 7.30. From that point the almanac marks no appreciable gain till about the 7th of January, nearly five weeks hence. Though the 22nd technically is the shortest day of the year, yet to all intents and purposes we are already in our shortest days, the difference not being appreciable, except as we find it figured out for us in the almanacs.

A Complete Rejuvenation.

Mr. Alex. Elliott, of the Palace Grocery, is determined that, as far as appearance goes, it shall deserve its name. He has to some way apologize to his customers for the temporary inconvenience and untidiness, but promises that in a few days the chaos will give place to beautified order. He is having the place completely renovated. The interior is to be provided with new shelving in ash and Mr. J. R. Donnell having the matter in hand is a guarantee that it will be right. The walls and ceilings are to be repapered and redecorated in the best style of the art, and everything in the interior is to be brightened and renewed. The outside is also to receive attention, new paint, new signs, etc. Mr. Fred Cook has charge of the painting and decorative work and will, doubtless, do the work in an artistic manner.

The Joyous Season.

It is only necessary to go the rounds of the stores to become convinced that holiday purchases are already being made from liberal purses. Christmas is distant but two weeks, and anyone who knows anything about the big holiday of the year realizes that fifteen days are none too many in which to make selections and preparations for the bestowal of gifts. The merchants say that the Christmas shopping has commenced well and early this year. Not that the actual buying of presents has commenced to any great extent, but there is a constant call for material from which many presents are made by deft fingers. In many instances, however, the selection of presents has begun, for experiences in the past have taught people that the best satisfaction is secured by making selections while the stocks are full and fresh and the excitement is not quite so high. It is a pretty good plan when looking for holiday presents to buy what you want when you see it. If you don't you may get left.

Cream Ale.

Ask for Calcutt's Cream Ale, special Christmas brewings, on draft at all leading hotels. Keep the money in town and drink home brewed.

Avoid the Rush.

The hurry and confusion of the last days before Christmas. Come early and get a box of good cigars, a pipe, a cigar case or a stylish walking stick. Special Christmas goods.—E. B. CLEGG, 415 George street.

Sad Intelligence.

Mrs. W. J. Green, Stewart street, received a telegram yesterday morning conveying the sad intelligence of the death of her mother, Mrs. Thomas Green, formerly of Peterborough, at Lethbridge, N.W.T. The cause of death is ascribed to the effects of an attack of la grippe from which Mrs. Green has been suffering for the past week.

Holiday Decorations.

Decorate for Christmas and New Years. Decorate your homes, churches, halls, schools, ball-rooms and hotels. I am prepared to ornament and decorate in an artistic manner with the newest and best effects and at bottom prices. Flags, bunting, &c., supplied. ALF. KINGSCOTTE, artistic decorator, sail, tent and awning maker, Water street, Peterborough.

A Slippery Crossing Responsible.

Mr. Ernest F. Mason again met with a serious accident, yesterday, by reason of a fall on an icy crossing. He was returning from attending church in the morning and stepped on the sloping side of a slippery crossing. His feet flew from under him and he fell heavily on the knee which was formerly injured. Mr. Mason had to be assisted to rise and conveyed to his home in a carriage. The ligaments in the leg are either snapped or very badly stretched and the limb will have to be tightly bandaged for some time. Mr. Mason is compelled to again resort to the use of crutches.

Those Who are Responsible.

The investigation into the cause of the collapse of the street railway building at Montreal resulted in a verdict holding that the death of Adolphe Leblanc, Joseph Marquis and Regis Panege was caused by the collapse of the street railway building. The jury thought that the collapse was due to lack of reasonable precaution, which should have been exercised in the construction of said building, by Edward C. Hopkins, architect; Ant. Gravel, engineer of the Dominion Bridge Company, and Joseph McLaughlin, foreman of the Dominion Bridge Company, and could not excuse them for this laxity in their duty.

Didn't Know It was Loaded.

The Lindsay Post contains the following account of the explosion of a dynamite cartridge there last week: One day last week a young lad named Grozelle, son of Mr. P. Grozelle, of the French village, found a dynamite cartridge near the locks, while on his way home from school. Anxious, as most boys would have been, to find out if it was "loaded," he threw it with all his strength against the side of a box car, and then something happened, of course. When picked up by some passers-by he was still insensible, but recovered as he was being conveyed to his home. The cartridge had evidently rebounded in his direction before exploding, as he received several severe cuts in the head and neck that necessitated calling in the family doctor.

Tuesday Night's Attraction.

Manager W. H. Bradburn has secured the new melodrama, "The Police Patrol," for one night only, Tuesday next. The action of the play hinges upon the mysterious murder of Millionaire Snell, and shows by what means the supposed murderer, Tascott, escaped the police. Incidental, and yet forming a strong link in the plot web, there will be seen a practical exhibition of the Chicago Patrol Service. The company carry a pair of trained horses direct from the service, and one of the finest and most complete patrol wagons ever built for the Chicago department. The scenic effects are upon an elaborate scale, and among the sets will be seen an accurate representation of Haymarket square, the locality of the Anarchists' riot, and the interior of the famous West Lake street Police Station. Weather permiting, an exhibition of the Patrol Service will be given on one of our principal streets, and will be quite a novelty, since it will be a practical illustration of this branch of the Chicago police service. Prices, 25, 50 and 75 cents.

—Mr. John Trombley wishes it understood that his application for a rebate in his taxation was not based on the ground of his being in need of charity.

—The enunciations of the bell in the town clock were most funereal yesterday, as a thick coating of ice had gathered on it and "muted the strings" as it were.

—The branches of the trees hung very low yesterday, being drawn down by the weight of the sleet which had frozen upon them. No serious damage to fruit trees is reported.

—Although there was no snow on the ground, there were hundreds of cutters out dashing through the streets, yesterday and the slipping over the icy roads was not at all bad.

—A meeting will be held this evening, in the Royal Templar's Hall, of all those who are interested in the nomination of temperance candidates for seats at the town council board.

—A meeting of the Peterborough Workman's Building and Savings Association will be held in Mr. Cox's office this evening. All directors are particularly requested to be present.

—The telegraph and telephone wires presented a pretty sight yesterday, being strung with icicles and wrapped in ice. The resemblance to loops of shining silver wire was the subject of universal comment.

—A meeting of the Directors of the Peterborough Central Exhibition will be held at the Morgan House, on Wednesday, Dec. 12th. at two o'clock p. m., for the purpose of winding up the year's business.

—As this was the last day for the payment of taxes, unless the taxpayer was willing to have five per cent added to his bill, there was a big rush, and Miss Cumming had her hands full all day taking in payments.

—Argument in the sewerage arbitration will be heard on December 20th before Judge Ketchum. The arbitration has adjourned until that date in order to allow the council to arrange the data for their argument.

—A Cincinnati chemist has invented an artificial milk, composed of water, solids and fat. This artificial milk will raise a cream from which first class butter can be churned. It is capable also of being made into cheese.

—Large quantities of dead turkeys and chickens have been purchased in this section for shipment to England, most of which are expected to go forward immediately, so as to be in time for the great Christmas markets in England.

—The young man who removed the grey goat skin robe from the gig in the Little Windsor yards Thursday evening last was spotted in the act and is known. The best thing for him to do is to return the same at once to avoid trouble.

—The Epworth League of the George street Methodist church will hold a missionary meeting to-night at 8 o'clock. An interesting programme will be given, including an address on Mission work. All are cordially invited.

—You can spend a delightful hour in looking at our beautiful Christmas cards, booklets, and birthday cards, the choicest and most artistic stock ever presented for your inspection. We invite you to come as soon as you can. A. H. STRATTON & CO.

—Chairman T. B. Carlow, of the Northumberland Counties' Road and Bridge Committee, inspected the Wallace Point bridge on Monday. Two spans of the bridge have been erected and the masonary work is completed. About 45 men are employed.

—To-morrow night the officers of the 57th Battalion will hold in the regimental parlours at the drill shed the first of a series of weekly meetings to take place during the winter. The programme on these occasions will be a happy combination of the social and business elements.

—A couple of gentlemen late on Saturday night boarded a down bound car intending to catch an up bound at the Spaulding's Bay turn-out, but the car got ice bound at this pount, and the disgusted pair had to take a slippery tramp from the point of detention almost to Hilliard's Mills.

—The Poultry Association of Ontario will hold its 21st exhibition, January 1st to 5th, at New Hamburg. The $1,500 premium list and rules and regulations are now almost ready for distribution. They can be had from the secretary, Thomas A. Browne, Western Fair Office, London.

—At the different services yesterday, Rev. Mr. Davidson took occasion to mention that Rev. J. E. Starr, of Toronto, would speak on the Children's Aid Act on Thursday evening in the Opera House and to urge a large attendance of the members of the congregation in order that more might be learned about the workings of the societies formed under the provision of the statute.

—Most Excellent Companion John Ross Robertson, Grand Z of the grand chapter of Royal Arch Masons, of Canada, will pay an official visit to Corinthian Chapter, No. 36, to-night, arriving at 7 o'clock sharp. Right Excellent Companion Quinlan, of Port Hope, Grand Secretary of the outlying districts, will also be present and a large attendance of members is expected.

—Don't fail to see J. W. Crosby's superb stock of pianos and organs, the most reliable in tone and durability, the lowest in price, and far cheaper than you can buy from any outside agent. He sells for cash or on the instalment plan. Buy this month, and get the benefit of Crosby's liberal discount during the holiday season. Warerooms, 343 Water street.

—Mr. Dave Yarnold was about again Saturday, after having been confined to his room during the past week, from injuries sustained by stepping on a piece of broken lamp chimney. A fragment, 1½ inches long, penetrated his right foot to the depth of an inch and a half, completely severing one of the arteries. Mr. Yarnolds many friends are pleased to see him about as "lengthy" as ever.

—The Grand Trunk has issued the following circular, signed by the general manager, which explains itself: Several fatal accidents having occured recently in consequence of cattle running at large being on the railway, notice is hereby given that, in order to protect the public, and prevent the destruction of life and property, the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada will, from the date of this notice forward, cease to be impounded all horses, cattle, sheep or swine found running at large within half a mile of any public road crossing of their railway, in accordance with the status in that behalf.

—A young lady and gentleman walked home from church together, last night, and on reaching the domicile wherein the young lady resided, on Aylmer street, the two resolved to prolong their stroll. An umbrella, which the young lady carried, was found to be in the way, as it had ceased raining and it was accordingly left inside the gate. While the lovers were finishing their walk and talk, some heartless scoundrel purloined the umbrella.

—An alarm of fire called the brigade to the residence of Mr. John Jeffers, McDonel street, shortly before three o'clock this afternoon. The roof of the house was discovered to be on fire by some of the employees of White's Foundry and the alarm sent in. By the time the hose wagon reached the spot the blaze was well under control and was finally extinguished by means of a few pails of water. The loss will be very small. A defective chimney was the cause.

—At the beginning of last week Mr. Nathan Nicholls, of South Verulam, had occasion to go out to his woods, and when nearing the bush found a green garter snake, at least eighteen inches in length, wiggling along the snow. It was almost numb with the cold, and after kicking the snow away with his foot he made a hole in the ground, kicked the snake into it, and covered it with dead leaves and snow. He has visited it several times since, and though the thermometer a day or two was down to zero, the snake is apparently alive yet.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Rev. Dr. Torrance and Rev. J. J. Rae exchanged pulpits yesterday morning.

A charity concert will be held in St. John's Sunday School a week from Tuesday.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew will meet this evening at the residence of Rev. C. B. Kenrick.

The Epworth League of George street church will hold a missionary meeting this evening.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the George street Methodist church will meet tomorrow afternoon.

The Baptist Young People hold a "Missionary Conquest" meeting to-night in the Murray street church.

A list of books which have been reviewed by the rector, and considered by him as worth the while of the Christian reader to peruse, has been posted in the vestibule of St. John's church.

Miss Jennie Rose took the solo part in the anthem "The Lord is my Shepherd" in St. Paul's church yesterday in a most pleasing manner. In the evening the anthem "Joy and Peace Shall Dwell in Thee" was rendered, Mrs. Sanderson taking the obligato most acceptably.

After reading the announcements Mr. MacWilliams took occasion to congratulate the congregation on his various appeals. All that had been asked for on various occasions had been given. He also referred to the large congregations at the various meetings, especially the prayer meetings.

At the Charlotte street Methodist church yesterday morning the anthem "I Will Praise Thee," was sung with particularly good effect. In the evening Miss Flossie Hall took the solo in the anthem "O, How Lovely," and her peculiarly clear and sweet soprano voice never sounded to better advantage.

At the evening service in the George street Methodist church yesterday, Mrs. Seward took the solo in the first anthem, and Miss Vina Belleghem sang the solo part in the anthem which was rendered while the offertory was being taken up. Both solos were greatly appreciated by the large congregation.

Mr. Pady, of McMaster University, took both services at the Park street Mission yesterday, and in the morning sang a most pleasing solo, entitled "Beautiful Valley of Eden." In the evening the choir sang the anthem, "Jesus, Lover of my Soul," Miss Smart and Mr. Pady taking the duet in good voice.

The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's purpose holding a pound social Dec. 20th, the proceeds to be distributed among the needy. Each was requested to bring a pound of something useful, as butter, cheese, flour, meat, etc. Mr. MacWilliams said he was sure that the ladies would not be offended if they brought more than a pound, and suggested that many of them instead of dividing the roll of butter or ham, or bag of posatoes, might bring all.

Notwithstanding the condition of the roads yesterday quite large congregations were present in St. Andrew's the evening congregation being the larger. Thoughtful and impressive sermons were delivered by the pastor from 1 Cor. 12-27, "Ye are the Body of Christ," and Matt. xiii, 45 46, "The Pearl of Great Price." The music in the evening was especially good. The anthem "Praise ye the Lord," by Richards was well rendered. During the offertory Mr. Mulligan sang with touching effect "Can a Boy Forget His Mother." Miss Grant presided at the organ in her usual able manner.

TELEPHONE WIRES DOWN.

Communication With Toronto Almost Shut off Yesterday.

The telephone wires between Toronto and Peterborough are down, but the weight of ice was not sufficient to bring any of the poles to the ground. Connection with Young's Point and Burleigh has also been cut off and a number of wires are down on the town circuits. A big gang of men are out this morning, and all the connections will probably be restored by to-morrow. Mr. J. S. Knapman states that there is no danger of any further harm resulting unless a high wind should start up in which event the destruction and havoc amongst the ice laden wires would be dire.

The G.N.W. Telegraph Company were unlucky enough to have their wires between here and Toronto go to earth on Sunday, as did also a number of local wires. It is thought that by a big effort everything will be in ship shape by to-night or the morning.

The C.P.R. Telegraph Company's wires in this vicinity suffered little if any damage.

HOCKEY.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Ontario Hockey Association was held at the Queen's on Saturday afternoon, at which Peterborough was represented by Mr. Geo. J. Horkins. A sub-committee for the arrangement of groups and drawing of schedule was appointed in the persons of Messrs. C. A. B. Brown, A. F. R. Martin and F. W. Tiffin. Some amendments to the playing rules were adopted (chiefly in regard to clothing) which will appear in rule books to be issued in a few days. It was decided that all applications for membership should be in by Friday next in order that the schedule may be drawn at the next meeting of committee to be held on Monday evening, the 17th inst. Several new clubs have already sent applications for admission, and many new groups will be formed. All clubs are requested to notify the secretary of their colours and uniforms, and also to send measurements and descriptions of rinks.

A Piano is a Princely Present.

It is not an expense or a luxury—it is an investment—an education. J. W. Crosby sells on the cash or instalment plan, and offers a substantial discount off any high class instrument purchased from him during the holiday season. Think it over, pay a visit to his ware-rooms, No. 343 Water street, and get the benefit of his best terms. He gives you a choice of some of the highest grade pianos from the most popular makers. December is the month when most pianos are sold. Better speak now.

3.15 p. m.—Paper, "Family Prayer," Rev. C. E. McLeod.
3.45 p. m.—Question Drawer, Rev. C. E. McLeod.
8.00 p. m.—Address, "The Relation of our Churches to Denominational Interests," Rev. J. E. Trotter; Paper: "The Place and Purpose of the Ordinances in the New Testament Church," Rev. P. K. Dayfoot, M. A.

A REFUTATION.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—In the DAILY EXAMINER of Nov. 26th an article appears from Fraserville in which the correspondent, whoever he is, states that I was through that district soliciting patronage for my factory for the coming season, and offering as a special inducement to the patrons their whey returned to them in their cans next day.

The first part of this is true, as I was in that locality canvassing and received word to go there, as some of the patrons were disgusted with the management of the Fraserville factory, and I may say for the benefit of the Frazerville man that four or five of the patrons promised me their milk if I put a wagon on the line.

With regard to the bribe of a little sour whey returned in the cans, it is as false a statement as ever was penned, as that is a practice which I have always cried down. The inspectors also come in for their share of abuse, being condemned for only understanding part of their business. For my part I think they all know their business well enough to detect cull cheese.

With regard to the special concession voted to me, I will say that it was the patrons themselves that did it, as I never asked it, and did not know anything about it for some weeks after it was agreed upon.

No doubt they feel a little sore at not getting as large a quantity of milk from the Ida section as they expected last spring, but perhaps the little oyster supper, got up for the benefit of the patrons, may induce more to patronize Fraserville factory next year. Thanking you Mr. Editor for your valuable space,

I am yours truly,
H. W. GILLESPIE.

Ida, Ont., Dec. 7th, 1894.

FRASERVILLE CHEESE FACTORY PATRONS MEET.

The Annual Oyster Supper Followed by an Impromptu Concert.

There was a large gathering in the Fraserville cheese factory on Thursday evening last on the occasion of the holding of the annual oyster supper among the patrons and their friends. The ladies supplied a plentiful provision to meet the wants of the inner man and full justice was done the most appetizing repast.

The chair was taken by Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., and after all had satisfied their hunger, the tables were cleared away and an impromptu concert took place, in which Mr. Tom Dunn, town, Prof. Arnold, of England, and Messrs. Mills and Russell all took part. Addresses were delivered by Prof. Dean, of the Agricultural College, and Mr. Grant, town, on the subject of cheesemaking. The evening, although one of great pleasure and merriment, had also its instructive side as well, as many practical hints were given the patrons by the speakers.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The Glee Club will meet to-night at 9 o'clock.

Saturday night's Song Service seemed to be enjoyed by those who attended and the social hour following was very pleasant.

"Laws" was the subject of a very earnest and practical address, by Rev. Mr. Symonds, at yesterday's meeting, Mr. Mulligan sang a very touching solo and both address and solo were appreciated by about fifty men.

Don't make any "dates" for Friday evening. It will be "apple" night for members and friends. Look for a good time.

Piano Tuning.

Mr. G Gumpricht is in town. Order may be left at Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald's or at the Peterborough Bookstore.

The December Marriage Market.

There are more marriages in December than any other month. There may be no profit in discovering the reason of this fact but there is profit in remembering that Mr. W. J. Green, merchant tailor, has a fresh supply of marriage licenses, and can furnish along with the license a wedding suit and ties, so that you can be mated, tied and suited, a combination that will insure a happy wedded life.

ONE OF PETERBOROUGH'S ENTERPRISING BUSINESS HOUSES.

The Firm of Mason & Co. Branch Out Still Further.

The firm of Mason & Co., George street, continuing in the line of enterprise always exhibited by them, have opened out a large flour and feed department in connection with their staple and fancy grocery business. The establishment through this addition has stepped forward amongst the foremost retail business houses in the province. The new department is situated next door to the store occupied for some time past by the firm, and is in itself a most spacious and well appointed store, being replete with counters, shelving and bins, which latter are in the rear, and are arranged in the most convenient manner imaginable.

ALL THE STANDARD FLOURS,

breakfast cereals, rolled oats, oatmeal, rolled wheat, corn meal, wheatlets, gem flours, etc., will be offered for sale. Among the brands of flour will be McLaughlin's "Queen," made in Toronto. This secured high awards at the World's Fair, and is made from No. 1, Manitoba wheat. Tillson's and Ireland's well-known flours, as well as the products of the local mills, are also sold. The material is sold by the bag or otherwise. Pressed hay and straw will also be supplied citizens.

Mr. E. F. Mason, the head of the firm, is a native born Peterboroughian and is well-known among all classes of citizens, as one of and successful business men in the town. He is a prominent member of the Board of Trade, and is particularly popular in military circles, where he holds the position of Adjutant of the Peterborough Rangers. Adjutant Mason is a graduate from both the Toronto and London Military Schools. His business experience was obtained both at home and abroad as he was for many years connected with his father, the late W. J. Mason in the business and was also engaged for some time with Walter Paul, of Montreal, and the big retail house of Park & Tilford, in New York.

Although in the present business the firm carries one of the fullest lines of staple groceries, yet a specialty is made of handling the best obtainable qualities of every article known to the grocery trade.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Daniel Gillen of Madoc, is registered at the Oriental.

Miss Agar, of Rochester, N.Y., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Wm Madill, London street.

Miss A. M. Faulks, of Cobourg, who has been visiting friends in town, returned home this morning.

Mr. Will Lech is slowly recovering from a week's illness of so serious a nature as to make his life despaired of at times.

Mrs. Raby, of Peterborough, was a guest at the home of Jas. Cunningham, for a few days, last week.—Omemee Mirror.

Mrs. Fred Bartlett, of Peterborough, is in the city visiting her sister, Mrs. J. McGuire, Moira street.—Belleville Intelligencer.

Mr. and Mrs. V. Best, of Peterborough, spent a short time, this week, as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Glass.—Omemee Mirror.

John Armstrong, who spent a few days in town, this week, a guest at the home of Wm. Elliott, returned to his home, in Peterborough, on Thursday.—Omemee Mirror.

Mrs. W. C. Tully, after spending some time at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Lamb, returned to her home in Peterborough, on Wednesday.—Omemee Mirror.

Mr. Joseph Begley left Saturday night for Montreal, having secured a lucrative position in that city. Mr. Begley's place on the Peterborough lacrosse team will be a hard one to fill.

Mr. James O'Shea, of the Commercial House, is having a huge sign erected. It is 16 feet long and twenty-four inches wide, bearing the name of the "Commercial Hotel, Stable and yards." The painting is being done by the talented sign writer, Mr. Sydenham Martyn, town.

FIRST MEETING OF THE C.L.A.

The Gymnasium to be Opened at Once for the use of the Members.

The above association held its first meeting yesterday, Dec. 9th, at their room on George street, to discuss several matters of importance, about seventy members being present. Mr. Wm. Rudkins, president, addressed the meeting, asking the hearty co-operation of all present in this winter's work.

Mr. R. J. Hiller, chairman of the Literary Committee, in terms terse and to the point defined the object, intentions and expectations of the C.L.A. It was decided to open the gymnasium at once for the use of the members, and to make some interesting additions to the fittings now on hand. The management of the gymnasium will be entirely in the hands of the members.

A suggestion to form a dramatic and musical club, under the leadership and instruction of Mr. R. J. Hiller, was enthusiastically endorsed, and Wednesday evening has been set apart for organization, to which all male and female members with histrionic aspirations are cordially invited. Judging by the rapid increase in membership, and the very manifest interest taken by its members, the C.L.A. promises to become an important social factor in Peterborough.

A MERRY EVENING IN REDMOND'S SCHOOL HOUSE.

Lots of Fun at a Concert Down in Otonabee.

A concert under the auspices of the Otonabee Football club, which made such a creditable record last season, was held on Friday evening last in Redmond's School House, and the building was packed to the doors for the occasion, while hundreds were actually turned away being unable to secure even standing room. A contingent from town arrived on the scene at about eight o'clock and had to be admitted to the hall through a window. A large number from Downer's Corners were also in attendance. The chair was taken by Mr. Peter Gillespie, honorary president of the club and

WHAT IS A MORTGAGE?

A RATHER INTERESTING BUSINESS QUESTION DISCUSSED.

The Word Is French In Its Derivation and Means a Dead Pledge—That Is, the Property is Dead to the Mortgagor Unless He Redeems All Pledges.

When a man comes home and tells a woman that he has been obliged to mortgage farm or home, there creeps into her heart a vague, undefinable, aching uneasiness which would speedily develop itself into a horror could she but realize all the heartaches and miseries, the bitter disappointments and sleepless vigils which that dreadful word "mortgage" implies. It generally means a farewell to freedom, to happiness, to independence, to hard-earned savings, to self-respect, to all that makes life brightest and sweetest; it ushers in a new feeling of servitude, of hopeless longing, of blighted aspirations, of unfulfilled ambitions, which robs all the long days of beauty and sunshine. The dreadful word is well named, indeed, as it comes from the French mort, dead, and gage, pledge—a dead pledge, so-called, because the property is dead to the mortgagor unless all the conditions are fulfilled which are necessary to redeem it. Thus the home which has cost, only a woman knows, how many days and years of labor and self-deprivation, may pass into the hands of a stranger by ever so light a deviation from the contract. So it will be seen at once why it is so necessary for women to understand the legal terms and technicalities involved, which, though they may seem intricate, are in reality very simple. Mortgages are of two kinds, real estate and chattel. In a real estate mortgage, the kind to which reference has been made, the mortgagor, who is the party giving the mortgage, still retains the property, receives all the rents and other profits, and pays all taxes and other expenses. By this apparent ownership the sense of danger is lulled into a fancied feeling of security, for surely the debt can be paid in all the months or years which the contract allows. So time steals along until the day when the mortgage is "foreclosed."

Only those who have actually experienced such a state of affairs can realize all the agony that day brings, and may the time speedily come when women will awaken to a better understanding of these legal matters which mean so much to them; for women are proverbially more cautious than men—more prudent in their promises to pay out money without a definite knowledge of the source from which that money is to come. All mortgages are in writing, and must be acknowledged, like a deed, before the proper public officer, and recorded in the office of the County Clerk or Recorder. They must contain a "redemption clause," and must be signed and sealed. By a "redemption clause" is meant that the property mortgaged can be taken back upon the terms or conditions on which it is conveyed, which is usually upon the payment of the debt at the stated time for which the mortgage was given. The time when the debt is to be paid must be clearly stated, and the property conveyed must be clearly described, located and scheduled. Some mortgages contain a clause permitting the sale of the property without decree of court when either the principal sum or the interest fails to be paid at the time agreed.

When a mortgage is "foreclosed" it means that some failure to comply with the demands has been made—that the property is forfeited and must be sold. If the mortgaged property when foreclosed and brought to sale brings more money than is needed to satisfy the debt, interest and costs, the surplus must be paid to the mortgagor. Satisfaction of mortgages may be made in either of three ways. The first way is by an entry upon the margin of the record, signed by the "mortgagee," which means the person holding the mortgage, or his attorney, acknowledging the satisfaction of the mortgage in the presence of the recording officer. The second way is by a receipt written across the back of the mortgage, signed by the mortgagee, his agent or attorney which receipt may be entered upon the margin of the record. The third manner in which it may be discharged upon the record is to present a written notice to the proper officer acknowledging the satisfaction of such mortgage, given by the mortgagee, his attorney or personal representative. These are the general rules which apply to real estate mortgages, and most of these rules apply also to chattel mortgages, though in most States there are special laws regulating personal mortgages.

By a chattel mortgage is meant a mortgage upon personal property. Any writing which will answer the purpose of a chattel mortgage would answer as a bill of sale, with a clause added providing the avoidance of the mortgage when the debt is paid. Great care should be taken, and every precaution used, in chattel mortgage as well as in real estate. After a chattel mortgage is given, should property be gained or acquired by the mortgagor the mortgage does not cover it. Mortgages of personal property should contain a clause providing for redemption. A person holding a chattel mortgage may sell or transfer it to another person for a consideration, but such property cannot be seized or sold until the expiration of the period for which the mortgage was given. —Geraldine Gower, in Jenness Miller Monthly.

A Believer.

"Do you believe in this talk about discovering a man's character from his handwriting?"

"I do," replied Mr. Hasbin Swift, with a sigh.

"Ever know of its being tried?"

"Yes. And with fatal efficacy. The experiment is most successful when the hand-writing is read aloud in court."—Washington Star.

Poor Marksmanship of To-day.

The training of naval artillerists has, in recent years, been given a good deal of attention, and no end of powder and shot has been expended in target practice designed to serve a more telling purpose in actual warfare should the occasion present itself. It would seem, therefore, that the floating equipments of naval powers of to-day ought to give good accounts of themselves in point of marksmanship if called into action, though, according to Cassier's Magazine, it would be presumptuous to undertake to foreshadow possible results. If, on the other hand, past experience counts for anything, there would seem to have been a notable decline in accuracy in naval gunnery, growing with successive improvements in naval architecture and naval armament. It was estimated some years ago, from data furnished by target practice at sea, that a heavy gun must be discharged fifty times to make one effective hit. The old smoothbores were credited with killing a man by the discharge of the gun's weight in shot; in other words, three tons of 32-pounder shot were required for the purpose. Actual service test with modern high-power guns, however—guns weighing twelve tons—has, within the past ten or twelve years, shown that it took about sixteen tons of projectiles to accomplish the same thing. It is interesting to note from what statistics are available that the introduction of rifled muskets into the armies has had a somewhat similar result. The old-time muskets, it is said, killed a man by firing at him his own weight in lead bullets, but the modern rifle in the hands of the average soldier, so it has been figured out, does not effect a fatality until it has discharged twice the man's weight in lead. Both here, as well as in naval shooting, therefore, there has been shown to be an important demand for greater skill and care. Whether this has been met in any measure, future hostilities only will tell.

A Village Demolished by Fire.

HALIFAX, N.S., Dec. 10.—The village of Mount St. Stephen, eighteen miles from Charlottetowe, P.E.I., was demolished by fire in about two hours. The loss is estimated at $150,000 and the insurance at $20,000, only four men having their property insured.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees.
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,

They gave us every one a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life!
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES

A STRANGE FRIENDSHIP

THAT EXISTING BETWEEN AUSTRIA'S EMPEROR AND MME. SCHATT.

A Psychological Mystery in the Intimacy Existing Between the Emperor and Francis Joseph—The Emperor Visits Her Daily at Her Cottage.

One of the strangest court romances of the nineteenth century is holding the rapt attention of the 38,000,000 subjects of the Austro-Hungarian Empire. The story concerns Emperor Francis Joseph and his attentions to the beautiful Mme. Schratt, an actress who a few years ago played in the Thalia theatre in the Bowery with only indifferent success. Mme. Schratt is not only the Emperor's favorite, but his confidante and adviser both in matters political and relating to the court. It is even said that she exercises such sway over His Majesty that her influence can be traced in the settlement of the gravest public questions. It is needless to say that the Emperor appears frequently at the Imperial Theatre in Vienna, and he also almost daily visits Mme. Schratt at her cottage.

When, about twelve years ago, Catharine Schratt appeared in the Bowery, although billed as the leading Vienna actress, she did not arouse great enthusiasm, but she was regarded as a fascinating little woman whose pleasant smile and winning ways stood her in good stead in the lighter comedy parts.

Her beauty was of the pronounced Viennese type. Bonny blue eyes, a wealth of light-brown hair and an aristocratic figure were her important charms. She was then about twenty-eight years of age.

But nowadays in Austro-Hungary if one speaks of the first lady of the country, or, as they call it over there, of the "Hohe Frau," none other is meant but Mme. Catharine Schratt. At the time of her engagement in New York Mme. Schratt was the wife of Herr Von Kisz, whose fortunes were on the wane and whose estates in Hungary had dwindled to next to nothing.

Herr Von Kisz is only a remembrance to-day. He is said to live in the South of France, and a bright boy, now about fourteen, the fruit of his marriage with the actress, is being brought up under his name in the Theresianum, one of the aristocratic institutions in Vienna.

In Vienna Mme. Schratt reappeared at the Imperial Berg Theatre, which corresponds to the Comedie Francaise in Paris. The Emperor, who is a regular first nighter, saw Mme. Schratt's performances, and when his visits to the theatre became more frequent than usual the gossips began to draw their conclusions. But nothing occurred in the outside life of the Emperor which would justify any malicious reports. When the Emperor first met the actress personally is not known. But it is said that this event took place soon after Mme. Schratt returned from America and applied for an audience at the court to thank His Majesty for the leave of absence which he had graciously accorded her.

Even at that time a number of court satellites, anxious to grasp any opportunity, and aware of the gossip that was abroad, began to swarm around the actress, and at balls and receptions she was constantly surrounded by court officers and even members of the Imperial Cabinet.

To the public at large the fact of a personal acquaintance between the Emperor and the actress remained a deep secret. It was only after the death of Prince Rudolph that matters assumed an entirely different aspect. That this historical tragedy was a terrible blow to the Emperor Francis Joseph and his wife, who idolized her son, may well be imagined. The Emperor never recovered from the shock and from a man in the prime and vigor of life he suddenly turned into a senile old man.

To the astonishment of all, he sought consolation in the society of none other than Mme. Schratt. The actress was repeatedly invited to the table of the Emperor at the Imperial castle in Ischl, an honor never before bestowed upon any other artist in the world. But the populace stood in amazement when it was rumored that not only the Emperor but also the Empress had chosen the actress Mme. Schratt, as consoler and adviser. The Empress always had a reputation for extreme haughtiness, and was the only member of the royal family who never courted popularity.

Yet to-day, it is a common sight in Vienna to see the Empress Elizabeth driving out in a open carriage with Mme. Schratt. Mme. Schratt often calls at the Imperial mansion to cheer Her Majesty, who is subject to attacks of melancholia, and no one so admirably succeeds in dispersing the clouds from the Empress's mind. The Empress never misses a public opportunity to show her respect for her.

The purely platonic relations between the Emperor and the actress are explained by the most absurd theories, one of which has it that Mme. Schratt is the legitimate offspring of the monarch. It is apparent that Emperor Francis Joseph takes no trouble to conceal his almost paternal affection for the young woman. He may be seen almost any day, in fair weather or foul, at about noontime, walking from the Imperial castle to the cottage of the actress, a distance of five miles. Hundreds of his subjects watch His Majesty on his way there, and he answers their respectful salutations with his wonted serenity.

She has never attempted to make the slightest use of the strange opportunities which fate has given her. This is one of the psychological mysteries of the case. During the long years of this Imperial courtship except a few presents, such as one friend might give to another, she has never been known to accept the slightest material tokens from His Majesty.

Mme. Schratt lives on the salary which she receives from the Imperial Berg Theatre, which is by no means a small one amounting to 40,000 florins, equal to $16,000 of American money. Out of this she defrays all the expenses of her household, including the little extra luncheons for His Majesty, who is a lover of good wine and excellent cigars. Only on one occasion has the Emperor reciprocated in a notable way to the actress, and that was when a short time ago, on the occasion of the fourteenth birthday of the actress's only son, the Emperor made him a birthday present consisting of an officer's commission in the Austrian Army, a favor conferred only on members of the royal family and scions of the highest nobility in the empire.

It is said in Vienna that the reason the Emperor did not decorate Strauss, the composer, on the occasion of the Strauss jubilee the other day, was owing to Mme. Schratt's objections, which may or may not have been due to jealousy.—New York World.

ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES
No More Misery.
ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affliction, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The principal symptoms are a severe itching, which is worst at night when the sufferer becomes warm in bed. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously during sleep scratches the parts until they are sore—bleeding and inflamed form, excessive moisture is exuded. Females are peculiarly afflicted from this disease, causing unbearable irritation and pruritis. Should every other symptom of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the tissue and bloom, dry up the moisture.
DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT
Gives Instant Relief.
PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause from Itching Piles, yet its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same intolerable itching; the sense creeping, crawling, stinging sensation characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

ONLY VISIBLE FOR A MOMENT.

A Cannon Which Delivers Its Fire and Then Disappears to Be Reloaded.

A remarkable invention is the Crozier disappearing carriage and gun. Captain Crozier is stationed at Sandy Hook. His latest—a 10-inch gun—is now being tested there. The underlying principle of the mechanism is founded upon the geometric theories that, if a right line move so that two of its points remain upon two other lines, making an angle with each other, the extremity of any other point of the moving line will describe an ellipse. The trunnions of the gun are mounted at the ends of two levers, which in turn are mounted at their centres on two hydraulic buffing cylinders, which are placed one on each side of the top of the carriage. The other ends of these levers carry the counterweight, a mass of metal weighing 37,000 pounds, placed in the centre of the carriage, carrying with them the trunnions of the supporting levers and raising the counterweight, which is held in its elevated position by a system of pawls and ratchets. When the counterweight is released it throws the rear ends of the gun-bearing levers forward and upward. The buffing cylinders are drawn forward over their stationary pistons to the front end of the carriage. At the same time the breech end of the gun is carried up by steel arms, whose upper ends are pivoted to the gun, and whose lower ends are pivoted to sliding blocks which move in circular grooves, and which may be raised or lowered to give the desired elevation.

When the discharge occurs the force of recoil throws back the upper ends of the levers, which in turn force the cylinders to the rear end of the carriage and raise the counterweight to its original position, where it is caught and held by the pawls and ratchets. Neither the gun nor any part of the carriage is exposed above the protecting parapet except for the instant of firing. The extreme elevation is 15 degrees; the depression, 9 degrees. It is calculated that two-thirds of the force of the recoil comes up in the hydraulic cylinders, the other third being used in raising the counterweight. Ten rounds were fired from it in fourteen minutes and nineteen seconds, the most rapid firing of any gun known. The shell is 575 pounds. A non-commissioned officer and eight men can handle the gun. A reporter saw it tested the other day. When the bar released the ratchet the gun rose in the air with an ease and grace that was astonishing. The explosion was deafening, and the instant after down it came to its original position with the same gentle and graceful motion, as if it were a mere toy being handled by a girl.

STORY OF "OLD IRONSIDES."

How the Stirring Verses Came to Be Written by Oliver Wendell Holmes.

"Old Ironsides," Dr. Holmes' most stirring lyric and the one which brought him recognition as a poet, was first printed in the Boston Advertiser. In 1830 the frigate Constitution, the conquering hero of many a sea fight, lay at Charlestown navy yard, condemned by an unsentimental department, to be destroyed as no longer seaworthy. Dr. Holmes was then a youth of 21. He had been graduated from Harvard the year before and had spent some time in the study of law. At that moment, however, his legal studies had been abandoned and he was living quietly at home, uncertain of his future occupation. It was in the interval between his desertion of the law and his resolve to study medicine that "Old Ironsides" was written. The young man's mind was filled with enthusiasm for the achievements of our navy, and that its most famous vessel should be chopped up like any unhallowed wood naturally provoked and galled him. The feelings which the action of the department aroused in him found spontaneous expression in the poem. There was nothing deliberate about its composition, according to the Boston Post; it was wholly impromptu. To the best of his recollection, he says, he wrote it on a scrap of paper with a lead pencil while standing one day before the fireplace in the old house at Cambridge. And then, without dreaming of the great popularity it would win, or of how effectual its protest would be, he sent it off to the Advertiser, where it appeared in the issue of Thursday, Sept. 16. As it gave eloquent voice to the sentiment of the whole country, its success was both sudden and universal. The poem was copied with applause from paper to paper, while in Washington it was struck off on handbills and distributed through the city. The grand result was preservation with honor for the Constitution.

IN MEMORIAM

Of William F. Coulter, Who Died November 12th, 1894.

(To my departed cousin.)

Dear Willie thou hast left us all,
Thy life on earth is o'er,
But in heaven above we hope to meet
Where partings are no more.

A mother's joy, a father's pride,
A loving brother dear,
Has bid farewell to earthly friends,
And gone away from here.

At the early age of eighteen,
Just in his youth and bloom,
God sent His speedy messenger
And called dear Willie home.

He arose on Monday morning,
As usual blithe and gay,
No shadow of his coming doom
Across his spirits lay.

At seven o'clock in the morning,
He left his father's home,
With an earnest prayer from his parents
For their darling's safe return.

He little thought when he parted
With the loved ones in his home,
That his body cold and lifeless
Would back to them be borne.

With his fellow friend he went to work
Into a woods near by,
Not dreaming that the fatal hour
Of death was drawing nigh.

They had sawed up fallen timber,
Until two in the afternoon;
When they fell that fatal maple,
Willie met his untimely doom.

Instantly it shattered down,
Like an arrow from the bow
And struck poor Willie on the head,
A cruel and fatal blow.

His comrade hastened to his side,
And raised him in his gore,
And gazing on his crushed remains,
Told him that life was o'er.

The sad tidings to his parents,
Without delay was brought,
And to absent friends the message flew,
And Oh! how sad the shock.

In haste God's sudden call was sent,
To bear him to the skies,
And loving friends with grief are sad,
But God can dry our eyes.

At home, his footsteps no more they'll hear.
Which was a welcome sound,
No more that loving voice will cheer—
It's silent 'neath the ground.

On earth no more that face we'll see,
On earth no more we'll meet,
An aching void there'll ever be,
Till we in heaven meet.

Then parents, sisters, brothers, friends,
Let us for death prepare,
That when our Saviour calls us home,
We will meet our loved ones there.

TORY.

The Incomes of Physicians.

The incomes of professional men can be discussed only in an approximate way. As the amount of money earned is considered by the public as a measure of appreciation of services rendered, there is a strong tendency to stretch the imagination in the direction of what should be rather than what actually is. Physicians form no exception to this rule. The average annual income of a physician in full practice in a large city may be stated as $2,000, and in smaller towns and in strictly rural districts $1,200. Two or three physicians in New York make over $100,000 each year five or six range from $50,000 to $60,000, fifty from $25,000 to $30,000; 150 from $10,000 to $12,000; about three hundred from $5,000 to $6,000; 1,500 from $2,000 to $3,000 and the remainder from $800 to $1,000.

Plain Force of Character.

It is neither by his intelligence nor his talents, says Max O'Rell in the Revue de Paris, that John Bull has created the immense British empire; it is by force of character. To maintain an empire of more than 400,000,000 people scattered over the earth, to widen it every day, without functionaries, with a handful of soldiers, and more often with volunteers, is wonderful, it must be acknowledged. And, at present, I can affirm that not a single colony causes John Bull & Co. the least apprehension. A magistrate and a dozen policemen administer and hold in respect districts larger than five or six French departments. Justice is meted out to the natives as impartially as to the colonists. All these young nationalities enjoy the most complete liberty, political and social.

If I have not succeeded in proving, in spite of their thousand and one whims, the Anglo-Saxons are the only people in the world who are perfectly free I have wasted my time and yours, dear readers. There are many people in Britain who imagine that the future reserves for the British empire a confederation having its centre in London. If, during all my travels among the Anglo-Saxons of the whole world. I have acquired a deep conviction it is that the colonies will never accept the realization of this dream. Each would want to preserve its individuality and nationality. Moreover, none of them have the least desire to be comprised in the quarrels Britain might have with any European nation. They will remain branch establishments of the firm of John Bull & Co., or they will be independent.

Of the Dutch settlers in Africa M. Blouet says: "The Boers are farmers and hunters, and nothing else. Ignorant, bigoted, backward, they do not change their ideas any more than they change their linen. They are hospitable, dirty, brave and lazy. They have much religion and very few scruples; they are satisfied to live like their ancestors and ready to die the day their independence is menaced. Johannesburg will absorb the Transvaal; the apathy of the Boers will have to give way before the ever-increasing activity of the British. The Transvaal is destined to become an Anglo-Saxon republic, which will one day form part of the free United States of South Africa."

LORD JERSEY'S REPORT.

A Letter From the Marquis of Ripon Expresses His Approval.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The Times prints five columns from a blue book containing the Earl of Jersey's report. A letter from the Marquis of Ripon, expressing full approval of the Earl of Jersey's conduct at the Ottawa conference is among the communications. The Earl of Jersey's report closes with these words:

"I am impressed with the belief that the three proposals of the Ottawa conference are sound and practical and full of imperial advantages. Never perhaps in the history of the empire has such an opportunity been given the Mother Country to help clear the channels between the colonies and herself, so that trade will be increased and the feeling of kinship will not be stopped. The ready and generous consideration of the proposals would be hailed with intense satisfaction."

All the noteworthy points in the report were given in the analysis of a week ago.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The Daily News says in a leader on the Earl of Jersey's report on the Ottawa conference: "As for the customs union the colonies might better gradually be weaned from protection than to undertake to induce the mother country to abandon free trade." The News commends the Canadian and Australian cable and steamship project.

LUNDY'S LANE MONUMENT.

The Minister of Militia Visits the Historic Battle Ground.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 10.—The Hon. J. C. Patterson, Minister of Militia, and Hon. Senator Ferguson, accompanied by Rev. John Crawford, chairman of the Collegiate Institute Board, and Rev. Canon Bull, president of the Lundy's Lane Historical Society, and other prominent citizens, visited the institute on Saturday and were shown through the magnificent building lately constructed by the town. The Minister was highly pleased with the splendid structure and with the reception tendered him, and expressed the opinion that the institution reflected high credit not only on the enterprise of the citizens of Niagara Falls, but upon the Dominion at large, on account of being situated as it is in a place visited by the people of the world. He said it showed the world the high standard of education in our fair Dominion.

The party afterwards visited the historic Lundy's Lane battle ground and located a site for the proposed monument to be erected in the near future. The spot chosen is the highest point of land between the two great lakes.

Truskey Apprised of His Fate.

WINDSOR, Dec. 10.—Attorney Sutherland, of Windsor, who has contended against fate to save Truskey from the gallows, called at the Sandwich jail with a letter which he had just received from Lawyer W. H. Riddle, who has looked after Truskey's case in Toronto in the endeavor to secure a new trial for the condemned man. In that letter Attorney Riddle states to his colleague that there is absolutely no hope for Truskey; that all the power in Canada cannot prevent his hanging next Friday. Mr. Sutherland read the letter to the poor wretch in his cell. It speaks well for Truskey's nerve that he did not break down after hearing the inevitable. It affected him noticeably. He turned pale and his voice faltered when he informed the attorney that then for the first time he gave up all hope; for the first time he realized that death was certain. During the remainder of the day he was very much depressed, but withal bore up with wonderful fortitude.

Killed on the Parry Sound Railway.

OTTAWA, Dec. 10.—A farmer named Affleck was instantly killed on the Parry Sound railway on Saturday while walking along the line. He was run over by the passenger train from Eganville, due at Arnprior at 8.40. His head was severed from his body and he was very badly mutilated. The accident occurred at Mooney's trestle about a mile west of Arnprior. Affleck was walking across the trestle at the time. The engineer had sounded the whistle before coming around a sharp curve near the trestle, and as soon as he saw Affleck on the track he sounded an alarm whistle, reversed the engine and applied the brakes. Affleck made an attempt to get out of the way, but in doing so slipped and fell across the rails. The train could not be stopped in time and Affleck was crushed under the wheels. He was dead when picked up.

Texas-Pacific Train Robbers Arrested.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Dec. 10.—Sam Evans, related to some of the most prominent people of this city, was arrested at Corsicana yesterday by Sheriff Weaver of Navarro county. Weaver says that Evans came to him and acknowledged being one of the men who robbed the Texas and Pacific train at Mary's Creek Thursday night. Evans made a confession under promise that he would not be prosecuted. The other two men whom Evans implicated were arrested at their home near the scene of the robbery.

A House of Refuge for Huron.

GODERICH, Ont., Dec. 10.—At the June meeting of the county council it was decided to erect a house of refuge for the county of Huron. The contract was awarded to S. S. Cooper of Clinton, the sum being $9,874. The building will be situated one mile south of Clinton, and is to be completed by October 1, 1895. This will prove a great boon to the county, as hitherto the poor and aged depending on charity were placed in the county jail.

O'Gara's Appeal Case Dismissed.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The judicial committee of the Privy Council on Saturday formally dismissed the appeal from the judgment of the Spreme Court of Canada, versus O'Gara, the matter having been compromised. Sir James Webster and Hon. Edward Blake has been retained to conduct the appeal on behalf of Mr. O'Gara.

Died the Street.

BRANTFORD, Dec. 10.—Mrs. David Almas died very suddenly on Saturday at Burtch. She left her residence to go to the post office. Shortly afterwards she was found dead on the sidewalk. Supposed cause of death was heart failure.

Case and Keating Committed for Trial.

GUELPH, Dec. 10.—John Case was on Saturday committed for trial at the next assizes by Magistrate Saunders on the charge of culpable homicide. Alex. Keating was also sent up as an accessory.

West Durham Conservatives.

BOWMANVILLE, Ont., Dec. 10.—Mr. D. F. Walsh was on Saturday unanimously chosen to represent the Conservatives of West Durham in the coming Dominion election.

"The Fatal Wedding," "I long to see the girl I left behind," and five other songs of the day for 25c, at PETERBOROUGH MUSIC CO., 304 George street.

Grand Trunk Finances.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The stock market welcomes the announcement of the Grand Trunk Railway board of directors that they have concluded financial arrangements by which the interest due on the bonds and debenture stocks of the road's leased lines will be paid throughout 1895 at the dates when due. The papers urge the company to use this breathing time to increase the net revenue. The committee of the dissatisfied shareholders of the road have received the reply of the board, which in effect states that Mr. Barker cannot be allowed to inquire into the accounts of the company in Canada so fully as the committee desired. The board, however, states that in contravention of its ordinary business principles, it will furnish these shareholders details of the current transactions.

Cut His Throat With a Razor.

MUSKEGON, Mich., Dec. 10.—Cerub Bailey, for ten years superintendent of the tug service of the Muskegon Booming Company, attempted suicide in his room in the Bradley block, cutting five gaping wounds in his throat with a razor. His connection with the recent sensational trial of Boomer Noro is supposed to have made him temporarily insane.

Goetzen Crosses Africa.

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—A despatch dated at St. Thomas on Friday says that Count Goetzen, a German explorer, has completed his journey across Africa. He started from Dar-es-Salam in October, 1893, and proceeded westward midway between the routes followed by Stanley and Wissmann. He arrived at Matzei, on the Congo, several days ago.

Beaten by Chicago's Footpads.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Lawyer Richard Towns, a well-known practitioner, was nearly killed by three footpads in the heart of the down-town district, within three blocks of a police station, and is now at his home in a precarious condition. The thieves pounded Towns into insensibility, secured $25 and valuable papers and fled.

Fight With Escaped Convicts.

PERRY, O.T., Dec. 10.—A fight occurred between officers of Grant and five escaped prisoners in the Creek nation, in which Dr. Bowman, a noted outlaw, was killed and two other prisoners and one officer were wounded. All the fugitives were captured.

TURNBULL.

Sweeping reductions in Mantles this month at Turnbull's in order to have the stock all cleaned out by the first of January, as styles change so rapidly these days, we do not want to carry any over as our desire is to always show New Goods. We have only about 90 Mantles left, but they are well assorted, as we have only a few of each make. We have gone through them carefully and marked them down to prices that are sure to clear them out. Such as:

$5.00 Mantles in Blue and Black Cloth, for - - $3.00

$8.00 Mantles Neatly Trimmed, for - - - - $6.00

$10.00 Mantles, fine quality Beaver - - - - - $6.00

We have also a length of $8 Astrachan Curl (heavy weight) we are cutting at $5 per yard, now is the time to leave your order for a Mantle that will wear better than any Dog Skin and cost only half the price. We have Leiscester Sealettes, (acknowledged to be the best make in the world) in three or four qualities, they, owing to hard times, are selling slowly and would rather clear them out than carry them over and will therefore make up Mantles at from $5 to $10 less than regular prices.

OUR MOTTO—Small Profits and Quick Sales, we undersell but are never undersold.

THE WAR IN THE EAST.

Japanese Concentrating Their Forces for an Attack.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—A despatch from Chee-Foo to the Ceatral News says that the Chinese are fearful that the landing of the Japanese will be made near that place, when they will march to Wei Hai-Wei. Men and guns are being hurried to Wei-Hai-Wei with all possible expedition. The foreigners there, although secure in the protection of a strong naval force, are forming a volunteer force to further protect themselves against the disbanded and deserting soldiers whose numbers are largely increasing.

Reports from Pekin say that a very strong anti-foreign feeling prevails there. The Japanese are trying to float the Chinese warships Chao-Yung and Yang-Wei which were beached and burned in the Yalu fight.

A despatch from Chemulpo says there are only 100 Japanese at Seoul. Five hundred Tonghaks are gathering in the province of Loan-Hai, a province hitherto free from rebels.

The Japanese have dispensed with the services of the ex-regent of Corea.

The Loss of the Wairapa.

AUCKLAND, Dec. 11.—In the inquiry into the circumstances of the loss of the steamship Wairapa, from Sydney, N. S. W., for this port, on the night of Oct. 28, when she went ashore on Great Barier Island has been closed. The court finds that the wrecking of the ship and the consequent drowning of upwards of eighty of her passengers and crew, was the fault of Captain McIntosh, who was himself drowned. The court also finds Chief Officer Noves guilty of negligence, though his certificate is not revoked. The crew are also censured for having failed to do their whole duty. The boat drill on the ship was merely nominal and not of such a character as to instruct seamen what to do in such an emergency as arose on the night in question.

Missions Attacked by Somalis.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—Mail advices from Zanzibar state that the American and Swedish mission at Culeesa, on the Tana river, was attacked by a band of Somalis on October 30. The natives tried to storm the stockade, but were repulsed with a loss of two killed and several wounded. A number of cattle belonging to the mission were stampeded, but otherwise the mission sustained no loss.

CANADIAN QUESTIONS

Prominent Matters Occupying Attention in Imperial Circles.

GARDNER AND THE EMBARGO

The Arguments Advanced in Favor of Canada's Cattle—The French Treaty—The Copyright Question—Grievance of the English Cheese Dealers.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The past week has been of considerable interest to those who are concerned with Canadian affairs, as the Canadian cattle question has again been to the front, the French treaty has been ratified by one of the French chambers and an endeavor has been made to revive the agitation respecting Canadian copyright.

During his recent visit to Scotland Sir Charles Tupper the High Commissioner was approached by those who are concerned in the cattle industry with a view to learn from him the present position of the negotiations and the probability of an early removal of the restrictions now imposed on the trade. Sir Charles, as may be expected, spoke as plainly as he usually does on all subjects in which the interests of Canada are concerned, and his utterances attracted a good deal of attention. In consequence, Sir John Leng, the member for Dundee, wrote to Mr. Gardner upon the subject, recapitulating the arguments used by Sir Charles Tupper and pressing the matter upon the Board of Agriculture. This provoked a long reply from Mr. Gardner. The High Commissioner has written a long letter to Sir John Leng dealing with Mr. Gardner's communication and it has been published in the Times. The general impression is that Mr. Gardner's position in the matter is rendered untenable by the arguments which have been advanced both by the Government of Canada and their representative in London.

There is little that is new in the recent correspondence, as the controversy has been so thoroughly threshed out in the official correspondance that has taken place. Sir Charles Tupper, however, makes a very strong point of the fact that pleuro-pneumonia has not appeared in Canada, either before or since the first auspicious cases occurred in 1890, and he claims that no veterinary expert attached to the board of agriculture or any independent authority will venture to deny that if any of the alleged cases had been pleuro-pneumonia, considering its fatal and contagious character, the disease must have appeared in many parts of Canada before now, as four years have elapsed since the first suspicious cases were reported. Mr. Gardner in his letter claimed that the future rested with the Canadian Government, and that they ought to carry out the suggestions made by the board of agriculture in July, 1893. In this connection Sir Charles Tupper points out that all the machinery exists in Canada for the detection and stamping out of any contagious or infectious disease that may be found among the flocks and herds of the country, and that it is hardly to be expected that any cases of disease can be reported or investigated if none exist.

The recent ministerial candidate in Forfarshire, in the election of a member to succeed Sir John Rigby, was defeated, it is generally considered, largely in consequence of the attitude of the Government on the cattle question. It is significant that the Liberal papers in Scotland generally endorse the Canadian contentions, and that it is the conservative papers, and the agricultural press in England, which urge the continuance of the present restrictions. Why this should be so it is difficult to say, excepting that it is the outcome of a desire on the part of the Conservatives to endeavor to improve the agricultural industry by rendering foreign competition as difficult as possible.

The French Treaty.

The ratification of the French treaty by the Chamber of Deputies in Paris has given much satisfaction in business circles, and it is believed that the convention will lead to the development of trade between the two countries. The treaty has yet to be sanctioned by the Upper House, but that is only a matter of form, and in all probability the measure will soon be ratified. Its provisions will then come into force immediately on the issue of the proclamation provided in the Canadian act of last session. The agreement is regarded as important not only from a commercial standpoint, but as an indication of the growing importance of the Dominion and as another step in the development of the commercial interests of the outlying portion of the empire. It is sure to attract considerable attention in all the colonies and will no doubt be made a precedent for future treaties with foreign countries concerning the expansion of colonial trade.

The Copyright Question.

Advantage has been taken of Sir John Thompson's presence in this country to revive the agitation on the part of authors and publishers against the Canadian copyright bill of 1889. An important deputation recently waited upon Lord Ripon, and it is significant that there was a tendency to recede from the position hitherto taken up by those interested in the matter. Sir Albert Rollitt stated that there was no feeling of hostility towards Canada on the part of the deputation and that Canada had the right of legislation on those points which concerned her own printers and publishers. It was largely the details of the recent legislation that were criticised very strongly, but after all that is a detail which it may perhaps be possible to overcome by further discussion. The Marquis of Ripon made one statement which has given rise to much concern on the part of those who waited upon him, for he said that his departmental sympathies were naturally in the question with those colonies which he specially represented. This has aroused the ire of Mr. Arnold Foster, who has written to the Times on the subject in rather an impulsive and aggressive sort of way, but his views are not likely to be accepted generally by the public at large. The Marquis of Ripon stated that he proposed to discuss the matter fully with Sir John Thompson while he is here, and it may be taken for granted, therefore, that in view of the manner in which the Premier is supported in Canada, a decided step is likely to be taken, in the settlement of this vexed question.

The Pacific Cable.

The withdrawal of Victoria from the guarantee given by the Australian Government to the Eastern Extension Telegraph Company bids fair to advance a stage the question of cable communication between Canada and Australia. It is well-known that the high rates formerly charged by the company were regarded with much dissatisfaction in the Antipodes which strengthened considerably the feeling in Australia in favor of cable communication with Canada. Sir John Pender was keen enough to recognize the importance of the matter, and offered to reduce the rates if the different governments would guarantee a part of any loss that might be sustained by his company. The offer was accepted blindly by the Australians and there is little doubt that they have been regretting it ever since. The sums they have been obliged to pay in connection with the guarantee would have gone a long way towards providing the Pacific cable. They apparently did not see that if they once got the new cable in operation they would, under the terms of the contemplated arrangement, secure lower rates at once. The existing company would naturally have been obliged in their own interests to give the same facilities that were offered by the new route, and the Australian colonies would thus, for a very little more money, have obtained lower rates than they are getting even under the guarantee with the advantage of an alternative line of communication as well.

The Cheese Question.

It is no use blinking the fact that considerable feeling has been aroused in London among the cheese trade by the action of some of the Canadians exporters. The discussion that is taking place is not confined to one firm, but is shared in by all the leading houses. They are urging that Canadian legislation should be passed providing for the marking of cheese with the mouth in which it is made, and they claim that this will be no hardship to those shippers who act fairly and squarely. It will only affect those who have been sending over June and July cheeses for those of September and October; and in the interests of this large and growing trade, it is most important that the confidence which is now felt in Canadian cheese, and the reputation it has acquired in British markets, should be maintained. The question is not a new one; it has been discussed over and over again during the last few years, and was brought to the notice of Prof. Robertson when he last visited the United Kingdom.

The Australians are endeavoring to secure a portion of the British cheese trade, and the Minister of Agriculture in New South Wales is devoting much attention to the matter. It is announced in one of the Sydney papers that an analysis made of some local cheese which was sold in the Sydney market at 1d a pound contained 1.25 per cent. more fat and 4.78 per cent. less water than cheese sent from Ontario as a specimen of high class Canadian make which sells freely in the English market. In point of difference of quality a report to the inspector of agriculture states that the Corunna cheese was pronounced by many who tasted both to be superior to the Canadian. There is no fear, however, that Canadian cheese will not continue to hold its own in Great Britain and that the market for it will be developed, but there must be entire confidence between the exporters and importers if this result is to be attained.

READY FOR THE EXECUTION.

Truskey Will Hang on Friday Morning—The Scaffold Ready.

WINDSOR, Dec. 11.—Executioner Radcliffe, the man who is to launch Truskey into eternity at Sandwich jail on Friday morning, will leave for Sandwich to-night or to-morrow morning. Everything has been put in readiness for the execution, the scaffold works perfectly, and the law will take its course unless the Minister of Justice intervenes between now and Friday.

Detroit's sensational papers have been devoting considerable space to the demeanor of the condemned man since it became known that he would not be granted a new trial, and one of them published a column of matter describing how the criminal perused the Bible since he came to realize that death was inevitable. It now transpires that Truskey cannot read a word and that the minister who has been visiting him has no evidence which would lead him to believe that the doomed culprit has hope beyond.

Died From Lockjaw.

HAMILTON, Dec. 11.—Francis D. Vipond, the 8-year-old son of E. Vipond, died of lockjaw. On November 26 the boy fell on the sidewalk and got a sliver under his thumb nail. A piece of the sliver was removed and the wound was poulticed. On Wednesday last the boy was taken very ill, and on a doctor being summoned he found a large sliver under the thumb nail and discovered that the little fellow was suffering from lockjaw. Everything possible was done for him but he died on Saturday.

Engine Works to Leave Brantford.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Dec. 11.—Mr. C. H. Waterous, president of the Waterous Engine Works Co., on being interviewed by a reporter informed the reporter that Brantford was not a favorable point for their business compared with other location which had been offered to the firm. Mr. Waterous further said that the firm had fully discussed the matter and they had decided to leave Brantford shortly, as Brantford was not suitable for their shipments.

Lambton Independent Candidates.

PETROLEA, Dec. 11.—About 200 delegates, principally independent farmers, met here yesterday and selected for the coming elections as independent candidates the following gentlemen: For West Lambton, Mr. A. C. Dewar of Plympton; for East Lambton, Mr. J. L. Wilson of Enniskillen. Political matters will be red hot in this county for the next few months. Lambton being a great P. P. A. county makes matters very interesting.

Will Ask for an Extension of Time.

HAMILTON, Dec. 11.—The Hamilton Iron and Steel Co., who are constructing the smelting works will ask the council for a six months' extension of time to complete the work, in order to earn the bonus. If the time is extended from Jan. 1 to July 1 the smelting works promoters will undertake to blow furnace of 200 tons per day, capacity instead of 150, as specified in the by-law.

MUNICIPAL REPRESENTATIVES.

It does not seem much wonder that some Toronto aldermen got mixed in their morals and fell by the wayside. According to a letter written by Mr. Thomas Thompson to the Globe; a candidate for an alderman's seat in Toronto the Good, had to trim his sails and square his position to meet the demands of the following organizations:—

The Labour Union of United Workmen.
The Women's Christian Temperance Union.
The Taxpayers' Association.
The P. P. A. Society.
The two rival temperance societies.
The Hibernian Brothers.
The Ministerial Association.
The Licensed Victuallers' Association.
The anti-Sunday Car Association.
The Salvation Army, etc., etc., etc.

An alderman that would attempt to live up to the complicated obligations that would arise for a promise of compliance with wishes of each, or only a few of these deverse elements would surely get into trouble. Besides it is reasonable to suppose that no capable and self-respecting citizen would offer himself for a candidate if he were compelled to run the gauntlet of so formidable list of factions. While each of the interests thus represented may have a valid right to consideration, a member of the council should be selected upon the broad ground of his ability and willingness to work for the best interests of his constituency as a whole. In so doing he will serve all the legitimate interests of the organizations, making special claims to consideration. A representative should do his duty faithfully; and any special interest that cannot be served by the promotion of the general good, has little locus standi. A candidate or representative who tries to be too complaisant, will meet the fate of the man in the fable; by trying to please everybody, he will please nobody and lose his head and seat into the bargain.

In Peterborough as well as in Toronto, there must not be division of the forces desirous of securing good government, if it is hoped to attain so desirable an object. The citizens should unite to bring out and elect the very best men available. There does not seem to be any necessity for representatives of any special interest. What is wanted is men who will administer our affairs honestly and capably. A man may be elected to represent some special interest, who may be in every other respect unfitted to the last degree to transact the civic business. A council composed of good, all-round, level-headed honest men will transact the business of the town in such a manner that the material and moral interests of the town at large will be promoted.

TO TOWN HOLIDAY BUYERS.

It is now exactly a fortnight till Christmas, and in this short interval will be concentrated the bulk of the holiday buying. In the interests of the merchants of the town we should like to get on the good natured side of our townspeople — the ladies especially. We feel that we are expressing the earnest desire of our merchants when we urge upon the ladies and townspeople generally to make an effort to select four days of the week other than the regular market days—Wednesdays and Saturdays—in which to do their shopping and buying. On these days there is a rush from the country, and merchants have their hands full in attending to country customers. Of course it is impossible for all town's people to avoid making their purchases—on Saturdays, especially; but it seems with a little forethought the greater number of our citizens could make it convenient to do their buying on other days of the week. We are sure that our merchants would appreciate this kindness on the part of their town patrons. Of course a customer is welcome any day, but it is obviously an act of kindness to merchants to save them the trouble of serving two customers at once, especially on a desperately busy day like Wednesday or Saturday, when one of them might just as well have been served the day before. It is to be hoped that this suggestion will be entertained in conformity with the spirit of peace and good-will that comes with the calendar at the close of the year.

The Minister of Trade and Commerce and his assistant, who does not seem to have a great deal of "control," must feel small over the result of the investigation of the recent jute seizures in Montreal. Mr. Justice Burbidge has read the department a very sharp lesson and one which brings into strong prominence the gross carlessness and incompetency which prevails in its administration. The officials seem to be ignorant of the provisions of the laws which are designed to govern their own procedure. This is not by any means the first time that there has been blundering on the part of the customs authorities and such cases are common in Montreal. But there is at present no collector of the customs in that city, the commercial centre of the Dominion. The government is afraid to open a constituency, even as Conservative as Cardwell, and so the custom house in Montreal has to run without a head. No wonder that there is confusion.

The Toronto Empire excuses the government's purchase of cement from Belgium and awarding of contracts to foreigners by saying: "Of course the Government at Ottawa has no parliamentary instruction at the present time for any departure from the strict line of the law which entitles the lowest tender, provided it is a good one, to get the work." But, as the Hamilton Times justly remarks, this does not cover the ground. The government's action was a violation of the N.P. principle. If it is right for the government to go to foreigners for cheap goods, or to import them duty free, why is the right denied the citizen?

An official list of members elect to the 54th U. S. Congress, corrected up to December 5th, gives the Republicans 244 members, the Democrats 104, and the Populists 6. In the present Congress there are 218 Democrats, 128 Republicans and 22 Populist members.

No consideration for the enemy, wherever found will in future, no doubt, be Mr. Marter's motto.—Toronto Empire.

He has started out by showing a paralysing amount of consideration for the first enemies encountered—the Separate schools vote and the liquor interest.—Ottawa Journal—(Independent.)

An application was made to the rota Judges Thursday to appoint a time and place for trial of the East Northumberland Provincial election case. The Judges will consider the matter, and fix a day, probably early next month.

A bill to incorporate the Canadian Order of Foresters as a benefit society will be introduced in Parliament next session. It is proposed to have the head office in Brantford.

A new journal, the "Barrister," has made its appearance in Toronto. Its mission is to promote the interests of the Bar. It is said that Mr. Marter became a subscriber the first time of asking.

According to a suggestion of the Toronto News, Mr. Marter's declaration of policy should, like a railway excursion ticket, be labelled, "good for this day only."

Owing to the slippery condition of the walks on Sunday, Mr. Marter, it is understood, did not go to Mass on that day.

CANADIAN GRAIN IN ENGLAND.

Reviewing the London grain situation, Messrs. L. Norman say in their circular of the 28th:

Since our last report of the 19th inst., the wheat trade though steady in tone has ruled quiet, and prices a trifle easier. For the moment buyers have satisfied their immediate requirement, and the weaker tendency in the American markets have combined to bring about this relapse. American meet with little enquiry owing to the high prices asked. Red winters during the week sold at 22s, at which price there are further sellers.

Canadians steady but quiet. Parcels on passage or for November-December shipment are offering at 24s 4½d, and for December-January 24s 7½d. Barley has ruled quiet during the week. Towards the close, however, there has been more enquiry for cargoes of feeding qualities, parcels remain neglected. Odessa and Nicolaieff for November-December shipment is offering at 12s 3d, and for December-January at 12s 6d without finding buyers. Maize for Odessa cargoes, market is quiet, but near at hand, or prompt parcels are firm. A 1,000 quarter parcel old Odessa, shipment in 14 days, sold at 21s 9d. New crop December-January is offering at 19s 9d. American mixed, slow trade and little passing. December-January shipment offering at 20s 10½d, but no buyers. Oats, with heavy arrivals the market is quiet and easier. South Russian's, guaranteed, 34 to 35 lbs., are offering at 12s, but find no buyers. Peas, quiet. White Canadians, offering from 23s 3d to 23s 6d. Hay, no change since our last, and quotations nominal.

TESTED AND TRIED IN PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS.

Lactated Food is Found to be the Best.

No preparation of infant food has ever been so well and thoroughly tested in public institutions as the Lactated Food.

A celebrated doctor who attends to two of these noble institutions speaks thus:

"I have used Lactated Food for the sick poor infants of the ——— Charities, as well as in the Children's Home and Day Nursery.

"To sum up the results: Our Matron says the Lactated is the best food she has used thus far; and when one has daily thirty infants or more to feed, it is quite a relief to find a good food.

"We have given it to children three days old and upwards, and find it only acceptable to such young infants, but entirely free from the objections commonly met with, such as vomiting, diarrhœa, etc."

CHEESE BRANDING.

The English cheese trade have made direct charges against Canadian shippers of late, mail advices bringing fuller details of their assertions. Several prominent and large handlers of Canadian cheese, on the other side, were interviewed recently and are reported to have stated that they have personally suffered from the alleged practice among Canadian shippers of substituting summer for September cheese. "The practice," one said, "has been going on for two or three years, but this year more flagrantly than before." He said he had received an allowance from the shipper, thus proving that the imposition was admitted.

Charges made some time ago have all been strenuously denied by Montreal shippers, who are quietly awaiting further proof of the assertions made before taking definite action in the matter. Should the charges be conclusively proved to the satisfaction of the representatives of the trade here, there is an efficient remedy at hand to wipe out false marking. It would be but an easy matter for the Government, on the petition of the trade's Association to pass an act compelling the branding of the cheese, not boxes, at the factories with the date of manufacture, and as an extra precaution, quoting the suggestion of an English dealer, to appoint an inspector to see that the branding is properly carried out.

THE CONSERVATIVE TOUR.

Hon. John Haggart Addresses the Meeting at Wiarton.

WIARTON, Ont., Dec. 11.—The touring Conservative party arrived here last evening. After a banquet at the Arlington Hotel, a procession was formed, headed by the Wiarton brass band and proceeded to Robinson's Hall, where a large audience awaited them.

Hon. John Haggart was the principal speaker. Among other things he said: "England adopted free trade after five hundred years. It will be time enough for Canada to adopt free trade when it has arrived at the same position. Cotton, woollen, agricultural implements, leather goods he held to be as cheap in Canada as in any part of the world. The Wilson bill of the democratic party is higher than the National Policy. The term "soon" in reference to the elections was held by the Minister to mean any time between now and their occurrence.

Hon. Mr. Patterson made a short speech and gave place to Dr. Montague, who paid a high tribute to Sir John Thompson and asked the support for him that had been given to the late Sir John A. Macdonald. He referred to the magnificent reception given to them by Wiarton. The ministers will attend another meeting in Wingham to-night.

A Chicago Preacher Elopes.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Rev. Conrad Haney, one of the most prominent of Chicago divines, eloped with a Mrs. Brandt, the wife of a well-known banker. Haney was pastor of the aristocratic Union Church on Lake avenue, and was recently prominently spoken of as the successor of Prof. David Swing in the pastorate of the Central Church. He left a handsome wife and four children and is said to have taken all available funds with him, leaving his family destitute. It was stated that Mr. Brandt had suspected an intimacy between his wife and the preacher for some time, and on Friday followed them and caught them together at a down-town hotel. There was a stormy scene, and Mr. Brandt gave the minister twelve hours to leave town. Haney did not wait long, but fled on Friday night, accompanied by Mrs. Brandt. The Brandts live on 46th street, near Drexel boulevard, and are well-known in the aristocratic quarter of Kenwood.

Newfoundland Bank Troubles.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Dec. 11.—The Commercial Bank of Newfoundland, having its headquarters in this city, suspended payment yesterday owing to the failure of several of the largest exporting houses to respond to their liabilities to the bank. This has involved other banks and has crippled at least ten of the largest concerns here. Four of them have closed their premises and others will close to-morrow. The small depositors are demanding gold from the union and savings banks and the gold reserve is being steadily drained. If they are able to meet the run everything is safe, but the chief danger is the difficulty in getting more gold into the country. At present the people are very peaceful and seem unable to appreciate the gravity of the situation. Business men of all classes are trying to effect an arrangement with London bankers or with Canadian concerns which will be urged to extend business to this centre.

Mantell Challenged to a Duel.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—A Cincinnati correspondent says: "The relations existing between Actor Robert Mantell and Charlotte Belvins, of his company, were the cause of Mrs. Mantell securing a divorce about two years ago. Last Tuesday Charlotte instituted divorce proceedings against her husband, E. E. Hume, of the Spider and the Fly Company. The sequel to this was a duel proposed by Mr. Hume with Mr. Mantell as challengee. Manager Larry Reist, of Havelin's Theatre, was selected as second by Hume, but on the advice of a lawyer the duel idea was dropped. After the show Mantell and Mrs. Hume met Hume on their way to the Burnet House. Mantell denies that he will not play in New York State for fear of being served with papers in the Hume suit. Hume has crossed into Kentucky and sent a message from Covington asking Mantell to come over and settle affairs by a personal encounter. Mantell tore up the message and says the courts may settle the trouble.

McCarthyites at Georgetown.

GEORGETOWN, Dec. 11.—Last evening Mr. McCarthy addressed the electors in the town hall here. He was met at the depot by a number of the leading citizens, who formed in procession headed by the town band and escorted to the town hall, which by the time the distinguished speakers arrived, was filled to overflowing by electors. Mr. Scott, the McCarthy candidate, spoke first and created rather a favorable impression, and was followed by Mr. Godfrey, a young Toronto lawyer. Mr. McCarthy spoke for upwards of two hours, and renewed the trade question and predicted an election within a short time.

Smallpox in Toronto.

TORONTO, Dec. 11.—The medical health officer, Dr. Sheard, was notified that there was a case of smallpox in the city, and within two hours the patient was in the isolation hospital, and everything possible was done to prevent the spread of the infection. The case was caught in good time and treatment commenced before the postules had developed, and it is hoped there is very little danger. The victim is the well-known Mr. James Fax, a comic singer, who has lately been in the infected district near Strathroy, where he has evidently caught the disease. Dr. Sheard thinks there is little cause for alarm.

Cyclone in Alabama.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 11.—A special from Eufaula, Ala., says: A terrific cyclone, travelling in a northwesterly direction, passed about two miles east of here yesterday. Its path was about a half mile wide and great destruction was done. Eight farm houses on the plantation of M. Gay were blown down and four persons buried under the debris, one of whom was probably fatally injured.

It Sharpens

the appetite, improves digestion, and restores health and vigor; all the organs of the body are aroused to healthy action by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. More than all, the liver—and that's the key to the whole system. You have pure blood or poisonous blood, just as your liver chooses. The blood controls the health, the liver controls the blood, the "Discovery" controls the liver.

You can escape just about half the ills that flesh is heir to, by being ready for them. Brace the system up with this medicine, which prevents as well as cures. For all diseases caused by a disordered liver or impure blood—dyspepsia, biliousness, the most stubborn skin, scalp and scrofulous affections, the "Discovery" is the only remedy so certain and effective that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure you have your money back. You pay only for the good you get.

The Mechanism of Walking.

The chief muscles concerned in walking, says the London Hospital, are those in the calf and back of the leg, which, by pulling up the heel, also pull up the bones of the foot connected with it, and then the whole body, the weight of which is passed on through the bones of the leg. When walking, the trunk is thrown forward so that it would fall down prostrate were not the right foot planted in time to support it. The calf muscles are helped in this action by those on the front of the trunk and legs, which contract and pull the body forward, and the trunk slanting forward when the heel is raised by the calf muscles, the whole body will be raised and pushed forward and upward. This advancement of each leg is effected partly by muscular action, the muscles used being (1) those on the front of the thigh, bending it forward on the pelvis; (2) the hamstring muscles, which slightly bend the leg on the thigh; (3) the muscles on the front of the leg, which raise the front of the foot and toes, preventing the latter, in swinging forward, from hitching in the ground.

When one foot has reached the ground the action of the other has not ceased. There is another point in walking. The body is constantly supported and balanced on each leg alternately, and therefore on only one at once. Hence there must be some means for throwing the centre of gravity over the line of support formed by the bones of each leg, as it supports the weight of the body. This is done in various ways, and hence the difference in the walk of different people. There may be slight rotation at the hip joint, bringing the centre of gravity of the body over the foot of this side. This "rocking" motion of the trunk and thigh is accompanied by a movement of the whole trunk and leg over the foot planted on the ground and is accompanied by a compensating outward movement at the hip. The body rises and swings alternately from one side to the other as its centre of gravity comes alternately over one or the other leg, and the curvature of the spinal bones is altered with the varying position of the weight.

Beauty.

After all, the truest beauty is not that which suddenly dazzles and fascinates, but that which steals upon us insensibly. Let us each call up to memory the faces that have been most pleasant to us—those that we have loved best to look upon, that now rise most vividly before us in solitude, and oftenest haunt our slumbers—and we shall usually find them not the most perfect in form, but the sweetest in expression. They follow us in the daily routine of our varied duties, and their softening influences will give us rest and peace, for the truest beauty is that which comes from a close communion with those things which lead upward—the good and the true.

He Got It Straight.

A very vain preacher having delivered a sermon in the hearing of Rev. Robert Hall, pressed him, with a mixture of self-complacency and indelicacy, to state what he thought of the sermon. Mr. Hall remained silent for some time, hoping that his silence would be rightly interpreted; but this only caused the question to be pressed with greater earnestness. At length Mr. Hall admitted, "There was one very fine passage." "I am rejoiced to hear you say so. Pray, sir, which was it?" "Why, sir, it was the passage from the pulpit to the vestry."

Hard-Times Topics Tabooed.

A society among merchants and traders out west has been formed in which the members agree that they will not hold conversations about hard times, dull trade, small orders, slow collections, low prices of wheat, etc. The idea is an excellent one.

We Don't Talk Much

About our prices, nor are we often found quoting extravagantly —so that what we DO say now, may be taken as BONA-FIDE.

We will, for the balance of the season, offer the remainder of our new selections of

LADIES' and CHILDREN'S MANTLES and ULSTERS

At prices that should make a complete clearance before New Years. Every garment is of this season's newest and latest design, and has only left the makers' hands a few months.

As we do not purpose to carry over a single Mantle or Ulster, buyers can rest assured that no obstacle will be put in the way of letting them go at a BARGAIN.

OUR MANTLE CLOTHS and SEALETTES . . . . .

Will, of coure, have to share the same fate, for the same reason. The pick of our High-Class Stock of any of these Cloths at any of the reduced prices we now offer will be

A SNAP FOR ANY BUYER

who is a judge of the goods.

ALL TRIMMED MILLINERY

Must also come in for a SWEEPING REDUCTION to clear the way for more seasonable goods. One-half former prices will be the tariff that will prevail, and no exceptions or deviations will be made on any of the beautiful class of goods now remaining.

WINTER DRESS GOODS

Of every kind have all been re-examined and re-marked, with Reduced Price Tickets. The former value of these high-class goods have been fully recognized and appreciated by customers, but the reduced prices will enhance their value at least 25 per cent.

WOOL and KNITTED SHAWLS

Still very seasonable, and so much worn, will be dropped in price to ensure a speedy sale at this season of the year.

Inspection invited. No trouble to show goods, and no obligation to buy. What we want is lookers as well at buyers. We don't talk much about prices, but when we say they're down—THEY'RE DOWN.

Tuesday, Dec. 11th.—Our snow is here. At this morning's observation the thermometer indicated 23 degrees above. I now expect to see some rain.—THOS. TELFORD.

The public are kindly reminded that the Rev. J. E. Starr, superintendent of the Toronto Children's Aid Society, will deliver an address upon the "Rescue and Protection of Children" in Bradburn's Opera House on Thursday evening. The Mayor will preside. Admission free.

Garments to Order.

W. J. Green, 145 Hunter street, will continue the sale of three dollar pants which are of special value (formerly four and five dollars) made to order by first class workmen. Trimmings just the same as more expensive material, in fact to call and inspect for yourself will satisfy anyone.

Still More New Books.

The Mechanics' Institute has just added the following new books to the library shelves :—The Lilac Sunbonnet, Crocket; The Sunday at Home, 1894, The Sedile Heart, Balfour; Primer of Hygiene, Reynolds; Maiden's Progress, Hunt; Sun Rise Land, Vera; A Drama in Dutch, Z. Z.; Bell Ringer of Angels, Bret Harte; My New Home, Molesworth; Beside the Bonnie Briar Bush, McLaren.

Runaway Accident.

A serious runaway occurred on Ludgate's Hill, Ashburnham, yesterday afternoon, when a horse became affrighted and bolted as a youngster on a hand sleigh went scudding past him. The vehicle to which the horse was attached was upset and the driver thrown out, and dragged a considerable distance by his feet, which had become entangled in the reins. The horse was finally caught and stopped, but not before a great deal of skin had been scraped off the unfortunate driver's face.

The Rugby Club Honoured With an "Invite."

The members of the Lorne Rugby Club, which sent a fifteen down to Peterborough to be badly beaten, last Thanksgiving Day, are having an assembly, on December 14th, in St. George's Hall, Toronto, to which an invitation has been kindly sent to the members of the local Rugby Club. The patronesses of the affair are Mrs. A. W. Cosby, Mrs. J. C. Wallridge, Mrs. E. W. Chadwick, Mrs. H. Wade, Mrs. J. F. Eby, Mrs. F. C. Hood, Mrs. F. J. Phillips and Mrs. V. Armstrong. It is altogether probable that the Peterborough Rugby club will be represented by a strong contingent.

AUCTION SALE.

Do not fail to attend the Auction Sale of Books and Fancy Goods at Thompson's old stand, commencing on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock, and continuing each evening this week.

A Companion-able Night.

Last night Most Excellent Companion J. Ross Robertson, Grand Z. Grand Chapter Royal Arch Masons, paid an official visit to Corinthian Chapter, No. 36. He was accompanied by Rt. Excellent Companion Quinlan, Port Hope. Grand Superintendent. There were present between forty and fifty local Companions. After the usual routine work, an address was delivered by the Grand Z, complimenting the chapter on the efficiency of the work. A few remarks were also made by the Grand Superintendent and by Ex-Comp. Wm. Miller, formerly of Lindsay Chapter. After labour, refreshments of an excellent character, provided by Bro. Johnny Watt, were provided. The occasion was the official visit of the Grand Z, who was much pleased with his visit, as were the local Companions. He left town this morning.

—Judge Holcombe, the governor-elect of Nebraska, is six feet taree inches tall, and weighes 250 pounds. His face has been described as an affidavit of earnestness and honesty. If this description is at all accurate the Judge would be a ring tailed snorter to run up against in a poker game.

—Sledging on the school hill is intolerable—the youngsters fear nothing and dash into all and everything coming before them. There is a bylaw which warns every youth from so doing. They should be more cautious and observe the same lest trouble follow.

—The Wallace Point steel bridge at Hale's has been completed, with the exception of the guard piers. It has been inspected by the county engineer and the committee appointed by the interested counties, and is considered a most substantial structure, which reflects great credit on the Central Bridge Works, town.

—Capt. Samuel Lambard has several men engaged in cutting wood and at the same time beautifying the Jubilee Point Park. The wood will be used by the P.S. & N. Company for next season's operations. The park will undergo a thorough underbrushing throughout, the trees as well will be thinned out. The Captain says that by the opening of next season's navigation the tourists will not know the place.

—Mr. James Fax, of Toronto, the popular comic singer, who is well known in Peterborough, has smallpox, and has been taken to the wooden building in Riverdale park, in that city, reserved for such cases. Mr. Fax has been filling engagements in the western part of the province for some time past, and returned home on Monday last, from the town of Strathroy, where he is supposed to have contracted the disease. Since his return he has been confined to his room and on Friday, a rash broke out upon him, which left no doubt as to the nature of the disease. Several more cases have also broken out in Strathroy.

NO TEMPERANCE TICKET IN THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

Endorsation of the Best Men Will be Made at a Temperance Caucus.

Dr. Fife occupied the chair at a joint meeting of the members of the various temperance organizations and others interested, in the Royal Templars Hall last night.

The occasion was a caucus of the temperance element for the purpose of discussing the advisability of putting a temperance ticket in the field for municipal honours. Atmospheric conditions being most unfavourable the attendance was limited, so an informal talk was the extent to which the subject was taken up.

From the expression of opinion of those present there is no likelihood whatever of the temperance element going to the lengths suggested by the extremists and bringing out for aldermanic candidates, men whose sole claim to a vote would consist of an avowed leaning towards temperance principles, but the idea will be to vote only for such candidates as are nominated, who will pledge themselves to support certain temperance legislation which may be brought before the council of 1894 to deal with. No nominations of temperance candidates will therefore be made, but there will be an effort to have at least one seeker for aldermanic honours from each ward be a man for whom a vote can conscientiously be cast by those desirous of seeing the interests of temperance looked after at the next council board.

It is understood that a caucus will be held immediately after the nominations, from which word will be sent to the initiated regarding the candidates whom the leading temperance workers see fit to endorse.

WEATHER NOTES ON THE ELEVENTH MONTH.

Another November is now amongst the things of the past. None, like Joshua, can speak controlling the sun and moon. The revolving wheel of time, and of each one's passing days knows no relaxation. As one generation cometh and another goeth, so does the ever-welcome sun expel the darkness of the night. As the human race can only behold the great work of creation surrounding us, well may we exclaim, "What is man that Thou art mindful of him!" But the tendency of an all-wise Providence is for the comfort and happiness of the human race. The first few days of November were mild, but after the 6th it commenced looking downward with some frost. On the 9th it went down to 13 degrees; the 13th to 11 degrees, the 19th to 10 degrees, the 20th to 5 degrees, the 28 to 9 degrees and the 29th to zero; so what do ye think of that my hearties, being the first of the season? Now let us take a look at 1 p.m., or say the hottest time during the day. We had 54 degrees on the 1st and other three times 50 degrees, then 40 degrees to 50 degrees; we had 8 days from that down to 16 degrees on the 25th and 29th down to 11 degrees, leaving the mean temperature of the month at 30 17-30 degrees. Rain fell on 4 days to the depth of 24-100 of an inch, being very light for November. Snow fell on 10 days to the depth of 13 inches, making the water fall for the month at 1 inch and 27 100. We had 16 days with frost, 7 gales, some severe. The first sleighing on the 29th, but like the boy who bought the whistle for a bawbee, said it was of small consequence when trying to use it. Some drifting on the 19th, once mock-sun, once halo. On the morning of the 15th it came out bright and pretty, but soon changed to cloudy; no auroral lights this month. The following is the different points from which the wind was blowing at sunrise during the month respectively, namely: South-east, 4 days; north-west, 5 days; south-west, 3 days; north-east, 6 days; north, 1 day; east, 3 days; south, 2 days, and west, 6 days.—THOS. TELFORD.

THE KIND-HEARTED MAN.

He Was Deluded by His Sympathy for Beauty in Distress.

A man had occasion to go to the Union depot yesterday afternoon to meet his wife, who had been out in the country for a time. When he got to the station he found his train was half an hour late, and he bought a paper and sat down on one of the benches.

Not long after he had seated himself a rather pretty girl, who wore a pink waist and had nice, red cheeks and clear blue eyes and who looked to be not over seventeen, came and sat down next to him. The man who was waiting for his wife took a casual look at the girl and went back to his paper.

Pretty soon another pretty young girl, who also wore a pink waist and had blue eyes and a fresh complexion and all that sort of thing, came along and stopped in front of the first girl. The second pretty girl looked as if she wanted to cry. She said with tremulous voice: "Why, Nettie, what do yon think? The fare's a dollar."

"A what?" gasped Nettie.

"A dollar! And she told us it was only 50 cents, and I haven't got enough to get the tickets; and, oh! dear, I don't know what we will do."

She sank down beside Nettie and the two looked at the tiled floor with very solemn faces. Presently Nettie looked up and said: "I'll take a walk around the room. Perhaps there is somebody here I know." She made the tour of the room and came back with her face gloomier than ever. "Nobody here I ever saw before," she said, brokenly. The other girl sprang to her feet. "I'm going to tell the ticket man just how it is," she said. "Perhaps he will take what we've got and let us send him the rest." She came back with tears in her eyes. "He won't," she said, sadly.

The man who was waiting for his wife heard all of this. His heart was touched. So he leaned over and said: "I beg pardon, but, ladies, I—that is—will you allow me to help you in your hour of trouble?"

The pretty young girls started and looked at the man with frightened airs. The man hastened to re-assure them that his intentions were honorable, and, after many protests and arranging for repayment and exchange of names and all that, he gave the pretty girls $1.15, and they thanked him prettily and went to get their train.

It so happened that the man's wife did not come on that train, and he went down to another train in the evening. While he was sitting on a bench waiting for the train he got to thinking of his afternoon experience, and concluded that he had done a right and worthy act. As he was in the midst of this train of thought a pretty girl in a pink waist sat down beside him. Pretty soon another girl, looking all woebegone, came along and said: "Why, Nettie, what shall we do? The fare's a dollar."

The man who was waiting for his wife got up and walked slowly to the floor. He had seen a great light. They were the same girls.

A DECIDED SUCCESS.

Our New Dress and Mantle Making Department has proved a decided success.

We employ a large staff of the most skilled help and are able to turn out large quantities of work at short notice.

We are noted as always having the largest selection of High-Class Dress Stuffs in town, which, combined with our reputation for Style and Fit, keeps our staff busily employed, while other stores are complaining of hard times.

GEORGE W. SCOTT COMMITS SUICIDE.

A WELL KNOWN YOUNG FARMER OF SMITH

In a Moment of Temporary Aberration He Shoots Himself Through the Heart—He was at one Time in the Asylum.

A most lamentable suicide occurred early this morning, when Mr. Geo. W. Scott, of the Chemong Road, in a moment of presumed temporary aberration took his life by shooting himself through the heart.

Young Scott, who is a farmer, was the third son of Mr. Alexander Scott, lived with his parents about four and a half or five miles from Peterborough, on the Chemong road. About four years ago, he suffered considerably from the which he received and was for a considerable time an inmate of the Toronto Asylum for the Insane.

Since his release from that institution, he has acted strangely at intervals, but beyond being morbid and apparently brooding over his misfortune, he never evidenced any marked signs of insanity or showed any desire to take his own life.

This morning at four o'clock his mother heard him get up at about four o'clock and start to cut wood for the stove. She arose and dressing went down stairs and asked him his reason for rising so early, inquiring if he was ill. He answered that he was not all indisposed, but could not sleep, and getting up from his knees where he had for the fire, he left the house, apparently for the stables.

Mrs. Scott, not liking his strange behaviour, and becoming uneasy, called one of her other sons to get up, and go and look after his brother. The son hurried from the house, but had only proceeded a portion of the way to the barn when he found the inanimate body of his brother lying across the path, his warm life blood gushing forth in a crimson stream, and staining the snow upon which he had fallen.

A revolver was still clasped in the suicide's hand, and left no room for doubt as to how the fatal deed had been wrought. An examination showed that the bullet had on its errand of death, piercing the unfortunate young man's left side, directly over the heart, and no doubt killing him instantly.

The body was carried into the house, and a rig sent into town for Undertaker Comstock, who repaired to the farm about seven o'clock, returning he took out a casket this afternoon.

The deceased was well and favourably known, and the family is one of the most highly respected in the neighborhood.

The deceased was a prominent member of the Y. P. S. of C. E., and was a most earnest worker in church circles, where he won the highest estimation of all with whom he came in contact.

WHY SOCIETY MISSED HIM THAT EVENING.

A Peterborough Young Man Enters the Wrong House.

Particulars of an amusing case of mistaken locality, have just leaked out, and are creating a laugh at the expense of a well-known citizen, whose identity need not here be further disclosed than to say that he has occupied at times positions of considerable trust, which involved a good deal of writing. The occasion was a social function held in town not so very long ago. The well-known young citizen desired to accord the gathering the honour of his presence for a brief while.

He repaired to the residence, opened the door, entered the hall, doffed overcoat and hat, and sought the scene of the festivities, which was indicated by a light showing through a partly-opened portiere beyond. The young gentleman wondered at the stillness which prevailed, but, concluding that the hour was early, and the guests few, he advanced and entered the apartment.

His surprise and embarrassment may better be imagined than described! Instead of a brilliantly-lighted drawing-room, filled with company, he found himself in a cosy parlour, the only occupants of which were a lady and her little babe, to whom she was singing a lullaby! The visitor had mistaken the house. Of course explanations were offered, and ample apologies made by the unwitting intruder, who then hastily bowed himself out. Needless to say, he repaired to his residence immediately, and did not attend any social function that evening.

The episode will long furnish food for merriment in the circles in which the parties move.

THE TOWN WINS THE FOLEY WILL CASE.

THE TOWN PRONOUNCED A PART OF THE COUNTY.

For the Purposes of the Bequest of Mrs. Foley — A Substantial Benefit for Needy Widows of the Town—The Decision of the Court.

Yesterday decision was given in the case of Steele vs. Grover, an action that involved the decision of a clause in the will of the late Catharine Foley, which provides that after certain bequests, the residue of her estate shall form a fund for the benefit of the "destitute and needy widows and orphans of the county of Peterborough." About a year ago Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., raised the contention that the term county of Peterborough included the town, and that the widows and orphans of the town were, in consequence, entitled to share in the bequest under Mrs. Foley's will. The county controverted the contention, the matter came before the courts to decide the question and the people of the town will be pleased to learn that the decision is in favour of Mr. Stratton's contention, and that in due course a substantial sum will be available for the benefit of the widows and orphans of this corporation. The following is the report of the decision:

Steele v. Grover—Judgment on motion by plaintiffs to confirm report and for further directions and costs. A testatrix by her will gave the residue of her estate "for the benefit of the sober and industrious but destitute and needy widows and orphans of the county of Peterborough, who must have been bona fide residents of the said county before becoming destitute and needy." The question was whether widows and orphans resident in the Town of Peterborough, were included in the description. Held, that the term "county" was to be taken in its primary sense as a territorial or geographical division of the province, and nothing appeared in the will to show that it was there used in the sense of "municipality." Judgment declaring that for the purposes of the scheme to be settled for giving effect to the will, the Town of Peterborough is to be taken to form part of the county. Costs of all parties out of the estate. E. T. Malone for plaintiffs. Robinson, Q. C., and W. A. Stratton (Stratton & Hall), Peterborough, for the county, E. B. Edwards, (Edwards & Murray), Peterborough, for the town. J. R. Cartwright, Q. C., for the Attorney-General for Ontario.

ONLY TWO CASES TO COME BEFORE JUDGE WELLER.

One Criminal Case and one Civil Action to be Adjudicated.

The County Court did not open until one o'clock, this afternoon, and there was only two cases to be disposed of, viz.,—that of a criminal charge against David Crozier and a civil suit entered by Wm. N. Henderson against John B. MacWilliams, David N. Moore and Alex. McCallum, concerning the sale of a mill. Mr. E. A. Peck appears for the plaintiff and Mr. A. P. Poussette, Q. C., for the defence for the latter.

The following is the Grand Jury list,—John M. Armstrong, F. D. Best, W. W. Johnson, H. E. Lindsay, A. E. Loch, Geo. MacWilliams, Harry Phelan, Benjamin Shortly, Walter Squires, James W. Taylor and Benjamin C. Yelland, of Peterborough; John Brummel, Smith; Frank Birdsall, Ashphodel; John Clements, Dummer; Timothy Coughlin, Otonabee; George Hunter, Otonabee; Daniel Kelly, Ashphodel; Con. O'Connor, Ennismore; J. B. Peoples, Belmont; Geo. Paul, Bridgenorth; Thos. Peacock, Galway; M. F. Gandrum, Smith; George Varty, Methuen.

The Grand Jury after assembling and being sworn elected Mr. Frank Birdsall, of Asphodel, as their foreman.

In his address to the Grand Jury, Judge Weller took occasion to point out to them that the fact of there only being one case for their consideration did not imply that the county was free of crime by any means, as at present the gaol contained 16 inmates. The committals had been made either by the Town or County Magistrate. The one case, he stated, upon which they would be required to act, was that of David Crozier, charged with theft. This crime, he explained, differed from that of larceny inasmuch as the criminal in the former case could come into possession of certain goods quite lawfully, but in the disposition of them might digress to an extent to render him liable for a criminal action to be instituted against him. The case in question would require most careful consideration.

TO RESIST THE ATTACK—of the germs of Consumption, Scrofula, Grip, Malaria, and many other diseases—means fight or die for all of us. These germs are everywhere in the air we breathe. The odds are in favor of the germs, if our liver is inactive and our blood impure.

What is needed most is an increase in our germ-fighting strength. To do this successfully you need to put on healthy flesh, rouse the liver to vigorous action, so it will throw off these germs, and purify the blood so that there will be no "weak spot," nor soil for germ-growth.

We claim for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, that it does all this in a way peculiar to itself. It is the development of generations of medical thought—it has stood the test of a quarter of a century of cures.

That is why the makers can guarantee it. In every trouble caused by torpid liver or impure blood, if the "Discovery" fails to benefit or cure, your money is refunded.

There wouldn't be any cases of Chronic Catarrh if everyone used Dr. Sage's Remedy. There's $500 reward for an incurable case.

SECRETS OF THE PAST.

WHAT MAN DID AND HOW HE LIVED 4,000 YEARS B. C.

Wonderful Results of the Explorations on the Site of the Ancient City of Niffer Near Babylon—Much Valuable Information and Hundreds of Antiques.

Man's curiosity concerning man is daily adding to our store of information of the past, and the more we learn the more apparent it becomes that we are a heap older than we thought. Minister Terrell has sent a report from Constantinople relative to the extension explorations of the ruins of Niffer, near ancient Babylon. These explorations are being made at the expense of Philadelphians, and Dr. Peters and Prof. Hilpricht, of the University of Pennsylvania, have supervised the work. Many tons of tablets, vases, inscribed brick, sarcophagi and the like have been exhumed, the sensual and revolting worship of the god Bel is more clearly known, his colossal temple with its 180 rooms has been exposed, and the religion, government and customs of men who lived 4,000 years before Christ have been revealed by the translated inscriptions. Minister Terrell says that it will require sixty volumes to contain the descriptions of these marvelous discoveries.

Minister Terrell writes in the course of his report:

"In the number of tablets, bricks, inscribed vases and in the value of cuniform texts found, this American enterprise equals, if it does not excel, the explorations of Layard, at Ninevah, and Rassam's excavations at Aba-Habba.

"Dr. Hilpricht, the distinguished Assyrian scholar of the University at Pennsylvania, is remaining here at the museum, at the request of the Turkish Government, to translate inscriptions and arrange tablets, inscribed bowls and vases used from one to four thousand years before the birth of Christ. Many tons of tablets, vases, inscribed brick, sarcophagi and the like have already arrived at the museum here, where they are now being examined, translated and arranged by Profs. Hilpricht and Handy Bey, the learned Mohammedan in charge of the museum. The Sultan, in recognition of the services of the American professor, has promised that the University of Pennsylvania shall receive one of all duplicate antiques.

"This enterprise has revealed an antiquity for the human race nearly ten centuries older than science had knowledge of before. The religion, government, habits of life, and, to a great extent, customs of men who lived 4,000 years before Christ are revealed by the inscriptions, which are now being translated here and arranged by Prof. Hilpricht.

"The worship of one god (Bel), who was invested with sensual and revolting attributes, is more clearly known, and the extent and arrangement of his immense temple are now revealed.

Thus far 20,000 inscribed tablets of clay and of stone have been discovered. On these are inscribed promises to pay debt, deeds and contracts, and a record of all important public and private events. I saw one upon which was inscribed a promise to pay borrowed money, with interest, in shekels, in the reign of Cambyses. About 150 Hebrew, Mandic, Arabic, and Syrian inscribed bowls have been dug up. There are more than all the museums in the world possessed before. They have also found hundreds of Babylonian seal cyclinders, many gold and silver ornaments, made thousands of years ago by the inhabitants of the regions between the Tigris and Euphrates. About 1,000 vases of alabaster, marble and other stone have been discovered, with votive offerings of lapis lazuli, magnesite and agate. Many hundred vases, tops, weapons, instruments, and household objects in iron, bronze and clay were discovered, which illustrate the condition surrounding our race 4,000 B. C.

"The Temple of Bel, I am informed, is now being dug around and laid bare, and when finished it will be the first Temple of Bel ever systematically excavated. With over 200 Arabs, its colossal walls, containing 180 rooms, have been laid bare, and its slaughter-house, altars, tablet archives on stone and treasury-house have been revealed. The excavation extended down 42 feet below the surface to the foundation of the immense temple. An inscription on stone stated that this foundation was established in the bosom of the lower regions, in the neighborhood of the subterranean waters. Nine sarcophagi have been exhumed and transported entire to the museum here in Constantinople. Many crumbled when first exposed to atmospheric influence.

"It is estimated that it will require 60 volumes to contain all the valuable cuniform texts and their translations, with philological, archæological and historic essays, with a description of Niffer, the customs of its people, their religion and their social and political life. I am informed that the first volume of this work, edited by Prof. Hilpricht, has recently been issued, and that it has received general encomiums by eminent European scholars.

"I am assured by the American College that the scientific world now owes its oldest Semitic texts to this expedition, and that they found, over 60 feet below the surface of the earth, evidence that Niffer was 1,000 years older than scientists had believed formerly.

"I am also informed that of the 125 Babylonian kings whose names and era are known, eight were found inscribed on tablets excavated by this American enterprise.

"The use of glass made in Niffer to imitate lapis-lazuli existed 1400 B. C.

"The list of Babylonian rulers from 2600 B. C. to the fall of Babylon (538 B. C.) has been made known by this expedition, and now we are able for the first time to lay a solid foundation for determining the age of undated tablets from Paleography. I feel that the enterprise and intelligence of our scholars and public-spirited citizens in so distant a field as Niffer, and the valuable discoveries made of the earliest history of our race, deserve more than a passing notice."—Buffalo Express.

Aluminium Shoe Nails.

On the late visit of Prince Bismarck to the Emperor the latter called the attention of the ex-Chancellor to the improvements made in the boots of the Prussian infantry. This consisted in the displacement of the old-fashioned steel nails by nails of aluminium, which is much lighter and more durable. The extra weight under the sole of the foot imposed by the heavy nails formerly worn, and the added weight consequent upon the clogging mud in nasty weather, made a great and needless extra amount of muscular expenditure necessary. The new arrangement will permit of longer and better marching, with fresher troops at the end of the day.—London Public Opinion.

The Grateful Cockroach.

The following story should surely draw tears from the student of the humbler forms of natural life. The narrator vouches for its veracity, and leaves it to the gentle reader to appraise the value of the voucher.

'I found,' he says, 'a cockroach struggling in a bowl of water. I took half a walnut-shell for a boat, put him into it, gave him two wooden toothpicks for oars and left him. Next morning he had put a piece of white cotton thread on one of the toothpicks and set it on end as a signal of distress. He had a hair on the other toothpick, and there he sat a-fishing. The cockroach, exhausted, had fallen asleep. The sight melted me to tears. I took that cockroach out, gave him a spoonful of gruel, and left. The animal never forgot my kindness; and now my house is chock-full of his friends and relations. —The Mainlander, B. C.

A Small-Boy Pessimist.

When a little boy Sheridan Le Fanu wrote the following essay on the life of man:

"A man's life naturally divides itself into three parts—the first, when he is planning and contriving all kinds of villainy and rascality; that is the period of youth and innocence. In the second he is found putting in practice all the villainy and rascality he has contrived, that is the flower of manhood and prime of life. The third and last period is that when he is making his soul and preparing for another world: that is the period of dotage."

Railroads in France.

In 1893, 389 miles of new railroad were opened for traffic in France, making the total of the country 22,362 miles, of which 19,748 miles belong to the six great companies, 1,609 to the state, 698 to branch railroad companies, 199 are not chartered, and 138 miles are made in shops, yards, etc. Besides, there were at the end of the year 2,219 miles of local railroads, 188 miles of which were opened in 1893. There were also 1,033 miles of street railroad.

Men and Women in all Walks of Life Tell of the Remarkable Cures Wrought by South American Nervine Tonic.

SIX DOSES WILL CONVINCE THE MOST INCREDULOUS.

EDITOR COLWELL, OF PARIS, ONT., REVIEW.

Newspaper editors are almost as sceptical as the average physician on the subject of new remedies for sick people. Nothing short of a series of most remarkable and well authenticated cures will incline either an editor or a doctor to seriously consider the merits honestly claimed for a medicine.

Hundreds of testimonials of wonderful recoveries wrought with the Great South American Nervine Tonic were received from men and women all over the country before physicians began to prescribe this great remedy in chronic cases of dyspepsia, indigestion, nervous prostration, sick headache, and as a tonic for building up systems sapped of vitality through protracted spells of sickness.

During his experience of nearly a quarter of a century as a newspaper publisher in Paris, Ont., Editor Colwell, of The Paris Review, has published hundreds of columns of paid medicine advertisements, and, no doubt, printed many a gracefully-worded puff for his patrons as a matter of business, but in only a single instance, and that one warranted by his own personal experience, has he given a testimonial over his own signature. No other remedy ever offered the public has proved such a marvellous revelation to the most sceptical as the South American Nervine Tonic. It has never failed in its purpose, and it has cured when doctors and other medicines were tried in vain.

"I was prostrated with a particularly severe attack of 'La Grippe,'" says Mr. Colwell, "and could find no relief from the intense pains and distress of the malady. I suffered day and night. The doctors did not help me, and I tried a number of medicines, but without relief. About this time I was advised to try the South American Nervine Tonic. Its effects were instantaneous. The first dose I took relieved me. I improved rapidly and grew stronger every day. Your Nervine Tonic cured me in a single week."

The South American Nervine Tonic rebuilds the life forces by its direct action on the nerves and the nerve centres, and it is this notable feature which distinguishes it from every other remedy in existence. The most eminent medical authorities now concede that fully two-thirds of all the physical ailments of humanity arise from exhaustion of the nerve forces. The South American Nervine Tonic acting direct upon the nerve centres and nerve tissues instantaneously supplies them with the true nourishment required, and that is why its invigorating effects upon the whole system are always felt immediately. For all nervous diseases, for general debility arising from enfeebled vitality, and for stomach troubles of every variety no other remedy can possibly take its place.

FARMING IN ONTARIO.

A TELLING ARTICLE IN REPLY TO THE SPRINGFIELD REPUBLICAN.

Mr. C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, Corrects Some Errors in a Most Convincing Fashion—Interesting to Americans, Satisfactory to Canadian Readers.

The New York Independent recently copied a thirty line article about "Farming in Canada" from the Springfield Republican which contained errors and did not do justice to this province. Mr. C. C. James' reply is herewith printed:

Ontario is a large province. From the mouth of the Albany river on James Bay to Pelee Island in Lake Erie the distance is about 750 miles, while from the eastern limit on the St. Lawrence to the western on the Bake of the Woods is about 1,000 miles. Its total area is 220,000 square miles; larger than the nine North Atlantic States by one-third; larger than Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio combined. But a small portion is as yet settled; in fact, eighty per cent. of the entire province is yet in the possession of the Provincial Crown Lands Department; and while the larger portion unsold is valuable principally for its timber and minerals, there are several millions of acres of the finest agricultural land as yet unoccupied. One section lies along the Rainy river, adjacent to Minnesota, the other, the Valley of Lake Temiscamingue, is to the north of Ottawa. These two districts are in the same latitude as Northern Minnesota. The former district is covered with deep, black, alluvial soil, and the latter with rich clay overlaid with humus.

The old settled portion of Ontario lies in the triangle bounded on one side by the Ottawa and Lake Nipissing, on the second by the St. Lawrence, Lake Ontario and Lake Erie, and on the third by Lake St. Clair, Lake Huron and Georgian Bay. It is worth while opening a map to look at the configuration. With the exception of a short portage between Lake Nipissing and Trout Lake on the north, it is practically an island, washed by the waters of two large rivers and three great lakes. In addition note its shape, like a wedge pushed down into the heart of the great agricultural States, and you will begin to realize that its position and surroundings apparently fit it for a great agricultural land. Its backbone is the western branch of the Archæan rocks, the material out of which rich clay is made. The alluvial deposits are most noticeable in the extreme southwest, where the soil rivals that of the richest prairie. While the northern point of Ontario is an ocean port on James Bay, the southern point is further south than Boston and Chicago. The southern limit of Ontario is below the 42d parallel; the northwest boundary line of the United States is the 49th. Practically all of the 2,114,321 inhabitants of Ontario are to the south of a straight line drawn from the Soo to Portland, Me. Within this area are 23,000,000 acres of occupied farm lands.

Grain—The writer of the article in question is in error as to wheat production in Ontario. Although wheat growing is gradually giving place to stock raising and dairying, Ontario is yet the principal wheat province of Canada, as the following statement for 1893 will show:

	Ontario.	Manitoba.
Acres	1,270,675	1,008,640
Bushels of wheat	21,731,311	15,615,923
Bushels per acre	17.10	15.56

The average yield of wheat, barley and oats for the twelve years 1882-'93 was higher than the average for any State in the Union. Oats and peas are grown in all parts of the province. The prime barley so much desired by New York State malsters is not confined to any one part of the province. The tall southern varieties of corn ripen only in the counties along Lake Erie, but the corns of the Northern States ripen in all parts of Ontario. Corn growing, however, is not so extensive as in the North Central States. It is the principal ensilage crop, producing as high as twenty tons per acre. Wheat is raised in the Peace River Valley of the Northwest Territory, over 900 miles further north than St. Paul.

Fruit.—Peaches of the finest quality are grown in the southern counties, the two leading sections being the Niagara district and the Essex County district. Grapes grow and ripen almost everywhere, the annual production being 30,000,000 pounds. At present they are retailing in Toronto as low as two cents a pound. Plums, cherries and pears are found in various parts of the province, and apples everywhere. The number of producing apple trees on the farms of Ontario is placed at 7,000,000. In 1893, in the Liverpool market, Canadian apples were quoted at prices higher than American apples. The only apples equaling those of Ontario at Chicago were some from Nova Scotia and the Pacific Coast. Since then a large trade in apples has developed between Ontario and American markets. The exhibits at the World's Fair will give some idea of our adaptation to that industry. This province exhibited 14 varieties of raspberries, 7 of blackberries, 93 of strawberries, 28 of cherries, 18 of currants, 34 of gooseberries, 44 of peaches, 88 of pears, 83 of plums, 106 of grapes, 146 of apples, besides many other fruits, including even figs grown out-of-doors. In the competition Ontario secured 10 provincial awards, 14 district awards and 15 individual awards—39 in all—a result unequaled by any single State or foreign country.

Honey.—Closely allied with fruit is honey. This province produces annually 8,000,000 pounds of honey from its 205,000 hives. At Chicago, Ontario secured seventeen awards against twenty-eight of the entire United States.

Dairying.—Every province is now rapidly developing its dairy industry; but in Ontario the making of cheese has assumed very large proportions. There are 897 factories, producing in this year of drouth 90,000,000 pounds of cheese. The exports of cheese from Canada for the year ending June 30th, 1893, were 133,946,365 pounds, whereas those from the United States were only 81,850,928 pounds. The total butter production of Ontario in 1890 was 56,865,061 pounds. The number of public creameries is increasing every year. The results of the dairy competition at Chicago are doubtless fresh in the reader's mind.

Live Stock.—In the production of stock there is no other portion of equal size in North America where are to be found so many different breeds of horses, cattle, sheep and swine. We have heavy horses in large numbers. In hackneys, Americo-Arabs and thoroughbreds, the Ontario horses took practically everything at Chicago. Here are to be found Shorthorns, Galloways, Polled Angus, Herefords, Devons, Jerseys, Guernseys, Holsteins and Ayrshires. The statement that Canada is adapted for sheep only to a limited extent requires modification. Expert breeders from Britain have pronounced Ontario as the ideal home of the combing-wool sheep. In nine classes, not including Merinos, Ontario alone took at Chicago 241 awards, against 102 for the whole of the United States. In large swine the United States is ahead of Canada, but the Berkshire and the Improved Yorkshire are to be found in all parts of Ontario.

Poultry.—In the seven years 1884-'90 Canada shipped to the United States 89,500,000 dozens of eggs. After the enforcement of the McKinley Bill the exports fell to 2,664,942 dozens in 1893, while those of Great Britain increased. In 1893 there were 7,114,436 fowls of all kinds on Ontario farms, and the products were valued at $3,000,000. Ontario exhibited at Chicago, and took 487 awards against 698 taken by the United States. A large portion of the exhibit was purchased to go abroad.

What can be meant by the statement as to the "general inability of Canadians to barter products" in view of the fact that Canadian apples, cheese, bacon and hams, peas and other articles, bring the top prices in the British markets?

In Ontario there are 175,000 farmers whose farms average 130 acres, having a total value for land, buildings, stock and implements of $970,000,000. In addition there are 110,000 occupiers of lots under ten acres in extent. A country that can ripen the peach and the grape, produce cheese that, in its class, brings the highest price in Europe, develop cattle and sheep unsurpassed on the continent, must surely have fine agricultural possibilities. It can be said without hesitation that in general agriculture, including grain growing, fruit raising, dairying and stock production, there is no other portion of North America that to-day excels in Ontario. The writer of the article in question evidently has not been aware of all the facts, at least so far as Ontario is concerned.

An Important Scientific Discovery.
Nerviline, the latest discovered pain remedy, may safely challenge the world for a substitute that will as speedily and promptly check inflammatory action. The highly penetrating properties of Nerviline make it never failing in all cases of rheumatism, neuralgia, cramps, pains in back and side, headache, lumbago, etc. It possesses marked stimulating and counter irritant properties, and at once subdues all inflammatory action. Ormond & Walsh, druggists, Peterborough, write: "Our customers speak well of Nerviline." Large bottles 25 cents. Try Nerviline, the great internal and external pain cure. AN OFT-TOLD TALE
Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair,
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small,
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,
They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life!
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

Schryver's Case.

One More Cured of Diabetes by Means of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

TORONTO, Dec. 11th.—It is known in Toronto, from the most careful demonstration, that Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure in every case, if used according to directions. The cure reported from Milverton, in yesterday's despatch, can be supplemented by numerous similar cases here, as Dodd's Kidney Pills have never been known to fail when so used. We have such confidence in them that we can say from one to one-half dozen boxes ought to cure any case. Charles Schryver, a bricklayer of this city, suffered from diabetes for sixteen years and secured no relief until he commenced using Dodd's Kidney Pills. He is now a sound man without ache or pain.

A Narrow Escape.
People who are exposed to the sudden changes of our northern climate have little chance of escaping colds, coughs, sore throat and lung troubles. The best safe-guard is to keep Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam at hand. It is a quick relief and reliable cure for such complaints.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

ARMENIAN SITUATION

England Said to Sympathize With a Revolutionary Movement.

THE ANGLO-RUSSIAN ALLIANCE

The Armenians Hope That the Improved Relations Between the Two Countries Will Be to Their Benefit — The Sultan Unaware of the Abuses.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The Daily News correspondent in Constantinople writes: "The denials of the general story of outrages in Armenia are foolish and mutually contradictory, as after the Bulgarian massacre, but the evidence induces the opinion that they cannot be compared with the latter as regards the numbers killed and villages burned."

In commenting on the efforts of the Turkish officials to prevent the news from leaking out the correspondent says: "Letters are being ruthlessly opened and nobody dares allude to the outrages in more than general terms. The newspapers here are forbidden to mention them except as they receive official communications. They are even forbidden to use the word Armenia."

The correspondent ascribes the difficulty of bettering the condition of the Armenians since 1879 to the fact that England alone has directed the Porte's attention to the abuses of administration in Asia Minor and the obligations of the Berlin treaty. He finds in Constantinople the belief that England is in sympathy with the Armenian revolutionary movement. Affairs in Armenia have grown worse, he says, since the system of appointing local governors was abandoned. All the officials are now appointed in Constantinople and they often obtain their positions by corrupt intrigues. "These men control everything," continues the despatch, "and they prevent news of their conduct from reaching the Sultan, who is easy owing to the absence of railways and roads. The Armenians are strongly convinced that if the Sultan knew all he would redress their wrongs. Most of us incline to the same view.

"The Kurds have become more aggressive in recent years. They promise to act in accord with the wishes of the Porte, but I do not believe this possible. The Kurds are almost as savage as the Indians, and unless treated as these are in the United States and Canada, would be incapable of understanding that their action was not approved. While the Armenian committees in foreign countries usually have worked legally it is also beyond doubt that there have been agents in Armenia forming secret societies and fomenting revolution. These and their followers are ready to resort to violence. I have conversed with trusty Europeans and Americans who have mentioned cases of this kind within their own knowledge, yet the great majority of the Armenians are quiet and obedient subjects.

"The problem how to remedy the abuses is a difficult one to solve. The autonomy of Armenia is out of the question inasmuch as throughout the country the Christians of all sorts do not exceed one-half of the population. There is nothing to indicate that Russia desires territory in that direction, but the constant appeals of the sufferers to the large refugee population from Russia causes trouble which does not suit the latter. The improved Anglo-Russian relations have inspired law-abiding Armenians with the hope that if England and Russia can agree on joint representations and indicate the means to remodel the control of the local government they will have a fair chance of being heard."

The Armenian society here has received letters from Constantinople alleging that the Porte is coercing the Armenian patriarch to make statements damaging to the Armenian cause. The Armenians arrested in Constantinople are said to be under similar pressure.

LABOR MEN AT DENVER

Fourteenth Annual Convention of the American Federation.

AN IMPORTANT GATHERING

Questions That Are to Come Before the Convention—An Exciting Election Contest Anticipated—John Burns and Mr. Holmes Attend the Meeting.

DENVER, Col., Dec. 11.—The 14th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor opened yesterday at the old Chamber of Commerce building. Nearly all the delegates were present, including John Burns, M. P., Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, and Richard Holmes, of England.

The meeting will be one of the most important ever held by the federation both for the number and high standing of the delegates and visitors who will attend, and the importance to the labor interests of the questions that will be discussed.

The matters that will come before the convention will be of supreme interest to labor. One of these is the establishment of a national labor commission of fifteen, composed of five from the agricultural interests, five from the labor organizations, and five from the manufacturing interests. This idea has been broached and it is thought by some who have studied the labor question closely, that the creation by Congress of a commission of this character would go far toward adjusting the difficulties that arise between capital and labor, and preventing strikes. On the question of immigration some decided views are expected from the convention. They will probably be in the shape of a resolution asking Congress to limit all foreign immigration to the United States for a number of years.

Beyond doubt the principal business to come before the delegates will be the adoption of a platform. As a basis for such a matter the following programme, as adopted by the different trades assemblies of Great Britain, has been raised for consideration:

"Compulsory education, direct legislation a legal work day, sanitary conditions of workshop, mine and home, liabilities of employer for injury to health of body and of life, the abolition of the sweating system, municipal ownership of street cars and gas and electric plants for public use, the nationalization of telegraphy, the principle of referendum in all legislation."

With the exception of the clause referring to the Government ownership of railways, telegraphs and telephones, this platform will probably be favorably received and adopted without discussion.

There is no doubt that a severe struggle will occur when the election of officers takes place. Samuel Gompers, president of the organization, is a candidate for re-election. John McBride, president of the Mine Workers' Union, is considered a strong candidate and is said to have a large following. It is believed that Secretary McGuire, of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, and General Secretary Chris Evans will find a strong opposition against their election to any office as they are with Gompers responsible for the action of the federation in Chicago in refusing to recommend sympathetic strikes in support of the American Railway Union railroad strikes.

John Burns made a speech to the convention in which he urged the labor unions to greater political activity. At the afternoon session President Gompers delivered his annual address, in which he devoted much attention to the political action of the workingmen and urged them to be independent of the great parties. He also talked of the immigration laws, advocated government ownership of the telegraph, reviewed the present condition of labor and predicted better times in the near future.

The credentials committee reported the seating of all delegates except the contesting delegates from the rival painters' associations, upon which question more time was given.

Died From Eating Beef.

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 11.—A starving negro, David Jones, killed himself by eating eight pounds of beef. He lived near Lola, in Pittsylvania county, and for some time has suffered for the necessities of life. A neighbor killed a beef and loaned him eight pounds of it. Late last night he was found dead in his cabin, with not a scrap of the borrowed beef on the outside of him. The doctor, sadly shaking his head, said: "Too much beef on an empty stomach."

Orleanists to Confer.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 11.—The Duc D'Orleans has arrived in this city for the purpose of meeting his adherents and arranging a definite policy for the French monarchists. The radical press of Belgium demand that the Government shall not permit the French pretender while in Belgium to engage in a conspiracy against the French.

Seeley Captured in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Last night the police arrested a man answering the description of Samuel C. Seeley, who embezzled $350,000 from the Shoe and Leather Bank of New York. The police are confident they have the right man.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Dec. 11, 1894.

On the street 100 bushels of white wheat came in. It brought 61 to 62c. Some 800 bushels barley sold at 42 to 45c, and 300 bushels of oats at 30 1-2 to 31c.

Canadian barley in Oswego is still 60 to 63c.

At East Buffalo offerings were 22,600 head, or 113 cars, of which 5,000 head were Canada stock. The market was weak and lower, with sales of best Canada lambs at $4 and poorer stock down to $3.80, mostly all selling at $3.85 to $3.90. Thirty cars of through shipments to New York included 10 cars Canada lambs. Choice sheep in demand here. Export wethers $3.75 to $4, ditto ewes $3.25 to $3.75.

The visible supply of barley of 3,582,000 bushels is a decrease from the showing a week ago of 227,000 bushels but it exceeds by 706,000 bushels the quantity shown a year ago.

In Chicago wheat declined 1-4 to 3-8c from Saturday's close on lower cables and increase in visible supply. Corn was strong in the early trading but under the influence of wheat the close was steady. Oats were firm.

Nothing was doing in stocks in London. Americans were flat. Notwithstanding the dullness in Americans, there are signs of more buying of a good nature from the New York side than of late.

FOND OF FINE FUNERALS

French People Make the Last Rites an Occasion for Great Display.

The love of the French for display in burial ceremonies has been pointed out as characteristic of the nation. The people have a pathetic way of saying "although it costs much to live in Paris, it costs still more to die." This is, in a measure, true, and that it is so, says the Baltimore Sun, is due to the fact that the government has a monopoly of the work of burying the dead, and has established a scale of prices by which the style of funeral is regulated, from that costing hundreds of dollars to the one which opens the fosse commune (common grave). As a rule the French are fond of fine funerals. For statesmen of the first rank the government decrees a state funeral, which is an occasion of great display and frequently leads to political demonstrations; but private funerals are also costly, and many a man who has lived with the utmost meanness all his life is laid to rest with princely pomp. The door of his residence is hung with black curtains, embroidered with silver; his monogram, in silver, is on all the mourning coaches which follow the hearse; the drivers are dressed in black with knee breeches, high boots, three-cornered hats and long crape streamers on their arms; the horses for the hearse are caparisoned with sweeping draperies of black and silver, and on the hearse itself are plumes and silver figures of angels and cherubs. Then, too, the custom of sending out notices of the death and invitations to the funeral is very common, and sometimes those notices are as elaborate and as elegantly engraved as the most expensive wedding cards or invitations to a ball.

In striking contrast with the decorous funerals of the rich are the scenes when the body of a very poor person is to be laid in the grave. The city is strict in regard to them. The body can only be kept twenty-four hours from the time of death, and it must be buried in a coffin made of thin deal boards, unpainted, unvarnished and so slight that it is always wrapped up and fastened with ropes lest it should come to pieces. It is taken to the grave in a hearse which is hardly better than a dray. At the fosse commune the priest is allowed to include six funerals in one service. Fully to explain the necessity for the fosse commune, it is necessary to say a word about French graveyards. They are governed entirely different from ours, and their object seems to be to afford graves to the millions who are dead, without taking too much space from the millions who live. In certain parts of the cemetery graves may be bought outright, though at enormous prices, and remain forever in the possession of a family. In other sections the graves are bought singly for five years from the date of burial, and at the end of the specified time the bones are taken up and buried in the fosse commune. The fosse commune—the lowest grave of all—is a ditch twelve feet deep, twelve feet wide, and as long as the size of the graveyard permits. Here the coffins are put side by side in two rows, the heads meeting in the centre. When a certain number are in the ditch it is closed and on another layer of earth more coffins are afterward laid. When the ditch is filled to the surface another one alongside is opened, and so until the available space is used up. Then the first ditch is reopened and fresh coffins are put in place of the old ones, which have decayed.

Spiritualists in Court.

LONDON, Dec. 11. — The spiritualistic melee was ventilated at the police court yesterday and was the cause of a great deal of merriment to the spectators. The defendant, John Randall, manager for Mrs. Moss, the alleged spirit medium, was sent for trial. His bail was also increased. The affair is creating a great deal of interest and amusement here.

Thirteen-Year-Old Incendiary.

Trains wait for no one. Prof. Chamberlain will not be here for a long time again, therefore do not mistake the date when he will be in your city. I warrant all of his spectacles to be perfect. A guarantee given with each pair I make. His address is printed in gold letters on every spectacle case he sells, and should you break your spectacles you always have his address in your pocket. His cases are well made to form a good protection to his spectacles so you can mail glasses back for 3 cents should you break them. We repair them and return by mail at small cost at once.

A Pair of Gold Glasses makes a good Christmas Present.

TURNBULL.

Sweeping reductions in Mantles this month at Turnbull's in order to have the stock all cleaned out by the first of January, as styles change so rapidly these days, we do not want to carry any over as our desire is to always show New Goods. We have only about 90 Mantles left, but they are well assorted, as we have only a few of each make. We have gone through them carefully and marked them down to prices that are sure to clear them out. Such as:

$5.00 Mantles in Blue and Black Cloth, for - - $3.00

$8.00 Mantles Neatly Trimmed, for - - - - $6.00

$10.00 Mantles, fine quality Beaver - - - - - $6.00

We have also a length of $8 Astrachan Curl (heavy weight) we are cutting at $5 per yard, now is the time to leave your order for a Mantle that will wear better than any Dog Skin and cost only half the price. We have Leiscester Sealettes, (acknowledged to be the best make in the world) in three or four qualities, they, owing to hard times, are selling slowly and would rather clear them out than carry them over and will therefore make up Mantles at from $5 to $10 less than regular prices.

COLLISION IN A TUNNEL

Two Cable Trains, Crowded With Passengers, Come Together.

A DOZEN PERSONS INJURED

One of the Wounded Passengers Dies After Being Taken to the Hospital—Both Trains Were Going in the Same Direction Down a Steep Incline.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Two West Side cable trains came in collision in the Washington street tunnel shortly after 6 o'clock last night, causing the worst disaster that ever happened on the street car lines of the city. A dozen passengers among the hundreds who crowded the two trains were seriously injured, one of them fatally and others whose names could not be learned on account of their hurried departure from the scene were slightly hurt by flying glass and splintered wood.

The gripmen and conductors of both trains jumped from their posts and escaped injury. They will not be arrested unless there is work for the coroner.

The trains in collision each consisted of a grip car and two trailers and were going in the same direction down a steep incline. The grip on the rear train failed to work and the crowded cars dashed against the train in front with terrible momentum.

The victims were penned in the two trailers of the first train which were shattered to splinters. Fire added to the horror of the panic and many were hurt in the desperate scramble to escape from the wrecked cars.

Traffic was delayed several hours and intense excitement prevailed outside the tunnel.

Morris Smith, one of the injured, died at the hospital several hours after being admitted. He had both legs broken and was internally injured.

DENVER LABOR CONVENTION.

President Gompers Delivers His Annual Address.

DENVER, Col., Dec. 12.—President Gompers, in his annual address to the convention of the Federation of Labor, referring to the Pullman strike, said the President of the United States sent federal troops into several states under the plea of preserving the inter-state commerce uninterrupted but in truth to over awe the men on strike. President Gompers called the attention of the convention to the satisfactory spirit in which the immigration officials have for the past year or more cooperated with us. He thinks there is little doubt that the near future will crown the labors of the federation with success as regards the congressional bill in favor of government ownership of telegraphs and telephones.

President Gompers said the parliamentary committee of the British Trades Union Congress is a labor committee to lobby for labor legislation. This course the organized workers of America may with advantage follow, since it is based upon experience and franght with good results. We should endeavor to do all that we possibly can to wean our fellow-workers from their affiliation with the dominant political parties as one of the first steps necessary to insure wage workers to vote in favor of wage workers' interests, wage workers questions and for union wage workers as representatives.

President Gompers stated that we should demand the enforcement of the Shaw law and its extension to government employes. He decidedly opposed compulsory arbitration.

A Farmer's Desperate Deed.

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich., Dec. 12.—Robert Webster, a farmer living three miles from here, set fire to his barn. Two neighbors named Keasey and Stedman discovered that the barn was on fire and went to Webster's house to notify him. On pushing open the door which was barricaded Webster opened fire with a shot gun, the charge striking Keasey in the face, putting out both eyes and inflicting probably fatal injuries. Some of the charge also struck Stedman, but he is not seriously injured. Webster then set fire to the dwelling, intending to be burned up with the building. Neighbors pulled him out and he is under arrest. Webster recently lost his farm by foreclosure and had received notice to vacate the premises.

Chicago to Re-Organize Her Police.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Comprehensive plans for the immediate re-organization of the police department on a civil service basis were submitted to Mayor Hopkins by the commission appointed to report on the subject. Within a week it is expected that the department will be under the new administration.

THOSE TWO PROJECTS

Cable and Steamship Schemes Before the Colonial Institute.

SIR HENRY WRIXON SPEAKS

The Canadian Premier Tells the Members of a Strong Feeling in Canada in Favor of the Schemes—Mr. Gardner Talks Again on the Embargo.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Sir Henry Wrixon of Victoria, Australia, who was a delegate to the recent intercolonial conference in Ottawa, lectured in London last evening on the results of the conference. He followed substantially the outline already given. Sir Charles Tupper presided in the absence of the Marquis of Lorne.

In the discussion which followed Sir Henry's speech Lord Brassey said he rejoiced that both the Earl of Jersey and Sir Henry Wrixon had emphasized the advantage of a closer union. If the objects of the conference could be effected the result would be of immense value to Great Britain.

Sir John Thompson, the Canadian Premier, who was cordially received, remarked that there was a strong feeling in Canada in favor of the cable and steamship project, and that the Canadians awaited with interest the action of Great Britain in the matter. The cable problem was too great a one for the colony to solve, but Canada's and Australia's willingness to grant subsidies rendered the completion of the cable eventually certain, the cost being thus reduced $1,000,000 below the amount expected. The Canadian parliament's vote on steamship subsidies indicated that the steamship project also was assured of success. The result would be a great increase of intercolonial trade and closer union.

SIR HENRY WRIXON.

Gardner on the Cattle Question.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Mr. Gardner, president of the Board of Agriculture, made a notable speech at the banquet of the Chamber of Agriculture in London last evening, in which he alluded to the prohibition of the importation of Canadian cattle. The one bright spot in the dreary agrarian depression in Great Britain, he said, was the immunity from cattle disease. The British farmers owed this immunity to the powers which Parliament had granted to the Board of Agriculture. He was aware that those powers had not been exercised without friction. Many had complained bitterly of the board's course. But he could not imagine that anybody in his position as president of the board would sacrifice or even jeopardize the vast national property committed to his charge, owing to passing unpopularity. He was frequently cheered during his speech.

The Earl of Winchelsea lauded and thanked Mr. Gardner for his "wise and brave policy," and said that the agrarians of Great Britain ought to give him hearty support.

CANADA'S CATTLE DISEASED.

Pleuro-Pneumonia Reported to Have Been Discovered at Antwerp.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The Belgian officials at Antwerp report that they have discovered the presence of pleuro-pneumonia among Canadian cattle which have been landed at that port from Montreal. The Canadian government officials here are sending a veterinary surgeon to Antwerp to report whether the cattle affected are really Canadian cattle and whether it is pleuro-pneumonia from which the animals are suffering. If the disease is confirmed as pleuro-penumonia the probable result will be that the British ports will remain closed against Canadian cattle next season.

Revolt in British Honduras.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The latest mails from British Honduras brings the news of a serious revolt in the police force early in November. The revolt of the police, which is virtually a military body, was due to a wage dispute. The mutineers held Belize for days, retaining their rifles, bayonets, revolvers and ammunition, each man having sixty rounds. They mounted small cannon in front of the barracks and the town was in danger of being sacked and burned. The mutineers finally yielded up their arms, but when arrests were attempted they stormed the barracks with stones and other missiles. The military officers narrowly escaped with their lives. Ultimately the Governor granted the demands of the police and they were pacified. The arrival of H. M. S. Canada restored confidence.

Rosebery Confident of His Strength.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Lord Rosebery, in a speech in Devonport last evening, contended that the Government was now stronger than its most sanguine supporters ventured last spring to predict. He compared the small loss of seats sustained by the Liberals in the present parliament with the losses sustained by the last Government. The Ministers, he said, were determined, if the power should be given to them to deprive the Lords of their absolute vote forever.

Durham Conservatives.

MILLBROOK, Ont., Dec. 12.—The annual Conservative Convention was held here yesterday. After the usual business of electing officers, etc., had been completed and after several speeches had been delivered it was decided to ballot for a candidate at this meeting. After two ballots had been taken Mr. T. Dixon Craig was declared the nominee of the party to contest the next election.

NEWFOUNDLAND CRISIS

Nearly Every Manufacturing Concern in St. Johns Closes Down.

PUBLIC FEELING IS INTENSE

Whiteswayites Demand That the Governor Dismiss the Goodridge Government—A Liverpool Firm Goes Under as a Result of the Financial Crash.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Dec. 12.—Several small firms suspended yesterday, but there were no important developments in Newfoundland's financial crisis. Nearly every manufacturing concern in the city has ceased running.

The party led by ex-Premier Sir William Whiteway demand that the governor dismiss the Goodridge ministry and replace the Whiteswayites in office. The governor is unwilling to dismiss the Ministers, although they have offered to resign. The Whiteswayites, it is said, cannot possibly raise any loans in London.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Dec. 12.—Excitement over the bank failures is intense, but owing to the influence of Sir William Whiteway and his supporters in St. Johns all extreme manifestations are kept under. Whiteway using all his personal influence with the depositors and stockholders to allay the excitement. He and his party have risen to the occasion and he is the man of the hour. The directors of the Commercial Bank asked him to confer with them, which he did, and as a result the Goodridge-Morine executive sent a letter offering to resign immediately. No reply was vouchsafed, but the Whiteway party waited on the Government and demanded their immediate dismissal on the grounds of their defeat at the polls and that the Premier and the other members of the executive are defaulting bank directors.

HALIFAX, Dec. 12.—Private telegrams received from St. Johns by several Halifax bank managers indicate complete demoralization prevails there. Unless confidence is restored in some measure and business put on a stable footing very soon there is likely to be great suffering among the working classes, whose savings are locked up in savings bank deposits loaned by the government to banks.

The Bank of Nova Scotia has decided to send an agent to Newfoundland to look after the bank's interests.

A mercantile agency in Halifax has received a cablegram from St. Johns, Nfld., stating that the Union Bank paid gold for an hour on Monday and then suspended to protect creditors and shareholders. Prospects are considered good for re-opening. The same agency received advices concerning the failure of Baine, Johnston & Co. and Goodfellow & Co. The firm of Baine, Johnston & Co. is an old established one. They deal principally in general stores and fish. The firm has been in business for over fifty years.

Goodfellow & Co. is composed of James Goodfellow and Alex. McDougall. Goodfellow is chairman of the municipal council and a director of the Commercial Bank.

The Intercolonial railway authorities have been wired to from firms in Toronto, Montreal and other places, requesting them to hold all goods now at depots awaiting shipment to Newfoundland. The goods stopped would half fill a steamer.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The Daily News announces that Job Brothers, merchants and shipowners, of Liverpool, have suspended in connection with the crisis in Newfoundland. Their liabilities amount to £140,000.

The Sherbrooke Shooting Affair.

SHERBROOKE, Que., Dec. 12.—Butcher Joseph Hebert, who was shot by Josephine Begin last Wednesday, was buried here. Hebert was a popular young man and the feeling against the woman runs very high. Upon the verdict of wilful murder rendered by the coroner's jury she was committed by Judge Rioux for trial at the March term of the Queen's Bench. She seemed very excited and acted very peculiarly in court, talking incoherently and paying attention to no one but the judge. She is carefully watched at the jail for fear of suicide. She has engaged a prominent criminal lawyer, who confidently asserts that he will clear her. There is no doubt that Hebert caused her ruin.

Barns and Contents Burned.

HAMILTON, Dec. 12.—The barns and outhouses on the farm of Col. Van Wagner, a few miles east of Hamilton, were burned to the ground yesterday. Four horses were got out with difficulty, but the rest of the contents, including $150 worth of implements, 200 bushels of oats and 60 tons of hay were consumed. The loss will be heavy and it is only partly covered by insurance. Some of the buildings date as far back as the war of 1812, but were still substantial. The fire was probably caused by tramps.

The Ministers at Wingham.

WINGHAM, Ont., Dec. 12.—A large gathering of Conservatives met the afternoon train to welcome the Hon. J. C. Patterson, Hon. Senator Ferguson, Dr. Montague and Hon. J. G. Haggart. A reception was held in the town hall from 4 to 6. In the evening a monster meeting was held in the hall. Mr. E. L. Dickinson, the candidate for West Huron, occupied the chair. Hon. J. C. Patterson was the principal speaker of the evening, and devoted his attention to the tariff question.

Suicide Near Peterborough.

PETERBOROUGH, Dec. 12.—George W. Scott, son of Mr. Alex. Scott of the Chemong road near Peterborough, committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart. Some time ago he suffered considerably from the effects of a sunstroke which he received, and for a time was an inmate of the Toronto asylum for the insane, and since his release from that institution has been brooding over his misfortune. The deceased was well known and was a prominent member of the Y.P.S.C.E.

Bonaventure Returns the Liberal.

MONTREAL, Dec. 12.—The Liberals are jubilant over the election of Mr. Lemieux, the Liberal candidate in Bonaventure over Mr. Arsenault, Conservative. Latest returns show that Lemieux is elected by over 200 majority. Mr. Hall's friends are also highly elated as they claim that the defeat of the Conservative candidate is a set-back for Mr. Taillon on account of his loan policy, which led to Mr. Hall's resignation as provincial treasurer.

Daily Examiner.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1894.

HON. MACKENZIE BOWELL has received a cablegram from London stating that Sir John Thompson will be sworn in as a member of the Imperial Privy Council on Thursday next, the 13th, and would sail for home on the following Wednesday.

EXPENDITURE on capital account for the month of November was $1,890,234, as against $2,306,843 in November of last year.

Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST SOCIETY.

This society held a special missionary meeting on Monday night. The attendance was good, and the meeting throughout was very interesting. Rev. Mr. Young presided. Mrs. Kendry gave an interesting address on the China missions. Miss L. Pascoe gave a reading, and Mr. Gilbert Hall also contributed a reading. The musical portion of the programme was very pleasing, especially the quartet, composed of Messrs. J. and A. Miller, Mr. Turner and Mr. Sheriff. Next Monday night will be Wesley night and will no doubt be very interesting to all Wesleyans.

ST. PAUL'S SOCIETY.

This society held a very interesting meeting on Monday night, Mr. W. Webster presiding. Miss Emily Carter read a very interesting paper, bearing on the topic. The meeting was lively throughout, especially the musical portion. The music committee put on sp cial music. This society have decided to hold the last two meetings of this month on Sunday night immediately after the evening service on account of the two holidays falling on Tuesday, and the evenings before these holidays would be much like a Saturday night.

The full particulars of the rally of the Baptist Young People's Society held on Tuesday afternoon and evening will be given in the columns of the local papers.

The Junior societies of town are actively at work preparing presents to be distributed among the poor of their respective congregations at Christmas time. It is surprising the interest displayed by the juniors in this work.

On New Year's morning, the local societies will hold a sunrise prayer meeting. Full particulars will be given later on. Those desiring copies of the special number of the Endeavour Herald would do well to place their order with Mr. A. J. Johnston, at Nugent's drug store, this week. This special number is devoted to the junior portion of the work.

SPRINGVILLE SOCIETY.

The junior C. E. society intend holding a Christmas tree entertainment, on Friday evening, Dec. 21st, at 7 o'clock. There will be a very interesting programme provided. Admission 25 cents. Peterborough friends are cordially invited.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.

This society met as usual on Monday night, Miss Bathgate presiding. Rev. Mr. McWilliams took up the topic "Helps and Hindrances to a Christian life," and in an impressive manner showed the many ways in which Christ's presence is ever powerful, and the hindrances that can all be removed, especially by His guidance and the use of His word through prayer. It was pleasing to note the faces of many strangers and hope to see them come again. This society is increasing in numbers as well as in interest. This motto is the daily advancement of Christ's kingdom and the salvation of mankind. The Juniors are going to have a social on the evening of the 24th inst. This society is noted for its successful entertainments, the Suniors at times supplying the entire programme.

Christian Endeavourers! There come into our town weekly heaps of those publications teeming with blood-curdling tales and illustrated with flashy cuts intended to catch the youthful eye. We should forward some effort to have these publications excluded from our fair town. Just as sure as they are permitted to come into the town, just so sure will they be read, and in many cases children of immature age are permitted to amuse themselves by looking at these pictures. Parents who cannot conceive how their children would cultivate a taste for such trash allow these publications to be around after they have satisfied their own depraved appetites, and all the good seed sown at our junior societies and in the Sunday school is smothered out with this trashy stuff. Let us talk it down; let us endeavour to get people to cultivate higher literary taste.

We copy this from the Presbyterian Record—"Why a lady did not dance."

1. Dancing would lead me into crowded rooms and late hours, which are injurious to health and usefulness.

2. Dancing would lead me into very close contact with very pernicious company, and evil communications corrupt good manners.

3. Dancing would require me to use and permit freedoms with the other sex of which I would be heartily ashamed, and which I believe to be wrong.

4. Most ministers and good people disapprove of dancing, and I think is is not safe to set myself against them; if a thing be even doubtful I wish to be on the safe side.

5. Dancing has a bad name, and I mean to study things that are pure and lovely and of good report.

6. Dancing is often accompanied by drinking, and drinking produces a great deal of evil.

7. I am told dancing is a great temptation and snare to young men, and I do not wish to have anything to do with leading them astray.

8. Dancing unfits the mind for serious reflection and prayer, and I mean to do nothing that will estrange me from God and my Saviour.

9. There are plenty of graceful exercises and cheerful amusements which have none of the objections connected with them that lie against dancing.

VAUGHAN'S CASE.

Doctors Failed in This Instance, but Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured.

LEAMINGTON, Dec. 12th.—The craze for Dodd's Kidney Pills, which caused so much excitement throughout the province a few weeks ago, has struck this town. Every other resident is reading up the causes and effect of kidney disease, and calling upon his druggist for Dodd's Kidney Pills, owing to some remarkable cures they have made here. Hezekiah Vaughan was very low with kidney trouble, tried different doctors and found no relief. Like many others he had no faith in patent medicines. His friends thought he would not get better. They persuaded him to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, and after taking four boxes he was able to resume work and now cannot speak too highly of them.

THE ALLAN LINE.

The Liverpool Commercial Advertiser has a strong article on the Allan Line:

To go back to the inauguration of the Allan Line, as we understand it at the present day, is to dip into what must be considered rather ancient history. It is now more than forty years ago since the first liner of this celebrated firm sailed from the Mersey, bound for Quebec and Montreal. This historic vessel was very appropriately named the Canadian, and the same spirit that prompted that apt appellation has since achieved a great work in linking in close union Her Majesty's loyal subjects on either side of the North Atlantic.

The Canadian was not a large vessel according to the standard of our modern leviathans. Her length was 278 feet, her beam 34 feet, and her depth 34 feet, with a tonnage of 1873 tons. But she was strongly built of iron, and was a typical representation of the science and skill of the builders' and engineers' art as it was then developed.

This initiatory voyage from the Mersey was commenced on the 20th September, 1854. Those were stirring times, for the day that saw the departure of the Canadian marked the victory of the British troops on the heights of the Alma. It was intended that this voyage should be the pioneer trip of a regular service. But the British Government had need of her merchant steamers, and the vessels of the Allan fleet were in conjunction with others chartered to convey troops and stores to the Crimea.

* * * * * *

In 1856 the service was resumed, and has been continued, and largely increased, to the present.

A famous vessel of the Allan fleet is the Buenos Ayrean. She was the first steel engaged in the Atlantic trade. She was thus the cynosure of shipbuilders and marine engineers, until, in fact, the movement which supplanted iron as a shipbuilding material became pretty wide spread. The Buenos Ayrean enjoyed, for a considerable time, the reputation of being the biggest steel-built vessel afloat, and as such her performances and behaviour were matters of great interest to the whole nautical world.

But, perhaps, the best known vessel of the fleet is the Parisian. This vessel is 440 ft. long, 46 ft. beam, and 36 ft. in depth. She is built of Siemens-Martin steel, with double bottom and bilge keels. Her tonnage is 5,500, so that she represents a very great advance on the pioneer vessel, the Canadian. Permanent accommodation is provided for 200 saloon passengers, 150 second class, and 700 steerage. As a successful steamer, providing her passengers with every comfort and luxury, the Parisian has done much to popularise the St. Lawrence as the starting point on the return route to Europe.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS OF THE COUNTY.

[Items of interest to Sunday schools will appear in this paper regularly. Secretaries, superintendents or others who have any news to send or suggestions to make will oblige by sending them to Dr. Harrison, Keene, superintendent of Normal work for the county.]

A circular letter has been issued by the County Sunday School Association as a result of the recent meeting of the executive held in Peterborough. The circular points out that a forward step has been taken in Sunday school work in this county and a primary superintendent and a normal superintendent have been appointed. Miss L. Kennedy, whose post office address is Peterborough, has been appointed superintendent of primary work, and those in charge of the work in schools are asked to communicate with her. The Association desires to introduce Normal Institutes in every municipality, to be followed by the organization of Normal classes. There are now five Normal classes at work in the county and it is hoped that soon nearly every school will have one established. For this purpose the Normal superintendent, Dr. Harrison, of Keene, asks the co-operation of township officers, that a couple of points may be selected, at which an afternoon and evening and if he is communicated with he will send an instructor and programme. Township officers are especially urged to put primary and home class subjects on the convention programmes.

INSTITUTE MAY BE HELD,

Asphodel and Belmont Association will hold a convention at Norwood on the last Friday in January.

The Provincial Sunday School Association is establishing a paper to be the official organ for the Province. Any person wishing to see what it is like should send a post card to Mr. Geo. M. Elliott, Napanee, and the first two issues will be forwarded free, after which it will be continued on being subscribed for in the usual way. Send Mr. Elliott a card.

The EXAMINER and Review have courteously given space for a Sunday school column, and if you have any items of news or suggestions send them to W. T. Harrison, M.D., Keene, who has charge of the space.

Rev. E. E. Howard, local examiner for Otonabee for the Provincial Normal examination held in September last, presented certificates to the happy eleven who succeeded in passing. There are now at least five Normal classes in the county—two in connection with Keene Methodist school, one at Villiers, one at Warsaw and one in the George street Methodist school, Peterborough.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

THE ARMENIAN ABUSES.

United States Information of the Alleged Cruelties.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—President Cleveland, in his letter transmitting the correspondence, says: "I beg leave to inform the Senate that I have no information concerning cruelties committed upon Armenians in Turkey, or upon persons because of their being Christians except such information as has been derived from newspaper reports and statements emanating from the Turkish government denying such cruelties and two telegraphic reports from our minister at Constantinople. One of these reports dated November 28, 1894, is an answer to an inquiry by the state department touching reports in the press alleging the killing of Armenians and is as follows:

"'Reports in American papers of Turkish atrocities at Sassoun are sensational and exaggerated. The killing was in a conflict between armed Armenians and Turkish soldiers. The grand vizier says it was necessary to suppress insurrection and that about 50 Turks were killed. Between 300 and 400 Armenian guns were picked up after the fight, and he reports that about that number of Armenians were killed. I give credit to his statement.'

"The other despatch referred to is dated December 2, 1894, and is as follows: 'Information from British ambassador indicates far more loss of lives in Armenia attended with atrocities than stated in my telegram of 28th.'"

The President then recites the action of the State Department as shown by Secretary Gresham's letter and concludes as follows: "In view of the changed conditions and upon reconsideration of the subject, it was determined to send Mr. Jewett, our consul at Sivas, to the scene of the alleged outrages, not for the purpose of joining with any other government in an investigation and report, but to the end that he might be able to inform this government as to the exact truth. Instructions to this effect were sent to Mr. Jewett and it is supposed that he has already entered upon the duty assigned him."

ANOTHER JAPANESE VICTORY.

The Chinese Routed With Heavy Loss at Kiu-Kwan-Hu.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—A despatch to the Central News from Antong says that a Japanese division on Monday, December 10, defeated the Chinese under Gen. I, near Kiu-Kwan-Hu. The Chinese lost 100 killed and a large number wounded. The Japanese, whose loss was only 40 killed and wounded, captured two banners, ten prisoners and a large number of rifles. Four thousand Chinese were engaged. The Chinese fled toward Tao-Hun-Kou.

Field Marshal Yamagata has started for home.

A despatch from Hiroshima says Field Marshal Oyama is still at Port Arthur. The Chinese are concentrating at Foo-Chow and a Japanese brigade under Gen. Noge is marching to attack them.

Wallpaper Factory Destroyed.

BUFFALO, Dec. 12.—M. H. Birge & Sons' mammoth wallpaper factory was burned yesterday. It contained much valuable machinery. The factory was running to its fullest capacity and the men worked overtime till ten o'clock each night. About 500 men were employed, and the stock room was filled to its utmost capacity with stock for the holiday trade and for next season. The Birges practically had control of the high-class wallpaper trade of the country, and probably had $150,000 worth of finished paper within its storehouse. The entire stock was utterly destroyed. The loss is estimated at anywhere from $400,000 to $500,000.

Three Outlaws Lynched.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 12.—Three outlaws named Smith, Bronson and Brown, members of the notorious Meachamite gang, of Meacham's Beat, are reported to have been lynched by a mob of angry citizens. The crime for which the outlaws are said to have suffered death, was committed Thursday night, when Murphy Pink was assassinated by the gang. He had been instrumental in driving them out of Clark county. The Meacham gang for four years have terrorized all law-abiding citizens, and have committed all sorts of crimes, from horse stealing to murder. They are charged with having committed ten murders.

A Mind Reader's Crimes.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—A Recorder special from San Luis Potosi says: A sensation has been caused here by the arrest, at the instigation of the French authorities, of Mlle. Marie Greville, a famous mind reader. She is held on suspicion of having murdered a colonel of the French army. Mlle. Greville is a handsome woman. It is alleged she committed the crime through jealousy. Her company has been giving exhibitions in the principal cities of Mexico.

The Banca Romana Documents.

ROME, Dec. 12.—Ex-Premier Giolitti produced in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday documents relating to the political men involved in the Banca Romana scandal. The Radical members demanded the immediate reading of the papers. Premier Crispi said he thought that Signor Giolitti should publish them on his own responsibility. After a stormy debate the documents were referred to a commission.

Morocco Cedes an Island to Britain.

MADRID, Dec. 12.—There is reason to believe that Morocco has ceded the island of Peregil to Great Britain for a coaling station. Peregil is a small in-shore island situated opposite Gibraltar, near the Spanish possessions of Ceuta. The Spanish government is deeply agitated over the news, and the newspapers are making indignant attacks upon Morocco and Great Britain.

It Sharpens

the appetite, improves digestion, and restores health and vigor; all the organs of the body are aroused to healthy action by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. More than all, the liver—and that's the key to the whole system. You have pure blood or poisonous blood, just as your liver chooses. The blood controls the health, the liver controls the blood, the "Discovery" controls the liver.

You can escape just about half the ills that flesh is heir to, by being ready for them. Brace the system up with this medicine, which prevents as well as cures. For all diseases caused by a disordered liver or impure blood—dyspepsia, biliousness, the most stubborn skin, scalp and scrofulous affections, the "Discovery" is the only remedy so certain and effective that in can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure you have your money back. You pay only for the good you get.

A WISE WOMAN.

She Was Weak, Nervous and Dispirited and Found no Benefit From Doctors' Treatment—She Was Induced to Give Pink Pills a Trial and is Again Enjoying Health.

From the Canadian Evangelist, Hamilton.

We are often asked: "Do you think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are any good? Do you think it is right to publish those glowing accounts of cures said to be effected by the Pink Pills? Of course, we think the Pink Pills are good, and if we did not think it right to publish the testimonials we would not do it. Perhaps it is not to be wondered at that people ask such questions, when they hear stories of clerks being employed to write up fictitious testimonials to the efficacy of some cheap and nasty patent medicine. The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. do not follow that dishonest practice as there are few places in the Dominion where the marvellous efficacy of Pink Pills has not been proved. Their method, as our readers may have observed is to publish interviews which representatives of reputable and well known journals have had with persons who have been benefitted by a course of Pink Pills, thus giving absolute assurance that every case published is genuine. Several such cases have come under the notice of the Canadian Evangelist, the latest being that of Mrs. T. Stephens, of 215 Hunter street, west, Hamilton. Mrs. Hunter is quite enthusiastic in her praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and is very positive that they have done her a great amount of good. Her trouble was indigestion and general debility. For about a year she was under a physician's care, without deriving any benefit therefrom. About three years ago she was induced by a friend to give Pink Pills a trial. When she began their use, she says, she felt tired all the time, was weak and nervous, had a pain in her chest, and was very downhearted. Her father told her she looked as though she was going into a "decline." She replied that she felt that way, whether she looked it or not. It was not long after that she began to take the Pink Pills before she experienced an improvement in her health and spirits. The tired feeling wore away, and her strength returned, the extreme nervousness vanished and her spirits revived. It is now about two years since Mrs. Stephens ceased taking the Pink Pills. She has had no return of her former trouble during all that time. She is now strong, healthy and cheerful, and is very emphatic in declaring that she owes to the Pink Pills her present satisfactory state of health, and has, therefore no hesitation in recommending them to those afflicted as she was.

The Minneapolis Murder.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 12.—The grand jury yesterday heard the testimony of A. H. Hayward, who confessed to the police a few days ago that his brother Harry instigated the murder of Catherine Ging. The appearance of Adry Hayward as a witness is taken to mean that he will go free.

A Socialist Editor Arrested.

BERLIN, Dec. 12.—The editor of Der Sozialist has been arrested for making blasphemous and treasonable comments on the anti-Socialist bill.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Dec. 12, 1894.

The week's traffic earnings of the Grand Trunk show an increase of $7,370. The increase is in both passenger and freight earnings.

Only 100 bushels of barley and another 100 of oats were offered on the street here. The former brought 45 cents and the latter 31. Few sales from outside are reported.

In Buffalo the barley market was firm; demand very light; No. 1 Canada quoted at 64.

Wheat showed an upward tendency in Chicago, closing 3-8 to 1-2 higher. Corn and oats were firm and a shade higher.

At East Buffalo the sheep and lambs offerings were 42 cars, of which 20 cars were Canadian stock, about equally divided between sheep and lambs. Market good for choice sheep steady and a trifle higher for prime Canada lambs. Stock averaging 92 to 98 pounds sold at $4 to $4.10, but the bulk of the Canada lambs here went at about $4. Fancy Canada sheep would probably bring $4.25. Market will probably be steady at about these prices for the balance of the week if the run of stock is not excessive.

The almost complete stagnation on the New York stock market was probably the most accurate reflection of the state of things financial that has been furnished in many days. Although the general feeling was discouraging, there were few declines in the market and in the last few hours several advances. The gains were due, as usual however, almost entirely to the covering of scattered shorts. There was little news.

We Don't Talk Much

About our prices, nor are we often found quoting extravagantly—so that what we DO say now, may be taken as BONA-FIDE.

We will, for the balance of the season, offer the remainder of our new selections of

LADIES' and CHILDREN'S MANTLES and ULSTERS

At prices that should make a complete clearance before New Years. Every garment is of this season's newest and latest design, and has only left the makers' hands a few months.

As we do not purpose to carry over a single Mantle or Ulster, buyers can rest assured that no obstacle will be put in the way of letting them go at a BARGAIN.

OUR MANTLE CLOTHS and SEALETTES . . . . .

Will, of coure, have to share the same fate, for the same reason. The pick of our High-Class Stock of any of these Cloths at any of the reduced prices we now offer will be

A SNAP FOR ANY BUYER

who is a judge of the goods.

ALL TRIMMED MILLINERY

Must also come in for a SWEEPING REDUCTION to clear the way for more seasonable goods. One-half former prices will be the tariff that will prevail, and no exceptions or deviations will be made on any of the beautiful class of goods now remaining.

WINTER DRESS GOODS

Of every kind have all been re-examined and re-marked, with Reduced Price Tickets. The former value of these high-class goods have been fully recognized and appreciated by customers, but the reduced prices will enhance their value at least 25 per cent.

WOOL and KNITTED SHAWLS

Still very seasonable, and so much worn, will be dropped in price to ensure a speedy sale at this season of the year.

Inspection invited. No trouble to show goods, and no obligation to buy. What we want is lookers as well at buyers. We don't talk much about prices, but when we say they're down—THEY'RE DOWN.

Charity Entertainment.

An entertainment will be given in St. John's school house on Tuesday evening, the 18th Dec., in aid of a deserving local charity. Readings, music—vocal and instrumental, as well as a very amusing drawing room comedy, entitled "My Turn Next," will be presented during the evening. Tickets 25c.

Post on Single Tax.

Readers interested in economic questions are reminded that Mr. Louis F. Post the accredited lecturer of the Single Tax League of America, will deliver a lecture in the Opera House, on Friday night, December 14th, on the subject of "The Single Tax and the elements of political Economy." Every student of political economy should hear Mr. Post's lucid address on the important subject with which he deals. Admission tickets obtainable at the Peterborough Book Store or at the Street Railway office, 10 cents.

Now in Session at the Murray Street Church.

A conference of the pastors and deacons of the Baptist churches of the Peterborough District, is being held to-day in the Murray street church. An extended account will appear in to-morrow's issue of the EXAMINER. The programme for this evening promises to be most interesting, and embraces an address by Rev. J. E. Trotter, on "The relation of our churches to denominational interests," and an interesting paper by Rev. P. K. Dayfoot, M. A., of Port Hope, on "The Place and Purpose of the Ordinances in the New Testament Church."

The Franchise Granted on Certain Conditions.

At a meeting of the Finance Committee last night, as a committee of the whole council, it was resolved to recommend the granting to Messrs. Carnegie and Dennistoun the franchise, which they sought, of erecting poles for the transmission of electric power, subject to the following conditions:—

1. The erection of the poles to be under the supervision of the town engineer.
2. That the town have the right to assume control of the poles at a valuation upon allowing the applicants the use of them upon the same terms as other competitors.
3. The applicants or their assigns shall operate within one year from Jan. 1st, 1895, a light and power system separate and distinct from all other companies in the same line of business and shall retain the franchise granted only so long as they shall continue in opposition to other existing companies.
4. The applicants shall be compelled to put their wires underground upon two years' notice to that effect, provided all other competitors are compelled to do the same. Such notice not to be given within the next four years. The franchise to extend over a period of twenty years.

MIDNIGHT BLAZE ON AYLMER STREET.

One of T. Bradburn's Houses Burned to the Ground.

The fire brigade was summoned at 11.30 last night to a small brick residence on Aylmer street, just opposite the Jackson Company's piano factory. The house was occupied by Mr. Wm Rose and had caught fire in his absence, through the explosion of a lamp, which set the curtains in a blaze and then extended to the wood work in the apartment.

The prompt use of the Babcock extinguisher soon quenched the flames and all danger apparently being over, the furniture which had hastily been removed was restored, and Mr. Rose and his family accepted accommodation for the balance of the night at the residence of Mr. Thomas Henry. Some sparks must have eaten their way through the ceiling into the rafters, as at about 3.15 o'clock the roof of the house was discovered to be in a blaze, and by the time the alarm was sent in the flames were hustling out of the doors and windows, and completely beyond the control of the firemen.

This morning a smoking ruin is all that remains to indicate the former site of the cottage. The building, which is owned by Mr. T. Bradburn, was valued at about $600, and the loss is only partially covered by an insurance in the London Fire Assurance Company. The furniture belonging to Mr. Rose was entirely consumed but it is understood to be fully insured.

DEDICATION OF THE I. O. O. F. HALL, AT MILLBROOK.

Grand Master Hoyle, of Cannington. Present—A Special Train Went Down From Peterborough.

Dedicatory services were held, yesterday, at the new I. O. O. F. Hall, at Millbrook. The lodge was inaugurated last June and already has a membership of 56 members. Nineteen candidates were initiated last evening. The ceremonies were conducted by Grand Master Hoyle, of Cannington, assisted by Grand Warden White of Port Hope, and P. G. M. Bell, of Peterborough, P. G. Johnson, of Peterborough, P. G. Burnet, of Havelock, and P. G. McGill, of Port Hope.

About 150 visiting Oddfellows were present, including sixty Peterborough brethren and the degree team from Peterborough Lodge, No. 111, which took the work in hand of conducting the initiatory ceremony.

A most sumptuous banquet was served during the evening and inspiring speeches were made by the Grand Master, P.G.M. Bell, of Otonabee Lodge, and Past Grands Johnson, Wm. Cowie and Andrew MacFarlane.

It was about twenty minutes past four this morning when the special train which took the Peterborough contingent to Millbrook, steamed into the Peterborough station.

SUDDEN DEATH OF SIR JOHN THOMPSON.

HE DIED AT WINDSOR CASTLE THIS AFTERNOON.

Stricken Down While at Luncheon—Dead Before a Physician Had Arrived—Had Just Been Sworn in a Privy Councillor of the Queen—Brief Sketch of the Dead Statesmen's Life.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Sir John Thompson had a conference yesterday with Lord Ripon, Secretary for the Colonies, upon the subject of International Copyright and the Importation of Canadian Cattle. Mr. Thompson went to Windsor this afternoon. He was accompanied by the Marquis of Ripon, Hartley Fowler, Secretary of State for India, and Arnold Morley, Postmaster-General, and was to have remained there over to-night. Sir John Thompson, together with Lord Ripon and Messrs. Fowler and Morley, left Paddington station for Windsor by special train at noon. It is reported that his death occurred in Windsor Castle.

LATER.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—After Sir John Thompson had been sworn in as a member of the Queen's Privy Council he sat at luncheon with the Marquis of Ripon and others, and was suddenly taken ill. Dr. Ellison, surgeon in ordinary to the household at Windsor was summoned, but Sir John was dead before the doctor arrived. The Queen has not yet been informed of the death. The body of Sir John Thompson has been removed to the Clarence Tower of Windsor Castle, where it will remain until an inquest is held.

The lamentably sudden death of a great statesman in the prime of life and usefulness, comes as a shock to the people of Canada, irrespective of party affiliations. The life of a man occupying the position which Sir John Thompson did, belongs to the country and not specially to the political party of which, in the narrower sense, he is the acknowledged head and leader. He had, to a greater or less extent, the destiny of the country, for the time being at least, in his hands. As the head of the Government, the material and other interests of the country were in his keeping, and that a life holding such responsibilities should be cut off without a moment's warning, must be a sincere cause of regret to the country at large. Though there were differences of opinion as to the wisdom of the late premier's policy and as to the manner in which he discharged his tremendous trust, yet all these differences disappear in the presence of the great leveller and merge into the common regret that a statesman of great oratorical and administrative ability, a credit to native Canadian talent, has been called away at the half century of his life, in the midst of his usefulness, and at a moment when the services of every loyal and able citizen is needed by the country.

Sir John Sparrow David Thompson, K. C. M. G., Premier and Minister of Justice of the Dominion of Canada, was born in Halifax, Nova Scotia, on November 10th, 1844. His father was John Sparrow Thompson, who was a native of Waterford, Ireland. Sir John Thompson was educated at the common school and Free Church Academy, Halifax. In the year 1865, he was called to the Nova Scotia bar and appointed a Queen's Counsel in 1879. In 1880 he was called to the bar of Ontario. He occupied in his own native city the positions of alderman, chairman of the board of school commissioners and member of the senate of the University of Halifax. He was married to Miss Annie E. Affleck, daughter of Captain Affleck, of Halifax. During the Fishery Commission sitting at Halifax, under the Washington treaty, he acted as counsel with American lawyers, for the United States. His marked abilities and capacity for political work were promptly recognized and in 1878 he was appointed a member of the Executive Council, and Attorney-General, and was Premier and Attorney-General from May, 1882, till July, 1882, when he was appointed a Judge of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia. He occupied this position till 1885, when he resigned, to enter the wider and more stirring arena of Dominion politics. In September he was appointed to the portfolio of Minister of Justice, under the late Sir John Macdonald. He first entered the Commons as representative of Antigonish, and was returned for the same constituency at the general elections of 1887 and 1891. Sir John Thompson was associated as representative of the Canadian Government with the British representatives in the Fishery Commission in Washington in 1887, and in 1888 created a K.C.M.G. in recognition of his services on that occasion. On the death of Sir John Macdonald June 6th, 1891, Sir John Thompson's name was mentioned in connection with the premier ship, but as is known the late chieftain's mantle fell upon Sir John Abbot, but upon the resignation of that gentleman owing to failing health, Sir John Thompson, naturally, was designated his successor, and he was appointed Premier on December 5th, 1892, a position which he occupied till within an hour of this writing, when death closed his career. In recognition of his services in connection with the Behring Sea arbitration, Sir John was made an Imperial Privy Councillor, but he was not sworn in till yesterday at Windsor Castle, where he went for that purpose, and where his death followed swiftly on the ceremony. From all that the meagre despatches contain, it appears that Sir John Thompson's awfully sudden death was without warning. The last public function at which he assisted before his visit to Windsor to-day was at a meeting of the Colonial Institute where he was very cordially received, and where he made an address. The statement in the dispatch, recording this event, that Sir John was suffering from a severe cold and only spoke a few minutes is the only intimation that the Premier was not enjoying his usual robust health.

Though Sir John Thompson, was the political head of the Conservative party he was not a politician in the commonly accepted meaning of that term. It is understood that his position of leader was largely occupied in deference to the wishes of Sir John Macdonald, expressed during his lifetime. At any rate his death is a severe loss to the Conservative party, which will have great difficulty in finding a worthy successor. For though Sir John's mind was more judicial than administrative, he led his party with a strong hand, and was by all odds the cleverest and most brilliant member of the Conservative party. Both as an orator and man of affairs his loss will be keenly felt, and his place filled with difficulty, especially on entering a general election period, when a strong, firm guiding hand is needed at the helm.

THE BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE'S BIG RALLY.

Several Score of Delegates Present.

INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE ADDRESSES.

The Members of the B. Y. P. U. of the Different Churches in the Peterborough District, Assemble and Form an Associational Organization—Election of Officers and Other Business.

Almost three score of delegates from the Peterborough district were in attendance at a rally of the Baptist Young People's Union yesterday in the Murray street church. The Peterborough district has never before called a meeting of its Young People together, and the primary object of the rally was to discuss the advisability of an associational organization of this nature which could meet periodically as decided.

The meeting was opened at two o'clock in the afternoon, with Rev. Mr. Trotter in the chair. Rev. C. E. McLeod led in the devotional exercises, after which Mr. A.E. Stanley, president of the local Union, addressed a few words of warm welcome to the visiting delegates. Mr. George Edmunds, of Port Hope, replied on behalf of the visitors.

Reports came in from all the churches in the district, and progress in the work was reported from all sides.

Rev. H. C. Priest, pastor of the Sheridan Avenue Baptist church, was called upon for an address on "The Origins and Aims of the B.Y.P.U.A.," and the following most paper was read on the subject:

INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE

Two mighty movements have characterized the church of late years—both born of God, both mighty and far-reaching in their influence—the missionary movement and the young people's movement. I say both born of God; will any one question it or one moment. That as Wm. Carey sat at his cobbler's bench studying with the aid of that leathern globe, the great needy world wrapped in the densest darkness, until the great mighty soul of the man became almost too great for his body. Will, any one question for one moment. That if God who was breathing into the soul of the consecrated cobbler. His missionary spirit that was fitting him to inaugurate the mighty enterprise which has revolutionized the work and the thinking of the Christian church.

To the careful Christian observer not less certain is it that the Young Peoples' movement that is exerting such tremendous and wide-spread influence, had its origin in the heart of God. No thoughtful man can dissociate this wonderful Christian phenomena, this organization among the young people from the providence of God. The movement is of God and has God in it. It has no other explanation.

I make no apology for placing it alongside

THE MISSIONARY MOVEMENT,

not only in its origin but in the influence it is destined to exert in the kingdom of Jesus Christ. If we can argue from its brief history, from what it is already done, it is one of the mightiest agencies the Christian church has ever placed its hand upon, or let me put it otherwise, it is one of the mightiest powers that God has ever given to the church. To me it is but another proof of God's presence and power and interest in His church. So much for the movement in general. Now for the more specific phase of the subject, the B. Y. P. U. A. July 7th and 8th, 1891, is a date of peculiar interest in Baptist history as being the day in which this organization was ushered into existence. It is not narrowness or bigotry that feels a throb of genuine and affectionate pride in the fact, rather it is a warm-hearted, loyal affection for that denomination, whose principles we believe to be New Testament principles. If we love these truths and no one is worthy to hold truths unless he does love them, then must we rejoice in any movement that will help in this propogation. It would be difficult to say who was the father of the organization. The desire for organization on the part of Baptist young people was general and wide spread. In the May of the year previous, representatives of fifteen states had held a conference in Chicago, and had appointed a committee consisting of two representatives from each state represented, together with an executive committee of three. This committee could add to the number two members from states and territories not represented in the conference. The duty of this committee was to assist

IN THE ORGANIZATION

of Baptist Young People along denominational lines, to encourage Bible study among our young people, etc. This committee united in issuing a call to the Baptist churches of America for Baptist young people to meet in Chicago July 7th, 8th and 9th for the purpose of forming a Baptist national organization for young people in Baptist churches. Nearly 2,000 delegates responded and with the greatest enthusiasm and most perfect unanimity was ushered into being the B.Y.P.U.A., not national in its character as had been intended, but international. The organization was not formed in protest or opposition to any existing organization. It was formed because it was believed that Baptist young people could do more efficient work if organized along denominational lines. Inasmuch as the Young People's Society is not outside of or apart from the church, but is in the church; not simply an auxiliary, but a department of the church, it must seek to teach, to inculcate in its members and to propogate as sacred God given those peculiar truths which distinguish and separate the Baptist church from other evangelical bodies. That Society would be untrue to its organic relation to the church which do otherwise. Unless the Society has aims and purposes at one with the church it has no right to claim to be a church society. Baptist stands for something. They have a supreme mission. So deeply concerned are we of this that we are a Christian body separate from other evangelical bodies. That mission is "to maintain among ourselves and to amongst others absolute loyalty to God's word both in creed and deed." Unless profoundly convinced of this we have no rigot to separate existence as a church. Our spiritual forefathers have believed this, and have given their testimony to it, many of it in their blood. We believe it as churches, and shall we young Christians go forth as our fathers have done with their mission, our mission? The mission of our society must be as that of the church, to propogate these principles first among our young people and then send them through the whole world, ceasing not till all men in deed and in truth shall recognize the sovereignty of Christ alone and so far as Christian doctrine and church polity are concerned, the New Testament only.

PROPOGATE AND DEVELOP

It was with some such thought in mind that the B. Y. P. U. A., was organized—to bring into closer organic relation with our churches or rather shall I say, to give a fuller, truer aim and purpose to the Young People's Societies existing in our churches. As to how far it has succeeded let the testimony of preachers all over our country who have studied the question tell; let the mighty convention that met in Toronto, last July, bear witness.

But what as to its aims? Four great conventions have been held each of which gave prominence to some particular idea. Chicago had for its keynote, Organization; Detroit, Inspiration; Indianapolis, Education and Toronto, Consecration. These the keywords of the four conventions, I take of it describe in brief the aims of the B. Y. P. U. A.

1. Organization or independence of the young Baptist hosts of America.

WHAT A MIGHTY HOST

the young Baptists of America make. Some of our staid Torontoans were led to open their eyes wide in amazement last July, when train and boat poured in its delegation and everywhere might be seen the B. Y. P. U., badge. But heretofore this mighty host had never been marshaled. Young Baptists had never felt the mighty bond of brotherhood.

But what I want to say is that the B.Y. P.U.A. is a federation of Baptist societies, of whatever name or constitution. It does not seek to foist any set form of organization upon the young people of our churches. That (the form of organization) is determined by the local church. The B.Y.P.U. is a union of Baptist societies of whatever name. It has its own form of constitution which it suggests, one outstanding feature of which is that none but members of Baptist churches shall be entitled to active membership, and that none but members of Baptist churches shall be eligible for voting. At the same time it welcomes with equal cordiality, and to equal privileges, Baptist societies of any name whatever. It advocates the formation of Association Unions for fellowship and co-operation. Then the wider organization of Provincial Unions, and then, last of all, the great International Union, which enable us to grasp hands with North, South, East and West, and thus form one mighty Young Baptist Brotherhood.

2. Inspiration.—It aims to inspire our young people to a deeper spiritual life and to a fuller Christian activity. How much our churches have lacked in the past of the strength that might have been theirs by a failure to develop the strength of the great majority of its members! A very small proportion of the church members was reckoned among the working force of the church. You all know how it has been in altogether too many instances. There has been in the church, and young have been added to the church. And then the church has thought she has done the work. Are not these young people in the church? What more? And after awhile we have wakened to find that many who promised so well are cold and indifferent, and we wonder what is the matter. Their activity has not been directed, there is no work for them to do, little effort is put forth for their development, Is it any wonder they have turned out as they have? Thank God here's where the Y. P. Society comes in, and meets this weakness in our church life. It would develop the young Christians activity, recognizing too that activity can only be normal as it is the expression of an existing spiritual life.

3. Education—The unique feature of the B.Y.P.U. is its education policy.

It aims to give to our young people an enlarged acquaintance with scripture. Recognising that we cannot have a generation of strong, earnest, intelligent Christians, apart from a knowledge of God's word, it emphasizes and provides for Bible study.

It aims to give to our young people an acquaintance with the Book of History, the progressive unfolding of God's purposes and plans. It would lead our young people to an acquaintance with the continuation of the book of Acts. What the risen and ascended Christ has been accomplishing through His people from the days of the Apostles down, and what He is accomplishing at home and abroad in our own day.

It aims to give to our young people an acquaintance with the distinctive doctrines which we, as a people, hold, so that they may be able to give a reason for the hope that is in them.

UNLESS YOUNG BAPTISTS

know why they are what they are they can never perform their full mission in this world.

And I ask you brethren if it has not a field for its mission along these lines of education I have indicated. Should or should not our young people be thus educated? Where, apart from the Y. P. Society, is the agency in the church to do it? I cast no reflection upon the church work in the past. But we face a present problem and the question confronts us how, proceeding along N. T. lines, we, as churches, can accomplish the work that the Master has laid upon us.

And lastly, Consecration.

Youth is the time of enthusiasm. Oh! If the enthusiasm of youth be consecrated to His service, how much it will mean to the Christian church. God forbid that any organization calling itself Christian should exist merely for the purpose of amusing or entertaining the young people by conventions and banners; that its aim should be merely association and fellowship with one another, or the kindling of enthusiasm. No, no, no, a thousand times no. Above and beyond and over all, the great aim must be consecrated intelligent personal service and life to Jesus Christ, that so there may come to the young people of our churches a new and permanent holy enthusiasm for the evangelization of the nations of the earth.

The paper was listened to with the greatest attention and was afterwards the subject of much favourable comment.

Mr. Thomas Urquhart

LED A CONFERENCE

on "The Desirability of the Local Churches Co-operating with this Movement." The consensus of the opinion of a number of speakers on the subject, appeared to be that a society of Young People should never be formed in the church without the full consent and approval of the church, as a whole and if the church once gave this consent the members should do all in their power to assist and aid in the work of the society. All agreed that the pastor should be looked upon as the head of the movement and should be considered as an ex-officio member of all committees. It was thought a good idea for the covenant of the church to be taken as the pledge of the society, though the taking of the pledge should be considered optional.

A Question Drawer was instituted and Mr. Urquhart was kept busy for some time answering the many queries which were propounded in regard to the work.

As all seemed in favour of forming a district association, there was not a great deal of time spent in discussing the project, but a committee was appointed to nominate officers and at the evening session was presented and adopted without a dissenting voice:

President—Rev. C. E. McLeod.

Secretary—A. L. Grover.

Executive Committee—Rev. S. S. Weaver, Norwood; Geo. Edmonds, Port Hope; F. Morrow, Colborne, and J. R. Burgess, Lakefield, together with the President and Secretary.

Rev. J. E. Trotter led the devotional exercises, which opened the evening session and the choir rendered "Nearer My God to Thee" as an anthem in a particularly pleasing manner.

Mr. Thomas Urquhart delivered a most interesting address on "The relation of the Young People's Society to the local church."

The subject, he said, was an important one. Important that the church should know how to deal with its young people. Important that the young people should know what relation the society should bear to the local church. The church cannot, as a whole, said he, do all the work it should have to perform—some must be relegated to departments or committes.

When young people's societies were first organized, there was not a little fear and misgiving among not a few of our brethren. They viewed with alarm the formation of these societies within the church. Some feared that these societies were composed of young enthusiastic spirits with perhaps more enthusiasm than prudence, and more zeal than wisdom, becoming very strong within the church, would seek to take the reins in their own hands, and setting themselves up against the wishes of the church, would undertake and without reference to the plans of the church and without seeking advice or counsel from those who by their experience and wisdom could most readily understand the laws of work which and beneficial to the life of the church and the young people.

The experience of the past few years, with the societies organized and the new lines of work which they have undertaken has done much to banish the fear and misgiving and those who were warring at first are now amongst the most ardent supporters of this movement and now seek to direct and guide to higher fields of usefulness and wider circles of knowledge. The church is directing the zeal and enthusiasm.

The relation which the Young People's Society should bear to the church may be given in one sentence: "It should be a department of the church; the young people at study and work."

The Society should be formed with the approval of the church.

Their constitution and plans, and methods of work, should be approved by the church. The president elected should be confirmed.

The test of membership, same as church.

Each individual Baptist Church is a type of the true family of God. God is our father and the members of the church are His sons and daughters. "The spirit beareth witness with our spirit that we are the children of God." "Behold what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us that we should be called the sons of God." The great apostles rejoiced in this close relationship. They in the Epistles greeted all the saints as brethern.

The relation then of the church to the Y. P. Society may properly be called a paternal one. The relation of the Y. P. Society to the church is that of the children to the family. The relationship of the parent to the child—the interest of the dutiful child in the home. The church—the parent, interested in all that concerns the welfare and the development, the training of the younger members of the family, interested in all that is beneficial to the young life, stimulating to Christian service, and fitting them for the special and difficult work of the kingdom, which many of them as years wear on, will doubtless be called up to perform. So train them that the influence of the young life,

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

EVERYBODY, ATTENTION!

Genuine Holiday Removal Sale

—OF—

CHRISTMAS GROCERIES, &c.

—AT—

JOHN ARMSTRONG'S

In order to prepare the way for an early Removal to our handsome premises in Cox's new Bank of Commerce Block, we have commenced a Genuine Holiday Removal Sale to effect a prompt and speedy clearance of our stock and save extra handling at time of removal.

EVERYTHING IS MARKED DOWN in Groceries, Fruit, China, Crockery and Glassware, and prices must not stand in the way of reducing the stock rapidly. We mean business. We have made royal preparations for the holiday season. Our Christmas Bill of Fare includes everything new and fresh.

ALL TO BE SACRIFICED, right in the season when high prices prevail everywhere else.

TAKE OUR ADVICE and lay in your stock now, if you want to make the most of your money during the hard times. Values, at this sale, will, without exaggeration, be unequalled in town.

Customers in town and country will do well to get in their orders early and avoid the crush later on.

JOHN ARMSTRONG, No.— Water Street.

"The Fatal Wedding," "I long to see the girl I left behind," and five other songs of the day for 25c, at PETERBOROUGH MUSIC CO., 404 George street.

Organs and Pianos.

Messrs. Jackson & Co. have a number of second hand organs and pianos from $50.00 up, which they are anxious to clear out, in order to make room for their Christmas goods. Easy payment. Terms to suit buyers. Organs and pianos to rent. Show rooms and factory 378 Aylmer street.

Just the Thing you Want.

In furniture you will find at A. Clegg's, just the thing you are looking for. Furniture of good design, well-made out of kiln-dried lumber, and at prices within the reach of all. We have a large assortment of the more expensive and ornamental lines in bed-room, dining room and parlour furniture, but our every day furniture is right up to date. Nearly twenty styles of bedroom suites under $20. Mattresses spring beds, chairs, sideboards, extension tables, etc., in fact, everything you are likely to want, and at the right price. Remember the place, 427 George street. dw

A Piano is a Princely Present.

It is not an expense or a luxury—it is an investment—an education. J. W. Crosby sells on the cash or instalment plan, and offers a substantial discount off any high class instrument purchased from him during the holiday season. Think it over, pay a visit to his ware-rooms, No. 343 Water street, and get the benefit of his best terms. He gives you a choice of some of the highest grade pianos from the most popular makers. December is the month when most pianos are sold. Better speak now."

A WOMAN'S BURDENS

are lightened when she turns to the right medicine. If her existence is made gloomy by the chronic weaknesses, delicate derangements, and painful disorders that afflict her sex, she will find relief and emancipation from her troubles in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If she's overworked, nervous, or "run-down," she has new life and strength after using this remarkable remedy. It's a powerful, invigorating tonic and nervine which was discovered and used by an eminent physician for many years, in all cases of "female complaints" and weaknesses. For young girls just entering womanhood; for women at the critical "change of life"; in bearing-down sensations, periodical pains, ulceration, inflammation, and every kindred ailment, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

The key to the situation—if you suffer from Catarrh, you'll find in Dr. Sage's Remedy. No matter how bad your case may be, the proprietors of the medicine promise to pay $500 if they can't cure you. For sale by all druggists.

SHIPS PASSING AT SEA.

HOW THEY TALK TO EACH OTHER ACROSS THE WATER.

Age of Marine Signaling—How It Was Done Centuries Ago — Its Progress Through the Ages — The "Wig Wag" System—An International Code.

Marine signaling is at least 25 centuries old. Among the Greeks and Romans the polished surfaces of the shields were used as mirrors to reflect the sun light from one toireme to another. As they used no firearms there was no smoke to interfere, and the flashes of sunlight could be easily read. In this day it could not be done, for whole squadrons of warships are sometimes enveloped in smoke. However, smokeless powder may in a few years so alter conditions as to make some similar system possible in battle.

The use of firearms introduced a new mode of signaling only as regards signals of distress, and as a manner of saluting other nations. In actual battle the cannon are useless as signals, because each faction is firing indiscriminately, and the number of guns to be fired as signals lose their identity. Any foreign vessel of war entering a harbor of another country with which it is at peace hoists the flag of that country at the fore truck and fires a salute of 21 guns, which salute is returned with the same number of guns. A vessel in distress, if in daytime, fires a gun continuously until some answer is had from shore or some other vessel, if there is one in hearing distance.

The semaphore has been very successful for short distances. This is an oblong ball, about 2 feet in diameter, which is manipulated on a flagstaff or hoisted by a line. It is used almost exclusively on vessels acting in squadrons. If the flagship wishes to pass an order the balls are raised to certain elevations on the staff, which carry certain meanings. Suppose the order is "up anchor," hoist one ball at half mast, and let it remain until all the other vessels answer "all right," or, perhaps, one ball at the masthead and one half-mast might mean "up anchor," and so on three, four or five balls conld be manipulated in certain combinations to mean any general order in the tactics of field manœuvering. For short distances the semaphore is very successful and is also used among merchant vessels, as well as men of-war.

The principal signal for short distances is the "wig-wag," which is used, not for general maneuver, as the semaphore, but for any and all messages that have to be explained in detail. The "wig-wag" is made by a person standing erect with a small flag in each hand, which he waves in certain combination for certain letters. For instance, if both arms were held erect over the head and brought down in a circular motion to the side, each flag would describe a semicircle and a letter "o" would be described.

Hold the left flag out horizontally from the body and describe a semicircle with the right flag, then the right flag out and circle with the left, and so on, combining motions until every letter in the alphabet is represented by a motion. In all the navies of the world the small boys taken as apprentices are trained as signal boys, not only for the "wig-wag," but all other modes.

The flag system is the most universal and satisfactory of all codes, both nationally and internationally. The difference between the "wig-wag" and the flag system is the "wig-wag" represents the letters themselves, but the large flags represent not only words, bnt sentences. These are recorded in a book which every vessel has, and by referring to the number in the book that the flags represent, the message is interpreted. When large flags are used they are hoisted to the masthead by an ordinary halyard, to which the flags are fastened with the units flag of the desired number at the bottom, tens next, and so on. Long triangular shaped flags (pennants, properly called), of different colors and combinations of colors make the numbers. This is easy, as only nine digits are used (the zero being excluded), and one flag over another can give any number wanted. Each nation has its own combination of numbers, so that they can signal among themselves, while others can see and not understand.

Then there is an international code by which any two nations may communicate, inasmuch as figures are the same in all nations, and though they might not understand one word in common, they can interpret the flag numbers.

Every vessel that floats, whether merchantmen or man-of-war, has a number, which is recorded in the international list of vessels, which gives the name of the owner, master, or port or country, to which it belongs. Vessels passing at sea always exchange numbers as a salute, the same as we exchange salutations with persons on the street, whether strangers or friends. The flag of the country from which the vessel hails is hoisted astern, and if a merchantman meet a man-of-war at sea she dips her country's flag in honor to the other country, which, of course, is answered in a similar manner, and for the merchantman not to dip is an insult. Government vessels are always distinguished from other vessels by the long, narrow pennant flying from the mainmast.

There are many flag signals that everyone knows, and they are universal, even among savage tribes, as if these colors were ordained to represent certain things. They are the white flag of peace; the black flag, no mercy; red flag, danger; yellow flag, sickness. For a national flag to fly is to mean either a holiday or public prosperity, and that same flag at half-mast is to be in mourning; a furled banner trailing is a disgrace. There are other signals known internationally, as the national flag hoisted bottom side upward means distress, and for the flag to be tied in a knot means mutiny and sometimes treason.—Hartford Post.

WISDOM OF THE ELEPHANT.

He Knows When He Has Been Swindled, and Vigorously Resents It.

One day, says a writer of English military experiences, a heavy gun stuck in the muddy bottom of a stream and the tandem elephant was unhooked to shove behind, or lift the muzzle of the gun with his trunk. But he would not; he only bellowed and swayed uneasily, shifting from one foot to the other in the sticky mud. At last, with piteous, shrill trumpeting, he touched the sharp point of the iron right on the muzzle. "He says he is afraid of hurting himself, sahib," explained the mahout. "Well," answered the officer in jest, "tell him to spoke the wheel." "Promise him backsheesh, sahib, and he will." "Very well." The elephant carefully found a securer footing, curled his trunk round a lower spoke and made the wheel revolve; then the shaft elephant put in his ponderous weight and the gun slowly rose out of the mud and rolled up the opposite bank.

The triumphant mahout demanded backsheesh for his Hooshiar Hatti (wise elephant). "You scamp! You want the backsheesh for yourself." "No, Sahib, I dare not cheat him, and if you don't give him backsheesh he will remember you are no gentleman and will never work for you again." "All right," said the officer, tossing the man a couple of rupees in succession. "How shall I know you don't cheat him?" "Come and see him fed this evening, sahib."

That evening by moonlight the officer was summoned to see Hooshiar Hatti eat his supper. The elephant was swaying to and fro, fanning himself with a branch, and round the fire stood huge chupatties—flat cakes of flour, butter and sugar—purchased with the backsheesh for the Hooshiar's supper. The mahout took up one of these cakes and offered it to the "wise one," who weighed it carefully in his trunk and then deposited it, with a satisfied smack, in his raw-looking mouth. "Now, sahib, this second chupattie is light weight. See him find it out."

The elephants are accustomrd to a certain ration weight, and when the Hooshiar took this cake by the edge an angry twinkle came into his wicked little eye, and, quick as lightning, he slapped the mahout in the face with the leathery mass. "See, sahib," cried the man in glee, "I dare not cheat him!" And he picked himself up and offered a larger chuppattie. "Here you foolish one! Did I ever cheat you? This one is over weight." The elephant understood, and ate in forgiving tranquility.

A Pointer for Secretary Carlisle.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—The Post contains a letter from Ottawa, Ont., regarding the new currency scheme of Secretary of the Treasury Carlisle. The writer signs himself "Banker" and furnishes an interesting chapter of facts relating to the Canadian system of currency, dilating especially upon its mobility and value especially in seasons of contraction.

An Ottawa Member Resigns.

OTTAWA, Dec. 12.—An evening paper publishes a report to the effect that H. Robillard, M. P. for Ottawa, has resigned. Being interviewed Mr. Robillard admitted that he was to retire, as his health was not good, neither was he satisied with the manner of the Government's distribution of patronage. It is not likely, however, that he will retire before general elections.

EDITORS, CLERGYMEN, PHYSICIANS TESTIFY.

Men and Women in all Walks of Life Tell of the Remarkable Cures Wrought by South American Nervine Tonic.

SIX DOSES WILL CONVINCE THE MOST INCREDULOUS.

EDITOR COLWELL, OF PARIS, ONT., REVIEW.

Newspaper editors are almost as sceptical as the average physician on the subject of new remedies for sick people. Nothing short of a series of most remarkable and well authenticated cures will incline either an editor or a doctor to seriously consider the merits honestly claimed for a medicine.

Hundreds of testimonials of wonderful recoveries wrought with the Great South American Nervine Tonic were received from men and women all over the country before physicians began to prescribe this great remedy in chronic cases of dyspepsia, indigestion, nervous prostration, sick headache, and as a tonic for building up systems sapped of vitality through protracted spells of sickness.

During his experience of nearly a quarter of a century as a newspaper publisher in Paris, Ont., Editor Colwell, of The Paris Review, has published hundreds of columns of paid medicine advertisements, and, no doubt, printed many a gracefully-worded puff for his patrons as a matter of business, but in only a single instance, and that one warranted by his own personal experience, has he given a testimonial over his own signature. No other remedy ever offered the public has proved such a marvellous revelation to the most sceptical as the South American Nervine Tonic. It has never failed in its purpose, and it has cured when doctors and other medicines were tried in vain.

"I was prostrated with a particularly severe attack of 'La Grippe,'" says Mr. Colwell, "and could find no relief from the intense pains and distress of the malady. I suffered day and night. The doctors did not help me, and I tried a number of medicines, but without relief. About this time I was advised to try the South American Nervine Tonic. Its effects were instantaneous. The first dose I took relieved me. I improved rapidly and grew stronger every day. Your Nervine Tonic cured me in a single week."

The South American Nervine Tonic rebuilds the life forces by its direct action on the nerves and the nerve centres, and it is this notable feature which distinguishes it from every other remedy in existence. The most eminent medical authorities now concede that fully two-thirds of all the physical ailments of humanity arise from exhaustion of the nerve forces. The South American Nervine Tonic acting direct upon the nerve centres and nerve tissues instantaneously supplies them with the true nourishment required, and that is why its invigorating effects upon the whole system are always felt immediately. For all nervous diseases, for general debility arising from enfeebled vitality, and for stomach troubles of every variety no other remedy can possibly take its place.

THE CHRISTMAS WELL.

BY FRANK R. STOCKTON.

Early in my married life I bought a small country estate which my wife and I looked upon as a paradise. After enjoying its delights for a little more than a year our souls were saddened by the discovery that our Eden contained a serpent. This was an insufficient water supply.

It was quite natural that the scarcity of water for domestic purposes should affect my wife much more than it did me, and perceiving the discontent which was growing in her mind, the serpent came and whispered in her ear. Very soon afterwards she offered me an apple; I took it and ate thereof, and my eyes being thereby opened I determined to dig a well.

As this well was to be made entirely for the sake of my wife it should be called her well, it should really belong to her. Happy thought! I would make her a Christmas present of it! It was true that it was then early in the autumn, and the gift would be ready to present some time before the holiday season, but I knew my wife would not object to that. It would be such a rare gift! I did not believe that anybody ever before gave his wife a Christmas present of a well.

The very next day after I had eaten of the apple I began to look for a well-digger. Such an individual was not easy to find. In about a week I found a well-digger.

"And now then," said he, when we had had a little conversation about terms, "the first thing to do is to find out where there is water. Have you a peach tree on the place?" We walked to such a tree and he cut therefrom a forked twig.

"I thought," said I, "that divining rods were always of hazel wood."

"A peach twig will do quite as well," said he, and I have since found that he was right. Divining rods of peach will turn and find water quite as well as those of hazel or any other kind of wood.

He took an end of the twig in each hand, and with the point projecting in front of him, he slowly walked along over the grass in my little orchard. Presently the point of the twig seemed to bend itself downward towards the ground.

"There," said he, stopping; "you will find water here."

"I do not want a well here," said I; "this is at the bottom of a hill and my barnyard is at the top; besides, it is too far from the house."

"Very good," said he; "we will try somewhere else."

His rod turned at several other places, but I had objections to all of them.

He stood up and looked at me. "Well, sir," said he, "will you tell me where you would like to have a well?"

"Yes," said I. "I would like to have it over there in the corner of the hedge. It would be near enough to the house."

He took his divining rod and went to the spot I had indicated. "Is this the place?" he asked, wishing to be sure he understood me.

"Yes," I replied, and he put his twig in position and in a few seconds it turned in the direction of the ground. Then he drove down a stick, marked out a circle and the next day he came with two men and a derrick and began to dig my well.

My neighbors were all rural people, and intelligent in regard to water supplies. One of them, Phineas Colwell by name, took a more lively interest in my operations than did any one else. He was a man of about fifty years of age, who had been a soldier.

Phineas walked along our lane at least once a day, and whenever he saw me he told me something about the well. He did not approve of the place I had selected for it. If he had been digging a well he would have put it in a very different place.

About a quarter of a mile from my house, at a turn of the lane, lived Mrs. Betty Perch. She was a widow with about twelve children.

When Mrs. Perch had time she sewed for the neighbors, and whether she had time or not she was always ready to supply them with news. From the moment she heard I was going to dig a well she took a vital interest in it. Her own water supply was unsatisfactory, as she depended upon a little spring which sometimes dried up in summer, and should my well turn out to be a good one, she knew I would not object to her sending the children for pails of water on occasions.

My neighbors were generally pessimists. Country people are proverbially prudent, and pessimism is prudence.

But whatever else he may be, a pessimist is depressing, and it was, therefore, a great pleasure to me to have a friend who was an out and out optimist. In fact, he might be called a working optimist. He lived about six miles from my house, and had a hobby, which was natural phenomena. He was always on the lookout for that sort of thing, and when he found it he would study its nature and effect.

"I have the wildest desire," he said, "to know what is in the earth under our place, and if it should so happen in the course of time that the limits of earthly existence should be reached by—I mean if the estate should come into my hands—I would go down, down, down until I had found out all that could be discovered. To own a plug of earth four thousand miles long and only know what is on the surface of the upper end of it is unmanly. We might as well be grazing beasts."

He was sorry that I was digging only for water, because water is a very commonplace thing, but he was quite sure I would get it.

Having finished my well, I now set about getting the water into my residence nearby. I built a house over the well and put in it a little engine, and by means of a system of piper, like the arteries and veins of the human body, I proposed to distribute the water to the various desirable points in my house. The engine was the heart which should start the circulation, which should keep it going, which should send throbbing through every pipe, the water, which, if it were not our life, was very necessary to it.

When all was ready we started the engine, and in a very short time we discovered that something was wrong. For fifteen or twenty minutes water flowed into the tank at the top of the house with a sound that was grander in the ears of my wife and myself than the roar of Niagara, and then it stopped. Investigation proved that the flow had stopped because there was no more water in the well.

Phineas Colwell was not surprised at the outcome of the affair. He had said that the well had been put in the wrong place. Mrs. Betty was not only surprised, but disgusted.

"It is all very well for you," she said, "who could afford to buy water if it was necessary, but it is very different with the widow and the orphan. If I had not supposed you were going to have a real well, I would have had my spring cleaned out and deepened. I could have had it done in the early summer, but it is of no use now, the spring has dried up."

She told a neighbor that she believed the digging of my well had dried up her spring.

Of course, I did not submit to defeat—at least, without a struggle. I had a well, and if anything could be done to make that well supply me with water I was going to do it. I consulted specialists, and, after careful consideration of the matter, they agreed that the very best thing I could do would be to try a driven well. As I had already excavated about thirty feet, that was so much gain to me, and if I should have a six-inch pipe put into my present well, and then driven down and down until it came to a place where there was plenty of water, I would have all I wanted. My wife and I then considered the matter, and ultimately decided that we would have a well driven.

Of course, we were both very sorry that the work must be begun again, but I was especially dissatisfied, for now it would be impossible for me to make the well a Christmas present to my wife.

The weather was cold, there was already snow upon the ground, and I was told that work could not be carried on in winter weather. I lost no time, however, in making a contract with a well-driver, who assured me that as soon as the season should open, which might be very early in the spring, he would come to my place and begin to drive my well.

At last—it was early in the summer—he came with his derricks, a steam engine, a trip hammer and a lot of men. They took off the roof of my house, removed the engine and set to work.

For many a long day, and I am sorry to say, for many a longer night, that trip-hammer hammered and banged. On the next day after the night work began one of my neighbors came to me to know what they did that for. I told him they were anxious to get through.

"Get through what," said he "the earth? If they do that and your six-inch pipe comes out in a Chinaman's back yard he will sue you for damages."

When the pipe had been driven through the soft stratum under the old well, and began to reach firmer ground, the pounding and shaking of the earth became worse and worse. My wife was obliged to leave home with our child.

"If he is to do without both water and sleep," said she, "he cannot long survive." And I agreed with her.

She departed for a pleasant summer resort where her married sister with her child was staying, and from week to week I received very pleasant letters from her, telling me of the charms of the place and dwelling particularly upon the abundance of cool spring water with which the house was supplied.

ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES

No More Misery.

Gives Instant Relief.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affliction, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The principal symptoms are a severe itching, which is worst at night when the sufferer becomes warm in bed. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously during sleep scratches the parts until they are sore—bleed and ulcerate form, excessive moisture is exuded. Females are peculiarly affected from this disease, causing unbearable irritation and trouble. These and every other symptom of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the sores and ulcers, dry up the moisture.

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause from Itching Piles, yet its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same intolerable itching; the same creeping, crawling, stinging sensation characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees.
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,

They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home.
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life!
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

PROVINCIAL FAT STOCK SHOW.

The Entries This Year Larger Than Ever—The Sheep Breeders.

GUELPH, Dec. 12.—Yesterday was opening day of the Provincial fat stock show. The entries are larger than the previous year. It was thought when the present building was built for the double purpose of holding these stock shows and as a skating rink afterwards that it would be ample for all time, but yesterday it was full to the doors with the finest stock that Canada can produce. Breeders and stockmen from all over the Dominion are present.

A meeting of the Dominion Sheep Breeders' Association was held here in conjunction with the fat stock show. It was the largest meeting they ever had. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, John Jackson, Abingdon; Vice-President, Jas. Tolton, Walkerton; Secretary-Treasurer, F. W. Hodson, Guelph; Directors, J. C. Snell, John Kelly, A. Simenton, R. Gibson, H. Arkell, W. H. Beattie, Wilton Grover, John Gibson, J. T. Hector, W. Smith, J. J. Hobson; Auditors, A. Whitlaw and J. B. Spencer.

At the evening session the association was addressed by Mortimer Laversey, of Lafayette, Ind., and President Mills, of the O. A. C., Guelph.

London House-Breakers Sentenced.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 12.—Judge Edward Elliott presided at the final sitting of the December sessions at the court house yesterday. The sitting was held for the purpose of sentencing the two prisoners found guilty of house-breaking last week, Wm. Bean and Samuel Jackson. Bean is the young man who was found in the house of Louis Mount in McGillivary township about three weeks ago. Bean was discovered in a closet off Mrs. Mount's bedroom, and it came out in the prisoner's own story that he had made regular visits to Mrs. Mount's bed chamber with her consent for a period covering several months. Mr. McDiarmid of Lucan presented a petition signed by 800 of the most responsible and respectable people of McGillivary, Lucan and Parkhill, where the prisoner and his family are well known. His Lordship pronounced sentence of five years in the penitentiary upon Bean, and Jackson received three years. After being sentenced Jackson was taken before Judge William Elliott to be sentenced on the second conviction. He was given three years, the two sentences to run concurrently.

Big Blaze in Oshawa.

OSHAWA, Dec. 12.—Yesterday fire was discovered in the smelting room situated in the east end of the Ontario Malleable Works. A strong east wind was blowing which drove the flames up through the whole building and in a very short time the entire premises was in a mass of flames. The firemen were promptly at the scene, but on account of the tank at the works being nearly dry the engine had to be taken to Robson's and Lauchland's tannery, about a half mile away. The delay caused was fatal, and the whole of the premises were totally destroyed. The Ontario Malleable Iron works were the oldest and most important industry of its kind in Canada. It was built in the year 1872, and has been in active operation ever since that time. It gave employment to 300 men and paid out $100,000 annually for wages. The loss is estimated at $120,000, insured for $27,000.

Children's Aid Society for North Waterloo.

BERLIN, Ont., Dec. 12.—Mr. Kelso, superintendent of neglected and dependent children, addressed a large meeting in the Court House, Berlin, yesterday upon the subject of the formation of Children's Aid Societies and the matters relating to the working of the Children's Protection Act. The Rev. Mr. Atkinson was chairman and the attendance was large and influencial, there being present among others, Judges LaCourse and Chisholm and county officials, Mr. Robertson, M. P. P., Mr. Snider ex-M. P. P., a number of ministers and other leading men from all parts of the county. Mr. Kelso, in an address of upwards of an hour's duration, explained the object and working of the act very clearly to the satisfaction of those present. A resolution was passed approving of the adoption of the act and appointing a committee to form a children's aid society for North Waterloo.

THE BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE'S BIG RALLY.

devotional spirit may be cultivated, where the young Christian with his friends and companions around him may be developed into an active and intelligent worker in the cause of Christ; where he shall gain experience in speaking and praying in public; where he may lead the meetings and give that courage and confidence which is born by practice at meetings of this kind.

Would not the history of some churches show that there had not been in the past that opportunity for the young Christian to receive the training that would fit him for the higher duties and responsibilities which afterwards were thrust upon him and the Y.P. Societies was introduced to supply a longfelt need. The young man had been awakened, convicted of sin, and flees for refuge to the hope set before him in the Gospel. He follows the Lord in His ordinance of baptism and enters the church. He is most anxious in his love to show his devotion to Him who has redeemed by His shed blood. He finds the work going on; every place manned. There is nothing apparently for him to do, or nothing that he can do. There is no one who points out work which he may perform. We move heaven and earth to get the young man in the church and then, as a church, we neglect him afterwards. No one is ready to direct the young and enthusiastic mind into fields of usefulness where his enthusiasm and talent may be of great source, and where he may be so developed to take the place of those who are bearing the burden and heat of the day, and so the young become another addition to the great unused forces of the church.

You cannot usually at once make of the young Christians deacons, trustees, members of finance committees, &c., but they can, in the Y. P. Societies, be so trained in of Christian service, where too they have placed upon them the responsibilities and duties of the work among themselves that they may be fitted for the higher duties in days to come.

THE HABITS AND METHODS

The Young Pepie's Society should be the great training school of the church—training for evangelistic work and making them consecrated business men.

2nd. The Young People's Society, as a department of the church, should be the department for education and instruction. The parent is always interested in the education of the child, so the church should be, and should have this department for the purpose of giving proper instruction to these who have entered the family. Christ said "Go ye therefore and teach all nations baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you."

The young Christian needs teaching—boys and girls are sent to day school that they may be taught—how many books. To fit us to become masters in our daily work we should spend long years of close application.

So in our churches the Y. P. Society should be a school in which the young Christian may be educated—in the one text book which has been given to us—the Bible, so that in days to come we may have an army of trained soldiers, trained in the use of the sword of the Spirit, better than any Damascus blade—the word of the living God.

The great feature of the movement among the young Baptists has been education, instruction—education under two heads, (1) Bible study, (2) missionary knowledge. I believe the greatest object which the church should have in its work, beyond winning souls to the Lord Jesus Christ, should be the in Bible knowledge and their instruction in the great doctrines which we believe to be taught in this Book of Books.

ADVANCEMENT OF ITS MEMBERS

We exist as a separate denomination because we maintain some views of Bible teaching not held by others, and for which we feel loyalty to Christ requires us to stand. While we hold many truths in common with all the great evangelical denominations, yet we hold some views which are peculiarly our own, doctrines which we believe are taught in the Word of God and which we can never sacrifice or modify. Doctrines for maintaining, which our fathers have been imprisoned and suffered martyrdom—and we would be unworthy children if we did not dare at all times to maintain these views. We stand for regenerated church membership, holding that no person should join the church until converted. We hold that the responsibility of uniting with the church is upon the individual and therefore by no rite or promise shall any child be bound that will embarass his or her actions in after life. Our view excludes infant baptism, rejects sponsorship, repudiates priestly interference, protests against involuntary church membership, and leaves everyone, after being duly instructed in the Scriptures to decide for himself or herself, his or her duty to God. Our young people should know and understand these great truths. This Book of God should become an open book to them. There should be daily searching of the Scriptures, and our young people having the Word in their hearts and filled with the Holy Spirit, will be ready at all times to give an answer for the hope that is in them and there will be life in all the work of the church. Another relation, which the Y. P. Society should bear to the church is that it should be the Bible study department of the church. In this connection Rev. H. Johnston, in writing about our B. Y. P. U. convention, said:

"A MIGHTY ENTHUSIASM

has been kindled and the newly awakened energies must be directed into channels of abiding blessing; for something more than sentiment, gush, enthusiasm are required to build up the structure of a strong, influential, intelligent church. Now is the opportune time to press vigorously this educational wish. Let there be a well defined aim and a continuous advance in knowledge of the word of God and development of Christian character. "Do not the young people need intellectual development and doctrinal establishment as well as wise training in agressive Christian work? The conditions of our day demand not only an intelligent consecration, but a consecrated intelligence.

Again, the distinguished honour placed upon Anglo Saxon nations. As a denomination we have been greatly honoured in missionary work. A Baptist (the great Carey) led the way to the foreign mission field. In this latter part of the 19th century the church has awakened to the fact that the commission "Go ye" was for the disciples of to-day as well as those of 1800 years ago, and this Young People's department of the church for education and instruction should, in its course, study the mission fields and learn what work has been achieved in the past—the names of the honoured leaders—and ponder well over the map of the world to see how much yet remains to be done. From the ranks of our young people must come the ones who are to go with the Gospel message. Perhaps the call has come to some of those to whom I am now speaking. While the whole church should be interested in the study of missions, and every Christian whether young or old, should have the missionary spirit, yet it is peculiarly necessary that the local church should see that the work in this department of the work of the church—the Young People's department should become acquainted that has been done and the need of still greater and nobler work in the future.

Again, the Young People's Society. The individual member of the Young People's society should be loyal to the local church. This sentiment of loyalty cannot be too strongly emphasized when such strenuous efforts are being put forth to undermine the work of the Christian church. Satan is as busy as ever. We are all filled with love of country.

Men without inquiring cause of quarrel or entering into merits of the dispute will themselves into a quarrel for pure love of country. It is right that this strong sentiment of love for country should be firmly implanted in every bosom—and those who have not this love have been held up to contempt and scorn. You know how Sir Walter Scott says:

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself hath said:
This is my own, my native land."

Thus have the poets written of those who loved not their native land. What shall be said of the Christian who loves not the church of Jesus Christ, whose heart does not yearn within him for the services of the sanctuary and the fellowship of the saints.

Surely if love of country is implanted in the nature of man, much more should be found in the heart of the Christian redeemed—born again—the love for the church especially that church upon which His name is written.

To summarize and conclude, the Y. P. Society should be a department of the local church, subject to the church; its powers derived from the church, either by direct authority, or by tacit consent, and all administered in complete harmony with the plans and projects of the church, with its President or leader elected by themselves, but approved by the church. As a department of the church its meetings should be devotional in character, the great school for the young Christian, developing him for, and encouraging him in, work for the Lord Jesus Christ. It should as a department of the church be stimulative to Christian service, leading the young into active Christian work within and without the church. Its meetings along with the Sunday School, the educational meetings of the church, striving in systematic Christian knowledge and definite understanding of Baptist doctrine and history. It should be as a department of the church missionary in its work and in its plans, seeking the enlistment of the young people in all forms of missionary activity, around our own homes, in our own land, and through our denominational organization seek to aid in proclaiming the Gospel to all men, and study the great achievements of the past, viewing the needs of the present, and be diligent in sowing the seed of the Kingdom, and fighting the good fight of faith until the incorruptible crown be won.

TO EDIFY THE YOUNG PEOPLE

Rev. H. C. Priest then read an instructive address on "The Christian Culture Courses," explanatory of the courses and the reason of their adoption by the heads of the church, who were of the opinion that the younger members needed a higher education in Scriptural lessons.

The rally was brought to a close by devotional exercises and the delegates parted expressing their great appreciation of the various kindnesses which had been extended to them during their brief visit in Peterborough and hoping that another rally held on similar lines might take place in the near future.

Truskey Visited by His Father.

WINDSOR, Dec. 12.—Truskey broke down completely and cried like a child on Monday. Twenty years ago he had a quarrel with his father, Frank Truskey of Detroit, and this was the first time since that the two had met. "Some one to see you, Truskey," said Jailer Sparks. He looked up from his Bible and saw standing outside of the grated door a feeble old man. Slowly he walked towards the door, and when he reached it the two stood looking at each other. Without a word they clasped hands. Accustomed as officials are to sad scenes the one which followed was too much, and they walked out of hearing till the time was up and they led the old man away. This was the last time father and son will see each other.

Death of a Well-Known Theatrical Man.

TORONTO, Dec. 12.—Mr. W. W. Fowler, advance agent for the "Two Sisters Company," who are playing at the Toronto Opera house, died at the Rossin house yesterday. Mr. Fowler arrived in the city a week ago last Sunday. The following day he attended to his business and was about to leave town when he contracted a cold which developed into pneumonia, which was the ultimate cause of his death. The deceased was well known to the dramatic fraternity both in Canada and the United States. Mr. Fowler was formerly connected with the company that played "Skipped by the Light of the Moon" two years ago in Toronto. Deceased was born in Niles, Mich., and leaves a wife and three children.

The Curran Bridge Enquete.

MONTREAL, Dec. 12.—Some interesting evidence was given at yesterday's session of the enquete into the charges against Mr. St. Louis, the Curran bridge contractor. Mr. Shannon, accountant for the Public Works Department, Ottawa, produced a statement, showing the difference between the Government and Mr. St. Louis' pay lists. There were 2,980 more men on Mr. St. Louis' list than on the Government list for the Grand Trunk bridge and 1,236 more for the Wellington bridge. The statement was filed.

Accidentally Shot Dead.

KINGSTON, Dec. 12.—Nathan Sly, aged 16 years, was killed near Olden station by the accidental discharge of his gun. He in company with his father had been out hunting, and while returning home stopped to have a conversation with a neighboring farmer. Young Sly rested the butt of his double barrelled gun on a small stone holding the muzzle in his hand. The gun slipped from its resting place and fell with such force as to discharge both barrels, the contents entering his body and killing him.

SIR JOHN THOMPSON'S SUDDEN DEATH

The Premier Taken Off After Luncheon at Windsor Castle.

HE HAD JUST BEEN SWORN IN A PRIVY COUNCILLOR

He Went to the Castle in the Morning Apparently in Good Health, But Complaining of Feeling Unwell—Tragic Scene of His Death—How the News Was Received at the Capital—Lady Thompson's Presentiment—A State Funeral to be Held at the Capital—The Queen Deeply Affected at the News.

LONDON, Dec. 13.—Sir John Thompson, Premier of Canada, is dead. He expired suddenly, and heart disease is believed to be the cause of his death. The taking off of Canada's premier occurred at Windsor Castle. He had been, not long before death overtook him, sworn in as Privy Councillor of the Empire.

How the End Came.

Shortly after the oath was administered by her Majesty in person, the end came. The ceremony of swearing in took place in the presence of the Earl of Ripon and the members of the Court at Windsor.

Sir John had left London yesterday morning for her Majesty's residence at Windsor, and before leaving the city he had complained of feeling unwell, saying he had not slept well last night.

It is supposed the excitement of the ceremony through which he had passed so told on him that he broke down under the strain, for, after leaving the royal presence for the ministers' lunch room in the castle, he again renewed his complaint of the morning, that he was feeling unwell. Luncheon, he said, was out of the question; he could not eat anything, and asked to be excused from the table. His companions, including Lord Ripon, signified their sorrow at his state of health and Sir John was led by one of the royal attendants to the waiting room adjoining the ministers lunch room. There Sir John sat down on a couch and leaned forward upon his hands. He appeared to be in intense pain and his agitation was also great. Suddington station for half an hour before the special train started, and during that time he conversed in an animated manner with Lord Bredalbane, the Lord Steward of the Queen's household, and with Mr. Arnold.

In the party were Hon. Mr. Morley, the Postmaster-General, the Marquis of Ripon, the Colonial Secretary, Mr. Fowler, the Indian Secretary, and with Secretary Charles Lennox Peel, Clerk of the Privy Council. Up to the time the train started, Sir John Thompson had not showed any signs of fatigue or excitement. His appearance and manner did not give the slightest indication that he was suffering from any illness. His demeanor gave no sign that he was laboring under any unusual excitement. In short he was perhaps the last man in the assembly that would have been supposed to be the next to be summoned by the grim reaper death.

At the Colonial Institute.

That Sir John was far from being a well man was painfully apparent at the Colonial Institute on Tuesday night. In making his speech Sir John was forced to curtail it on account of what he termed "lack of strength." "I am," said Sir John, "unable to do justice to the theme of the Ottawa conference." However, he made an earnest appeal for Imperial sympathy towards the cable and fast line. When he was speaking the trembling of his hands and convulsive movements of his arms and limbs were plainly visible. During his speech his reception was most cordial.

THE LATE RIGHT HON. SIR JOHN S. D. THOMPSON.

denly the sick man rose partly from his couch, he appeared to grope in darkness, then he fell back in a swoon.

Death came with terrible swiftness. The attendant gave the alarm and the ministers at luncheon caught it up. There was a rush for the waiting room by the ministers. When the doctor, hastily summoned had reached the, side of the prostrate man, life had fled.

"Sir John Thompson is dead" was the intelligence that went forth from the place of death. The utmost surprise, dismay and horror prevailed and expressions of regret were general.

It was decided to keep the intelligence from her Majesty just then, as the Queen's health at present, owing to her increased lameness, is far from good.

When the physician emerged from the temporary death chamber he was not prepared to state the real cause of death, but expressed the opinion that it was due to heart disease, aggravated by recent ill-health, which Sir John had complained of and by the excitement of the ceremony of the swearing in.

The inquest to determine the exact cause of death will be held to-day under the regulations of the court regarding such events.

An Important Day in His Life.

The first message received from Windsor announcing Sir John's death was hardly credited, so startling was the intelligence conveyed.

He had left this city only a few hours before apparently in excellent health and sanguine spirits in company with the party of cabinet ministers, whose mission was to attend a meeting of the Privy Council at Windsor Castle.

Yesterday was an important day in Sir John Thompson's life, for at this very meeting of the Privy Council he was to be sworn in as a member of the Council. The party was to leave by special train at noon. The Canadian Premier was the first to arrive at Paddington railroad station, London, in order to accompany the cabinet ministers and members of the Privy Council on the special train bound for Windsor, where a meeting of the Privy Council was to be held at the castle.

Sir John waited on the platform of Paddington station for half an hour before the special train started, and during that time he conversed in an animated manner with Lord Bredalbane, the Lord Steward of the Queen's household, and with Mr. Arnold.

In the party were Hon. Mr. Morley, the Postmaster-General, the Marquis of Ripon, the Colonial Secretary, Mr. Fowler, the Indian Secretary, and with Secretary Charles Lennox Peel, Clerk of the Privy Council. Up to the time the train started, Sir John Thompson had not showed any signs of fatigue or excitement. His appearance and manner did not give the slightest indication that he was suffering from any illness. His demeanor gave no sign that he was laboring under any unusual excitement. In short he was perhaps the last man in the assembly that would have been supposed to be the next to be summoned by the grim reaper death.

At the Colonial Institute.

That Sir John was far from being a well man was painfully apparent at the Colonial Institute on Tuesday night. In making his speech Sir John was forced to curtail it on account of what he termed "lack of strength." "I am," said Sir John, "unable to do justice to the theme of the Ottawa conference." However, he made an earnest appeal for Imperial sympathy towards the cable and fast line. When he was speaking the trembling of his hands and convulsive movements of his arms and limbs were plainly visible. During his speech his reception was most cordial.

On account of the attack Sir John brought his speech to a rather abrupt end, but he followed the discussion that followed with full interest, laughing at the jokes and at Sir John Colomb's attempts to belittle the conference. Then Sir John prompted the following speakers in denying Colomb's charge that Hon. George Foster was guilty of a breach of faith in calling for cable tenders. Sir John Thompson had dined at the Institute before the meeting and at that time appeared to be in good health. He was also in good spirits, and joined cordially in the talk that was current. He greeted Lord Brassey, who had recently been in Canada, and his other friends cordially. He also joined the company at coffee after the meeting.

When Sir John Thompson returned here from Paris there was a desire on the part of his many friends to lionize the Canadian Premier. But Sir John's ill health was put forward by him as an excuse in refusing to take part in the many public and private ceremonies to which he was invited. He had, however, accepted one invitation to dine with Lady Brassey this week. Had Sir John Thompson lived he would have sailed for Canada on Wednesday next.

As may well be imagined the news of Sir John Thompson's death is creating a great sensation at the clubs. Several times already has been heard the question asked: "Will Sir Charles Tupper, the High Commissioner, succeed Sir John Thompson?" Sir Charles' ideas in this respect he gave a correspondent last week. Then the rumor came from Canada that Sir John was to retire from Canadian affairs, to be replaced by Sir Charles. "This rumor," said Sir Charles, "is pure fiction." He expressed the desire that he would rather not re-enter Canadian politics, and it is believed that it holds good to-day now that Sir John has been called from the field in such a sudden and sad manner.

The Queen Told of the News.

When finally it was decided to tell her Majesty of the death within her own castle of the Premier of her chief colony, the news was broken to her as gently as possible. She expressed herself as inexpressibly shocked and showed the deepest grief and concern. Her Majesty at once sent a cable message of condolence to Lady Thompson. She had given Sir John a most gracious welcome in the morning, and in acknowledging his presence referred to him as the successor of the late Sir John A. Macdonald, not only in office, but in the "loyal and courageous policy" of cementing the Canadian dominion closer to the empire.

All the morning papers print editorial comments on the death of the Premier which show the esteem in which he was held in Imperial circles.

Sir John Thompson's body was conveyed last evening to the West End Grand Hall near the the state entrance to the Castle. A bier has been erected there and the body will lie on it until removal for burial.

AT THE CAPITAL.

How the News Was Received by Sir John's Associates.

OTTAWA, Dec. 13.—Consternation reigns at Canada's Capital at the startling news that has flashed over the wires that Sir John Thompson is dead. When it was received at the telegraph office Mr. Smithson, accountant of the statistical branch, who was a devoted follower of the late Premier, staggered into the room of his chief with face ashy pale and with the interrogation if he had heard the news on his lips. Proceeding to the Post-office Department to read the bulletin the writer saw an anxious scurrying of civil servants through the corridors with a strained questioning on each face. Proceeding to the east block, the same scene was witnessed. Here in one group was Mr. Pope, of the Privy Council Department, author of "The Life of Sir John Macdonald," and several other civil servants gathered in the office of Mr. Douglas Stewart, the late Prime Minister's secretary. Mr. Stewart was the most collected man who had heard the rumor and he strongly expressed his disbelief of its truth. Going up stairs to the office of the Hon. Mr. Ives, President of the Privy Council, the Minister was found alone in his office pacing up and down the floor, an air of sadness in his whole demeanor.

"Do you believe this report?" Mr. Ives was asked.

"I am afraid it's true," he replied, "it's dreadful. Yes, the departments will be closed in mourning for Sir John the minute we get official information. I think Mr. Costigan has notified Mr. Haggart and the other ministers in the west."

When Hon. Mr. Bowell received a despatch from Sir Charles Tupper confirming the sad news he instructed his secretary to instruct Mr. Magee to call a meeting of Council at three o'clock. This calls forcibly to mind the fact that the Governor-General is without an advisor and the Cabinet is dissolved. The Government is not necessarily dissolved, for the Governor-General will at once call upon some of the ministers to form a cabinet, and it is thought that Mr. Bowell will be the one chosen and that he will lead the Government at the next meeting of Parliament as Prime Minister. It would be almost impossible for him to go to the country as soon as chosen by the Governor-General owing to the incomplete state of the new voters' lists which must be used at the next election.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell received last night a telegram from Lord Aberdeen enclosing one from Lord Rosebery, offering the Government his condolence at the loss of the Premier and extending his sympathy to the family. A telegram was also received from Lord Ripon, the Colonial Secretary, narrating the particulars of Sir John Thompson's death and extending to the Government his sympathy.

Lady Thompson was also in receipt of a batch of cablegrams and telegrams from all parts of Europe and this continent, extending their sympathy to her and her family in their sad bereavement. Among them was one from her Majesty the Queen, dated from Windsor Castle, and signed "Victoria." It expressed her Majesty's deep sympathy with Lady Thompson under her sad affliction.

Will Hold a State Funeral.

The Government has decided to have a state funeral at Ottawa and Sir Charles Tupper was cabled to send the remains here via New York. The remains will be interred in the family burying ground at Halifax.

The Cause of the Premier's Death.

Dr. H. P. Wright, who was one of the late Premier's physicians, stated that the only organic trouble he suffered from was a form of Bright's disease. He had probably been suffering from it all summer, but as there was no special pain or other suffering associated with the trouble the Premier did not complain until the fall. The disease of the kidneys was then discovered. In September Doctors Wright, Grant (St. James) and Roddick of Montreal held a consultation and advised the Premier to rest. It was thought a visit to the old country would probably benefit him, inasmuch as the travel and change would be a rest to his mind.

The Ministers' Tour Cut Short.

LISTOWEL, Ont., Dec. 13.—At 12 o'clock yesterday as the Hon. J. C. Patterson, Hon. John Haggart, Dr. Montague and other speakers for the meeting advertised had just arrived at the station. Mr. H. B. Morphy handed the Hon. Mr. Patterson a telegram making the startling announcement of Sir John Thompson's death. Mr. Patterson read the message aloud to the bystanders. It was signed by W. F. McLean and read; "Sir John Thompson reported died at Windsor Castle to-day; report confirmed." The ministers and other speakers at once boarded the train and left for Ottawa. It was the first word they had heard of a change in the political horizon of a close importance to themselves. They had left Wingham before the cable would be received from England and to them as to all the country the death of the Premier in the prime of his life and while apparently enjoying almost rugged health came as a heavy shock. On this account no meeting of any kind was held in the hall at night or until further announcements are made.

Ontario's Capital in Mourning.

TORONTO, Dec. 13.—Consternation is the only word that describes the feeling in the city when the first rumors of Sir John's death spread around town. Men gathered in knots and excitedly discussed the situation. Flags were immediately placed at half mast on all public buildings, while throughout the afternoon the bells tolled out the sad news. A great many opinions have been expressed, all pointing to the loss the country has sustained by the death of such an able statesman.

"It is a startling and unfortunate occurrence," said the Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education. "He was certainly the strongest man in the House of Commons. It is a great loss to the Conservative party throughout the Dominion. It will not affect the Ontario party, however. Personally he was friendly to all the members of the Ontario cabinet."

Much speculation is rife as to the probable successor of Sir John. Among the names mentioned by knowing ones in the city those of Sir Charles Tupper, sen., and Hon. Mackenzie Bowell stand prominent. Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper and Hon. George E. Foster are also considered to stand a good chance of the premiership.

At the Quebec Capital.

MONTREAL, Dec. 13.—The news of Sir John Thompson's death intensely shocked the people of Montreal. It shook the city to its centre. It ran over the telephone wires to the farthest suburbs, it was canvassed sorrowfully and solemnly in counting house and boudoir. As soon as the news was received in the city, it was conveyed to the residence of the Governor-General on Sherbrooke street. Shortly afterwards a press representative called upon Lord Aberdeen for an expression of opinion.

"Naturally I am terribly shocked at the news," said His Excellency. "Not only because of the position which the late Sir John Thompson held as Prime Minister, but also because we were personal friends."

As a result of the calamity their Excellencies have decided to postpone all immediate social engagements.

Hon. Mr. Laurier is in the city, and when he received the news of the Premier's death he expressed much grief and sympathy. Although astounded at first, he remarked later on that the constitution of Sir John always led him to believe that apoplexy or some similar attack would cause his sudden death.

Lady Thompson seems to have felt instinctively on Tuesday that something was wrong with her husband, and confided this much to Mrs. Ouimet, wife of the Minister of Public Works. Mrs. Ouimet laughed at her fears, which seem to have been only too well justified.

AMERICAN POLITICS.

Congressman Wilson Does Not Want a More Routine Session.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Mr. Wilson (W. Va.) does not believe the present session should be a routine one, but that the chances of retrieving Democratic supremacy depends on a full and solid record of reform legislation. "To do little or nothing," he said to a United Press representative, "except pass the appropriation bills and the lean list of measures said to have been agreed on by some of our party leaders would justify the charge that the Democratic party is incapable of affirmative and coherent politics.

"A bad party the country may tolerate for a while, and even vicious legislation, as the career of the Republican party abundantly shows, but an impotent party everybody dismisses with ridicule and contempt. The country and the Democratic party have a right to vote on the separate tariff bills sent to the Senate dealing with coal, iron ore, sugar, free alcohol and barbed wire, and there are some amendments to the administrative parts of the tariff bill suggested by the treasury department that call for action."

Mr. Wilson, who at the time he spoke had not heard of the Senate's action on Mr. Gray's motion, expressed a strong opinion that the Senate substitute on sugar especially ought to pass. He also advocated the passage of a good banking bill.

THE ARMENIAN QUESTION.

Progress of the Commission to the Scene Blocked by Snow.

LONDON, Dec. 13.—The Odessa correspondent of the Daily News says: "Several Russian journals urge that the only satisfactory treatment of Armenia will be to detach it from Turkish rule and make it autonomous under the united protection of the signatory powers of the Berlin treaty. They say that Russia would make short work of the Kurds, who are a horde of human wolves and ought to be exterminated or reduced to absolute subjection."

The Standard's Constantinople correspondent says that the commission appointed to inquire into the Armenian outrages have reached Erzinghian, where they met Zekki Pasha. It is doubtful whether they will proceed much further, as the roads are blocked with snow. The correspondent adds: "Probably months will elapse before the report will be made."

The Journal of St. Petersburg publishes a communication from the Porte, absolutely denying that any unarmed persons were killed in Armenia. On the contrary, it is said the utmost kindness was shown the revolutionists. It is believed in St. Petersburg that the Armenian complaints have been much exaggerated.

Sad Intelligence.

Mrs. W. J. Green, Stewart street, received a telegram Sunday morning conveying the sad intelligence of the death of her mother, Mrs. Thomas Green, formerly of Peterborough, at Lethbridge, N.W.T. The cause of death is ascribed to the effects of an attack of la grippe from which Mrs. Green has been suffering for the past week.

Labor-Saving Device.

A New York woman is said to have invented a darning machine, a miniature loom, which will darn any hole 2¼ x 5 inches or less, and do it so neatly that no rough edges will remain. To offset this a Peterborough woman has discovered how to save the expense of the machine and the trouble of darning. She throws away her old stockings and buys new ones All wool at three pairs for a quarter, or cashmere at 15 cents. Gough Bros. sell them.

Daily Examiner.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1894.

THE Toronto Star submits that it would be better if the municipal elections were held the first week in December and the whole campaign got out of the way before the holiday season begins. Then the new Council could go into office with the new year. It argues that the height of the municipal campaign and the height of the holiday season come together. The merchant's busiest part of the year is the month or six weeks during which the municipal election season is in full swing. The result is that the merchants and all their employees must either neglect business, neglect civic matters, or divide their attention between the two, in which case justice is done to neither.

THE DOMINION SITUATION.

D'Alton McCarthy Sizes it Up—He Says the Big Deficit Makes Ministers Afraid to Meet the Country.

In the course of his speech at Georgetown Monday night, D'Alton McCarthy said that it was as clear as the sun at noon-day that there would be no further meeting of Parliament until the people are called upon to send a new set of representatives there.

He ascribed as a reason for this that there would be a deficit of $5,000,000 by the end of the fiscal year, and the ministers feared and dreaded this condition. The only hope of the ministry was to go to the country before the blue books should be published in July.

FIGURES THAT TALK.

The Ministers, who are now touring the country, had said that Canada was prosperous. Against that statement Mr. McCarthy placed the railway earnings. These showed that the C. P. R. had earned over two millions less in 1894 than in 1893, while the G. T. R. earnings had fallen over two and a quarter millions. There had been a falling off of about two million dollars in customs and internal revenue also. And yet the Ministers said the country was prosperous.

Replying to Senator Ferguson's statement that the farmers are better off to-day than they were twenty years ago, Mr. McCarthy challenges the correctness of that statement. Not going back twenty years ago, but for ten only, the records of Ontario showed that in this Province prices have fallen per bushel as follows:

	1894	1884	Per Cent.
Wheat	$ 55	$ 80	31
Barley	38	53	24
Oats	28	33	15
Rye	45	59	24
Peas	50	64	22
Hay, per ton	7 50	9 50
Potatoes	35	40

AN ENORMOUS DECLINE.

The figures he had quoted were for cereals alone, the average value of which for the past ten years was $115,000,000. Without taking into account horses and cattle, the fall in the value of which was not less than in the other, the fall came to the enormous sum in this Province alone of no less than $22,000,000. Did they wonder that times were hard when the reduction in the annual value of the farmer's produce was not 15 but 19 per cent. in ten years?

It was stated that carpets, clothes and all the goods the farmer used, had come down in price also. True, but he wished to point out that the price would have been further down had free trade been in operation.

Of the farmer's outlay Mr. McCarthy next treated. He had to pay the taxes of the Government, and those taxes amounted to $5 per head. It required a great deal more wheat to meet that than it did ten years ago.

ONLY COTTON LORDS AND SUGAR KINGS.

The hired man had to be paid in cash, and where it took thirty bushels of wheat to pay him in 1884 it took 45 now. (Applause.) The interest on the mortgage, too—God forbid that they should have one, but even Halton had some mortages—had to be paid in cash, and where it took 125 bushels to pay the interest on a mortgage in 1884 it now takes 181 to realize enough to pay the same amount.

And what, inquired Mr. McCarthy, had the people to show for the National Policy? They had cotton lords, and sugar kings, and woollen princes. (Laughter.) Where had their fortunes come out of? The people of Canada. You could build up industries. The country had succeeded in building them. But where did the money come from? Canada was not exporting manufactured goods, and if the manufacturers were prosperous it was at the expense of the Canadian people—the farmers.

Apsley cheese factory people are winding up their business after a very successful season's operations. They shipped a few lots to the Imperial Produce Co., Toronto. The following paragraph is copied from a letter received by Mr. Hales from the Company: "Our Inspector reports your cheese as some of the best that we have received this year and next yeor we will be very pleased to enter into some arrangement with you to take them regularly, providing you retain the same maker." We believe Mr. Wilson intends keeping the same maker as long as possible.

Affairs in Samoa.

VICTORIA, B.C., Dec. 13.—The steamer Warimoo, which arrived here from Australian ports, brings word that no further disturbances have occurred in Samoa, although the whole country is in a state of intense quietude, which many believe to be the lull before the storm. When the steamer left Sydney there were being reports of violent volcanic disturbances in the New Hebrides by which villages were threatened. The chief political talk in the Southern Sea colonies concerns an important colonial conference to discuss the question of federation. The conference has been arranged for by Premier Reid, of New South Wales, and will be held at Hobart early in January.

Marriage of Prince Adolphus.

CHESTER, Eng., Dec. 13.—In the private chapel of Eaton Hall, Prince Adolphus of Teck, brother of the Duchess of York, was married yesterday to Lady Margaret Grosvenor, third daughter of the Duke of Westminister, said to be the richest man in England. The wedding is regarded as the great social event of the year, and Eaton Hall, where the ceremony took place, is the most splendid of all the stately homes of England. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. A. Robins, Vicar of Eccleston, Chester; the Rev. Canon Morris, chaplain of the Duke of Westminster; and the Hon. Andrew E. Carr-Glynn, whose wife, Lady Mary Carr-Glynn, is the first cousin of the bride.

Sentenced to the Central.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 13.—Edward Sholdice, the McGillivray youth, whose name became familiar in connection with the Exeter robbery, was arraigned before Judge Wm. Elliot yesterday for sentence on another charge. It was that of breaking into Brown's store in Clandeboye and stealing three pairs of shoes, to which he pleaded guilty and was sentenced to one year in the Central prison. Sholdice, however, will be brought to London in June next to stand trial with his brother Wells and John Hodgins on the Exeter robbery case.

The Murder of Catherine Ging.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 13.—Evidence is now well in hand to the effect that Harry Hayward was the local member of an insurance gang whose operations extended over the country. Enough has been learned however to warrant the statement that the police are looking for at least three others who are wanted in connection with the murder of Catherine Ging. The insurance on Miss Ging's life is now said to have been $25,000, instead of $10,000.

Severe Storm in Georgia.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 13.—An electrical storm prevailed over a large section of Georgia yesterday. In some sections the storm was accompanied by a destructive cyclone, which moved in a general direction from south to north. At Reynolds, in Taylor county, three houses with household effects, are total wrecks. Eighteen or twenty houses are partially destroyed. A number of persons were injured, but none fatally.

BUCHANAN'S CASE.

Why One Man Wished he Had the Gift of Public Oratory.

LEAMINGTON, Dec. 13.—Sharman, Buchanan, a farmer near here, was reading a paper in the post office this morning when his eye caught the paragraph referring to the case of Hezekiah Vaughan which I telegraphed you. "His case was as nothing to mine," said Buchanan. "I had been a sufferer from kidney trouble for years. My back pained me and I could not get any better. The doctors told me I had lumbago, but their treatment did not benefit and I became satisfied that my kidneys were the source of trouble. I was advised to give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial, I did so, and look at me now. I wish I was a public speaker so that I could hire a hall and tell the people of the benefits of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

BAILLIEBORO.

Blithe Bridal Bells.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

On Wednesday evening, Dec. 5th, a large number assembled at the residence of Mr. Thos. Soden, on the occasion of the marriage of his youngest daughter Maggie, to Mr. Robert Falls, a very respectable young farmer of this vicinity. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. S. McKee, of the Methodist church, in which Miss Soden has for some time been organist

Mr. Walter McElroy and Miss Clara Kennedy, both of Bewedly, did the work of groomsman and bridesmaid respectively. The bride was beautifully attired, and this added to her natural beauty of form and feature, of conduct and character, forced the query from many lips, "Isn't the bride nice?" The congratulations were very earnest, and I am sure all in this locality wish them a long and happy life. The following is a list of the numerous presents:

Mr and Mrs J Dawson, pair of pictures; Mr and Mrs David Moncrieff, picture; Miss Mabel Dawson, picture; Mr J Falls, picture; Mr and Mrs T Hutchison, picture; Mr Walter McElroy, pickle cruet; Mrs S Garnor, pickle cruet, Miss Eva Jewison, pickle cruet; Mr and Mrs Whittington, dinner cruet; Miss Maddie Kerr, breakfast cruet; Miss Maud Henry, water set; Mr and Mrs Falls, water set; Percy Rutherford, decanter and glasses; Mr and Mrs Lord, clock; Jas Falls, carving knife, and fork and steel; Mr and Mrs Wilbur Barnard, pair of lace curtains; Mr R Falls (groom), pair lace curtains; Mr and Mrs Falls (groom's father and mother) set of china dishes; Mr Box, tea set of stone china; Mrs Ruch, chamber set; Mr Stevens, pair of vases; Mr. Charles Perrin, linen table cloth; Miss Maude McLung, linen table cloth; Miss Winnie Herriott, table cloth and pair of towels; Mrs Jno Jewison, coloured table cloth; Mr and Mrs Geo Dawson, cake dish a cushion; Mrs McLung, silver forks; Mrs M Dawson, silver spoon and bread board; Mr Clarence Dawson, set of flat irons; Master Reggie Perrin, vase; Mr and Mrs Jos Fisher, parlour lamp; Mr and Mrs Jos Kennedy, parlour lamp; Mr and Mrs Harry Dawson, parlour lamp; Mr Hammie Gainor, parlour lamp; Mr J D Perrin, comforter; Mr and Mrs T Webster, six goblets and fancy cup and saucer; Miss Maggie Wood, fancy cup and saucer; Miss Minnie Dawson, preserve dish; Mr and Mrs Geo Fall, pair of blankets; Mr and Mrs Doupe, butter dish; Miss Clara Kennedy, water pitcher.

Quite an event was the "at home" given by the Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian church, at the home of the minister, the Rev. D. McClelland, in aid of the new manse fund. From near and far they came until the hospitable roof swarmed with youth, beauty, middle life, and old age. Quite an interesting evening was spent, consisting of games of all kinds, vocal and instrumental music, readings and the most delicious supper, after which they all wended their way home, feeling that a happy evening had been spent.

NORWOOD NEWS NOTES.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Mr. George Carveth and daughter, Miss Essie of Hall's Glen, are visiting at the home of Mr. W. Hunter.

The Model School examinations are being held this week, the County Board of examiners—Messrs. Davidson Evans and Brown—being in charge.

The last meeting of the Model School Literary Society was held Friday afternoon last. A mock trial, a breach of promise case, was arranged, and well carried out by the members.

Don't forget the Modelites' final concert on Friday evening next. A fine programme has been prepared by the students and local talent.

The oyster supper tendered by Norwood Lodge, I. O. G. T., to their friends was a very pleasant affair. There was a large number present. All immediately began to enjoy themselves in social talk, games or other amusements. The Norwood orchestra discoursed sweet music. Songs were ably sung by Miss Roxburgh and Mr. Cress, while Mrs. S. S. Weaver and Miss Harper delighted the assembly with their elocution. Short addresses were delivered by Thos. Blezard, Esq., M. P. P., and Rev. J. F. Somerville. Mr. W. A. F. Campbell gave a number of statistics showing the progress of the order. About 10.30 o'clock all adjourned to the supper room, were oysters and other delicacies were served. A large number enjoyed a social hop before leaving. A very pleasant evening was spent by all.

It's Astonishing

how Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription acts upon nervous women. It's a marvelous remedy for nervous and general debility, Chorea, or St. Vitus's Dance, Insomnia, or inability to sleep, spasms, convulsions, or "fits," and every like disorder.

Even in cases of insanity resulting from functional derangements, the persistent use of the "Prescription" will, by restoring the natural functions, generally effect a cure.

For women suffering from any chronic "female complaint" or weakness; for women who are run-down or overworked; at the change from girlhood to womanhood; and, later, at the critical "change of life"—it is a medicine that safely and certainly builds up, strengthens, regulates and cures.

If it doesn't, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

GOODRIDGE STEPS OUT

Newfoundland's Government Decides to Submit to the Inevitable.

FINANCIAL CRISIS SUBSIDES

A Run on the Savings Banks Averted by the Prompt Action of the Whitewayites—An Attempt to Form a Coalition Government Proves Unsuccessful.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Dec. 13.—The Governor sent for Goodridge Ministry yesterday and requested them to resign. They asked for time to consider, and at two o'clock tendered their resignation. Greene, Q. C., leader in Assembly, will probably form a temporary Ministry till Whiteway obtains a seat in the Assembly or Legislative Council. Whiteway says he will restore to the Government commercial credit if not impeded by the Morine faction.

Excitement over the bank failures continues, but the city is quiet. A run on the savings bank was averted by Whiteway, Bond, Emerson, Morris, Harvey and other depositors, who addressed the people at the savings bank doors, assuring them that everything would be all right. Harvey offered to give all necessary provisions, meanwhile, to the people having savings in the bank. The crowd dispersed satisfied with the assurances of Whiteway.

The Imperial Government has wired offering substantial assistance. The inquiry proceeding into the Commercial Bank affairs discloses most fraudulent dealings. Four mercantile directors have overdrawn accounts to the extent of $1,800,000, while the capital stock of the bank is only $30,600. The Evening Telegram, commenting, says these are the men who filed election petitions against the Whitewayites on the excuse that they wanted a clean government.

Before the members of the Goodridge government resigned their portfolios an effort was made by them to form an amalgamation with the party led by ex-Premier Sir William Whiteway, but a unanimous consent to such an arrangement could not be obtained, and as a result the ministers have laid down their offices. It is expected that a government composed of Whitewayites will be selected to-day.

ATTEMPT AT TRAIN-WRECKING.

Three Tramps Under Arrest Charged With the Crime.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 13.—A dastardly attempt was made last evening to ditch the G. T. R. mail train due here at 7.25 p.m. about midway between here and Merritton by placing three ties across the rails and one lengthways. When the engine struck the obstruction the pilot shoved the top tie off into the ditch. The other two were wedged underneath the pilot and slid along the rails. Engineer Phemister applied the air brake and stopped the train.

The matter upon arrival here was reported to the Ontario police, who learned that three tramps who had applied at a farmhouse near the track for a night's lodging and were refused walked down the track towards Merritton and are supposed to be the miscreants.

The three tramps were arrested at Merritton by Chief Constable Olsen, of that place.

The Provincial Fat Stock Show.

GUELPH, Dec. 13.—The fat stock show is in full blast. The Ontario Agricultural College herds are not exhibited this year, as there is no room for them. In cattle Durhams predominate. The sheep exhibit is said to surpass the famous Chicago fat stock show in its best day. In extent and quality it is the best ever got together at a fat stock show on this continent. The swine exhibit is ahead of any previous year, all breeds being well represented. There are seventeen entries for the special prize given by the Ingersoll Packing Co. for the best pair of pigs for the export trade. There are ninety-five entries in dressed poultry, quite a number from a distance, and the display is greatly admired.

Murderer Truskey's Last Hours.

WINDSOR, Dec. 13.—Barney Truskey of Detroit called at Sandwich jail and had a short interview with his brother, Joseph Truskey, the condemned. Barney was accompanied to the jail by Ald. Gerecke of Detroit and Frank Rumpa. The latter is an old chum of Joseph Truskey. Truskey seemed most pleased to meet his former chum, Rumpa, and talked with him after the others had left. "No man has power to save me now," he said to Rumpa, "and I put my trust in God and wait for the end. I want to see my wife and boy again, and I hope they will be here to-morrow." The prisoner is well provided in his last hours with books and other reading matter besides his Bible, and is permitted to move at will about his ward.

Fifteen Dollars For Ten.

Nothing astonishing about this when you learn the facts about it at Gough Bros. All their fine black worsted suits and double breasted Cheviot suits, made up for finest gentlemen's wear, bought from a tottering manufacturer who could not resist our cash offer, we have decided to sell at $10—although $15 is the true value of them. This offer of fifteen dollars for ten stands good only until January 1st, 1895, at Gough Bros., but nowhere else, and for no longer a date. dw

We Don't Talk Much

About our prices, nor are we often found quoting extravagantly —so that what we DO say now, may be taken as BONA-FIDE.

We will, for the balance of the season, offer the remainder of our new selections of

LADIES' and CHILDREN'S MANTLES and ULSTERS

At prices that should make a complete clearance before New Years. Every garment is of this season's newest and latest design, and has only left the makers' hands a few months.

As we do not purpose to carry over a single Mantle or Ulster, buyers can rest assured that no obstacle will be put in the way of letting them go at a BARGAIN.

OUR MANTLE CLOTHS and SEALETTES . . . . .

Will, of coure, have to share the same fate, for the same reason. The pick of our High-Class Stock of any of these Cloths at any of the reduced prices we now offer will be

A SNAP FOR ANY BUYER

who is a judge of the goods.

ALL TRIMMED MILLINERY

Must also come in for a SWEEPING REDUCTION to clear the way for more seasonable goods. One-half former prices will be the tariff that will prevail, and no exceptions or deviations will be made on any of the beautiful class of goods now remaining.

WINTER DRESS GOODS

Of every kind have all been re-examined and re-marked, with Reduced Price Tickets. The former value of these high-class goods have been fully recognized and appreciated by customers, but the reduced prices will enhance their value at least 25 per cent.

WOOL and KNITTED SHAWLS

Still very seasonable, and so much worn, will be dropped in price to ensure a speedy sale at this season of the year.

Inspection invited. No trouble to show goods, and no obligation to buy. What we want is lookers as well at buyers. We don't talk much about prices, but when we say they're down--THEY'RE DOWN.

NEWS NUGGETS

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—No arrests.

—Street and Bridge Committee meets to-night.

—Catch a cold now and you'll carry it until spring.

—The council meets in committee of the whole to-night.

—Social functions are now of almost nightly occurrence in the town.

—The shopkeepers are increasing their staffs for the Christmas trade.

—A meeting of the Charity Committe of the town council is called for this evening.

—Shopkeepers are taking advantage of the thaw to give their windows a final cleaning before the frosts of winter set in.

—The recent rain was a boon indeed to the farmers. Without it half the wells in the district would have been dry before New Year's.

—An order was made by Mr. Justice Osler, on Tuesday, allowing the petitioner to withdraw the East Peterborough Provincial election petition.

—A large attendance of the members of Peterborough Lodge, I.O.O.F., is requested for this evening. Degrees will be conferred on several Havelock members of the order.

—The flags on the post office, Custom House, and school buildings are at half mast for Sir John Thompson. Hall, Gilchrist & Company's flag is also hung at half mast.

—In almost every department of industry women are coming to the front. Even in the profession of murder they have recently been proving their superiority over the so-called stronger sex.

—Two diphtheritic patients from Millbrook have been admitted to the Nicholls' Hospital this week, and in both cases anti-toxine has been used with success, improvement being noticeably apparent.

—Yesterday's market was very poorly attended by the farmers, and if more poultry and farm produce is not brought in on Saturday, prices will be high. An improvement in the weather and roads is what is needed just now.

—You can spend a delightful hour in looking at our beautiful Christmas cards, booklets, and birthday cards, the choicest and most artistic stock ever presented for your inpection. We invite you to come as soon as you can. A. H. STRATTON & Co.

Dear God,—The baby you brought us
Is awful nice and sweet,
But 'course you fordot his toofies,
The poor little thing can't eat;
That's why I'm writing this letter
A purpose to let you know,
Please come and finish the baby,
That's all. From Little Flo.

—Anniversary services will be held in the George street Methodist church, on Sunday, Dec. 23rd. Rev. George Webber, of Toronto, will be present and deliver sermons, both morning and evening. In connection with the services Mr. Webber will deliver a lecture on Martin Luther.

If you wish to be informed on all pertaining to the most commendable efforts which are being made to rescue children from parents or guardians who are likely to have an evil influence on their lives, be sure to attend the address on that subject by Rev. J. E. Starr, in the opera house to-night.

—Mr. Sid. Beckett, late of the Jubilee Point summer resort, Rice Lake, mourns the loss of a canine ward, in the way of a valuable Newfoundland dog, given him by American friends remaining at the house throughout the season, with the expectation of seeing the same as soon as they returned for the next season's outing. Mr. Beckett has already spotted the culprit and waits further developments from the owners who are at present in Rochester, N. Y.

Charity Entertainment.

An entertainment will be given in St. John's school house on Tuesday evening, the 18th Dec., in aid of a deserving local charity. Readings, music—vocal and instrumental, as well as a very amusing drawing room comedy, entitled "My Turn Next," will be presented during the evening. Tickets 25c.

Holiday Decorations.

Decorate for Christmas and New Years Decorate your homes, churches, halls schools, ball-rooms and hotels. I am prepared to ornament and decorate in an artistic manner with the newest and best effects and at bottom prices. Flags, bunting, &c., supplied. ALF. THE TREASURER OF ASPHODEL ROBBED LAST NIGHT.

Over $5.0 Stolen From His Premises While he had his Back Turned.

(Special to the Examiner.)

NORWOOD, Ont., Dec. 12th.—A daring robbery occurred this morning at Westwood, Ont., when Wm. Sharpe, treasurer of the Township of Asphodel, was robbed of money and cheques to the amount of $300—two hundred and twenty-five dollars of this was cash, and the balance cheques for cheese money.

Mr. Sharpe sleeps down stairs in the front of the house, and had his money under his pillow. He arose early and after doing some little work at the rear of the house, and eating his breakfast, came back to find that his money had been taken.

No suspicious looking strangers had been seen around, so that it looks as if some one well acquainted with the place committed the robbery.

HOW THE TOWN REVENUE COULD BE MATERIALLY INCREASED.

Citizens Should Insist o Having Market Produce Weighed.

Inspector of Weights and Measures, Mr. Wm. Johnston, of Belleville, was in town to-day, prosecuting certain purveyors of market produce whose weighing machines he was anxious to inspect, but who refused to produce them. Seven summonses had been issued and Mr. W. Jeffers Diamond, also of Belleville, conducted the prosecution. All the cases were discharged, but four of the defendants were ordered by the magistrate to produce their scales before him on Dec. 29th.

Mr. Johnson after a visit to the Peterborough market announces that if the citizens would insist on knowing just how much butter or other produce they were buying by having it weighed on the market scales, that the revenue the town would derive from market fees would be increased to no inconsiderable extent.

At present the produce is weighed out on the farm and brought in and sold without the consumer being sure of what he is buying. Such purchasing Inspector Johnson thinks, is altogether contrary to business methods. No one would think of buying cloth or groceries without being perfectly sure the amount for which they bargained was secured.

In Belleville the market brings in a yearly revenue of about $2,200 to the civic coffers and yet the Peterborough market, where twice as much produce is exposed for sale, is only worth $2,080 per annum to the town. An insistence on the part of the townspeople to have their butter, etc., weighed on the public scales would, Mr. Inspector Johnson said, almost double the value of the market to the town. It takes half a dozen men busy weighing butter alone on the Belleville market on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday of each week.

DEDICATION OF OTONABEE ORANGE HALL.

Interesting Ceremonies at Downer's Corners Last Night.

The new Otonabee Orange Hall was formally opened and dedicated at Downer's Corners last evening.

The preliminary exercises consisted of a sumptuous repast which was served by the ladies who are most enthusiastic supporters of the lodge. The table was graced in the centre by a huge dedication cake and the board was loaded down with all the delicacies of the season.

The dedicatory services were conducted between 8 and 9 o'clock, Mr. C. W. Sawers in the chair. Those assisting in the ceremonies were Messrs. Wm. Johnson, J. Graham Weir, Robert Weir, Arthur Sproule as well as a number of other dignitaries in the order.

The ceremony was followed by an intellectual treat at which all the above named gentlemen spoke as did also a number of others including Rev. W. R. Young, Rev. J. J. Rae and Rev. A. Mac-Williams of town.

The new hall was previously described in the EXAMINER. It is a very neat frame building, handsomely furnished, and for the occasion the interior was most artistically decorated with flags and bunting. An orchestra was present and enlivened the evening's entertainment by most pleasing selections.

Organs and Pianos.

Messrs. Jackson & Co. have a number of second hand organs and pianos from $50.00 up, which they are anxious to clear out, in order to make room for their Christmas goods. Easy payment. Terms to suit buyers. Organs and pianos to rent. Show rooms and factory 378 Aylmer street.

A Piano is a Princely Present.

It is not an expense or a luxury—it is an investment—an education. J. W. Crosby sells on the cash or instalment plan, and offers a substantial discount off any high class instrument purchased from him during the holiday season. Think it over, pay a visit to his ware-rooms, No. 343 Water street, and get the benefit of his best terms. He gives you a choice of some of the highest grade pianos from the most popular makers. December is the month when most pianos are sold. Better speak now.

Garments to Order.

W. J. Green, 145 Hunter street, will continue the sale of three dollar pants which are of special value (formerly four and five dollars) made to order by first class workmen. Trimmings just the same as more expensive material, in fact to call and inspect for yourself will satisfy anyone.

OBITUARY.

The Late Isaac Eyres.

Mr. Wm. Eyres, 168 Antrim street, has received intelligence of the death at Lemars, Iowa, of his only surviving brother, Isaac Eyres. No particulars of this sad occurrence are to hand. The deceased gentleman was 61 years of age, and went from Canada to Iowa about 18 years ago. He leaves behind him a widow (sister of Mr. Wm. Walsh, town) seven sons and four daughters, all grown up. Mr. Eyres was engaged extensively and successfully in stock farming. His old neighbours in Manvers and Cavan will well remember Mr. Eyres' enthusiasm and success as a stock breeder.

AUCTION SALE

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

The Dickson Co. vs. Rush et al.

THERE WILL BE OFFERED FOR SALE in one parcel by Public Auction, with the approbation of the undersigned Master, by Charles Stapleton, Auctioneer, at the Morgan House, in the Town of Peterborough, on Monday, the 17th day of December, 1894, at the hour of Two o'clock in the afternoon, the leasehold interest of the defendant Rush in the following desirable property, namely:—Part of lot No One south of Dalhousie street and east of George street in the Town of Peterborough, having a frontage of 75 feet on George street with a depth of 100 feet 8 inches, and having a width at the rear of 54 feet 6 inches.

This lot has erected upon it a two storey brick veneered building formerly used as a hotel known as the Hamilton Restaturant, having four rooms downstairs and eight upstairs. The kitchen and the hall and three of the rooms upstairs are not plastered. The building has a frontage of 49 feet on George street with a depth of about 40 feet. The height of the building is 21 feet 8 inches. There are suitable sheds and outbuildings on the lot. This land is held under a lease for a term expiring October 15th, 1913, subject to a rent of $15 per month.

TERMS.—Ten per cent. of the purchase money payable at the time of sale, the balance in one month thereafter.

There's Nothing

Wrong in this business. We are not overloaded. We have no old bankrupt stock to be shoved off. We are not holding any so called sale, but we do hold nearly Thirty Thousand Dollars worth of Good, Fresh Merchandise, selected for the best trade of this community. Out of this immense stock we have several lines we would like to clear:—

$30 00 Mantles for	$20 00
20 00 Mantles for	15 00
15 00 Mantles for	10 00
10 00 Mantles for	7 50

We have had the best season's trade in Mantles we ever had. These are A 1 styles, but rather than carry any over, we will sacrifice the prices.

THE PETERBOROUGH BAPTISTS CONFER.

A Representative District Gathering.

PASTORS AND DEACONS ASSEMBLE TOGETHER.

They Were in Session Yesterday and Some Instructive Addresses and Edifying Discussions Took Place—Eloquent Exponents of Baptist Principles and Doctrines.

All day yesterday a most interesting conference was in session in the Murray street Baptist church. The occasion was the holding of the regular Pastors' and Deacons' Conference of the Baptist churches of the Peterborough District.

The papers which were read during the day were all of a most instructive nature, and the discussions which quite frequently followed were most edifying to the members present.

A prayer meeting was held at nine o'clock in the morning, which was conducted by Rev. Mr. Marshall, of Belleville. This was followed at 9.30 by three papers on the subject of Christian life. Rev. T. Watson, of Colborne, spoke as follows:

ON ITS INCEPTION

The beginning or inception of that distinct reality, which we call the Christian life (Colossians 1, 27) or the life of the Christ in the one that is His, very naturally brings us to think of the condition of the individual before that life is begun. In our own experience and in the experience of others we trace the phenomena and manifestations of this mysterious life back to a certain point. Beyond that point this life is not present. No trace of it can be found. In that state this life can neither be evolved, nor developed nor spontaneously originated. There is being, but there is not life. There is natural life but there is not the Christ life. And in this state of being, as in the material creation at first, the whole aspect of man spiritually considered, is without form, and void, and darkness is upon the face of the deep, (Gen. 1—2.) The depths of the soul and the deep things of God to those in this condition are alike shrouded in utter darkness. This state the Scripture describes as death. What God calls life is utterly absent, therefore it is most appropriate to describe the state of the ungenerate by the significant word death. Jesus speaking of those to whom His Gospel message came, says, (John 5—25) "the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God." And Paul, speaking to believers says, (Eph. 2—1), "ye were dead in trespasses and sins." And John, (in John 3—14) speaking of the one in whom Christ does not abide, says of that one, "He abideth in death." Material substance is present; essential being is to be found; physical and psychical life are there, but the distinct thing, life that is in Christ and in all who are in Him, is not there. And all the aspects of death are manifest in the state of unregenerate man. Each aspect of death emphasizes the utter absence of the Christ life. I—Potential death. Do we think of death as a destroying force, a deadly power at work and sure in the natural order of things to produce all that is meant by death? In this sense the word death is often used in the Scripture. II—Legal death. Do we consider death as the righteous sentence pronounced upon one, who has broken a righteous law? So the son of Saul says to Daniel, (2 Samuel 19—28), "all of my father's house were but dead men." In Romans 5—18 we read that "judgment came upon all men to condemnation." And in Rom. 5, 12, we read that "death (i. e., the death sentence) passed upon all men for that all have sinned." And II Cor. 6, 7, we are shown that the law or "letter killeth," and yet that its conclusion or sentence is so righteous and perfect that even while it ministereth death—pronounces the death sentence—it is yet "glorious."

CONCERNING THEIR FORMER STATE,

III. Experimental Death.—Do we think of death as describing the state of the soul as shown in its own experience and consciousness? Viewed from the God-ward side, the unregenerate soul presents an aspect like that of Ezekiel 37, it is a "desert of death, a valley of dry bones." Of those who had recently been saved from that state, Paul says, Col. 2, 13, that they "were dead in your sins and in the uncircumcision of your flesh." James 1, 15 says of sin that it bringeth forth death—this experimental death. And in I Tim. 5, 6, Paul says of the one that liveth in pleasure, "she is dead while she liveth." And in Rom. 8, 6, Paul again says, "to be carnally minded is death," In that state the poisoned bitterness of sin is not discerned, the joys of God and holiness are not even tasted. In regard to such things the soul is experimentally dead, it is without experience of life, it is "past feeling."—Eph. 4, 19.

IV. Relative Death. — Do we consider death as a state in which relation with some one or some thing is utterly broken, or has ceased to exist? In Rom. 6, 11, we are as believers shown that our relation with the thing, sin, is so broken that we are to "reckon ourselves dead, indeed, unto sin." And in Rom. 7, 14, we are shown that our relation to the law is so completely dissolved that we are dead to the law. Just as the woman whose husband is dead is dead to her husband, the life tie between them being broken. And in the unregenerate state the heart and mind are so completely dead toward God that they do not like even to retain God in their knowledge, Rom. 1, 23. And in Rom. 8, 6-7, we are shown that the unregenerate mind is not only truly dead in relation to God, but is entombed in a grave of active enmity, for it is enmity to God. In Eph. 4, 18, it is plainly said to be "alienated from the life of God," and in Eph. 2, 12, it is said to be "without God."

V. Effective Death.—Death may be the result of simply neglecting the means of life. In II King 7, 3-4, we are told of four men who were smitten with the deadly disease of leprosy, and they said if we flee to the city the famine is there, if we flee to the camp the sword of the Syrian is there, but if we stay right here in starvation, and want, even here we die. Death bounded their prospect on every side. Death by leprosy—death by the city avenger—death by the Syrian sword—death by starvation. And to the unregenerate soul thus surrounded by death, "In that dreadful point where all the winds blow toward at once, and every breeze is laden with death. To such the bread of life is offered, for Jesus says to such "I am the bread of life, if any man eat of this bread he shall live forever," John 6, 48-51. But while this life-giving bread is offered, death is plainly chosen as the result of refusing it. Jesus says in John 5, 40, "Ye will not come to me that ye might have life," and in John 8, 24, He says, "If ye believe not that I am He ye shall die in your sins." Potentially dead, legally dead, experimentally dead, relatively dead, effectively dead. Such is the Scripture finding concerning the state of human beings before the inception of the Christian life.

VI. Now it is a fact that in many human beings there is to be found proof that there is in them that wonderful principle which the Scriptures call life. Now we know that a clean thing cannot of itself come from an unclean one. Life cannot be originated in death. Something cannot be developed from nothing. Hence in every case where there is life in a human being that life must have had a genesis—an incoming—an inception. And when we would know about that we find the new creations very largely foreshadowed in the order of the first creation. "If any man be in Christ there is a new creation" 2nd Cor. 5-17. And as in the first creation we read, "In the beginning God," Gen. 1-1. So in the new creation we read, (2nd Cor. 5 18,) "But all things (realities) are of God." We cannot have nor any kind of an abstract life. There can be no life apart from a living one. To the branch that is broken off and doomed to the fire, and withered and dying, you cannot bring life by the inch, or the pound, or the pint, or the number. The only way to get life into the doomed branch would be to engraft it into a living tree. And when the sap of the living tree circulates through the branch, the branch will live—it will have life.

So with the human soul. The inception of life dates from the reception of the Living One. Only by breaking, in His own person, the deadly battle lines, could He bring life to those who "sat in the region and under the very shadow of death." Potential death or the operating forces which would culminate in every case in utter and eternal death He met and vanquished. The deadly thunderbolt he received into His own bosom. He was our living shield, Psalm 84, 11. Though better than the sins of the prophets, (2 Kings 4, 40.) He knew that there was "death in the pot" yet (Matt. 26, 42) that the cup might pass over from us and be drank by Him. He said "Thy will be done. And thus by His own "death He destroyed Him that had the power of death, that is the devil", Heb. 2, 14. Legal death he met by (Colosians 2, 14) nailing our death sentence to His cross, and by being made a death sentence or curse for us, Gal. 3, 14, He delivered us from the curse of the law or the sentence of death. And in our experimental death as Elisha (2 Kings 4, 34) put his lips, his eyes, his hands upon the lips, the eyes, the hands of the dead child, so Christ (Philipians 2, 7) made Himself of no reputation, took form of a servant, was made in likeness of men. He put Himself in all points in touch with the dead (Heb. 2, 9, 14. 17) that those who before were utterly empty may be able to say with John (1, 16) "And of His fullness have all we received." In regard to relative death or death in relation to God, He Himself is the mediator, the bridge which spans the gulf and completes the relation in both sides. "No man hath seen God," the "world by wisdom and the individual by searching could never find out God. But (John 1, 18) the only begotten son which is in the bosom of His Father He hath declared Him." And in John 14, 6, 7, Jesus says "I am the Way, the Truth and the Life . . . and from henceforth ye know Him and have seen Him."

III. God imparting this life to a human being—a human being receiving this life is the inception or beginning of the "Christ in" life. No skill can produce this life, no treasure can purchase it; no series of circumstances can engender it. The most fertile soil cannot of itself produce one ear of wheat, any more than the hardest rock or the dreariest desert can. Neither favourable seasons, nor rich manures, nor patent cultivators nor elegant fences can enable the soil to produce the ear of wheat. Wheat life can only come from wheat seed or wheat plant. So the best and most religious natural qualities can never produce the lowest form of the Christ in life. The Christ life is infinitely above the best that the best human nature can produce or attain to. Even as the wheat life is vastly above the best qualities of the natural soil. As mineral organisms have to be dissolved when plant life takes hold of them, and as plant organisms have to be disolved when animal life takes hold upon them, so all carnal conceit, all self-righteousness have to die, be crucified and buried when the Christ life takes hold upon and enters the soul of man, Romans 7th, 9, 10, 11, 25. The life of a mighty tree puts itself into a small seed. On its downy wings that seed is borne by the winds to a soil prepared for it. There it springs up and becomes a tree after its kind. Though in a distant place and surrounded by all kinds of foreign growths the original life is true to itself and finds its own expression there. So in John 5, 26, Jesus says: "My words are spirit and they are life." And in 1 Peter 1, 23. Peter says that we are born again by the incorruptible seed—the word of God which liveth and abideth forever. And as when the earth was without form and void and darkness was upon the face of the deep, the spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters, so in the new creation—the spirit moves upon the world, "to convict of sin, of righteousness and of judgment." In the new creation for his spiritual sons he provided a spirit firmament or atmosphere. Of this new creation John said: "He shall immerse you in the Holy Ghost, Mark 1, 8. And to the new created ones Paul says, Romans 8, 9, "ye are in the spirit." And as in the old creation the waters, the earth and the air all teemed with abundant life, so in the new creation in the hidden (water) depths of the heart, in the practical walk, and conversation of daily life and in the heavenly places in Christ, (Eph. 1 3) those who have life have life more abundantly. John 10—10. And on all who have this life and who yield to its control there fall in heavenly sweetness the words of the Divine Benediction, (Heb. 13. 20, 21,): Now the God of Peace, that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, that great shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the everlasting covenant, make you perfect in every good work to do His will, working in you that which is well-pleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ; to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

As Rev. S. Van Tassel was unable to be present, owing to illness, Rev. Mr. Marshall, of Belleville, delivered an impromptu address on the development of the Christian life. Rev. S S. Weaver, of Norwood, closed the treatment of the subject by an address on the mission of the Christian life.

A paper

WHICH WAS MUCH APPRECIATED

was that of Rev. A. R. McDonald, of Lakefield, on "A Need—Teaching on Distinctive Principles from the Pulpit."

In the afternoon, a prayer meeting was held at 2 o'clock, being led by Deacon William Graham, of the Gilmour Memorial church.

A conference was held amongst the members at 2.30, on the subject of "How to interest our churches in the Prayer Meeting." Rev. J. Pilkey, Bailliieboro, led the discussion, holding that the question would solve itself, as the training school of the B. Y. P. U. fitted the rising generation to assume the duties of conducting the prayer meeting and educated them in such a manner as to awake in them a warm interest in the progress of prayer meetings in the church. At present he stated the only way of interesting the church members more in the prayer meeting was to endeavour to persuade them to attend, if only for once. The great difficulty he experienced was in getting the congregation started in what to some of them was a new departure. Once started in the right way it remained with the pastor and members to make the meeting to claim the attention and interest of the casual attender.

OF SUFFICIENT INTEREST

Rev. C. E. McLeod, pastor of Gilmour Memorial church, Smith, by special request went deeply into the subject of family prayer,—its need, its neglect and its blessing. In speaking of the need of it Mr. McLeod dwelt on the fact of its observance being commanded in the Word of God, of its necessity in the home circle to assist in combating the dangers surrounding the families such as an evil heart and an evil world. A word of explanation was also given concerning the meaning of the term, family prayer—it consisted, the speaker stated, not only of thanksgiving, confession and supplication, but of instruction also and was more properly termed family worship.

The neglect of it, he said, was apparent in all churches as it was indeed sadly forgotton by the present generation. Its continued neglect would lead to the destruction of the home peace, would destroy parental authority, would hinder the growth of piety and religion. It would lead to carelessness on the part of the parents in regard to the conversion of their children.

The blessings which emanated from a proper observance of this religious duty were manifold. It was approved of by God. He had expressed his approbation of it and his children when He commended him for the instruction of his family. Family worship tended strongly to strengthen the ties of home and to the removal of trouble in the home circle. It would be the means of bringing about the conversion of members of the home and assist the growth and grace of christian life. It would be the means of hindering those evils in church and domestic life which caused scandal. It would be a most appreciable help to to the ministry. It would also have an influence on national life and raise it to a higher standard.

IN THE CASE OF ABRAHAM

Mr. McLeod then put in a busy half hour answering the questions in the question drawer after which the conference adjourned until evening.

At eight o'clock the conference again assembled in session and after the conclusion of devotional exercises Rev. P. K. Dayfoot, M. A., of Port Hope, read an essay on "The Place and Purpose of the Ordinances in the New Testament Church." Mr. Dayfoot began by stating that there are but two ordinances in the New Testament plan, viz: Baptism and the Lord's Supper. Coming then to a question of the place these occupy the speaker quoted several passages of scripture, shewing that the first ordinance is the entrance to church membership, and the second, the constant privilege of those who belong to the church.

IN THE CHURCH LIFE-WORK,

In discussing the purpose of the ordinances, the position was taken by him that by their nature and symbolism, Baptism precedes the Lord's Supper.

Rev. J. E. Trotter followed with an edifying address on "The Relation of our Churches to Denominational Interests." The churches, he held, which were not interested in the denominational interests of the church were not progressive. This very indifference regarding the church's denominational enterprises, is responsible for the spiritual apathy and deadness which prevails in many of the homes. Each church member, said he, should recognize his responsibility in forwarding these denominational interests, and each church should support all the denominational enterprises regularly and liberally. The neglect of these on the part of a church, was like unto the neglect of children by their parents. Mr. Trotter severely criticized the action of some churches in helping some of the Baptist enterprises and neglecting others. What kind of parents would they be, he queried, who would feed some of their children and starve others?

The latest information

CONCERNING THE PROGRESS

of these enterprises should always be laid before the congregation, and if an agent was unable to come to a church the regular contribution to the fund should be sent in anyway. The enterprise should be prayed for incessantly. Much as the missionaries needed recruits and monetary assistance, yet their constant appeal was, "Pray for us!"

In concluding, Mr. Trotter urged all to bring their churches to recognize their responsibility regarding the support of their denominational enterprises.

Votes of thanks, couched in the warmest terms, were passed expressing the appreciation of the members of the conference of the manner in which they had been treated by the Peterborough press, and the pastor and the members of the Murray street Baptist church.

ALL WISE HEADS agree that the use of a liver pill after dinner, or to accomplish special results, is an important step in civilization. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are better than other liver pills in almost every respect. They're the smallest, easiest to take, most natural in the way they act; cheapest, because guaranteed to give satisfaction, or money returned. We all have weak spots. Generally it's the liver. An active liver prevents impurities and poisons from entering the blood. "Pleasant Pellets" have a tonic effect upon the liver and the general system. They cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Dizzy Spells, Sick Headache, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels.

CHRISTMAS IN INDIA.

A Lazy Picnic Amid the Tropical Surroundings of Calcutta.

The sun shines gloriously overhead. The sky is a pale, cloudless blue, and the foliage around us shows every shade and tint from brown to scarlet, from the palest to the deepest green. We saunter along the grass under the trees beside the avenue and find a quiet spot, with a pool of clear water haunted by swans before us. The ground is carpeted with soft grass and shaded with trees. On one side, 800 yards away, is a bank of shrubs, with the most gorgeous variety of coloring, from mauve and lilac to crimson red; on the other three, cool, restful green leaves. On such a Christmas morning it is good to be alive.

Let us think of it as we shiver over our fires in England. We spread our rugs and coats on the ground and lie down and smoke lazily. Presently the Khidmutgars arrive with hampers. We do not move, for in India we have not that irrational and idiotic notion that a picnic is no picnic unless you wait upon yourselves, lay your own lunch and burn your own fingers over your kettle. The lunch is admirable from the solids to the fruit, from the drinks to the ice. Nothing has been forgotten, for once a Khidmutgar has been taught a thing he may be relied upon to do it again with absolute exactitude on a similar occasion till the crack of doom unless he is idiotic.

A picnic is a complete rest, with nothing to do save to lie still and enjoy. No one even talks unless the spirit moves him. For the most part we sit quiet, drinking in the beauty of the scene. The servants pass silently to and fro, handing dishes, which are accepted or rejected as silently. It is waste of energy to speak. The cool breeze fans us gently. There are no mosquitoes. All is peace. Last of all come the coffee and the cigars.—Saturday Review.

Christmas Holly.

No one can tell when holly was first used for Christmas decorating, though it was certainly at or soon after the Christian era. Indeed it may have been long before, for some of the traditions concerning it have an appearance of antiquity about them which cannot be ignored. Thus it is said that holly is or was a sacred tree to destroy which was to insure disease or disaster. An early legend, ordinary tale, runs in this way: A youthful hunter lost himself in a forest, and his supplies running out he was in danger of starving. No game could he discover, and in the midst of his distress a wild beast, the like of which he had never seen before, appeared. Taken by surprise, he seized the bough of a tree, tore it off and prepared to defend himself with it. It chanced to be a holly tree, and the moment he disfigured it he fell to the ground and was turned into a stone. His brother, after many mouths' searching, was informed by a friendly fairy of the mishap that had befallen his brother, whose body he was told would be found lying under the bough he had torn off. A charm was given the searcher to enable him to restore the headstrong youth to life, and after a long journey the task was accomplished, and the two brothers were reunited.—Selected.

Mothers and Fathers

You are using every ingenuity to dress your boys comfortably and warm for the winter—patching and darning and making over old garments, cutting, ripping and sewing to save a dollar if you can. Have you thought of Gough Bros'? Lookers are what we want. This is not a store for the rich only. It is a store where the wants of the masses are studied and lessons in economy are to be learned in every department. Perhaps you don't know Gough Bros. have boys' suits starting as low as $1.50 and on up to about $5, and overcoats starting at $1.75 and up to $5.50. Parents bring the lads to Gough Bros., treat them to something new for Christmas. The bigger the family, the less we charge, and a sleigh to each thrown in.

A Narrow Escape.

People who are exposed to the sudden changes of our northern climate have little chance of escaping colds, coughs, sore throat and lung troubles. The best safe-guard is to keep Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam at hand. It is a quick relief and reliable cure for such complaints.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

QUAINT ENGLISH SUPERSTITIONS.

Implicitly Believed by the Simple Folk. Acts That Are Unlucky.

In some districts of Northumberland and Durham, and also in Scotland, the country folk are extremely superstitious as to who first enters the house on Christmas morn. If a fair haired person crosses the threshold first, misfortune will attend the family. If a dark haired person is the first visitor, all may be well. The explanation vouchsafed for this queer belief is that the hair of Judas is supposed to have been red.

In some counties, if on Christmas morn you ask a man to oblige you with a wax vesta to light your pipe, he will politely but resolutely decline. The giving of a match out of doors on Christmas day is supposed to be accompanied by dire results.

Many old country people still adhere to the preposterous belief that a loaf baked on Christmas eve never gets moldy. It can only be supposed that healthy appetites have been the cause of this effort of the imagination not having been exploded long ago.

An individual who dies on Christmas eve is, paradoxical as it may seem, both pitied and congratulated. He is pitied on account of his lease of life having expired and congratulated because folk who shake off this mortal coil on Christmas eve are supposed to be sure of eternal happiness.

In several parts of Devonshire and Cornwall the people are exceedingly superstitious. On the evening preceding Christmas day cattle are commonly believed to fall down on their knees in adoration of the infant Saviour. A visit to the meadows would, of course, at once disprove this strange assumption, but considering that in the eyes of these folk the very act of going out for the purpose of witnessing the spectacle is an unpardonable crime, the rash perpetrator of which brings down upon himself and the animals the wrath of the Almighty, the superstition appears in no way likely to die out.

Christmas eve was regarded as the holiest night in the year, on which the Wandering Jew slept once every year, and when Pilate, whose spirit haunted Mount Pilatus, in Switzerland, in the vain endeavor to wash its hands clean, had a brief rest.

On this night the quivering aspen tree ceases the motion of its leaves, which have continued since its wood was used for the cross, the respite given because from the same wood was made the cradle in which the Holy Child was rocked.

A Christmas Sermon.

There are two sweet things in human life—to be happy oneself and to make another so. When the first is gone, the next, thank God, is always left.

Do not lock yourself in your room too soon, too often or too long. Dash away the tears. Play the waltzes for the children. Put away your crape. Wear a white dress and a high mien and the smile of those who conquer the selfishness of pain on Christmas day.

The best friends of the tempted, of the young, of the erring and the overlooked are those who have known the sorest anguish and have achieved the sweetest peace.

Such, too, are the most sacred flowers of our festivals and the dearest angels of our happy homes.—Elizabeth Stuart Phelps.

Origin of Christmas Greens.

The custom of decorating churches and houses with evergreens, branches and flowers is of very early date. The Jews used them at their feast of tabernacles and the heathens in several of their ceremonies, and they were adopted by the Christians. Christ permitted branches to be used as a token of rejoicing upon his triumphal entry into Jerusalem. It was natural, therefore, that at Christmas time, when his birth was celebrated, this symbol of rejoicing should be resorted to. Some of the early councils, however, considering that the practice somewhat savored of paganism, endeavored to abolish it, and at one time it was enacted that it was not lawful to begirt or adorn houses with laurel or green boughs.

Beyond Comparison

Are the good qualities possessed by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Above all it purifies the blood, thus strengthening the nerves; it regulates the digestive organs, invigorates the kidneys and liver, tones and builds up the entire system, cures scrofula, dyspepsia, catarrh and rheumatism. Get Hood's and only Hood's.

HOOD'S PILLS cure all liver ills, biliousness, jaundice, indigestion, sick headache. 25c.

Overcoat values all out of sight at Gough Bros., and the prices of four weeks ago split to splinters.

Pleasant as Syrup.

Mr. Douglas Ford, Toronto, Ont., states that Milburn's Cod Liver Oil Emulsion with Wild Cherry Bark is free from objectionable taste, being almost as pleasant as syrup, while for coughs and colds it gives complete satisfaction, acting promptly even in obstinate cases.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria

Men and Women in all Walks of Life Tell of the Remarkable Cures Wrought by South American Nervine Tonic.

SIX DOSES WILL CONVINCE THE MOST INCREDULOUS.

EDITOR COLWELL, OF PARIS, ONT., REVIEW.

Newspaper editors are almost as sceptical as the average physician on the subject of new remedies for sick people. Nothing short of a series of most remarkable and well authenticated cures will incline either an editor or a doctor to seriously consider the merits honestly claimed for a medicine.

Hundreds of testimonials of wonderful recoveries wrought with the Great South American Nervine Tonic were received from men and women all over the country before physicians began to prescribe this great remedy in chronic cases of dyspepsia, indigestion, nervous prostration, sick headache, and as a tonic for building up systems sapped of vitality through protracted spells of sickness.

During his experience of nearly a quarter of a century as a newspaper publisher in Paris, Ont., Editor Colwell, of The Paris Review, has published hundreds of columns of paid medicine advertisements, and, no doubt, printed many a gracefully-worded puff for his patrons as a matter of business, but in only a single instance, and that one warranted by his own personal experience, has he given a testimonial over his own signature. No other remedy ever offered the public has proved such a marvellous revelation to the most sceptical as the South American Nervine Tonic. It has never failed in its purpose, and it has cured when doctors and other medicines were tried in vain.

"I was prostrated with a particularly severe attack of 'La Grippe,'" says Mr. Colwell, "and could find no relief from the intense pains and distress of the malady. I suffered day and night. The doctors did not help me, and I tried a number of medicines, but without relief. About this time I was advised to try the South American Nervine Tonic. Its effects were instantaneous. The first dose I took relieved me. I improved rapidly and grew stronger every day. Your Nervine Tonic cured me in a single week."

The South American Nervine Tonic rebuilds the life forces by its direct action on the nerves and the nerve centres, and it is this notable feature which distinguishes it from every other remedy in existence. The most eminent medical authorities now concede that fully two-thirds of all the physical ailments of humanity arise from exhaustion of the nerve forces. The South American Nervine Tonic acting direct upon the nerve centres and nerve tissues instantaneously supplies them with the true nourishment required, and that is why its invigorating effects upon the whole system are always felt immediately. For all nervous diseases, for general debility arising from enfeebled vitality, and for stomach troubles of every variety no other remedy can possibly take its place.

THE CHRISTMAS WELL.

BY FRANK R. STOCKTON.

While this terrible pounding was going on I heard various reports of its effect upon my neighbors. One of them, an agriculturist, with whom I had always been on the best of terms, came with a clouded brow.

"When I first felt those shakes," he said, "I thought they were the effects of seismic disturbances and I did not mind, but when I found it was your well I thought I ought to come over to speak about it. I do not object to the shaking of my barn, because my man tells me the continual jolting is thrashing out the oats and wheat, but I do not like to have all my apples and pears shaken off my trees. And then," said he, "I have a late brood of chickens, and they cannot walk, because every time they go to make a step they are jolted into the air about a foot. And again, we have had to give up having soup. We like soup, but we do not like to have it spout up like a fountain whenever that hammer comes down."

I was grieved to trouble this friend, and I asked him what I should do. "Do you want me to stop the well?" said I.

"Oh, no," said he heartily; "go on with the work. You must have water and we will try to stand the bumping. I dare say it is good for dyspepsia, and the cows are getting used to having the grass jammed up against their noses. Go ahead, we can stand it in the daytime, but if you could stop the night work we would be very glad. Some people may think it a wellspring of pleasure to be bounced out of bed, but I don't."

Mrs. Perch came to me with a face like a squeezed lemon, and asked me if I could lend her five nails. "What sort?" said I.

"The kind you nail clapboards on with," said she; "there is one of them been shook entirely off my house by your well. I am in hopes that before the rest are all shook off I shall get in some money that is owing me and can afford to buy nails for myself."

I stopped the night work, but this was all I could do for these neighbors.

My optimist friend was delighted when he heard of my driven well; he lived so far away that he and his mother were not disturbed by the jarring of the ground. Now he was sure that some of the internal secrets of the earth would be laid bare, and he rode or drove over every day to see what we were getting out of the well.

The well-driving had gone on and on with intermissions on account of sickness in the families of the various workmen, until it had reached the limit which I had fixed, and we had not found water in sufficient quantity, hot or cold, nor had we struck fire, or anything else worth having.

The well drivers and some specialists were of the opinion that if I were to go ten, twenty, or perhaps a hundred feet deeper, I would be very likely to get all the water I wanted. But of course they could not tell how far they must go, for some wells were over a thousand feet deep. I shook my head at this. There seemed to be only one thing certain about this drilling business, and that was the expense. I declined to go any deeper.

Phineas Colwell told me that when he had informed Mrs. Perch that I was going to stop operations, she was in a dreadful state of mind. "After all she had undergone," she said, "it was simply cruel to think of my stopping before I got water, and that after having dried up her spring."

This is what Phineas said she said, but when next I met her she told me that he had declared that if I had put the well where he thought it ought to be I should have been having all the water I wanted before now.

My optimist was dreadfully cast down when he heard that I would drive no deeper.

When the pounding was at an end my wife and child came home. But the season continued dry and even their presence could not counteract the feeling of aridity which seemed to permeate everything which belonged to us, material or immaterial. We had a great deal of commiseration from our neighbors.

It was late in the summer when my wife returned, and when she made her first visit of inspection to the grounds and gardens her eyes of course fell upon the unfinished well. She was shocked.

"I never saw such a scene of wreckage," she said. "It looks like a Western town after a cyclone. I think the best thing you can do is to have this dreadful litter cleared up, the ground smoothed and raked, the wall mended and the roof put back on that little house, and then if we can make anybody believe it is an ice-house so much the better."

I sent for a man to put the vicinity of the well in order.

The man who came was named Mr. Barnet. He was a contemplative fellow, with a pipe in his month. After having worked at the place for half a day he sent for me and said:

"I will tell you what I would do if I was in your place. I'd put that little house in order, and I'd put the engine into it, and the pump down into that thirty-foot well you first dug, and I'd pump water into my house."

I looked at him in amazement.

"There's lots of water in that well," he continued, "and if there's that much now in this drought, you will surely have ever so much more when the weather isn't so dry. I have measured the water and I know."

I could not understand him. It seemed to me that he was talking wildly. He filled his pipe and lighted it and sat upon the wall.

"Now," said he, after he had taken a few puffs, "I'll tell you where the trouble's been with your well. People are always in too big a hurry in this world about all sorts of things as well as wells. I am a well-digger and I know all about them. We know if there is any water in the ground it will always find its way to the deepest hole there is, and we dig a well so as to give it a deep hole to go to in the place where we want it. But you can't expect the water to come to that hole just the very day it's finished. Of course you will get some, because it's right there in the neighborhood, but there is always a lot more that will come if you give it time. It's got to make little channels and passages for itself, and of course it takes time to do that. It's like settling up a new country. Only a few pioneers come at first, and you have to wait for the population to flow in. This being a dry season and the water in the ground a little sluggish on that account, it was a good while finding out where your well was. If I had happened along when you was talking about a well I think I should have said to you that I knew a proverb which would about fit your case, and that is, "Let well enough alone."

I feel like taking this good man by the hand, but I did not. I only told him to go ahead and do everything that was proper.

The next morning as I was going to the well I saw Phineas Colwell coming down the lane and Mrs. Betty Perch coming up it. I did not wish them to question me, so I stepped behind some bushes. When they met they stopped.

"Upon my word!" exclaimed Mrs. Betty, "if he isn't going to work again on that everlasting well. If he's got so much money he don't know what to do with it I could tell him that there's people in this world, and not far away either, who would be the better for some of it. It's a sin and a shame and an abomination. Do you believe, Mr. Colwell, that there is the least chance in the world of his ever getting water enough out of that well to shave himself with?"

"Mrs. Perch," said Phineas, "it ain't no use talking about that well. It ain't no use and it never can be no use because it's in the wrong place. If he ever pumps water out of that well into his house I'll do"——

"What will you do?" asked Mr. Barnet, who just then appeared from the recesses of the engine-house.

"I'll do anything on this earth that you choose to name," said Phineas. "I am safe whatever it is."

"Well, then," said Mr. Barnet, knocking the ashes from his pipe preparatory to filling it again, "will you marry Mrs. Perch?"

Phineas laughed. "Yes," he said, "I promised I would do anything, and I'll promise that."

"A slim chance for me," said Mrs. Betty, "even if I'd have you," and she marched on with her nose in the air.

But in the course of time—I will not say how much time—the work was finished, the engine was in its place and it pumped water into my house, and every day since then it has pumped all the water we need, pure, cold and delicious.

Knowing the promise Phineas Colwell had made, and feeling desirous of having everything which concerned my well settled and finished, I went to look for him to remind him of his duty toward Mrs. Perch, but I could not find that naval and military mechanical agriculturist. He had gone away to take a job or a contract, I could not discover which, and he has not since appeared in our neighborhood. Mrs. Perch is very severe on me about this.

"There is plenty of bad things come out of that well," she said, "but I never thought anything bad enough would come out of it to make Mr. Colwell go away and leave me to keep on being a widow with all them orphans."

One bright morning in early winter I went down to the little well-house to see the engine work. It was always pleasant to me to watch that little piece of machinery moving so quietly, so swiftly and so powerfully, pumping the pure, fresh water into my house.

"This is a good well, John," I said to my man, who had come to draw the fire, the engine having pumped enough, "although we were a long time in getting it."

"Yes, sir," said he, "there's not a better well in all this part of the country."

He was a good man and always believed in my well, and my heart now warmed towards him.

"John," said I, "I will tell you something, though you need not speak of it. When I first started this well I intended making it a Christmas present to my wife. I then thought it would be finished in a month or two. That is rather a joke on me, isn't it?"

"Well, sir," said John, his face irradiating as he spoke "what's to hinder you from making it a Christmas present to her now? Christmas isn't very far off!"

Happy thought! I did it.

An Important Scientific Discovery.

Nerviline, the latest discovered pain remedy, may safely challenge the world for a substitute that will as speedily and promptly check inflammatory action. The highly penetrating properties of Nerviline make it never failing in all cases of rheumatism, neuralgia, cramps, pains in back and side, headache, lumbago, etc. It possesses marked stimulating and counter irritant properties, and at once subdues all inflammatory action. Ormond & Walsh, druggists, Peterborough, write: "Our customers speak well of Nerviline." Large bottles 25 cents. Try Nerviline, the great internal and external pain cure. AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease),
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,

They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home.
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life!
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny.
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

COLD STORAGE PLANT.

REFRIGERATION HAS NOW REACHED A STATE OF PERFECTION.

Some of the Advantages Derived—Market Gluts Prevented—Nursery Stock Kept for Three Years and Taken Out in Good Shape.

The first experiments with cold storage were made in New York 18 years ago, and developed into a commercial industry three years later, says Garden and Forest. Since then the knowledge of scientists and inventors has been combined with the practical experience and capital of warehousemen, until now the business of cold storage and freezing is a considerable factor in the market supply of the world. At first cold air for refrigerators on the ground floor was forced to storerooms above, but this plan was soon given up for the system, still in limited use, of massing ice at the top of buildings, so that a current of cold air is drawn by gravity through shafts to the lower floors. By this system only cold storage at 38 degrees and above is possible, while actual freezing is necessary for many classes of goods.

One of the nine large cold storage warehouses in New York uses a system of meta pipes 10 inches in diameter, which encircle storage rooms. These begin below the "charging floor," the upper story of the building. Here ice is broken by hand power, the sectional trap doors are lifted, and the pipes, set close beside each other and extending down to the floors below, are closely packed with ice and salt. The drainage from these, which is collected on the second floor, is utilized to cool rooms on the ground floor to a temperature of 40 degrees. This method of cold storage is especially adapted for holding comparatively small amounts of perishable goods, without the cost of expensive machinery.

The system most generally in use, however, is that of producing intense cold by the evaporation of ammonia, and one of the largest and best-equipped cold warehouses uses the so-called "direct expansion" system, which it is not necessary here to explain. In this immense establishment which comprises in two warehouses 1,500,000 cubic feet of cold storage and freezing space, eight boilers, each of 75 horse power, are used in the smaller building alone.

The engines, compressors, and all parts of the machinery are in duplicate, so that if one set is disabled the other set of machinery may be started and the requisite temperature throughout the building steadily maintained. Whatever the method used, the effect aimed at is the reverse of steam heating, that is to grasp and carry heat out of the rooms which it is desired to refrigerate. The brine which is produced by the ammoniacal gas process, and conveyed throughout the building in main pipes and smaller coils, leaves the manufacturing room in the basement at zero and returns from the circuit only 5 degrees higher. All this apparatus is especially constructed; buildings cost money, and at the present time more than $4,000,000 are invested in cold storage in this city alone.

The first floor of these great buildings is usually occupied by offices and open space necessary for receiving and discharging goods, and the storage floors above are reached by heavy freight elevators. Passing through a small ante-room on leaving the elevator, the "bulkhead," or thick wall, which is air spaced and padded so as to be nearly as possible a non-conductor of heat, is reached. The heavy door swings open, and a change of 30 degrees to 70 degrees is realized in a second of time. The purity of the atmosphere and the uniform temperature of each room or "box" are evident.

Tiers of goods extend to the ceiling, closely packed along immense floor spaces, or in smaller lots in separated rooms. To the visitor, who, as well as the guide, is protected with heavy wraps, the long stretches of pipes and rafters covered with frost crystals glittering in the electric light present a strange and beautiful spectacle. Poultry, meats, fish, butter and eggs are stored in largest quantity, and actual experiments show that these usually perishable goods can be held in cold storage almost indefinitely, and meat and fish frozen and kept for five years have come out in good, marketable condition.

By this preservative process a glut is prevented in periods of too plentiful supply, the season for perishable goods is lengthened to extend the year through, and prices are equalized, to the profit of both producer and consumer. For example, yearling turkeys, which last February were stored and frozen, and since kept in a dry air of 10 to 15 degrees, now bring in the markets three cents a pound more than the best spring turkeys. But even in this favoring market there is not much profit to the merchant since a cent per pound is charged for the cold storage of poultry a month, and the higher rate of half a cent a pound each month for freezing. The prices charged for storage are, however, nearly 50 per cent. lower than they were 10, or even 5, years ago.

The artificial low temperature, besides their uses in arresting the decay and retarding the maturity of fruits and vegetables, are applied to horticulture. Nursery stock has been kept in a cool temperature in good condition for three years, with the roots ready for growing when taken out. Hardy plants which are intended for forcing are often frozen after they are lifted, so as to give them their needed experience of a winter, after which they will push forward with energy. Imported pips of lily of the valley are largely held in cold storage, not only to preserve them, but because they start more quickly and strongly after having been frozen. Bermuda lily bulbs and other stock of this sort are also treated successfully in this way.

A Fourteen-Year-Old Girl's Dress.

A typical gown is an olive green wool sateen, and the skirt, while it is rather full, is almost plain across the front and hips, and is laid in coarse gathers in the back. An invisible hem is its finish, and it reaches almost to the ankles. The bodice is a round one, arranged in full folds in front, where it is invisibly hooked, and on each side of these folds are two revers, so that a vast effect is obtained. The ribbon girdle, which is fastened on the skirt, is of three-inch-wide olive ribbon, the ends of which hang long and straight at the back. The sleeves are very full and are drawn in below the elbow to tucked cuffs of the material. The high collar is a folded one of the ribbon with a little rosette on one side, under which the fastening is concealed. Black stockings and black shoes are worn with this dress.—Ladies' Home Journal.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE EVENING CLASSES.

After-Hours Opportunities for Young Men—An Excellent System of Instruction—Simplified Methods of Imparting Knowledge.

It is never too late to learn, and it is pleasant to know that there are about two score of mechanics in town who believe this and show their faith by their works—attending the evening classes in engineering at the Mechanics' Institute, conducted by Mr. A. V. White, chief draughtsman of the Canadian General Electric Company and a graduate of the school of Practical Science, Toronto University. The management of the Institute with commendable liberality, has fitted up a large lecture room 36x28 feet in the third story of the Institute building. It is provided with suitable tables, seating, light, etc, and ample blackboard accommodation.

Briefly the objects of these classes is to afford to working mechanics an opportunity to become familiar with the elementary principles of general mechanics and electrical engineering so that they may be fitted to read text books on the subjects intelligently and be able to understand the mathematical formulæ to be met with in such works, and through these means apply what they learn to the practice of their every-day employment. The classes are held every Tuesday evening, the course consisting of sixteen lessons, of which eight were completed Tuesday night. The members of the class enrolled number 42, with an average attendance of between 35 and 40, though owing to the fact of two lodge meeting being in progress that night, when the EXAMINER paid the rooms a visit, the attendance was less than the normal. Tuesday night being the last meeting before the holidays, the lecture was devoted to a review of the subjects of square and cube root. The mode of teaching these subjects by Mr. White was delightfully practical and simple, so that any pupil of average intelligence and acquirement could have no difficulty in understanding them. The whole of the course, which is, of necessity, largely elementary, is conducted upon the same principle, and cannot fail to be of great advantage to the students.

These students, who represent about fifteen mechanical callings, are of all ages—from the apprentice, to others well advanced in years. It is safe to say that they will be marked men in the establishments in which they are employed; that is, though the primary object of the student is self-benefit, yet his employer must get the benefit of his increased proficiency, and the possessor of this will be valued accordingly, and be the first to be selected for promotion and to win confidence.

Heretofore unsuccessful attempts have been made to establish a similar class and it is probable that the present class, judging from the eagerness of the members to learn, and Mr. White's painstaking teaching will be the pioneer of similar classes to be conducted each winter. The EXAMINER was much impressed with the earnest attention given by the class to the commendably practical and intelligible nature of the instruction imparted.

THE PECULIAR FATALITY

Affecting Canadian Premiers—One Parliament With Four Premiers.

The present Parliament will have had four Premiers during its existence. This is the only case of the kind in the history of responsible government in the world. During the existence of the present parliament, the following premiers have died in office:—Sir John Mac Donald, June 6th, 1891; Sir John Thompson, Dec. 12th, 1894; Sir John Abbott, died about a year after having resigned the office of Prime Minister,—Oct. 30th, 1893. All three of these premiers have died during the present Parliament and when Sir John Thompson's successor is appointed, he will make the fourth Premier, who has occupied that position during the life of the present Parliament. This is said to be a circumstance unprecedented in the history of responsible government. During the last two hundred years only six British Premiers have died in office.

ACCIDENT TO MR. COLLECTOR WARAM.

He Meets With a Fall and Fractures one of His Ribs.

On Monday Mr. Richard Waram, Smith, who has been collector of taxes for 28 years, had the misfortune to fall as he was descending the steps of his residence during the ice season. Slipping and falling heavily, struck the edge of the lower step with his side and sustained a fracture of one of his ribs. Though severely shaken up Mr. Waram is able to be about and attend to his official duties. He has about $11,000 of taxes to collect this year. Since he has occupied the office of collector he has collected in the aggregate about $275,000 in taxes in the township of Smith.

TURNBULL.

Sweeping reductions in Mantles this month at Turnbull's in order to have the stock all cleaned out by the first of January, as styles change so rapidly these days, we do not want to carry any over as our desire is to always show New Goods. We have only about 90 Mantles left, but they are well assorted, as we have only a few of each make. We have gone through them carefully and marked them down to prices that are sure to clear them out. Such as:

$5.00 Mantles in Blue and Black Cloth, for - - $3.00

$8.00 Mantles Neatly Trimmed, for - - - - $6.00

$10.00 Mantles, fine quality Beaver - - - - - $6.00

We have also a length of $8 Astrachan Curl (heavy weight) we are cutting at $5 per yard, now is the time to leave your order for a Mantle that will wear better than any Dog Skin and cost only half the price. We have Leicester Sealettes, (acknowledged to be the best make in the world) in three or four qualities, they, owing to hard times, are selling slowly and would rather clear them out than carry them over and will therefore make up Mantles at from $5 to $10 less than regular prices.

TURNBULL.

Sweeping reductions in Mantles this month at Turnbull's in order to have the stock all cleaned out by the first of January, as styles change so rapidly these days, we do not want to carry any over as our desire is to always show New Goods. We have only about 90 Mantles left, but they are well assorted, as we have only a few of each make. We have gone through them carefully and marked them down to prices that are sure to clear them out. Such as:

$5.00 Mantles in Blue and Black Cloth, for - - $3.00

$8.00 Mantles Neatly Trimmed, for - - - - $6.00

$10.00 Mantles, fine quality Beaver - - - - - $6.00

We have also a length of $8 Astrachan Curl (heavy weight) we are cutting at $5 per yard, now is the time to leave your order for a Mantle that will wear better than any Dog Skin and cost only half the price. We have Leicester Sealettes, (acknowledged to be the best make in the world) in three or four qualities, they, owing to hard times, are selling slowly and would rather clear them out than carry them over and will therefore make up Mantles at from $5 to $10 less than regular prices.

ON THE JOURNEY HOME

Canada's Honored Dead Conveyed in State to London.

THE QUEEN'S LAUREL WREATH

Colonial Officials Meet the Remains on Their Arrival at Paddington Station, London—Preparations for the Removal of the Body to Southampton.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—The body of Sir John Thompson, the late Premier of Canada, was placed in a coffin and was removed to a room in the Clarence Tower, Windsor Castle. There at midnight a requiem mass was celebrated by Father Longinoto, Vicar of St. Edward's church in Windsor. About eighty persons were present, among them being Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian High Commissioner in London; Lord Pelham Clinton, Master of the Queen's Household; and numerous other members of the royal household, as well as several colonial officials who had accompanied Sir Charles Tupper from London. The body was then taken to Marble Hall. It was the Queen's order that the removal of the body to the station should be made with some of the ceremonies of state. Shortly after 10 o'clock her Majesty, accompanied by her secretary, went in a wheel chair to the hall where the body lay and with her own hands placed on the coffin a wreath of laurel and white flowers, bearing the words: "A mark of sincere regard from Victoria."

The people of the town gathered along the castle hill and the streets leading round the castle to the railway station. At the station the town councillors and other officials had gathered in a small group to pay their last respects to the late Premier. The special train, the locomotive heavily draped with black and the curtains drawn, had been made up and was ready at 11.30 o'clock. At 12.30 an officer walked down the street asking the crowds to stand back. The officer returned to the castle, and almost immediately the hearse came out of the Henry VIII. gate, and with the short line of carriages, proceeded round the castle grounds to the railway station. The moment the hearse appeared the state character of the ceremonies was apparent.

In front of the black horses walked four men carrying the coffin lid, from which the plumes had been removed and placed on a large crape-covered board. The guard turned out and presented arms as the hearse passed the gate. Behind the hearse came the carriage occupied by Sir Charles Tupper, the official representative of the Canadians mourning for their lost premier. In the next carriage was Sir Henry Ponsonby, the Queen's private secretary and on this occasion her personal representative. Behind him rode Lord Pelham Clinton, master of Her Majesty's household Sir James Reid, who was with Sir John when he died, and all the members of the household who could be spared from their official duties. Miss Thompson, the late premier's daughter, rode in a closed carriage. She went to Windsor early in the morning all but prostrated with grief and the suddenness of the shock.

The Queen stood in the window above Sir George's Gateway to watch the departure of the procession. To the wreath placed by her on the coffin she had added at the last moment one of laurel alone, to be laid on the coffin as it was removed to the hearse and to lie on it throughout the voyage to Canada. The card attached to this wreath bore, in Her Majesty's own hand-writing, words expressive of her grief and sympathy. The Queen's two wreaths were placed on the coffin. Miss Thompson rode with two ladies who had accompanied her from London to Windsor.

The arrangements as made at Windsor were that the body should be taken to Paddington station in London, thence to the embalmers and eventually to St. James church in Spanish Place, where a requiem mass is to be celebrated.

When the special train from Windsor arrived at the Paddington station it was met by several subordinate officials from the Dominion offices and representatives of the Great Western railroad, besides a small group of Sir John's social friends. The body was removed immediately to the hearse which awaited it just outside the station and was conveyed to the embalmers without delay. The Queen's wreaths and other flowers were taken in a carriage to St. James church.

Sir John's friends and acquaintances who had come to London with the body, stood with uncovered heads while the coffin was carried along the platform. After the hearse was driven off they parted—some to remain in the town for the requiem services, others to return to Windsor. Among the latter was Sir Charles Tupper.

As had been arranged in Windsor, the body was taken from the Paddington station to the embalmer, who was instructed to have it ready, if possible, for removal to Southampton this evening.

Lord Herschell, the Lord Chancellor, presided at a meeting of the judicial committee of the Privy Council. He spoke at length of Sir John's sudden death and the painful shock that it had given his many friends in Great Britain and the colonies. Edward Blake, M.P., who is a native and life-long resident of Canada, thanked the Lord Chancellor for his tribute of respect, which, he said, Canadians would receive with gratitude.

Dr. Reid, the court physician, in whose arms Sir John Thompson died, says that the death was undoubtedly due to syncope of the heart, and therefore an inquest would be unnecessary. Accordingly the decision to send the body to London was reached.

Sir John Thompson first fainted while lunching with the Ministers and their suite, her Majesty having retired to her private rooms after the ceremony of swearing in. Sir John had received many congratulations from the Ministers and officials, when he said he felt faint and retired with the Marquis of Breadalbane to the writing room. After brandy was administered Sir John revived, and, refusing the marquis' arm, returned to the luncheon room. "I'm all right now," he said, "thank you."

These, Sir John's last words, were accompanied by a courteous bow, and he sat down to the table, took up his knife and fork, but before he had touched the food, he fell with a lurch into the arms of Dr. Reid. The first reports that reached London stated that Sir John had died in the writing room, but these were incorrect, having been sent out in the confusion of the event. When Sir John Thompson fell back the doctor caught him in such a way that he could feel his pulse, and the stopping of the beating proclaimed that death had been almost instantaneous.

Lord Ripon's tribute to the worth of Sir John Thompson was expressed in tones of the deepest sorrow. He said:—"My personal grief is great. I found Sir John Thompson a man after my own heart, quiet, sterling and solid. He was also a co-religionist."

THEY WANT IMPERIAL HELP.

Newfoundland Asks Aid From the Home Government.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—One of the officials of the Colonial Office stated in an interview that the late Government of Newfoundland had asked the Home Government for assistance to weather the financial storm. Nothing had been done in the matter, he said, and it remained to be seen whether the successors of the late Government would renew the request. Such an appeal from a self-governing colony, he said, was unprecedented. The Government would be unable to take any action in the matter without the authority of Parliament.

The Morning Post says: "It is difficult to see how the Imperial Government would be justified in spending the taxpayers' money to support the credit of an autonomous colony. The obligation should be incurred with all the responsibility of self-government and must be met by local taxation. If this be impossible, it will be necessary to consider the advisability of altering the present system of administration. If it were only a question of money much might be forgiven."

The Post comments on the recent political scandals as proving the political inaptitude of the colonists and will accuse them of failing to do their duty toward Great Britain by declining to recognise French rights and thus creating a difficulty between friendly nations. The Post adds: "The Newfoundlanders will have only themselves to blame if the Government be driven to take strong measures to end the almost intolerable situation."

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Dec. 14.—It is now regarded as impossible for the Union Bank to resume operations. The property of the shareholders will be sacrificed to protect the depositors and note holders. The bank of Nova Scotia, of Halifax, has sent two representatives to render whatever assistance is possible. Large consignments of specie are also on the way here, and it is hoped that this will help to restore public confidence.

ENGLAND'S FREE HAND.

Other Powers Think She Can Deal With the Armenian Outrages.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—The Standard's Vienna correspondent says: "Germany, Austria and Italy have decided to allow England and Russia for the present a free hand in the Armenian question and will decline to send delegates with the commission of inquiry. Hence the European commission which the Sultan desired will not be formed. It is said that the Cabinets of Rome and Vienna intended to show confidence in England and Russia, while the Berlin Cabinet did not oppose this course."

Other information from Berlin and Vienna hardly confirms the view. The newspapers of Vienna, Berlin and Buda Pesth cast doubt upon the whole narrative of the Armenian massacre, as told by the London press and deride the manifestos of the Armenian Society in London as ridiculous exaggerations. They also accuse England of raising the Armenian outcry cry for ulterior political purposes.

Charles Wenyon, an English missionary, was recently arrested while passing through Turkey on his way to China. He was charged with active sympathy with the Armenians. After three weeks in prison he was arraigned before a Turkish governor who released him after assuring him that the arrest was due to a mistake.

BERLIN, Dec. 14.—It is reported that the Czar will co-operate with England in Armenia, but will not allow any modification of the treaty stipulations concerning that country.

VIENNA, Dec. 14.—Mgr. Khriman, the Catholicos of Etchmiadzin, will attend with Russia's permission the Armenian congress at Tiflish. It is understood that he will organize a deputation of Armenians to go to St. Petersburg and lay the situation before the Russian Government.

Provincial Fat Stock Show.

GUELPH, Dec. 14.—The annual Christmas fair in connection with the fat stock show was held yesterday. Butchers' cattle were plentiful at 3 to 3 1-2c. Not many really fat cattle were brought in for sale. Some of the stock on exhibition at the fat stock brought good prices for the Christmas trade. A number of the prize sheep were also sold for the Buffalo market. The large display of dressed poultry has been disposed of. Prices were considerable below that of former years. The show closed in the afternoon.

Barn Burned by Tramps.

HAMILTON, Dec. 14.—Yesterday the barn and contents on the farm of Mr. George Fagan, in Bartonville, were completely destroyed by fire. On the barn, which was a large frame building, there was a horse, waggon, buggy, eight tons of hay, and farm implements. Loss about $1,000; insurance $450. The fire was caused by tramps.

MR. BOWELL CALLED IN

He Discusses the Situation With the Governor-General.

LOOKING FOR A PREMIER

The Succession Probably Between Mr. Bowell and Mr. Haggart—The Imperial Government Offers H. M.S. Blenheim to Take the Body.

OTTAWA, Dec. 14.—Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Trade and Commerce, was sent for yesterday by Lord Aberdeen. The acting Premier met his Excellency in his office in the eastern departmental block. They had a conference of some fifteen minutes. Although Mr. Bowell does not say so, there is no doubt but he was asked to assume the task of forming a new administration. At any rate he was consulted as to who should do so if he would not himself. After leaving his Excellency Mr. Bowell met all the Ministers of the Government who are now here in the Privy Council chamber. They were all in attendance except Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, who is on the Pacific coast, Sir John Carling and Hon. A. R. Angers, who arrived too late to be in attendance. The question of the premiership was discussed at the meeting, but no decision was arrived at and none will likely be for a few days. Mr. Bowell's strong opponent will be Hon. John Haggart, Minister of Railways.

The funeral arrangements have been changed. A despatch was received last night from the British Government offering H. M. S. Blenheim to take the body to Halifax. The Canadian Government, after consulting Lady Thompson, agreed to this, and a cable was sent to Lord Ripon to this effect. The state funeral will therefore take place in Halifax. Funeral services will be held in the different churches here.

Who Will be the Next Premier?

OTTAWA, Dec. 14.—The death of Sir John Thompson and speculation as to his successor are the whole talk here at present. With the exception of Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper all the Ministers are in the city and met in the Council Chamber.

An evening paper, discussing the political situation, says. "If the choice of the party is confined to the Cabinet, Hon. Mackenzie Bowell seems to be considered the likeliest man. He is the senior member and the acting Premier. There might be some opposition to him on the ground that his Orange affiliations might alienate some of the party vote in Quebec. However, Mr. Bowell is very popular and respected among the French-Canadian Conservatives who know him.

Outside of Mr. Bowell, the availables in the Cabinet are held to be Hon. George E. Foster, Hon. John Haggart, Hon. A. R. Angers, or Sir Charles Tupper, jr. Mr. Foster is a strong all-around man, but owing to being the keeper of the purse and having to exercise economy he has perhaps not so strong a personal following as some others. But he is considered quite an eligible. The Lachine bridge trouble would, it is thought, be an embarrassing matter to Mr. Haggart as premier, as, rightly or wrongly, he would be attacked for not better controlling the expenditure. Mr. Angers is little known outside Quebec, but is highly respected. Sir Charles Tupper, jr., is thought to be too young a man to be welcomed as a leader to the elder heads in the cabinet.

"Many are convinced that the Conservative leaders will go outside of the Cabinet altogether to find Sir John Thompson's successor. The first choice, they think, will be Sir Charles Tupper, sr., who will be urged to come from London to lead the party. He will be unwilling to do this, but from the expressions used among some Conservatives here, an offer will be made to ask him to come, and if this is decided on the strongest pressure will be put upon him to do so.

"The Governor-General will, of course, send for Mr. Bowell, in the first place for advice, as he is the acting Premier, and doubtless will ask him to form a Government. It will then be Mr. Bowell's privilege to endeavor to do so or to recommend his Excellency to call on some other member of the Conservative party."

IN THE QUEBEC HOUSE.

Mr. Chicoyne Attacks the Legislative Council—Montreal Zoo Park.

QUEBEC, Dec. 14. — In the Assembly yesterday Mr. Chicoyne, M. P. P. for Wolfen, presented a motion for "copies of all memorials or petitions presented to the executive during the present legislature, praying that the constitution be amended in such manner that the members of the Legislative Council be in future chosen by an election system based upon the limited suffrage." He supported his motion with a running speech against the provincial Senators and concluded that at least they should be treated on the same footing as Senators are in several countries.

Mr. Descarries, M. P. P. for St. Jacques Cartier, in a speech upheld the petition of the Rev. Ladies of the congregation Notre Dame de Montreal for a grant sufficiently high to allow the ladies to rebuild their mother-house which was burnt some time ago. The Government will not make any special grants but will confine itself to the subsidies already decided upon previous sessions.

Mr. Allard's private bill concerning the Montreal zoological garden to obtain certain privileges was the cause of a hot debate in which a number of members took part. There is a strong current against the zoo park and the sale of four per cent. larger beer, the Montreal Catholic clergy having pronounced itself against it. The bill was given the six months' hoist.

A MATTER OF MALADMINISTRATION.

The function of government is to protect the people and their interests, instead of hampering individual operations by the application of vexatious, not to say, tyrannical, exercise of power. The action of the Dominion Government in relation to the seizure and confiscation of the fishery outfit of Messrs. J. and C. Noble, as set forth in a memorandum prepared by their solicitors, Messrs. McCarthy & Co., seems worthy of severe condemnation. It is shown in the memorandum, as has been previously stated in the public prints, that a fishing plant valued at $25,000 has been seized and confiscated for an offence against the fishery regulations, of so venial a character that a fine of $40 or $50 would have been adequate punishment. Persons without prejudice think that in this affair an outrage has been committed in the name of the law, which has been used as an engine of oppression and unjustifiable harshness. So strong is the local feeling and so highly are the Messrs. Noble respected in North and East Simcoe, Algoma and Nipissing that the action of the Government will have a decided influence upon the elections for the Commons that are approaching. It is incredible that the government can be so blind as to adopt so arbitrary a course of action in opposition to the interests of so important an industry, which it is its duty to foster and encourage. An idea of the importance of our fisheries is shown by the fact that the value of the fisheries of Ontario for 1893, are given in the government blue books as $1,694,937, and of the Dominion as $20,686,661, and that the value of the exports in that year were $8,743,850. It would be supposed that a firm like the Noble Bros., that had $25,000 invested in the industry would be a legitimate subjects of the "protection" policy of the government instead of being the object of oppressive measures. Assuming, as is not unreasonable from other developments, that similar mal-administration obtains in the other departments of government, one is not surprised at the embarrassed position in which our financial affairs are being guided. If the Noble incident is a type of the manner in which Sir Hibbert Tupper administers his department, the circumstance will not prove much of a boom to that gentleman's chances of being placed in the position of head of the Government.

THE EXAMINER has received a pamphlet entitled "Algoma Farmers Testify." This little book sets forth the agricultural, mineral and timber resources of Algoma, the "New Ontario." The contents of this little book prove that no Canadian need go outside of Canada to find a home for himself and his family, if he has any knowlege of farming or stock-raising, and is willing to work; even though his means may be limited—and that less means are needed to make a fair start in Algoma than in any other field of immigration offering itself to the settler. Those interested in the pamphlet mentioned, which is compiled by Mr. Fred Rogers, are informed that he will supply a copy to any person sending name, address and return postage to Sault Ste. Marie, or the book may be obtained from the Crown Lands Department, Toronto.

ALL speculations as to the date of the Dominion general elections will have to be revised in view of the death of the Premier. Whoever his successor may be, he will ask a little time to pull himself and his party and policy together before appealing to the people. Still that is no reason why the Liberals should not maintain a condition of preparation, so that they will be ready in any event for the fray.

NORTH SMITH DAIRY COMPANY.

Annual Meeting of Stockholders—Memo of Business Transacted—The Creamery Department—Report of the Year's Operations.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of North Smith Dairy Company was held in the Temperance Hall, Selwyn, on Tuesday, Dec. 11th, 1894, at 2 p.m. As usual the meeting was not largely attended, but all were well pleased with the result of the season's operations.

The financial report showed considerable increase in the business, as compared with former years, the result being a larger income and more profitable year for the company.

Two important changes are to be introduced into the company's system of doing business next season. The first is to pay for milk according to quality, as determined by the Babcock test. This system, it is hoped, will induce patrons to take better care of their milk, and do away with all suspicion of patrons sending either watered or skimmed milk to the factory. The other is to balance, audit and settle the patrons' milk accounts each month after the returns for last shipment for month are received.

The company organized a butter factory last season which gave good satisfaction, and, although the amount of business done was not large—the make of butter last season being 4,438 lbs.—it paid expenses and left a small balance to credit of the funds of the company. This season there has been a large increase in the milk for the butter factory. There were nearly 6000 lbs. of butter made in November.

One of the rules of the butter factory was that no turnips should be fed to cows while their milk was coming to the factory. To emphasize this rule and make it more impressive to those patrons who may be disposed to ignore it, a motion or resolution was passed by the stockholders, that any patrons whose cows are fed turnips or turnip tops while sending milk to our cheese or butter factory shall be fined two dollars for first offence, the fine to be doubled for each subsequent offence.

Messrs. R. H. Braden and Robt. Duff were appointed auditors—Mr. Braden to audit the patrons' milk accounts monthly.

Messrs. W. Nicholls, Wm. McIlmoyle, W. A. Graham, W. J. Northey and M. R. Sanderson were elected directors for the coming year.

The following is

THE REPORT.

of the business of the North Smith cheese factory for 1894:

	Total Milk.	Total Cheese.	Total Value.
April and May	27,821 lbs	24,363 lbs	$2,224 09

	1,845,297 lbs.	165,860 lbs	$16,000 78

The value of milk after deducting 2 cents per pound of cheese for expenses is as follows:

Apr l and May	63.7 cents per 100 lbs.
June	63. " " "
July	63.1-5 " " "
August	74 1/4 " " "
September	78.8 " " "
October	76.81 " " "

The average pounds of milk to pound of cheese is, for April and May, 11.22 lbs.; June, 11.36; July, 11.57; August, 11.29; September, 10.38; October, 10.34.

FREEMAN'S CASE.

One Particularly Interesting to Women, as it Deals With Their Troubles.

LEAMINGTON, Dec. 14—It has been a cause of wonder to many people why women will neglect the first symptoms, and continue to suffer from ill health, and from debility, when the means of relief can so readily be obtained. Before a cure can be effected the work of the kidneys must be renewed, the blood cleansed of poisonous material, and the ligaments and muscles strengthened and invigorated. The history of case of Miss Nettie Freeman, of this village, whose life was saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills, has had one beneficial effect in that it has aroused scores of other women in this locality from the false modesty they were manifesting and as a result the sales of Dodd's Kidney Pills have been enormous, and the resultant good commensurs therewith.

Jocular Christmas Gifts.

It will increase the joy and jollity of Christmas morning exceedingly if the children find that their elders have entered into the spirit of the time to such a degree that stockings of all conceivable sizes and shapes bulge with strange contents over the fireplace. The more amusing the gifts tucked away in toe and heel the more uproarious will be the mirth before breakfast. The old trick of wrapping a pair of cuff buttons in multitudinous papers until they form a bundle as big as a potato will never fail to excite interest and enthusiasm. A jack in the box put in the stocking of a staid father of a family has been known to cause reminiscent chuckles of glee through a whole day, and the most amusing thing that Mark Twain ever said would pale in effect before the amusement caused by the mother's drawing a cream whip from her stocking.—Exchange.

A Railway Manager says:

"In reply to your question do my children object to taking Scott's Emulsion, I say No! on the contrary, they are fond of it and it keeps them pictures of health."

As Well as Ever

After Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla

Cured of a Serious Disease.

"I was suffering from what is known as Bright's disease for five years, and for days at a time I have been unable to straighten myself up. I was in bed for three weeks; during that time I had leeches applied and derived no benefit. Seeing Hood's Sarsaparilla advertised in the papers I decided to try a bottle. I found relief before I had finished taking half of a bottle. I got so much help from taking the first bottle that I decided to try another, and since taking the second bottle I feel as well as ever I did in my life." GEO. MERRETT, Toronto, Ont.

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla CURES

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

LABOR VIEWS ON SILVER

The Question of Coinage Discussed by the Denver Convention.

UNION WITH KNIGHTS OF LABOR

One of the Delegates Refers to This Organization As a Gang of "Shysters" — The A. R. U. Strike — Resolutions Before the Convention.

DENVER, Col., Dec. 14.—The silver resolution, with a long preamble as an argument favoring the views of recoinage advocates and demanding the re-enactment of the coinage law of 1837 upon a ratio of 16 to 1, were before the federal committee of the labor convention yesterday and brought out a heated debate by the delegates who spoke on the question. Some were opposed to both coin metals, others were opposed to silver as coin so long as the silver mines were in the hands of private parties, others wanted greenbacks and did not want the "miserable silver stuff." One delegate protested against an international monetary conference. He wanted money that would be valueless elsewhere than the United States. The resolution was adopted without the preamble.

The committee on the president's address reported endorsing the position of the executive council in the A.R.U. strike. It recommended the fixing of May 1, 1895, as the day for an effort to establish the eight-hour day. Opposition to the committee's report was raised by delegate Penner because it recommended the continuance of negotiations with the Knights of Labor for a union. Delegate Penner wanted to have nothing to do with what he denominated a gang of "shysters" led by knaves. Such an organization, he declared, could only be reformed by killing it. Action on this recommendation was deferred, and the remainder of the report was concurred in.

President Gompers then made a statement in regard to a despatch in which Debs is quoted as referring to the trouble during the A. R. U. strike. Mr. Gompers said he doubted the correctness of the reported interview. He said: "I never stated that Debs asked me to aid in the strike. At the conference held in Chicago, when Debs concluded his statement of his strike, I asked him: 'What would you have this conference do?' He replied: 'I do not want to say what I want you to do, but if I were in your place I would order a strike.' Up to the present moment I have the very kindliest feeling in my heart for Mr. Debs. I have the utmost respect for him and his character, and this charge does not change my opinion."

Resolutions were introduced to secure the release and indemnity of Beatty and Dempsey, Homestead strikers; to endorse a fisherman's lables, on an eight-hour day, on Sunday work and overtime, to secure affiliation of outside national orders and to recognize the painters' union of New York. The resolution committee reported adversely on a document from Carl Browne, the Coxeyite, requesting that if Congress shall adopt the Baltimore plan, the federation shall order its followers to demand payment in gold coin after May, 1895; adversely on Delegate Samuel's resolution requesting Congress to employ idle labor on public roads; favorably upon one by Delegate McNotan on the establishment of state employment agencies; favorably upon by one by Delegate Elkins, looking to reform of abuses in the mercantile marine by the enactment by congress of laws looking to the sanitary and personal protection of seamen. A resolution by S. T. Morgan, of Chicago, to secure the enforcement of the compulsory education law in all states was endorsed.

TO MAINTAIN THEIR RATES.

American Roads Reach an Agreement on the Commission Business.

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—The general managers of the Central Traffic Association roads were in session yesterday. The principal business was a ratification of the action taken in New York recently on the commission business. This ratification clinches the maintenance of rates. The transcontinental lines decided to form an association of their own. To this end an agreement was drawn up which differs little from the old one. It is essentially an agreement to maintain rates. The Canadian Pacific worked with the other roads in consenting to this agreement, but it is not known how long it will stick, as the question of differentials is not yet settled.

It is probable that this action will result in the organization of two associations, the other to include the Western and trans-Missouri roads. In the general committee meeting a committee was appointed to take up the trans-Missouri question.

Uncle Sam's Income Tax.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The Secretary of the Treasury yesterday approved the income tax regulations. Every citizen of the United States, whether residing at home or abroad and every person residing or doing business in the United States, who has an annual income of more than $3,500 is required to make return under oath before the first Monday in March of each year. The first return is to include all incomes received in the year 1894 from January 1 to December 31. Guardians, trustees and all corporations acting in any judiciary capacity are required to make similar returns for minors, wards or beneficiaries. Persons having less than $3,500 annual income are not required to make returns. All incomes of $4,000 and over are taxable two per cent.

It's Astonishing

how Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription acts upon nervous women. It's a marvelous remedy for nervous and general debility, Chorea, or St. Vitus's Dance, Insomnia, or inability to sleep, spasms, convulsions, or "fits," and every like disorder.

Even in cases of insanity resulting from functional derangements, the persistent use of the "Prescription" will, by restoring the natural functions, generally effect a cure.

For women suffering from any chronic "female complaint" or weakness; for women who are run-down or overworked; at the change from girlhood to womanhood; and, later, at the critical "change of life"—it is a medicine that safely and certainly builds up, strengthens, regulates and cures.

If it doesn't, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

What more can any one ask

Is anything that isn't sold in this way likely to be "just as good?"

SHAKEN WITH EARTHQUAKE.

Volcanic Disturbances in Islands of the New Hebrides.

VICTORIA, B.C., Dec. 14.—The steamer Warrimoo brings news that most of the islands of the New Hebrides group are having severe earthquake and volcanic disturbances. The very existence of several of the largest and best islands, including Ambryn, celebrated for the excellence of its coffee, is threatened. An entire native village in Ambryn was recently carried into the sea. The loss of life is estimated at from 60 to 75. Fatalities are reported from other islands. A layer of ashes from two to six inches deep covered many fertile islands on Ambryn. An earthquake on November 3 opened a crater on the west side of the island. The whole island trembled the whole of the next day. Since then craters have opened in five or six places. The island of Epi had 63 distinct shocks up to November 3, and the fort works had been covered by ashes and smoke.

Travelers and planters on Ambryn island have fled, abandoning all their possessions. On November 13 many natives fled from their humble homes and threw themselves into the sea. When the Warrimoo left natives from all the volcanic islands were flocking to the centres of civilization for safety. The outbreak on Ambryn commenced on October 16 at an old crater in the centre of the island. One stream of lava entered the sea one mile east of Dip Point. A column of steam arose 4,500 feet. There were violent submarine explosions and outbursts of smoke and fire.

JAPS WILL INVESTIGATE

The Alleged Cruelties to Chinese Civilians in Port Arthur.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—The Central News correspondent in Tokio says that the Japanese war minister will go to Port Arthur probably to ascertain the basis of persistent rumors that the Japanese soldiers killed civilians after the capture of the town.

The Times correspondent at Tien-Tsin said that Li-Hung Chang's official position is firmer than ever as the court has found him indispensible.

Hungary's Religious Bills.

BUDA PESTH, Dec. 14.—The signing of three religious bills by the King was celebrated last evening with a parade and an illumination of the city. Ten thousand men marched in the procession and cheered for the King and Premier Wekerle.

A Hotelkeeper's Death.

BUFFALO, Dec. 14.—Frank Sandham, a hotelkeeper of Alden, this county, was found dead in bed with several cuts and gashes on his head, from which blood had flown freely. There are rumors of foul play and the coroner will investigate.

The Attempted Murder in Berlin.

BERLIN, Dec. 14.—The two polanders, Przhodda and Happka, were brought up before John McDougall, J. P., on trial for attempted murder of Alexander Wildfong on the the night of December 1 in the north ward. The prisoners were represented by Mr. Bitzer and pleaded "not guilty." Mr. Wildfong, the victim, was then put on the stand and related how he was followed and stabbed in the neck by Przhodda. It appears a row had originated down town between the prisoners and other young men when Happka had lost his hat and had accused Wildfong of taking or knowing where it was. His evidence was corroborated by C. Englhert who overheard the threatening language on the part of the prisoners. They were then committed for trial.

Did Not Form an Organization.

AYLMER, Ont., Dec. 14.—A meeting of the supporters of Mr. Dalton McCarthy, M.P., was held in the town hall here yesterday for organization. There was a slim attendance, most of those present being from St. Thomas. The rural section of East Elgin was not represented. Mr. L. D. Gillet, who was called to the chair, explained that the object of the meeting was to organize the McCarthy party in East Elgin for the approaching Dominion campaign. Two or three other speakers made brief addresses and the meeting, which was a comparatively short one, adjourned to January 10.

Indians Suing the Government.

OTTAWA, Dec. 14.—The Indians of Missassagus, who owned large tracts of land, including the town of Oakville, is suing the Dominion Government through their legal representative, E. Furlong, of Hamilton, for a million and a half dollars for surrendering the land to the Government on which the town of Oakville is now situated.

Murdered With a Pitchfork.

OTTAWA, Dec. 14.—A telephone message from Rockland stated it is rumored there that the body of a man named W. Chartrand, of Buckingham, who had worked at Edwards' mills, had been found in a barn between Thurse and Buckingham, with the appearance of having been murdered with a pitchfork.

Fifteen Dollars For Ten.

Nothing astonishing about this when you learn the facts about it at Gough Bros. All their fine black worsted suits and double breasted Cheviot suits, made up for finest gentlemen's wear, bought from a tottering manufacturer who could not resist our cash offer, we have decided to sell at $10—although $15 is the true value of them. This offer of fifteen dollars for ten stands good only until January 1st, 1895, at Gough Bros., but nowhere else, and for no longer a date. dw

SPECTACLES AND EYE GLASSES

In Gold, Silver, Nickel, Aluminum and Steel.

Whether you wear glasses now or not, if you are conscious of any difficulty in seeing—no matter how slight it is—do not neglect it for another day. It will cost you nothing to talk the matter over with me, and have your eyes skillfully examined.

No effort will be made to sell you Glasses unless you need them.

If you have never worn glasses, I will tell you if you ought to begin; if you already wear them, I will tell you whether they are suited to your eyes. What I have learned with long practical experience, concerning the best methods of ascertaining the different defects of the eyes and their proper correction, you can have the benefit of. I will guarantee to fit you properly with glasses that will strengthen and improve your eyesight, instead of rapidly ruining it, as poorly fitted glasses always do. Bring your whole family and have their eyes examined. No charge for examination.

I always keep a full and complete stock of the best Optical Goods manufactured, including pure White Axis Cut Brazilian Pebbles, which I can furnish in the newest and best styles of Frames for Spectacles and Eye-Glasses, in gold, silver, nickel, aluminum and steel. As we do not purpose to carry over a single Mantle or Ulster, buyers can rest assured that no obstacle will be put in the way of letting them go at a BARGAIN.

OUR MANTLE CLOTHS and SEALETTES . . . . .

Will, of coure, have to share the same fate, for the same reason. The pick of our High-Class Stock of any of these Cloths at any of the reduced prices we now offer will be

A SNAP FOR ANY BUYER

who is a judge of the goods.

ALL TRIMMED MILLINERY

Must also come in for a SWEEPING REDUCTION to clear the way for more seasonable goods. One-half former prices will be the tariff that will prevail, and no exceptions or deviations will be made on any of the beautiful class of goods now remaining.

WINTER DRESS GOODS

Of every kind have all been re-examined and re-marked, with Reduced Price Tickets. The former value of these high-class goods have been fully recognized and appreciated by customers, but the reduced prices will enhance their value at least 25 per cent.

WOOL and KNITTED SHAWLS

Still very seasonable, and so much worn, will be dropped in price to ensure a speedy sale at this season of the year.

Inspection invited. No trouble to show goods, and no obligation to buy. What we want is lookers as well at buyers. We don't talk much about prices, but when we say they're down—THEY'RE DOWN.

LOCAL NEWS.

Wonderful Bargains in Men's Pants, at Grafton & Co.

Telfordian Temperature Topics.

Friday, Dec. 14th.—At this morning's observation, the thermometer indicated 32 degrees above zero, with moderate temperature; no thoughts of a storm, though windy.—THOMAS TELFORD.

Still Another Franchise.

At a meeting of the committee of the whole council last night, Mr. Parkyn, of Lindsay, gave formal notice to the effect that before the first of the year he would make application for a franchise to erect poles on the streets for the purpose of stringing wires for the transmission of electric power.

Opening of Tenders.

At the meeting of the Street and Bridge Committee last night tenders for stone were opened. Thirteen were received and the lowest offer was $1.25 per cord. It was resolved that the town take 25 cords at this price from all the corporation teamsters until 250 cords were secured, when the matter can be further considered.

Charity Entertainment.

An entertainment will be given in St. John's school house on Tuesday evening, the 18th Dec., in aid of a deserving local charity. Readings, music—vocal and instrumental, as well as a very amusing drawing room comedy, entitled "My Turn Next," will be presented during the evening. Tickets 25c.

A Divinity Student's Plea.

William H. Graham, a divinity student of Victoria University, is seeking to compel the Temperance and General Assurance Company to keep distinct and separate the earnings and profits of the temperance and non-temperance sections of the company. He thinks that the temperance section should not bear the losses of the non temperance section. The plaintiff is a total abstainer.

An Explanation in Order.

Inspector Garvin stated last night in the Opera House that the Peterborough press had announced that the Town Council refused to accede to the requests of the Children's Aid Society, when petitioned for assistance. It is now in order for Mr. Garvin to particularize. The statement is too sweeping, and the public is anxious to know exactly from what source the Inspector derived his information. An announcement regarding which paper published the item in question is awaited.

A Lecture Worth Hearing.

"Woman's Hemisphere."

A West End Runaway.

Yesterday afternoon, between four and five o'clock, a local flour mills delivery waggon was standing at Lynch's grocery, the horse tethered to the usual heavy weight. For some cause the animal became frightened and started off with a rush. Clearing itself of the weight, it made a mad dash down Brock street, coming in collision with the equipage of St. Joseph's Hospital, taking off a wheel and doing other damage, but fortunately not injuring any of the occupants of the vehicle, though they were greatly frightened. The runaway then proceeded townward and very considerately brought up at Metheralls blacksmith shop—convenient for having any needed repairs promptly attended to.

Special value in Fur Coats, in Coon, Bear, Astrachan, Russian Dog, at Gough Bros. Every coat in the house reduced from 20 to 35 per cent.

A NATIONAL SUBSCRIPTION.

On Behalf of the Widow and Family of the Late Sir John Thompson—Amounts Subscribed Payable into Bank of Montreal and its Branches—The Local Branch has Received Instructions to That Effect.

At a meeting in Ottawa on Thursday afternoon of the late members of the Government of the late Sir John Thompson, the condition of Lady Thompson and her family was considered, and it was decided that the circumstances were such as to justify the colleagues of the late Sir John Thompson in asking for a national subscription to create a fund for the support of Lady Thompson and her family. Mr. Bowell and Mr. Ives were appointed a committee to carry the matter out. Their first step was to ask the Minister of Finance to act as treasurer in the meantime, until the subscribers have chosen trustees to invest and manage the funds. It was decided that the form of subscription should be such that the amounts subscribed should be payable into the Bank of Montreal or any of its agencies to the credit of Mr. Geo. E. Foster. It is not desired that large sums should be subscribed so much as that the fund be generally subscribed to by the Canadian people, the idea being to get small sums. The public is asked to take the matter in hand at once. What is desired is that everyone should have the opportunity of contributing his mite.

The local branch of the Bank of Montreal has received instructions to receive subscriptions on account of this fund. The subscription lists are now open and already several contributions have been made.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

Items of Interest to Local Sportsmen

THE RING.

Arrangements have been made whereby Peterborough's best local pugilist will meet one of the Slavin boys in a friendly bout in the Opera House next week. The affair will doubtless draw a big crowd.

THE FIELD.

Messrs. Thos. Rutherford and W. Bryne took a fox hunting party out to Mr. Geo. Fitzgerald's place in Smith this morning. The party did not intend to ride to hounds but simply to let the dogs out on the scent and to endeavour to get a shot at a Reynard if the chase led past where they were posted.

BILLIARDS.

George Sutton, of Toronto, formerly of Peterborough, was defeated by Watson, of St. Alban's, at Montreal, on Wednesday evening, in the second match of the Montreal tournament by 400 to 332. Watson's average was 6 2-3; highest run 30. Sutton's average 5 6-11; highest run 25. The Montreal Gazette says:—"The scoring was not large, owing principally to the table being new and the cushions hard, but there was some pretty billiards played for all that. Sutton was the favourite, but both players kept pretty close together, and at the intermission there was only 24 points between them. In the second half Sutton seemed to be playing in hard luck, and when the game was up Watson was a long way in the lead."

Slippers starting at 25c. at Gough Bros., but you can go as high as $1.75 if you prefer.

REMEMBER THE AUCTION SALE.

At the store recently occupied by H. Thompson & Co. A splendid stock of Christmas Goods, Cards, Booklets, Books of all kinds in gift bindings, Fancy Goods of all kinds; a superb stock to be sold without reserve. To-night and Saturday night. Remember the auction sale to-morrow afternoon. Remember the place, 406 George street. No end of Bargains. Come!

Absurd Fashions.

A bright woman has been making for many years a collection that is far from being completed, that is absolutely unique and that has great intrinsic value. In the early days of the late war she began a scrap book of nothing but fashion plates. This has been added to from time to time until the one volume has grown to several. It is a wonderfully interesting sight, the passing in review of all the absurd fancies that have flourished in these thirty odd years. These are the Grecian bend, the chignon, the waterfall the pull back, the crinoline, the tiny bonnets and pokes, the large bustles and large sleeves. Only extremes of style and oddities are used, or the collection would swell beyond all proportion.

OSTROM BROS. MEATS.

False Reports Flatly Contradicted.

To the Public:

Interested parties, who are engaged in the same business are circulating false rumours, we believe, with the intention of injuring our meat business, to the effect that we do not import Chicago meats, and that our Canadian meats are purchased from local butchers, and that our meats are "high." Now we wish to positively deny all these statements. As to our importing meats from Chicago, we can show bills of lading to prove that we do. In the second place, we do not buy a single pound of meat from local butchers. What Canadian beef we sell is bought and killed by our own butcher. In regard to our meats being "high," that is an impossibility. We have the best refrigerating appliances for keeping meat in the town and it is impossible for a single pound of our meats to become "high" before they are delivered to the public. These are the simple facts and the efforts made by our opponents to injure our business, go to show that we are selling better meats and at lower prices, as the testimony of those, who have used our meats, is to the effect that they are of A 1 quality in every respect.

ASPHODEL.

The Township Council School Section Bylaw Quashed.

In the single court at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, Thursday, Mr. Justice Boyd decided in the following case:

Re Trustees of School Section Five of Asphodel and Corporation of the Township of Asphodel.—E. B. Edwards, Peterborough, for trustees, and T. Humphries, moved for an order quashing a bylaw of the Township Council, detaching certain lands from School Section 5, and attaching them to another. D. Armour for township showed cause. Order made quashing bylaw with costs.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

MILLBROOK.

From Our Own Correspondent.

EAST DURHAM CONSERVATIVES.

The East Durham Conservative Association met in the town hall, Millbrook, Monday. Although there were only 146 delegates present out of 215, the hall was well filled with people who had come to see who would receive the nomination for the Dominion House, as it was generally known that H. A. Ward, Mayor of Port Hope, was being brought forward for the position. At 2 o'clock the president, Mr. Thomas Grandy, called the meeting to order, and then he called the roll. The election of president was then proceeded with, and as it was Hope's turn to supply that official the following gentlemen were nominated from that township: S. B. Lawson, J. H. Gardiner and S. O. Taylor. The two former retired, and Mr. Taylor was unanimously elected president. The vice-presidents are the presidents of the association of the different association. Secretary, W. S. Given. The chairman asked all those who favoured the giving of the nomination to Mr. Craig to stand. Nearly every one stood, although there were a great number who still wanted Mr. Ward. Mr. Craig then briefly thanked the delegates, and the meeting closed with cheers for the Queen, Mr. Craig and Mr. Ward. Mr. W. A. Fallis, M.P.P., is still quarantined owing to diphtheria in his family, and was therefore not present.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

As the year draws to a close, the talk of municipal elections becomes louder, and judging from the enthusiasm already displayed, we will, no doubt, see some pretty hard fighting. That there will be a hot fight for the reeveship is now evident, as Coun. Pickup has announced himself as a candidate for that position, in opposition to the present reeve, Alex. Ferguson. It was thought that Councillor Bateson would have been in the field also, but he has decided to again run for as councillor. Mr. Ferguson has been reeve for fifteen years and has been elected by acclamation for all but five years of that time, so that a contest for the county seat is quite an unusual thing and will no doubt prove interesting. Councillor Pickup, who has been in the council for only one year, fought hard for the electric light and it is no doubt that this will be an important issue in the coming contest. For councillors, several new men will, no doubt, be in the field, as well as the present ones, Councillors Bateson, Clarke and Richardson. That there are some great changes needed in the affairs of the town, cannot be denied. The assessments need re-arranging, as the present are unjust to a great many. Property worth one thousand dollars in some cases is assessed for five hundred, while property that would not sell for five hundred is assessed for one thousand. Every year the taxes are higher and the improvements apparently no greater. Where is the money going is what may I ask?

We have no electric light, we have no High School, we bonus no manufactories, we couldn't even buy a new fire bell; it had to be paid for by private subscriptions, and by the proceeds of concerts that were got up by the firemen. And still we are asked to pay twenty-six mills on the dollar. In the face of such facts as these it is evident that a change in the council is sadly needed.

SKATING RINK.

Mr. Geo. Brooks has been appointed caretaker of the curling and skating rink. The Curling club will re-organize at once, and a great effort will be made to organize a hockey club, as we have the material for a good club in town.

RAFFLE.

Horses are cheap these days, but still it is not very often a man can get a fifty dollar horse for twenty-five cents. This, however, was all that it cost Mr. John Platt, the egg dealer of Cobourg, for the fine little animal he won at "Billie" Lang's raffle the other night.

TURKEYS.

A large number of farmers were in town on Thursday, selling their turkeys to Mr. John Platt, who purchased over a thousand that day.

NOTES.

Diphtheria is still prevalent in Cavan. The school on the Fallis Line has been closed for over a month and will remain so until after the new year. The church on the line is also closed down. Only two cases have appeared in Millbrook. One of the patients was taken to his home in Manvers while the other was removed to the hospital in Peterborough. The village school is closed.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Fire Company the following officers were elected for the year 1895: Chief, A. Ferguson; Assistant Chief, Ben Raper; Captain, Geo. Lock; 1st Lieutenant, R. McMahon; 2nd Lieutenant, Ed. McCorry; Steward, W. D. Leach; Secretary, John Clark; Treasurer, S. Bateson; 1st Branchman, H. Natrass; 2nd Branchman, H. Dunford; 3rd Branchman, J. Donaldson; 4th Branchmen, W. Scott.

The boys enjoyed themselves skating on the sidewalks all over the town last Saturday, the rain the night before having frozen and provided good skating.

Mr. John Eakins was in Toronto on Friday attending a meeting of the Dominion Live Stock Association.

Miss Saddler, of Lindsay, is visiting the Misses Needlers.

Mr. Armstrong Dean, of Toronto, spent a few days last week visiting his father here.

Mr. Archie Armstrong, who has been visiting his many relatives around here during the last six months, left last week for the States.

Mr. Edward Kells, of Cleveland, brother of T. G. Kells, was in town over Sunday.

Plums for the Xmas Shoppers.

OUR CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETIES

And the Grand Work They Are Doing.

REV. J. E. STARR'S ABLE DISCOURSE.

The Large Audience Derives a Great Deal of Information About the Workings of the Society Through the Instructive Address of Rev. J. E. Starr, of Toronto,

Rev. J. E. Starr, of Toronto, who has so prominently identified himself with the movement enforcing the provisions of the Children's Protective Act, spoke in the opera house last night to a very large assemblage, on the scope and aims of the societies which had been formed under the act to carry on this most commendable and praiseworthy work.

The great need of criminal reform had become apparent years ago, Mr. Starr stated, and efforts had been made to meet the necessity, but success had not attended the efforts, as those interested had started at the top instead of the bottom in the great work and the children were neglected. The state had proved to be but of the interests of the little ones and the church was indeed an awkward nurse.

To cope with what was felt to be a difficult problem to solve, Hon. J. M. Gibson compiled and introduced that most excellent bill known as the Gibson Act, which was found to be just what was needed. The proposal, therefore, in a nut shell, continued Mr. Starr, is that the state shall become a real father to these poor neglected waifs of children, who if allowed to grow up in vice and squalor could not possibly become reputable citizens. It was also proposed that the organized Christianity of every community, irrespective of creed, should unite and be unto these children as a mother.

Mr. Starr anticipated that the first objection the people of Peterborough would have to joining such a society would be that there for an association of this nature in the town—that there were not enough children who could be classed as "neglected" to warrant the establishment of a children's Aid Society. The first work, therefore, of those interested would be to open the eyes of the people and to show them that in reality the emergency to be met was a great one. He explained, by reading extracts from the Act, what constituted neglect of children—anything in fact which would militate against their future happiness and prosperity. If they were not under proper guardianship or without salutary parental protection—if the parents were imprisoned for crime or could be classed as drunkards or vagrants, then the society was empowered to act. The work of the Children's Aid in brief, was to see that no child was handicapped for life by having a false start.

WAS NO SCOPE

Mr. Starr did not dispute for a minute the fact that the Refuges, Barnardo Homes, etc., were doing a grand and glorious work—as far as they went, but none of them

WENT FAR ENOUGH.

None of them were entrusted with the power which was vested in the Children's Aid Society. No policeman on his beat, said he, has such power as a Society's Agent in matters of this kind. Even magistrates have to bow to the provisions under which these societies are formed. Now when a child of twelve years or under is placed under arrest, the society's agent must be notified immediately and the agent has practically the decision of that child's fate in his own hands. No child, it is contemplated, shall henceforth be sent to gaol or placed in the cells to mingle with the hardened criminals and become permeated with their foul language or breathe the same crime-tainted atmosphere with them.

Industrial schools had been introduced, but were found to be used to a great extent by parents, whose children were inclined to be unruly and who wished to get rid of them and have them brought up without expense

OR FURTHER TROUBLE.

Such action on the part of parents was caustically commented upon by the speaker, who stated that the society now investigated all such cases, if possible, and if the parents were well enough off to provide for their children and simply wanted to rid themselves of them because they were troublesome, the Society was in a position to "get back at them" in a manner which made the occasion one not to be soon forgotten. Neglected, homeless waifs should not be sent to these industrial schools, he claimed, and be cooped up for half their lives, but should be sent to approved foster homes. Are not boys and girls better, he queried, under refined influence of Christian homes than herded up in such institutions?

If the society performed the work laid out for it, he claimed that inside of five years Ontario, like Victoria Colony, Australia, would or similar institution with its boundaries. All neglected children would become the wards of the state, which would pay for their support in Christian families, if foster homes could not be immediately found for them, where care, and possibly adoption, would follow.

The speaker explained that the society only prosecuted as a last resort, where every other means had failed to enable the agent to attain his end. A warning generally met the difficulty in a case where parents neglected their children wilfully, as such parents were almost invariably downright cowards, and after being shown to what extent the law could be invoked, would in almost every case submit to the dictation of the society's agent.

A case in point was illustrated by Mr. Starr, when he related the following circumstances concerning a resident of Toronto, of whom word had been sent to him stating that the case was

IN NEED OF INVESTIGATION.

The agent was dispatched to look the matter up, and the result was that the man received a notice to appear before Mr. Starr the following day. Mr. Starr then asked the man if it was a fact that he neglected his children. The citizen vehemently protested against the use of such language in connection with his name. He stated that his children were warmly clad, well fed and attended school regularly. In the face of this statement Mr. Starr told the man his history. How for the last four years he had lived without working, and depended solely for subsistence on the begging powers of his children. Every winter a new church had been joined by the family, and the old, old story told of how they had just arrived from Ireland

AND HAD NO MEANS

wherewith to clothe themselves for the winter. In each case the kind ladies had rallied around the apparently unfortunate family and provided them with everything that was needed. The scheme had worked beautifully until the particulars had reached Mr. Starr's ears. Now the children attended school and the man was a watched man and he knew it. Respectable people who lived in the neighbourhood were provided with post cards and the minute this man tried to resort to his old practices a line was sent to the society and the strong arm of the law was invoked to remedy the evil. The enactment, respecting vagrants would meet the man's case and the society would look after the children.

The Children's Aid Society, continued he, has LONG BEEN WANTED.

The police are powerless to act in such cases, unless the information is laid to them. Children could never be induced to complain to a police officer of being neglected and abused and even grown people were chary of mixing themselves up in such matters when the laying of an information meant an appearance in the witness box at the police court. The Children's Aid Society steps in just here and say,—"Complain to us, we'll stand between you and publicity. We'll investigate the case without drawing you into the matter further than you wish."

One objection, which some people had to joining the society, was that the Society was responsible for the severance of parental ties, which are always regarded as something sacred. Such an objection Mr. Starr denounced most emphatically as

THE MOST UTTER NONSENSE.

A parent had no prior right to a child, he claimed, unless this right was founded on a duty discharged. Such right was only acquired on the presumption that they would do their duty to their offspring.

Another objection to the Society's work, on the part of the municipalities, was the expense incurred, but he explained away any such idea as this by stating how quickly he obtained an additional grant from the Toronto city council, by speaking before the executive for a brief five minutes. The council had already given the Society $2,000, but the funds had become exhausted and $1,000 more was wanted. The executive objected to the expense. Mr. Starr briefly stated that the society had placed already 60 children in foster homes. As the city has to pay $50 a year for children sent to the Children's Home, a clear saving of $4,000 had thus been effected and all further expense concerning these children

WAS DONE AWAY WITH.

The grant was immediately made.

The Society, he continued, was the medium between the homeless child and the childless home. Already without asking for applications he had received 250 communications from people who were anxious to give homes to one or more children. Letters have been received from all parts of the Dominion—from British Columbia and Nova Scotia.

"Is it not wiser," asked Mr. Starr of the audience, and more economical to take these children when they are young and make useful citizens of them than to allow them to grow up criminals and cost the country thousands of dollars for their maintenance in gaols?"

The work of the society he claimed was not only a great but a patriotic work. The foundation was being laid for the building up of the solid walls of good citizenship for the protection of fair Canada.

IN REPLY TO A QUESTION,

Mr. Starr stated that after the children had been placed in foster homes, the Ontario Government department of which Mr. Kelso was the chief, looked after them. In each county the member of the Legislature, the County Judge, the Sheriff, and a few others, were appointed a visiting committee to see that the little ones were well looked after.

Inspector Garvin stated that he would like to know what could be done with a council which would take no action to aid the society. He understood that the Peterborough council would have nothing to do with the scheme.

Mr. Hampden Burnham rose to correct this statement. The council, he said, had met the society in a most friendly spirit, and granted every request which had been preferred.

The large audience dispersed after singing the National Anthem, considerably enlightened and edified by Rev. Mr. Starr's able presentation of the work which the Children's Aid Society proposed doing.

of the blood, nothing sweeps as clean as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It purifies the blood as well as enriches it. The truth is, an emulsion of Cod liver oil is good for building up fat — no doubt about it. But—ugh! a weak stomach loathes it. Fortunately, there's a tissue-builder, that's even better for making healthy flesh. Pleasant in taste—effective in result. That's the "Discovery." It goes to work in the right way, by regulating, cleansing, and repairing all the organs of the body.

When the germs of disease are round about us we do not all get them. Why? Some of us are in too good a condition. The germs of Consumption, Grippe, Malaria, and all the infectious diseases, pass you by if you are strong to resist their attack. Render yourself germ-proof by putting your blood and liver in a healthy state.

In all blood-taints and diseases, if the "Discovery" fails to benefit or cure, your money is returned.

No other medicine of its kind can be sold so.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS.

A maid so sweet,
A bird so neat
And plenty of holiday cheer.
Old friends we'll meet
And fondly greet,
For Christmas now is here.

Why Children Hang Their Stockings.

The custom of hanging stockings on Christmas eve, like that of preparing the Christmas tree, is derived from the Germans, who have a fable that while the stockings of good children are filled with toys and sweetmeats by Khris Kingle—a corruption of Christ Kindlin, or Christ Child—those of bad ones receive nothing but a small rod or switch, which is placed in them by another personage, known as Pelsnichol, literally Nicholas with fur, meaning St. Nicholas dressed in fur. It is a rare sight on Christmas morning in a German household to see the expression of abject misery and broken heartedness on the face of some poor little wight who, having been disobedient or otherwise naughty on Christmas eve, finds in his stocking only a small birch rod, while the hosiery of his brothers and sisters is filled with bonbons and playthings. The dread of getting the rod from old Pelsnichol on Christmas keeps many a German child in order throughout the entire year.

The Holly and the Ivy.

From the earliest times green boughs have been associated as one of the outward expressions of joy, and repeatedly in the Bible do we find allusions to them, notably in Nehemiah, where we read, "Go forth unto the mount and fetch olive branches, and pine branches, and myrtle branches," to make booths thereof, and "there was very great gladness." Decorations may thus be claimed as decidedly Scriptural in their origin. The popular evergreens are rosemary, bay, laurel, holly and ivy, and in folklore we have many and frequent allusions to all of these. The hellebore, or Christmas rose, and the Christmas thorn, which flowers about this season, along with laurestina and arbutus, are freely used in English decorations. A very quaint poem tells of the claims of the ivy and holly for precedence. Popular opinion places the holly inside and the ivy outside a dwelling.—Selected.

Mothers and Fathers

You are using every ingenuity to dress your boys comfortably and warm for the winter—patching and darning and making over old garments, cutting, ripping and sewing to save a dollar if you can. Have you thought of Gough Bros? Lookers are what we want. This is not a store for the rich only. It is a store where the wants of the masses are studied and lessons in economy are to be learned in every department. Perhaps you don't know Gough Bros. have boys' suits starting as low as $1.50 and on up to about $5, and overcoats starting at $1.75 and up to $5.50. Parents bring the lads to Gough Bros., treat them to something new for Christmas. The bigger the family, the less we charge, and a sleigh to each thrown in.

A Narrow Escape.

People who are exposed to the sudden changes of our northern climate have little chance of escaping colds, coughs, sore throat and lung troubles. The best safe-guard is to keep Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam at hand. It is a quick relief and reliable cure for such complaints.

BY R. K. MUNKITTRICK.

Draw up the chair about the logs
That sparkle bright and gay;
That in quaint flowers on the wall
In madcap frolic play.
Oh, toss all sorrow to the winds,
For this is Christmas day.

What if the chilly winds without
About the chimney blow
And high against the frosted panes
Make minarets of snow
When Christmas cheer this cosy nest
With comfort sets aglow!

The happy child upon the floor,
With feelings luscious ripe,
Plays with the red toy animal
Of curious spot or stripe
While deep within his little heart
The birds of springtime pipe.

He roams beneath his loaded tree
Beside the inglenook,
Alive with candies, blocks and drums

And many a picture book
From dear old Santa Claus, who came
Last night—but hush—oh, look!

Here comes the plump and luscious goose
So savory and brown,
A golden promise on a dish,
Our cares and fears to drown,
And place on our triumphant brows
A rich though fleeting crown.

Come, let us carve him while he's hot
And breathing fumes of spice,
And pile the pungent stuffing high
Upon each juicy slice,
And in dream shallops lightly drift
Through flowery paradise.

And afterward we'll light our pipes
While twilight shades appear,
And when we break the wishbone frail
Amid the blazing cheer,
Let him who wins wish for us all
A happy, glad New Year.

The Way It Was Accepted.

Clara's Sister—Oh, this must be Arthur's present!

Clara—Open it, quick! I'm so afraid it won't be from Tiffany.

Clara's Sister—Well, it is!

Clara (critically)—Yes, so it is. It isn't a case, though; only a box. That's awfully shabby!

Clara's Sister—But see what's inside! A lovely necklace!

Clara (coldly)—I don't call that very lovely. A last year's design, not half as rich as Polly Thurston's. I think Arthur was very skimpy indeed.

They Felt Badly.

Susie—Papa, did you get mamma a new pair of slippers for Christmas?

Papa—No, my dear, but why do you ask that question?

Susie—Well, Tommy said that the old ones were sick.

Papa—Sick? How do you make that out?

Susie—That's what he meant anyhow, for he said they felt badly.

Rather Tart.

Mr. Kanoodle—And now wouldn't you like me for a Christmas present?

Miss Alert—Certainly, if you'll hang yourself on the Christmas tree.

When Others Fail

Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the shattered system by giving vigorous action to the digestive organs, creating an appetite and purifying the blood. It is prepared by modern methods, possesses the greatest curative powers, and has the most wonderful record of actual cures of any medicine in existence. Take only Hood's.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, and do not purge, pain or gripe. 25c.

Overcoat values all out of sight at Gough Bros., and the prices of four weeks ago split to splinters.

Pleasant as Syrup.

Mr. Douglas Ford, Toronto, Ont., states that Milburn's Cod Liver Oil Emulsion with Wild Cherry Bark is free from objectionable taste, being almost as pleasant as syrup, while for coughs and colds it gives complete satisfaction, acting promptly even in obstinate cases.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Sick headache and constipation are promptly cured by Burdock Pills. Easy to take, sure in effect.

OF THE LAST PIRATE.

A VISIT TO THE ROMANTIC ISLAND OF ST. THOMAS.

Two Buccaneer Strongholds—A Danish Possession in Which There Are No Dunes—Every Other Language But That of the Owners Spoken.

Of St. Thomas, in the Danish West Indies, Fannie B. Ward writes:

The shops and stores are particularly uninteresting, filled with straw hats, ready-made clothing and tawdry trifles, but the street itself—or rather the human life of it—is always diverting. Everybody is continually making no end of noise and chatter; but nobody seems to be in any hurry about it, not even the shopkeepers in their money-getting, who always charge a foreigner at least double the price they ask native buyers for the same article. A sudden screaming and wild vociferation at your elbow makes you think that at least a murder is being committed; but it is only a bevy of sable-colored ladies having a friendly "talk," or wishing each other good morning. Groups of men converse with such vehemence and gesticulate so madly that you momentarily expect to see a knife plunged into somebody's bosom; but presently the grinning disputants saunter along, to renew the fracas with the next acquaintance they meet. Evidently this is not the place where "men must work and women must weep." Those noisy companies of jet black females, tall and sturdy as the Amazons would be had those fabled creatures existed, are the coalers returning from several hours' hard labor in the harbor. Each wears a very short petticoat and a twist of hemp around the head, her wooly hair plaited in horns, or crowned with a half cocoanut shell by way of a bonnet, and all are shouting and singing like frantic Mœnads. There goes a tall and stately Haitian woman, a veritable Juno in ebony, dressed in flowing white, topped by a gaudy turban beside which Joseph's coat would be no comparison in the line of many colors, and on top of the turban is poised a tray of cakes. Those children, playing on a doorstep, dressed precisely in the suit they were born in, are evidently natives. Here comes a white horse (no use to look around here for red-headed girls), with a scarlet saddle-cloth and other brilliant comparisonings, closely followed by a sheep with a bell on its neck. Is there a circus coming? Oh, no! The patriarchal rider, with mutton-chop whiskers and closely cropped head under a broad panama hat, is only plain Mr. Somebody, formerly of Copenhagen, and it is the fashion here, as in many parts of the West Indies, for sheep to accompany horses. They say it is healthy for both animals to live in the same stable. They often become so attached to one another that, out of doors, the sheep will not leave the horses as long as they can keep up with them.

Of Danish rule the casual visitor can, of course, say little. He sees clean, well-ordered streets, and evidence of continual improvements, sanitary and otherwise; but he cannot help thinking that the great open sewer, crossed by a bridge on the main street down which in the rainy season come avalanches of dead cats, tin cans and other despised articles, might be made less conspicuous and answer its purpose equally as well. He also sees that relic of darker ages, the chain-gang on some of the public works, and the pitiful sight of women working with the male convicts; but the unfortunate females themselves seem to care less about it than the spectators, and shoulder their spades and pick-axes with a jaunty air, singing to chain accompaniments. Coxey's army would fare badly here, for the police, acting under orders, have the inconvenient habit of picking up harmless idlers and exiling them to the little island of San Jan, there to tend sheep and cattle. We met a mother, who was weeping and wailing and like Rachel, refusing to be comforted, because her son, aged 14, had been sent to San Jan the day before, merely for preambulating the streets with nothing on but a "cuttie sark" of less than the regulation length! The "President," who gets his title from presiding over the Senate, here combines the three functions of Judge, Prosecutor and Judge of Appeals; and—as in some parts of our own far West, where to steal a horse is held a greater crime than to kill a man—theft is punished with much greater severity than murder. "To assist the Governor-General in his arduous duties of governing the colony"—so the statute book says—there is a Colonial Council, partly appointed by the King of Denmark and partly elected by the inhabitants; so that affairs run smoothly enough, barring occasional trouble over the entrance of some quarantined steamer, or the killing of an animal without permission of the Council. The old fort still quarters a garrison, mostly negro troops with Danish officers. I met one of the captains, a fine-looking, blue eyed German, who gallantly declared:

Of course, we must visit both the grim old castles that frown down from their lofty perches upon the peaceful town and harbor. They belonged to noted buccaneers of the seventeenth century, when the port of Charlotte Amelia was celebrated as a pirate stronghold, where the sea-rovers came to sell their prizes and replenish their stores. It is a legend of the island that an Englishman named Fogarty (probably from Cork or Dublin, for all those people are "Englishmen" away from home) purchased the castle of Bluebeard about 70 years ago; and found beneath it, after much persistent digging, enough treasure to make him wealthy for a lifetime. The story goes on to say that he had a charming daughter—"Pretty Kathleen Fogarty," she is called—who had black hair and eyes of Irish "true blue." After spending her childhood in this castle and becoming the belle of the town, she ran away with a penniless clerk of the English Consul, and thereby nearly broke her ambitious father's heart. She came back years afterwards, no longer "pretty Miss Fogarty," but gray-haired, sad and deserted by her scamp of a lover, to be forgiven by paterfamilias and end her days in peaceful retirement. So in this case, at least, the pirate's ill-gotten gains did not seem able to purchase happiness.

The original owner of the other estate, now spoken of as Blackbeard, and used as a bugaboo to frighten refractory children, is said to have deposited his plunder in a cave in the rocks of the hill which the sailors call "Mizzen Top." You may easily find this cave, but it is a question whether the famous pirate ever saw it or not. At any rate, the divining rods with which the old negroes hereabouts search for treasure have failed, so far, to reveal anything. But the same cannot be said of all the freebooter's hidings, for many an iron chest, filled with Spanish gold of the seventeenth century, has been discovered, buried in caverns or near ancient landmarks.

An Important Scientific Discovery.
Nerviline, the latest discovered pain remedy, may safely challenge the world for a substitute that will as speedily and promptly check inflammatory action. The highly penetrating properties of Nerviline make it never failing in all cases of rheumatism, neuralgia, cramps, pains in back and side, headache, lumbago, etc. It possesses marked stimulating and counter irritant properties, and at once subdues all inflammatory action. Ormond & Walsh, druggists, Peterborough, write: "Our customers speak well of Nerviline." Large bottles 25 cents. Try Nerviline, the great internal and external pain cure. Sold by all druggists and country dealers.

MANUFACTURING FURRIERS.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,
They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home.
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life!
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

THE DEARMAN MYSTERY.

A Story of Mistaken Identity Involving the Dead and the Living.

"I have heard of a great many cases of mistaken identity," said an Ulster county lawyer, "but never of one quite as remarkable as that of John Dearman of Old Hurley, in my county. Ten years ago John Dearman married Katherine Crispel, a well-to-do farmer's daughter. Soon afterward he took to drink, and in time abused his wife shamefully. Five years ago she determined to have him arrested for ill-treating her, but he disappeared before she carried out her intention.

"Mrs. Dearman heard nothing of her husband after he went away, but a year or so later she read an account of the discovery of the body of a man in the Hudson river, near Newburgh. The description of the drowned man was so much like that of her missing husband that she went to Newburgh to see if the body was his. She showed to the coroner, the physicians who had held the post mortem, and to others who had seen the body a photograph of her husband, and every one at once pronounced it that of the dead man.

"Mrs. Dearman had the body disinterred in order that she might herself see the face and make sure that it was her husband. She recognized the body at once, and the further fact that the dead man had two front teeth missing, just as her husband had, made the identification the more positive. She removed the body to her home and had it reinterred.

"A year or so ago Mrs. Dearman married John Branthover and removed with him to Albany, where they now live, prosperous and happy. One day last week, to the amazement of everybody who had known him, John Dearman, long supposed dead and buried, returned to Old Hurley. There could be no mistake as to his identity. Too many circumstances proved that he was the true John Dearman. The story of his supposed drowning was told to him and the grave where it was believed he had been lying these four years was shown to him. He also learned that his wife had remarried and had moved away and he said:

"'It's all right. I deserve it.'

"Then he walked away and hasn't been seen since. But who was the man who was drowned, identified, and buried as John Dearman?"—New York Sun.

Railroad Thieves Sentenced.

QUEBEC, Dec. 13.—Chas. Bonhomme, Gagnon and Chamberlain were brought up before the police court on three special charges of theft from the cars of C. P. R., and pleaded guilty. They were condemned to two years' imprisonment in penitentiary on the charge of stealing forty pounds of tea and eight boxes raisins. Sentence suspended on other two counts.

Terrible Crime in Manitoba.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 13.—A despatch from Langenburg gives particulars of a horrible attempted murder and suicide there. Charles Forward quarreled with his brother William with whom he resided and while William was stooping over a stove, struck him with an axe on the neck inflicting serious wounds. He then tried to burn his brother while alive but neighbors rescued the wounded boy. In the morning the would-be murderer's body was found at his cabin door frozen to death.

"Jack the Hugger" Guilty.

WINDSOR, Dec. 13.—Wm. Marshall, Windsor, "Jack the Hugger," was tried yesterday for assaulting Miss Dixon on Ouellette avenue. The defence tried to prove an alibi, witnesses testifying that Marshall was in Walkerville the day the assault was committed. Notwithstanding this the jury returned a verdict of guilty, after being out five minutes.

A Crazy Miner Suicides.

VANCOUVER, Dec. 13.—A sad drowning accident occurred at Revelstoke, B.C. E. S. Wilson, a miner, evidently bent on suicide, jumped into the Columbia river. A large number of persons gathered on the banks of the river and attempted to aid in his rescue, but he refused all offers of assistance. Wilson had been in a demented state lately. He had previously tried to do away with himself by hanging.

TIMES THAT TRY MEN'S SOLES.
So you have found it at last—the Common Sense Boot and Shoe Store—the best in town for the masses—the best for hard times—where the best boots and shoes for rain, mud November weather are always on deck. We know that when you come to fix the children out with shoes for winter you would come to us and get a shoe that will stand the racket for a price that you can stand.
REPAIRING substantially and cheaply done all the time.

This is ONLY a Picture,

BUT it's a good one—of the Great Peterborough House of GOUGH BROS., the Wonderful Cheap Men. Under this one massive roof you get a realistic view of the immense piles of OVERCOATS AND SUITS, BOOTS and SHOES, SLIPPERS and RUBBER GOODS, FUR and FELT HATS, and GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHINGS—Thousands and thousands of Dollars worth of Merchandise—the possession of which has given us a place in the front ranks of trade leadership in Canada. In our Mammoth Store Every Day is the Birthday of New Ideas. Every hour evolves Money-Saving Opportunities in wearing apparel that appeals to old and young. Now we are looking towards Christmas for Holiday Shows to please young and old. During this "Good Will to Men" month of December, a "Meteoric" shower of brilliant bargains will herald the "glad tidings" and keep the Low Price flood gate wide open, to act as an imperial protection to wasting purses. To be more empathic—and to further assure you we mean all we say—we have started the machine in motion for

A MIGHTY MOVEMENT TO SWELL THE XMAS TRADE.

A movement that will crowd our store with multitudes of Christmas Buyers from all parts of the country—the like of which has not been seen or heard tell of by the oldest inhabitant. A Low Price pressure knocks the lids from myraids of Bargain Boxes and causes values to climb higher and higher, to be crystallized into heaps upon heaps of Christmas Boxes and New Year's Gifts for every man, woman, and child, to proclaim the name of GOUGHS as the real genuine Santa Claus of the 19th Century. Everything is ready for prompt service, no matter how large the crowds, no matter how small the purchase. Let not the morrow's sunset find you without some article from this Great Store of THE WONDERFUL CHEAP MEN, GOUGH BROS., CANADA'S GREATEST HUSTLERS. Our hearty Compliments, Gratitude and Greeting is herewith extended to all. Sincerely yours,

WAS A GENTEEL THIEF.

"GENTLEMAN JOE," A NOTED ROAD AGENT.

A Nevada Robber for Whom Even His Victims Had a Good Word to Say—His Unparalleled Feat of Holding Up Two Stages at the Same Time.

Joe Quinn was neither a terror nor a desperado in the days before the two great railroads crossed the west. He was a gambler—a prospector—a miner—a man who could and did shout when occasion required, but not one to be warned away by a vigilance committee because he was worse than the average. Joe went broke on cards, got cheated out of a rich "find" of silver, and one day left Virginia City to pick up a new occupation. I had known him personally for two or three years, and from his conversation and general bearing I had no doubt that he was well educated and had been brought up as a gentleman. He left Virginia City to blossom out as a road agent, and he had no partner. I had the honor or misfortune to be a passenger in the first stage he tried his hand on. The spot was between Virginia City and Silver City, and the time 11 o'clock in the forenoon. There were seven men of us besides the driver, and while the four horses were being watered at a creek crossing the road Joe stepped out with a gun in either hand and called for the passengers to descend. I had a seat with the driver, and Joe called me by name as he called me down. It was the first hold-up for a year, and no one was prepared for it. As fast as we dropped to the road he looked to see that all weapons had been left behind, and as we "lined up" he took position between us and the vehicle. He had a clear, mellow voice, and there was no menace in his speech as he said:

"Gentlemen, I have failed at gambling, prospecting and digging. I am now going to try this profession for awhile. I want your money. I propose to rob you in a genteel way. Use me like a gentleman and I will respect your feelings in return. Mr. Blank here is my friend, but under the circumstances he will shell out with the rest of you. I will now ask him to introduce me to each one of you in rotation."

Joe took from me fourteen twenty-dollar gold pieces, and then I introduced him to a Mr. Bascomb, who happened to stand next to him. They shook hands and they were pleased to see each other, and Mr. Bascomb handed out $130 in gold. So it went clear down the line, the robber trusting to every man's integrity to hand over his entire boodle. In this instance I believe every one of us did, as he got about $1,300 from the crowd. He did not ask for watches or jewelry, and when some one told him that he had forgotten the stage driver, who stood holding the leaders by the bits, he laughed and called out.

"How much cash have you got about you, Sam?"

"About $30," replied the driver as he produced the coins.

"You are too small pickings, and I know you have a wife and child to support. Now, gentlemen, I don't want your firearms, and I don't believe any of you will be fool enough to fire on me when you get hold of them. Pile into the coach and drive ahead. Should you meet with another gentleman in the same profession it will console you to realize that you have no cash to be robbed of."

A week later, though there were fifty men out looking for him, "Gentleman Joe," as we had titled him from the first hold-up, stopped another stage on that line.

After his second robbery he was so vigorously pursued that he had to abandon the Silver City route, but in the course of a couple of weeks he was heard of up in the Humboldt Valley. His advent was characterized by a feat which has no peer in stage-robbing. He caught the up-stage and the down-stage just as they were about to pass each other at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. One had five men and a woman and the other four men, a woman and a boy. With the drivers there were eleven men and all well armed and yet he appeared so suddenly and moved about so swiftly that it was at first supposed there were four or five robbers in the attack. The drivers he paid no attention to, but he lined up the nine passengers, searched the first and made him go through the others. It was said that his haul amounted to $5,000, and as it was all in gold coin he had it lying on a blanket in the road when the passengers re-embarked and the stage rolled away.

By never interfering with the mails or express matter Gentleman Joe escaped making official enemies. Neither Uncle Sam nor the express officials were much concerned about hunting down a man who did not interfere with their property, and such pursuit as was made by sheriffs ended in smoke. In one year the robber held up thirteen different stages and made a gross haul of at least $20,000. He was never known to enter a town, and probably lived alone in the thickets and mountains. He had a good horse and two revolvers, and occasionally appeared at a mill or country store to make purchases of provisions. At the end of a year the rewards offered for him amounted to $7,000. His last hold-up had been on the Yuba river, in California, and seven men set out to capture him. They hired a regular coach, dressed one of their number up as a driver and another in the boot, and all were of course armed to the teeth. It may be that Joe in some way got word of what was up, for he caught the coach in a rocky pass, shot the driver off his seat and wounded two men riding within before the crowd were really aware of his presence. When he commanded the reward-seekers to get down they lost no time in turning out. He sent the four wounded men back up the road, stripped of everything, spent half an hour in making the wounded comfortable as possible, and then drove the stage into the mountains and turned the horses loose.—Chicago Herald.

Labor-Saving Device.

A New York woman is said to have invented a darning machine, a miniature loom, which will darn any hole 2½ x 5 inches or less, and do it so neatly that no rough edges will remain. To offset this a Peterborough woman has discovered how to save the expense of the machine and the trouble of darning. She throws away her old stockings and buys new ones. All wool at three pairs for a quarter, or cashmere at 15 cents. Gough Bros. sell them.

SOLUTION OF A PUZZLING CONUNDRUM.

Peruse This Article and You'll Know What to Buy for Christmas.

Christmas time is almost upon us and there are hundreds and hundreds of shoppers who have left the question of buying Christmas presents to be decided at the last minute. Just what to give a gentleman as a gift is a most perplexing problem to many, but the difficulty is easily solved if a visit is paid to the establishment of H. LeBrun, George street, where a magnificent assortment of gent's furnishings has just been opened up for the great Christmas trade.

No mistake can be made in picking a present for a gentleman from this stock. The neckties and handkerchiefs are the tastiest and most fashionable that have ever been brought to Peterborough, and nothing is more appropriate for a Christmas present to a gentleman than either of these two articles. Every style imaginable has been procured in order to make the assortment complete, and the ties range in price from 15c up to the higher figures for the finer imported goods. Silk and linen handkerchiefs are kept in stock at all prices and a great rush in these lines is anticipated. Those wishing to look over a most complete assortment should call early as the goods are all marked down to such low figures as to warrant their early disposal.

Just a word regarding winter suits and overcoats. This wet, mild spell of weather has retarded the sale of heavy clothing to a certain extent and in order to clear out his immense stock, Mr. LeBrun announces a big cut in figures—a cut so big that all the profits have been lopped off and the clothing is to be sacrificed at cost, so that it can be cleaned out to make room for the spring goods, which arrive in February. Both overcoats and suitings are cut and made up in the most fashionable styles and are all warranted to wear well. The big storm overcoats, which have been in such great demand for the last couple of winters are to be had in this great clothing emporium in every size and at a figure which defies competition. Bargains are to be had here between this date and the first of the year, which will astonish the whole Midland District. Don't miss this great opportunity of getting your pick of this immense stock at your own figures, and don't forget the place—H. LeBrun's City Clothing Store. 1wd

AT CHRISTMAS.

The kissing bough bedecks the hall.
Oh, see how Daphne's blushes rise!
Without the whirling snowflakes fall
And blind the blue of Daphne's eyes.

From out the holly peeps the red,
To vie with Daphne's curling lips;
Green boughs and berries deftly wed
By magic of her finger tips.

Across warm space the fire beam plays;
The wood evokes complaining sound—
A requiem o'er the vanished days
That strew sad memory's twilight ground.

Without the gusty weather din
Makes mournful music 'gainst the pane.
Love's winter garden, bright within,
Re-echoes summer's lost refrain.

Oh, Daphne, sweet, the ebbing year
Has flung you stranded on my breast.
Together may our footsteps wear
The path that winds to Pilgrims' Rest!

—Gentlewoman.

Christmas Gifts.

Give by all means out of the plenitude of your heart and your purse. Give wise gifts. In your own home circle some little thing, fashioned and designed by your own hands and worked with joyous secrecy, will give more pleasure than anything bought in a shop. To the poor give money, if you do it wisely and know the recipient. To the rich send a card or a bunch of chrysanthemums. To the children—this is a very sweet point—give what you think each individual boy or girl most desires. The gun desiring boy may not hanker after the symbol of the diluvian navy that anchored on Ararat, and the prond possessor of many dolls may possibly yearn for a growling mechanical bear or a live white mouse. Study the children's wants. Find out what they most wish for and then play Santa Claus to your heart's content.—Gentlewoman.

Christmas at Osborne.

The royal boar's head, the baron of beef and woodcock pie, which are indispensable for a British sovereign's Christmas feed, are all sent from Windsor to Osborne ready cooked. The boar's head is brought in in solemn state, preceded by choir boys singing a carol as follows:

The queen's boar's head in hand I bear
Bedecked with bays and rosemary,
And I pray you, my people, be merry.
Quot estis in convivio
Caput apri defero
Reddens laudes Domino.

Lord steward has provided this
In honor of the king of bliss,
On Christmas to be served
In Regimens Atrio
Caput apri defaro
Reddens laudes Domino.

A Servian Christmas Dinner.

The poorest family in Servia will pinch themselves all through the year so as to have money enough to buy a pig at Christmas. Skewered to a long piece of wood, the pig is turned over a blazing fire until cooked, the guests watching the process with increasing interest. After dinner stories are told and songs are sung. Santa Claus, who, in the person of an honored guest, is present to receive instead of to give presents, departs after the feast, decorated with a long ring of cakes around his neck and laden with such gifts as his friends can bestow. The feasting room is symbolically strewn with straw. —New York Journal.

The Friezes to be Sacrificed.

A good substantial Frieze Overcoat is about as warm, comfortable and durable a coat for the winter as one wants. Gough Bros. are making a special run on the Friezes until New Years, and will back their prices against the whole field. Big double-breasted Frieze Overcoats, in all shades, will start the price at $4.00, then $6, $7, $8 and $9. Our celebrated heavy Harris Frieze Overcoats, with hair-cloth sleeve linings, and wool linings, raised seams, extra length, five different shades, made retail at $15. Your choice of any colour during our Xmas sold, only $10.

MURDERER TRUSKEY HANGED.

The Law Takes Its Course and Lindsay's Murder is Avenged.

SANDWICH, Dec. 14.—Joseph Truskey was hanged in the jail yard here this morning for the murder of Constable Lindsay at Comber in May last.

It was quite evident to the jail officials last night that Truskey would maintain to the last moment the spirit of resignation to his fate with which he became possessed of since learning on Saturday that no power on earth could save him from the gallows. When his wife and son, who arrived from Comber yesterday, visited him in his cell he was deeply affected, and the final parting was a moment of extreme mental torture to the doomed man. When Sheriff Iler went to his cell this morning to summon him to his fate he appeared collected enough, but slight twitchings of his face showed the terrible nervous strain he was undergoing.

Despite the number of applicants for tickets for the execution, only a limited number was allowed in, and but few besides the officials and newspaper reporters. The murderer was led out to the gallows and the usual ceremony attending such grim occasions was quickly commenced. Promptly at the given signal from the sheriff the hangman, Radcliffe, pulled the rope attached to the bolt and Truskey was swung into the air. His neck was broken by the fall and he died almost instantly.

Mrs. Truskey remained in town over night. She applied to the authorities for permission to take charge of the body after the execution, which was granted. She will leave on the 5.20 train with the remains for her home in Comber.

ROBBED AN INDIAN.

He Was Clubbed and Relieved of His Money Near Arva.

ARVA, Ont., Dec. 14.—A startling discovery was made by John Sinker on the 6th concession, London township. The find consisted of a cap, pair of pants, boots and socks, a pocket knife and an empty whiskey flask. There was blood on the ground and pants and evidences of a struggle. A buggy track also showed that it had been backed into the ditch and turned. The articles were found in the ditch close by the road in the immediate vicinity. The blood stains on the pants were quite recent. The boots were almost new, not muddy and did not seem to have been worn to the place, the flask was empty but had a smell of whiskey. Marks of bare foot were seen along the inside of the fence from the place east towards the proof line, and the grass was smoothed down in one of the fence corners as if some one had lain there.

Yesterday morning as Mr. Fraleigh was going to the city with a load of hay he saw a man acting suspiciously crouching along the fence about this spot carrying a heavy bundle. The man then jumped the fence and went east on the sixth line concession across the proof line. Detective Corsent was notified of the find and is now working on the case.

An Indian called at Mr. John Webb's, 6th concession, about one mile east from the place where the clothes were found in the morning. He was badly cut about the head and face and showed all signs that a struggle had taken place. He was bareheaded and barefooted. Mr. Webb dressed the wounds and gave him a cap and boots. He told he had been clubbed and robbed by two unknown men, which evidently is the case. His boots and pants being moved in search for money. He said he had four dollars on his person.

May be Another Victim.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 14.—Harry Hayward, who is charged with the murder of Miss Ging, knew Chas. A. Austin, of Albany, N.Y., who arrived here a year ago with a certified cheque for $6,500 and carried a $3,000 life insurance policy. Austin soon disappeared. He was engaged to a lady at Atlanta, Ga., and Hayward accounted for Austin's absence from Minneapolis by saying he had gone to Atlanta to be married. Austin never reached Atlanta and has never been seen since. A body which was disfigured beyond identification was found in the Mississippi a few days after Austin's disappearance. It is now thought it was that of Austin.

Suppressing Bucket-Shop Operations.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—The Consolidated Exchange has begun proceedings to root out members of the exchange engaged in bucket-shop and blind pool operations. Three members were expelled by the board of directors, and one suspended for six months. The charges against these men were preferred by a special committee appointed November 7 to investigate bucket-shops with a view to their suppression.

A Mail Bag Thief Sentenced.

KINGSTON, Dec. 14.—Cooper, who pleaded guilty of robbing the mail bags and turned Queen's evidence, charging one McDermott with being an accomplice, was yesterday sentenced to six months in jail. In McDermott's case the jury, after being out thirty minutes, returned a verdict of not guilty.

Sweeping reductions in Mantles this month at Turnbull's in order to have the stock all cleaned out by the first of January, as styles change so rapidly these days, we do not want to carry any over as our desire is to always show New Goods. We have only about 90 Mantles left, but they are well assorted, as we have only a few of each make. We have gone through them carefully and marked them down to prices that are sure to clear them out. Such as:

$5.00 Mantles in Blue and Black Cloth, for - - $3.00

$8.00 Mantles Neatly Trimmed, for - - - - $6.00

$10.00 Mantles, fine quality Beaver - - - - - $6.00

We have also a length of $8 Astrachan Curl (heavy weight) we are cutting at $5 per yard, now is the time to leave your order for a Mantle that will wear better than any Dog Skin and cost only half the price. We have Leiscester Sealettes, (acknowledged to be the best make in the world) in three or four qualities, they, owing to hard times, are selling slowly and would rather clear them out than carry them over and will therefore make up Mantles at from $5 to $10 less than regular prices.

AN ANCIENT MEXICAN CITY.

It Contains Gold and Silver of Great Value—Report of Prospectors.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 15.—A special to the Globe Democrat from Chihuhaha, Mexico, says: A party of prospectors who left there three months ago to investigate the report made by Moses B. Thacher, the well-known Mormon leader, of the discovery of an ancient city in the mountains west of Hemata, about 150 miles northwest of there, have just returned. They had many exciting experiences and two members of the party died from exposure in the high altitude, but they were successful in finding the hidden city. They represent it to be just as described by Mr. Thacher except that is contains great riches in the way of gold and silver, samples of which the party brought back with them, aggregating several thousand dollars in value. They are convinced that there are rich mines in the immediate vicinity of the city, which were extensively worked centuries ago and that the city was built from the riches thus obtained. The party also corroborates the report made by Thacher that the buildings of the city contain sufficient building stone to build two cities of twice the size of San Francisco.

Eminent Frenchmen Dead.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—A despatch to the Times from Paris says that Capt. Morhain, who accompanied the Count of Paris to America in 1862, is dead. The despatch also announces the death of Mr. Jean Francois Gigoux, the well-known French painter. He was born at Besancon, January 6, 1806, and was made an officer of the Legion of Honor in 1860.

Slain by Burglars.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 15.—Eugene Weir, night drug clerk in the St. Nicholas drug store, was found dead at the foot of the basement stairs. There were 26 stab wounds in his body. The dead was committed by burglars, who only got a small amount of money, the day's receipts having been put in a secret drawer, which the robbers were unable to locate.

Sad Intelligence.

Mrs. W. J. Green, Stewart street, received a telegram Sunday morning conveying the sad intelligence of the death of her mother, Mrs. Thomas Green, formerly of Peterborough, at Saltsbridge, N.W.T. The cause of death is ascribed to the effects of an attack of la grippe from which Mrs. Green has been suffering for the past week.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell Conferring With His Colleagues.

A DARK HORSE IN ONTARIO

A Movement Said to be Going on That Will Create a Surprise in Political Circles—A Nova Scotia Member May be Taken Into the Cabinet.

OTTAWA, Dec. 15.—Hon. Mackenzie Bowell entered his office yesterday for the first time as First Minister of Canada. He was met by a perfect ovation of congratulations upon his elevation to the Premiership. Awaiting him in the inner room, and who had been sitting there for half an hour previous, in answer to a summons by the Premier, was Hon. George E. Foster, late Minister of Finance. Previous to the arrival of Mr. Bowell, Mr. Douglas Stewart, private secretary of the late Sir John Thompson, called with a message from Lady Thompson who, it was said, is overwhelmed and prostrated. The Premier's first instructions were to the effect that no one whatever was to be admitted to his presence, and his first duty was to send a message to Hon. John Costigan desiring his attendance.

The only change which it is said will be made in the personnel of the Government, although there will be a shuffle in portfolios, is the taking of E. T. Kenny, one of the members for Halifax, into the administration.

A politician supposed to be well informed said that if Mr. Kenny came into the Cabinet he would be Minister of Trade and Commerce, for which post he should be qualified, being a prominent and successful merchant. Mr. Bowell, who was Minister of Trade and Commerce, would doubtless take the presidency of the Privy Council in place of Mr. Ives. Mr. Ives might replace Mr. Angers as Minister of Agriculture and Mr. Angers be made Minister of Justice in place of the late Sir John Thompson.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell had a large number of callers at his office at the Trade and Commerce department. He was also the recipient of a batch of telegrams congratulating him upon being appointed to form a Government. Among those who called on the Minister was a number of his old colleagues who he, no doubt, consulted as to his future programme. A prominent politician from the west stated that there was a big surprise in store for everybody before the Cabinet was finally completed. A move was going to be made in Ontario which would result in greatly strengthening the party. It would startle the political world once it was made known.

May Abandon the Carnival.

It is said that there is a considerable feeling amongst some of the carnival executive that to continue the preparations at this period of national mourning would be unseemly, and it is probable that an emergency meeting of the executive will be called at once to consider whether under the sad circumstances it would not be fitting to abandon the carnival altogether. Should it be so decided, it would be necessary to provide for the expenses already incurred.

The Power Canal Under Way.

HAMILTON, Dec. 15.—Mr. E. A. C. Pew, projector of the power canal from Lake Erie to Hamilton, says the necessary capital for building the canal has been fully subscribed and he expected work on the canal would commence shortly and it would be completed by November 1, 1896. He is canvassing the manufacturers here to ascertain the amount of steam power used and what prices they will agree to pay for electrical power. The company will ask the city council to grant free right of way for poles and wires and exemption from taxation for the plant and offices or else to subscribe for a certain amount of power at $5 a thousand horse power less than it will be sold to customers for.

Van Horne's Visit to London.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—On good authority it is stated that there is no truth in the assertion that Sir William Van Horne is in London on a financial mission, but is merely passing through the city on his way to the south of France, where he goes for the benefit of his health. He will, he says, be back in Montreal by the middle of January. The reason for the upward tendency of Canadian Pacific stock on the market, is said to be the too gloomy view the speculators took of the prospects of the dividends, which, it is now expected, will fall below 1 1-2 per cent. for the half year against 2 1-2 for the past half year.

SERVICES IN LONDON

A Requiem Mass Over the Remains of Sir John Thompson.

NOTABLES IN ATTENDANCE

Plaster Casts Taken of the Features of the Dead Statesman—H.M.S. Blenheim Ordered From Gibraltar to England to Convey the Remains Home.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—A requiem mass was celebrated over the body of Sir John Thompson in Lady Chapel, in Spanish place, yesterday morning. The service lasted 45 minutes.

At the conclusion of the mass the mourners and friends passed around the coffin and looked upon the face of the dead premier. The coffin was removed in the afternoon to the private mortuary of Messrs. Garston & Son, in Welbeck street, where it will remain until December 18th.

As the coffin entered the chapel it was covered with a heavy pall of rich black velvet upon which was a large golden cross. Beneath the cross were inscribed in golden letters the words in Latin, "I am the resurrection and the life."

A procession was formed at the west door and the coffin was carried to the altar. Preceding the coffin were a number of acolytes, one of whom carried a large golden cross and the others bearing lighted tapers. The procession marched up the aisle to the altar, where a catafalque had been erected upon a line with the altar standing upon a rich carpet of purple and gold velvet. The mass was celebrated at the command of the Queen by the Rev. Father Longinoto, the pastor of St. Edward's church in Windsor. He was assisted by Canon Barry, of the chapel of Our Lady.

Among those who were present were: Sir Charles Tupper, the Marquis of Ripon, Secretary of State for the Colonies; Lord Hawkesbury, representing the Queen; Baron De Courcel, French Ambassador; Lady Russell, Hon. Cecil Rhodes, Premier of Cape Colony; Senator and Mrs. Sanford, Sir J. A. Garrick, Sir J. Osborne Morgan and Mr. Edward Winfield, C.B., of the Colonial Office; Mr. J. S. O'Halloran, secretary of the Colonial Institute; Mr. Hargreaves, of Toronto; Baron Tennyson, Major Jameson, the administrator of the British South Africa Company; the Earl of Jersey, who was the representative of the British Government at the Intercolonial Conference recently held at Ottawa; Baron Mount-Stephen, formerly president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company; Charles Lennox Peel, clerk to the Privy Council; Sir Saul Samuel, agent-general for New South Wales; Sir Robert Herbert, agent-general for Tasmania; Sir Charles Mills, agent-general for the Cape of Good Hope; Gen. Laurie; Hon. Thomas Playford and many others, including all of the permanent officials of the colonies.

Miss Thompson, daughter of the dead statesman, was accompanied by Senator and Mrs. Sanford and occupied a seat in front of the altar immediately facing the coffin. The young lady was deeply affected throughout the service. After the coffin was placed upon the catafalque two additional wreaths were placed upon it, one was a wreath and cross composed of white flowers from Lady Tupper and the other was the offering of the dead man's daughter.

At the conclusion of the services which ended with the chanting of the absolution, the friends of the dead Premier passed around the coffin and looked upon the face of the dead. When the mourners had dispersed the coffin was taken into the private chapel of the church and later conveyed to the private mortuary of Messrs. William Garstin and Sons, No. 5 Welbeck street, where the body will remain until it is removed for the purpose of transportation to Canada.

Two plaster casts of the features of the dead statesman were taken. One of these was taken upon the order of the Dominion Government, and the other is intended for the departed premier's family. The work of embalming the body of Sir John Thompson has been most perfectly done. Everything connected with the embalming was done by or under the supervision of the celebrated French specialist Charles Bayle. Acids were first injected into the body, and afterwards there was a copious injection of strong arsenical fluid. This combination of liquids gave the body a ruddy color at first, but this gradually disappeared, leaving the appearance of the face wonderfully life-like, the only variation from the natural complexion of the premier being a slight pallor.

After the body was embalmed it was placed in a deal shell, which was enclosed in a leaden coffin with a plate glass top tightly closed. This coffin in turn is encased in a mahogany coffin, and in order that the features of the deceased may be visible upon its arrival in Canada the lid of the outer casket is made removable. This will obviate the necessity of opening the coffin and avert the risk of disturbing or exposing the body to the air.

At first it was announced that the body of Sir John was to be taken from Garstins on December 18 and conveyed to Canada by the way of New York on board the Majestic. Subsequently a conference was held between the officials of the Admiralty and the Colonial Office, at which it was decided that the body should be taken to Canada on board one of her Majesty's warships.

As the result of this decision the Admiralty at once telegraphed to the Admiral of the Channel fleet at Gibraltar, instructing that officer to despatch forthwith the first class twin screw cruiser Blenheim to Spithead whence she will proceed at once to Portsmouth, take the body on board and sail for Halifax. A few hours later the Admiralty received a telegram from the Admiral, dated Gibraltar, 4.30 p.m., saying that the Blenheim had been ordered to start immediately for England proceeding at full speed.

A large number of persons called at the Canadian offices to express their sympathy and condolence. Among them were Lord Mount-Stephen, Right Hon. Leonard H. Courtney, M. P., Sir Robert Herbert, Sir Wesley Percival, Hon. Thos. Playford, Sir Saul Samuel, Dr. Ormsbystakha, Sir Charles Lennox Peel and many persons in private walks of life.

The sudden death of the Premier of the Dominion is still a topic of general discussion and the feeling of sorrow and sympathy with his bereaved family is widespread.

FRIDAY DECEMBER 14, 1894.

THE PRIVILEGE WORTH PAYING FOR.

The streets of Peterborough are in brisk demand. They are now studded to unsightliness with telephone, telegraph, electric light and street railway poles, and now we have two more applicants for a franchise for erecting two more sets of poles. At this rate the streets will soon be pretty well blockpaved with cedar poles. Now is the time for the council to make hay—while the electric light wants to shine. We have the application of Mr. Dennistoun and Mr. Carnegie for an electric pole franchise, and a Mr. Parkyn, of Linsday, has given notice of an application for a similar privilege. Now within reasonable limits the more competing electric light systems we have the better—that is the tendency will be to cheaper light; but the privilege of using the public streets for purposes of private profit is certainly worth something to the corporation desiring the benefit, and it is only fair that the town should be a sharer in the profits which the use of the streets assists in creating. Therefore, now is the time when negotiations are young, for our city fathers to insist upon some terms of compensation being a condition of any franchise granted. The applying companies or individuals need not necessarily make a cash payment. Remuneration for the use of our streets might, as in the case of the telephone company, be so arranged that the beneficiaries make payment in kind. If the corporation dealing in electricity, supply lighting facilities a certain number of street lights might be made the quid pro quo—for the use of the streets. The compensation need not be burdensome, yet in the interests of the town, which has need to make every possible effort in the direction of economy, our City Fathers should insist on some substantial recognition of the favour of using our streets, being one of the conditions upon which any future franchise is granted.

PUBLIC opinion seems to be pretty generally aroused throughout the Province as to the early construction of the Nipissing and James Bay Railway. The Boards of Trade of the east and west are taking the matter up energetically. The following resolution has been adopted by the council of the Board of Trade of the city of Kingston:—"Whereas, the Nipissing & James Bay Railway Company have secured a charter for the building of a road to connect James Bay with North Bay, which latter place is already in close connection with the City of Toronto by means of the Northern and Northwestern Division of the Grand Trunk Railway; and whereas, it is believed that the proposed railway would open up a vast and fertile field for mining, agricultural and lumbering industries, and would be of material benefit to the Province; be it therefore resolved that this council recommend the construction of the said road, and in the interests of the Province at large, hope for its speedy completion."

MR. MARTER, says the Woodstock Independent, has already made clear his thorough incompetence for the position of leader of a party. In the London election he positively declared for Prohibition of liquor, and the abolishment of Separate Schools. Being ignominiously beaten, he now declares that Prohibition is all fudge, and the abolishment of Separate Schools impossible, anyway. In other words he, as leader of his party, acknowledges his insincerity, and unblushingly admits that he is prepared to champion any course, calculated to gain votes, by which he can obtain place and profit. Mr. Meredith's leadership never failed in enforcing at least the respect even of his opponents. Mr. Marter has already committed political hari kari and buried himself in public contempt.

IT is held by those well informed that if Hon. MacKenzie Bowell succeeds in forming a ministry that his occupation of the position of premier will only be temporary. He is in the Senate, the leader of that venerable body, a circumstance that is prima facie evidence that he is on the shelf. He is 72 years of age and besides being a fairly good administrator of a department, he has never given evidence of possession of the qualities his new position will demand. As head of the Government per se, he might succeed to a certain degree, but as leader of a somewhat disunited party, he would hardly have the strong hand necessary to hold the reins firmly.

WHEN Senator Abbott was made Premier, Sir John Thompson was called upon to perform the duty of leader of the Commons. If Senator Bowell now accepts the Premiership, Hon. Geo. E. Foster is not unlikely to be chosen as leader of the popular chamber. And, says the Toronto News (Independent), the mess the hon. gentleman made of things when temporarily filling that position while Sir John Thompson was in attendance on the Behring Sea arbitration, is an indication that he would be anything but successful if permanently in office.

THE Conservative party fought the campaign against Alexander Mackenzie in 1878 on the ground, which the latter refused to entertain, that it was possible to cure hard times and restore prosperity by legislation. Now is the time for the government to bring in a bill, in pursuance of their belief. The present epedimic of hard times in Canada cannot be cured any too quickly.

DEBS GETS SIX MONTHS.

The Other A. R. U. Leaders Sentenced to Three Months Each.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—"Guilty, as charged" was the finding announced yesterday by Federal Judge William A. Woods against President Eugene V. Debbs of the American Railway Union, charged with conspiracy. The same finding was reached against the other A. R. U. leaders on trial with Debs.

Debs was sentenced to six months in the county jail. The others on trial received three months each, except McVane, who was released because there was no evidence against him.

Absconder Seely Heavily Bailed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Samuel C. Zely Seely, the defaulting book-keeper of National Shoe and Leather bank, arrived in Jersey City from Chicago on board the Pennsylvania limited express. Commissioner Shields held Seely in $25,000 bail for trial. The indictment against Seely contains six counts and two charges. The charges are false entry in altering the books of the bank and giving false credit to Baker and abstraction by converting the banks funds to his own use. Seely was taken to Ludlow street jail.

Death for Train Robbery.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 15.—Oscar Rogers, Arler's confederate in the robbery of the Southern Pacific train near Maricopa, has received a sentence of death in the district court of Pinal county. The date of the execution is set for February 8. It is the first case of the infliction of the territorial statutory penalty for train robbery, which was passed by the last legislature. Arler was allowed to plead guilty of robbery and was sentenced to thirty years' imprisonment.

General Porter Dead.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Adjutant General Josiah Porter died last night. He was stricken with apoplexy at the banquet given by the Seventh Regiment on Wednesday night and was removed to his home where he had been in a partly unconscious condition ever since. His sufferings were extreme and they could not be alleviated by medical skill.

THE BARBER'S STORY.

LONG HOURS AND CONSTANT STANDING BROUGHT ON KIDNEY TROUBLE.

Forced to Quit Work and Feared That He Would Have to Drop His Trade—How He at Last Found a Cure.

From the Stratford Beacon.

Among the residents of Stratford there is probably none better known or more highly respected than Mr. James E. Smith, the Ontario street tonsorial artist. Mr. Smith is also well known in Toronto, in which city he worked for several years in a Yonge street barber shop. To a reporter of the Beacon, who is a customer of his, the affable barber recently told of his recovery from a late very severe illness. He had, he said, for some years been afflicted with a weak back, so much so that at times if he stooped he could not regain an upright position unassisted, and as for lifting anything, that was out of the question. "For years," to use Mr. Smith's own words, "I could not carry a scuttle-full of coal." He had, so the physicians whom he consulted told him, disease of the kidneys, but they failed to cure him. He grew weak at length and rapidly lost flesh. Quite frequently he would be obliged to give up work for a week and take to his bed. He lost his appetite, was pale and so unnerved that he could not possibly hope to continue longer at his trade. "Customers of the barber shop," he remarked, "do not care to be shaved by a man whose hand trembles." He had been in bed for some time undergoing treatment, when one morning his wife said to him, "Jim, I've got a new medicine I want you to try." It was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills she had. He objected to more medicine, as invalids will do, but at length as sensible men usually are, he was guided by his wife. "But mind you," he said, "I had no faith in the pills; I only took them to please my wife." It was fortunate he did so, for he was soon back at work and after taking several boxes of the medicine was stronger than he had been for several years. Within two months after beginning to take Pink Pills he felt like a new man and had gained over twenty pounds in weight. There is certainly no healthier looking man in the city to-day than Mr. Smith. Since his restoration to health by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, he has recommended the remedy to many of his friends and has yet to hear of a case where the remedy faithfully tried was found wanting. In cases like that of Mr. Smith, Pink Pills furnish a speedy and effective cure, as indeed they do in all cases dependent upon a poor or watery condition of the blood or impaired nervous forces. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure when other medicines fail. Sold by all dealers or sent by mail postpaid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N.Y. Under no circumstance are the genuine Pink Pills sold in bulk, but only in boxes, the wrapper around which is printed in red ink and bears the full trade mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." Pills offered in any other form, no matter what colour, are worthless imitations.

A CRUEL ANSWER.

A Montreal Lady Plainly Told That There Was No Hope for Her.

Discharged From the Hospital as Incurable.

A Striking Proof of the Value of Paine's Celery Compound.

Bright's Disease Banished and a Life Saved.

"Paine's Celery Compound saved my life, and I will always gratefully remember the fact."

Mrs. P. Kelly, No. 68 William street, Montreal, made the above statement with a wonderful degree of thankfulness and joy, after being cured of a most dangerous disease that had firmly laid hold on her, and defied the best efforts of physicians.

Suffering from Bright's disease, Mrs. Kelly was taken to the hospital in order to secure the most approved treatment known to the medical faculty. After spending some time in the hospital, Mrs. Kelly became worse, and the physicians plainly told her that she was incurable, and she was discharged—sent home to die.

MRS. P. KELLY, WILLIAM ST., MONTREAL.

When hope had almost fled, when the body was weak and frail, and life almost extinguished, Mrs. Kelly heard the glad news of Paine's Celery Compound—was told what it has done for others who had been pronounced incurable, and she at once determined to test its powers.

After using three bottles of the life-giving Compound, Mrs. Kelly felt that there was a wondrous power to infuse new life. The medicine was continued from day to day, until a perfect cure was effected.

Mrs. Kelly, now as strong as she ever was in her life, wishes to direct the attention of other sufferers to the medicine that cured her. She writes as follows:

"I am of opinion that I shall be conferring good upon my fellow-creatures by informing them of what Paine's Celery Compound has done for me in the past.

"Two and a half years ago I had a severe pain in my left side, which became serious and alarming. I was informed afterwards by my doctor that I had Bright's disease, indeed this was generally acknowledged by all who knew me.

"I was under the doctor's care and taking medicine for a long time without receiving any benefit. Getting worse I was sent to the Montreal General Hospital, where I was treated by the best doctors. After remaining in the hospital for some time, I was sent away, as they told me there was no cure for me.

"I continued doctoring at home for nearly a year, but grew weaker and frailer. At this time I was urged by my brother-in-law to try Paine's Celery Compound. The first bottle used gave me great relief. I continued the use of the Compound, and to-day can truly say that I am perfectly cured, and feel as strong as ever before in my life. Paine's Celery Compound saved my life, and I will always gratefully remember the fact."

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, Dec. 15, 1894.

Exports of wheat (flour included as wheat) from both coasts of the United States amount to 2,536,000 bushels, against 3,000,000 last week.

Local grain market shows no change.

At Buffalo in barley the inquiry was fair and a few small lots were taken; the majority of maltsters, however, have enough on hand to last them for a few weeks.

The bears had full control of the Chicago wheat market and the close showed a loss. Corn and oats shared in the weakness of the market and closed 1-8 to 1-4c lower.

At East Buffalo the sheep and lambs offering were 32 cars, of which 11 cars were Canadas. Market active and higher; good to choice Canada lambs sold at $4.10 to $4.25 and extra quality would have brought more. Extra heavy 140 to 180 lbs Canada wethers, $4.50 to $5. Canada ewes, $3.50 to $4.25. All the Canada stock was disposed of at close and a fair clearance of natives.

The London stock market was quiet, but very firm, especially for gilt-edged stocks, on the belief of prolonged ease in money. Mining shares were rampant. Americans still tend to improve. The financial press remains hostile to Americans, which hinders a recovery.

The rising tendency in the New York stock market was checked by the engagement of $3,500,000 gold for shipment to Europe to day and by Washington advices that the Senate will not take up the Patterson pooling bill until after the holidays. The closing of the market was barely steady.

A Railway Manager says:

Trade in the Dominion.

MONTREAL, Dec. 15.—Toronto reports trade quiet, with no prospect for recovery until the new year. Stock taking there, as here, constitutes the feature at the moment. Unfavorable weather further checks trade in the province of Quebec. Little or no effect is occurred here by the financial crisis in Newfoundland, only a few houses being slightly interested. In Newfoundland business is at a standstill; nearly all wage earners are out of employment, and wages are being paid in provisions instead of cash. Trade in Nova Scotia, is dull, but collections are up to the average. The number of business failures reported in the Dominion this week is 34 against 36 last week, 46 in the week a year ago and 30 two years ago. The financial panic in Newfoundland and practical suspension of business having been caused by few actual failures, the temporary stoppage of almost all commercial payments there is not to be construed as evidence of insolvency. Bank clearings in Canada (four cities) amount to $20,097,000 this week against $20,658,000 last week and $17,698,000 in the second week of December, 1893.

The Montgomery Monument.

QUEBEC, Dec. 15.—The city council adopted the report of the sub-committee to enquire into the Montgomery monument scheme. Americans will now have liberty to erect a shaft or a commorative inscription within the city's limits. No opposition was made to the scheme. The Dominion Government may grant permission to erect a shaft or an inscription on the spot where Montgomery, fell, as the grounds belong to the Federal Government. The citizens of Quebec, however, are quite disposed towards allowing the Americans to erect a monument in honor of the American.

A Toronto Cartoonist Shoots Himself.

TORONTO, Dec. 15.—Edward Houghton, the cartoonist on the Toronto Star, shot himself through the head in the Star office last night. Houghton was getting over the effects of a prolonged spree. There was no one in the office at the time of the shooting, but passers-by heard the shot, and, rushing in, found the unfortunate man sitting on a chair, with a bullet wound in the side of his head and a revolver in his hand. An ambulance was summoned and Houghton was conveyed to the hospital. He will die.

Waterous Will Stay in Brantford.

BRANTFORD, Dec. 15.—The city council manufacturers committee held a conference with the Waterous Engine Works Company resulting in an agreement for the city to purchase the present site of the Waterous Engine Works for $40,000 and grant the company exemption from taxes for ten years, also light and water privileges. The company undertakes to erect buildings in the city that will employ four hundred men and not manufacture elsewhere in Canada.

Toronto Inquiry to Hang Fire.

TORONTO, Dec. 15.—It is said that the aldermanic inquiry will be resumed for only a day or two next week, then adjourned until after the New Year. This course would scarcely please the people, and it is not likely there is any probability of the report proving true.

It's Astonishing

how Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription acts upon nervous women. It's a marvelous remedy for nervous and general debility, Chorea, or St. Vitus's Dance, Insomnia, or inability to sleep, spasms, convulsions, or "fits," and every like disorder.

Even in cases of insanity resulting from functional derangements, the persistent use of the "Prescription" will, by restoring the natural functions, generally effect a cure.

For women suffering from any chronic "female complaint" or weakness: for women who are run-down or overworked; at the change from girlhood to womanhood; and, later, at the critical "change of life"—it is a medicine that safely and certainly builds up, strengthens, regulates and cures.

If it doesn't, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

What more can any one ask

Is anything that isn't sold in this way likely to be "just as good?"

Fifteen Dollars For Ten.

Nothing astonishing about this when you learn the facts about it at Gough Bros. All their fine black worsted suits and double breasted Cheviot suits, made up for finest gentlemen's wear, bought from a tottering manufacturer who could not resist our cash offer, we have decided to sell at $10—although $15 is the true value of them. This offer of fifteen dollars for ten stands good only until January 1st, 1895, at Gough Bros., but nowhere else, and for no longer a date. dw

75,000 Dollars

Worth of FRESH DRY GOODS to be Slaughtered in Forty-five Days by

HALL, GILCHRIST & CO.,

Commencing Tuesday, December 18th.

Notwithstanding the very large increase in our business and a more than ordinary care in buying, we find (owing to warm weather and late delivery and arrival of large repeat orders) that our stock is now $35,000 too large and must be sold. How to do it is the question? We find only one alternative—that is to sell the surplus stock in every department FREE OF ALL PROFIT.

We have utilized evenings and spare moments in going through our stock and have marked many lines regardless of cost or profit and have no hesitation in stating that this will be the greatest Clearing Sale of High-Class New Seasonable Dry Goods ever offered to the Peterborough public. Old fashioned out-of-style goods are dear at any price, but here you have nothing but NEW GOODS.

JACKETS! JACKETS! JACKETS!

FREE OF ALL PROFIT. Out gratitude for the remarkably large trade done in this important department of our growing CASH BUSINESS, coupled with the principle of not carrying over a single garment to another season, we have decided to sell the balance of our stock of Ladies' Jackets, FREE OF ALL PROFIT, and many odd lines at Half of Wholesale Prices. Some may argue that at this season our assortment will be much broken. To this assertion we state that we can show you now (after having sold over 600 Garments) a larger number of Garments, a larger range of styles, than any house in the trade showed you in October. The winter has not commenced very severely as yet, and we know many people have been waiting for this Sale. Our goods are all marked in plain figures so that every customer can see the old price as well as the reduced price. It has been an acknowledged fact that our prices for these goods were fully 25 per cent. lower for the same quality than those of any competitor. Our connection with the great Dry Goods Syndicate places us on the same basis as the wholesale houses, as far as our buying is concerned, and our system of selling for SPOT CASH enables us to sell on Small profits.

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE FOR BARGAINS!

Read our list carefully and bear in mind this is not the tail end of any old stock, but New Goods, imported for this season's trade, and comprises Jackets, Dress Goods, Silks, Hosiery and Gloves, Underwear, Men's Ordered Clothing, Neckwear, Flannels, Flannelettes, Millinery, Carpets, &c., in fact many lines from every department in this PETERBOROUGH'S GREATEST STORE.

With a long experience in the Dry Goods business buying in the keenest markets every season, we can confidently state that for intrinsic value our stock is not surpassed in any house in Canada. We don't mind what others say an write about our methods of doing trade. We are here to be judged by the buying public for honest, fair and square dealing, and to serve the people to the best of our ability at all times.

The Peterborough Canoe Company met last evening when a most satisfactory report of the year's business was submitted and referred to the auditors. The meeting adjourned until January when the auditors will present their report.

One Woman's Artifice.

An Ashburnham woman cured her husband of staying out late at night by going to the door when he came home and whispering through the keyhole: "Is that you Willie?"

Her husband's name is John, and now he somehow manages to stay at home every night and sleeps with one eye open and a revolver under his pillow.

Advice to Farmaer

An exchange gives this timely hint to farmers: "It does not always pay farmers to wait until the holidays to market their fowls, but it is hard to impress this fact on their minds. The majority of them hold every fowl until a few days prior to the two great holidays, and then the market is so completely glutted that they are obliged to take what they can get. If they would commence now and market them gradually, and save a few choice ones for Christmas time, they would realize better profits."

Three Holiday Numbers.

The Illustrated Buffalo Express announces three Holiday Numbers for Dec. 16th, 23rd and 30th respectively. The public has learned that the Illustrated Express never does a thing by halves, and it is unnecessary to assure our readers that what The Express undertakes in this line is sure to be the finest of its kind. Each issue will be of extra size, printed in colours. Several pages of the issue of Dec. 16th will be devoted to "Child Life in Recent Art," with reproductions of pictures of juvenile life from modern masters. The issue of the 23rd will be the Christmas number, with a special first page prize, the result of a competition in which 25 leading Buffalo artists were invited to enter, and the winning pictures in the Amateur Photographers' Contest. December 30th will be the New Year's number.

Slippers starting at 25c. at Gough Bros., but you can go as high as $1.75 if you prefer.

Florida Oranges.

J. B. Oke & Co. have just received a whole carload of Florida Oranges to accommodate the big Christmas trade which they expect in F. Mercer & Co's old stand on George street.

St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham.

An Advent sermon on the subject of the "Scriptural Doctrine of Future Punishment" will be delivered by the Rector in St. Luke's church to-morrow evening.

On Friday evening next at 7.30 a special service of preparation for the Christmas communion will be held in St. Luke's church. Addresses will be delivered by Rev. G. Warren, of Lakefield.

Young Women's Association.

A treat is in store for all young women who come to the rooms this evening. We promise you a cordial welcome, excellent music from eight to half past, good journals and papers to read. A closing Gospel service, which will be addressed by General Haultain. Come and bring a friend with you.

Remember the New Year's receptions, afternoon and evening.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY.

The annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society will be held in the town Council Chamber at 3.30 p.m. on Monday, when the annual report will be read and officers will be elected for the ensuing year. All those desirous of becoming members may do so by the payment of $1.00 and signing the roll.

After the Cotton Tails.

Capt. R. Tivey, of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Gun club, accompanied by Hon. Darkness Mercier, of the K. of the C. S. club, (Ashburnham Div.), and Mr. "Notable" Brown, of the Lock Works, were out on a "bunnie" hunt some six miles in Otonabee yesterday. The captain himself fared exceedingly well, bagging three, while the "honorable gentleman" captured one, he letting blaze both barrels at the same time. He states that there was more shot than fragments left of the "hop and go fetch it" on account of the focus of of his shooting iron being set too near bunnie, consequently it was riddled almost out of sight. "Notable" Brown came out not too dusty, he having plugged one of their hounds which was in close proximity to "bunnie" in the hind quarters, thus securing both at the emptying of a single barrel. The hound will, however, pull through, so will Mr. Brown, but the rabbit's heels have already turned up. The boys had an excellent days outing, the weather being fine.

Charity Entertainment.

An entertainment will be given in St. John's school house on Tuesday evening, the 18th Dec., in aid of a deserving local charity. Readings, music—vocal and instrumental, as well as a very amusing drawing room comedy, entitled "My Turn Next," will be presented during the evening. Tickets 25c.

THE LOST IS FOUND.

The Treasurer of Asphodel Recovers His Mislaid Funds.

The following letter which was received by the Chief of Police this morning explains itself, and at the same time explains the mystery connected with the loss of $500.00 by the treasurer of Asphodel, on Thursday:

WESTWOOD, Dec. 14th, 1894.

Chief of Police, Peterborough:

DEAR SIR,—I sent you a "phone" message yesterday morning to stop the payment of some bank cheques, which I then thought had been stolen from me, but have found since all right.

I put the pocketbook containing the cheques and cash, to the amount of $500.00, under my head, between the feather tick and straw mattress of my bed the night before. After breakfast on going into my room I found the bed had been made, and my wife thought she had put the book back into my cash safe, but she had not so, but in making up the bed it had got into the opening on top of the straw mattress, and so mixed up in the straw that we failed to find it, until we emptied out the straw in the yard, and overhauled it several times over.

Sorry if I put you to trouble in the matter, but we made up our minds at the time that some one had slipped in by the front door after it was unfastened at six o'clock, while we were in the kitchen at the rear of the house.

I am, dear sir,

Yours truly,

WM. SHARPE.

Treasurer Township Asphodel.

In accordance with the instructions received by telephone, the Chief warned the banks not to cash the cheques in question, and unless Mr. Sharpe is well known by the cashiers he will have to be identified before he himself can cash the cheques in question.

Anniversary Services.

The anniversary services of the George street Methodist church will be held a week from to-morrow, Dec. 23rd. The preacher for the day will be Rev. George Webber, one of the popular pastors of Toronto. On the following Thursday the celebrated Mrs. Mountford, who is such a favourite with the Peterborough people, will deliver her best lecture, entitled "Ecce Homo, or from Bethlehem to Calvery," in the Opera House, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. The plan of the hall will be open early next week. 1t

Christmas and Holiday Headquarters.

That place is the Peterborough Book Store. You must remember that this establishment has the largest, finest and most choice selection of Christmas and holiday goods of all kinds—remember of all kinds—presenting an unlimited range of choice. And the prices are the lowest—a continual surprise as to how such splendid goods can be sold at such low prices. The Peterborough Book Store always had the lead and still leads, in extent and beauty of stock and low prices. You can't buy holiday goods at such moderate prices from so grand a stock any where else than at the Peterborough Book Store.

Special value in Fur Coats, in Coon, Bear, Astrachan, Russian Dog, at Gough Bros. Every coat in the house reduced from 20 to 35 per cent.

THE MARKET TO-DAY.

Great Quantities of Fowl Brought in and a Large Attendance.

Sleighing is badly needed now to make the market what it should be at this season. To-day's market, however, was away above the average, but the absence of farmers from a distance was noticeable.

The shipping market is not much changed. Buckwheat is easier owing to large shipments having reached Germany out of condition. This is attributed to mowing the crop too early in the season, before it had fully dried, thus allowing it to heat en route in large quantities. It is feared that the Canadian trade with Germany in this cereal will be ruined, and if this is the case the price will be very materially affected, as Germany is one of the largest consumers of the grain. There is a stronger feeling in lambs at Montreal.

The soft weather has created what may be a slump in fowls and dressed pork. The prices of pork only kept where they are at present by buyers under the contract to pay the prices.

There was such a quantity of fowl brought in that it was feared there would be a glut, but on the contrary the demand was so great that prices were not lowered to any great extent. Plump little turkeys brought 60 cents, while the larger ones commanded in some cases a dollar. Butter sold well at from 20 to 23c, and fresh eggs brought 18c.

PERSONAL.

Miss M. V. Hopkins and Mr. Bert Hopkins are spending a few days with friends in Hastings and vicinity.

Mr. J. A. Cubitt, of Rochester, N. Y., is visiting in town, the guest of Mr. Wm. Kindred, Temperance House.

In speaking of the Kleiser concert recently held in Lakefield, the News makes the following complimentary remarks concerning the singing of Miss Fawcett, of Peterborough: During the acts Miss Fawcett sang a number of solos which were well received, Miss Fawcett being quite popular with Lakefield audiences. The committee are to be congratulated on bringing such a high class entertainment to the village.

Wonderful Bargains in Men's Pants, at Grafton & Co.

Piano Tuning.

Mr. G Gumpricht is in town. Order may be left at Messrs Taylor & Macdonald's or at the Peterborough Bookstore.

A Lecture Worth Hearing.

"Woman's Hemisphere."

A sphere in which the lecturer shines.

On Tuesday, Dec. 18, at 8 o'clock, in the Charlotte street church. By Rev. J. W. Rae. Admission 15 cents.

On Monday, Dec. 17th—

A free tea for children of school and an entertainment by the children assisted by Miller's orchestra. Admission 10 cents.

On Sunday next, Dec. 16th—

Anniversary services of Charlotte street Sunday School. Sermons morning and evening by Rev. J. W. Rae, of Knox church, Acton. All are welcome.

Minard's Liniment cures La Grippe.

SOCIAL ITEMS.

Under the heading of a "Page of Personals" in to-day's Globe appear the following items of interest to Peterborohians:

Miss Edith Burnham, of Peterborough, who has been for some time the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Burritt, Wellesley street, has returned home.

Miss Buchan has gone to Ashburnham on a visit, where she is the guest of Rev. Charles and Miss Hedley.

The dance given last night by the Lorne Football Club, in St. George's Hall, was quite as delightful as the anticipations of all the guests had led them to expect. The members of the club had spared themselves no trouble in order that every detail in the arrangements might be carried out effectively and the result must have fully rewarded them for their work. The number of guests was very large, and some of them came from Peterborough and other places outside the city.

PETERBOROUGH CHEESE FACTORY.

Their Successful Annual Entertainment

On Friday night, the patrons and friends of Peterborough cheese factory had a delightfully successful entertainment, at Salem, Otonabee. An excellent spread, provided by Mr. Wood, cheesemaker, was thoroughly enjoyed. To the banquet followed a varied programme of entertainment, consisting of speeches by Prof. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture and Mr. J. R. Stratton, M. P. P. Several selections were given in admirable style by the Ontario Bank vocal quartette consisting of Messrs. Crane, Montgomery, Dunsford and McGill. Messrs. Crane and Montgomery also gave admirable vocal solos and Mr. W.D.Parker supplied highly appreciated readings. The entertainment throughout was a gratifying success.

KIDNEY DISEASE.

Its Warnings and Course and Cause of Cure by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

TORONTO, Dec. 15th.—Dodd's Kidney Pills cure kidney disease because they have a specific tonic and alterative effect directly upon the tissues, fibres and cells, which go to make up the kidney substance if acting as a constitutional kidney tonic. They remove congestion and inflammation and change abnormal action into that of health. No matter whether the disease is acute or chronic, whether it is well advanced Bright's disease or the common kidney malady, Dodd's Kidney Pills do as represented. Do not reject the first warning symptom of kidney disease; procure at once Dodd's Kidney Pills, and use according to directions and you will not fail to recover perfect health.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

President Bennett's treat, last night, was thoroughly enjoyed by about thirty-five young men. Messrs. A. Miller, Schneider and Steers kindly entertained the fellows with music, while games, conversation and apples added to the evening's fun.

Another informal sing from 8 to 8.45 tonight is worth attending, while to-morrow afternoon's meeting will be special. Rev. Mr. Rae addresses young men and special music will be provided. 4.15 is the hour.

MR. LOUIS F. POST ON THE SINGLE TAX.

A LARGE AUDIENCE GATHERS TO HEAR HIM.

His Specious Arguments Listened to With the Closest Attention by Many Who Were Anxious to Post Themselves on the Subject.

Mr. Louis F. Post, of New York, the eloquent exponent of the "Single Tax" question, addressed an audience last night whose numbers were only limited by the walls of the opera house. Standing room was at a premium and the attentive hearing which was accorded Mr. Post by the large assemblage must have been most gratifying to him and to the gentlemen who were instrumental in bringing the lecturer to Peterborough.

During the delivery of his address Mr. Post was frequently interrupted by manifestations of appreciation of the good points which he made and drove home in a most convincing manner. His caustic prefatory remarks anent the folly of the establishment of custom lines and tariff walls were listened to with interest and called forth expressions of hearty concurrence in his opinions on the subject.

Single tax is a subject that has become prominent in the American union through the writings of Henry George, and some deep thinkers have been convinced that it will prove to be, to a large extent, the solution of the inequitable features of taxation.

The desire expressed on every side to hear more of the subject in Peterborough led to a movement on the part of some of the business people of the town to invite the gentleman mentioned to appear before Peterborough audience.

The system, with some modifications, has been successfully adopted in New Zealand, and in view of the fact that a bill will, in all probability, be introduced in the Ontario Legislature at its next session allowing municipalities to adopt the system, the attendance, as has been already mentioned, was very large. Quite a number of ladies were present, presumably wishing to be posted on current events in the expectation of having the franchise extended to them.

In brief Mr. Post spoke on his subject in the following terms:

The single tax is a system of taxation under which all the taxes that we now know are abolished—all except one, which is that part of the real estate tax that falls upon the land itself as distinguished from its improvements.

This tax could be easily collected, because an assessor can sit in his office with a map before him and fairly appraise the land values of his community; whereas he must inspect other property, and may often need experts to aid him, if he would fairly appraise it. And better than every other consideration, the single tax is a just tax, because it taxes men in proportion to the value of the service that government gives to the tax payer. All the pecuniary benefits of good government now go to men only as they are land-owners. All of us are protected and served by good government, but we must be where the good government is in order to get this protection and service, and land-owners will not allow us to come or to remain there unless we pay for land; and the better the government, other things being equal, the more we must pay for land. Land owners, as a class, really pay no taxes. All the taxes they seem to pay come back to them in the prices and rents for their lands. Other classes are taxed by the public to support the government, and then taxed again, this time by land-owners, for the right to enjoy the government they support. That is unjust. The single tax recognizes the principle that the pecuniary benefits of governments express themselves in land values and it is levied accordingly.

The more honest thought one gives to to the subject of taxation the clearer and stronger do its justice and wisdom appear. And as we consider it we find that its justice and wisdom harmonize with all justice and all wisdom, for in the single tax principle is found the primary solution of the social question that agitates the civilized world.

Why do poverty and industry go hand in hand? That is the heart of the social question. It is because industry can do nothing without appropriate land, and appropriate land is withheld from industry by exorbitant prices.

The ownership of men is not the only kind of slavery. Men may be as completely enslaved through ownership of the land they are compelled to use, as through ownership and their persons.

Ownership of all land deprives men of even a standing place upon the earth, except upon the owner's terms. Ownership of land in civilized places deprives them of civilized opportunities, except upon the owner's terms. So long as land is absolutely owned—so long as the institution exists—large masses of men will seek work in vain, wages will decline, business will languish, and the few will grow rich without working, while the masses struggle in poverty.

And advancing civilization but intensifies these deplorable conditions. For as civilization advances land value increases. Every new invention, every improved method of industry, every increase of population, every new benefit that the beneficent Creator showers upon us, instead of enhancing the comfort of the people, adds to the value of land. This in turn excites a widespread and intense desire to buy land as the one kind of property which rises in value with social growth and social advance. Therefore, land is bought up and held out of use for a higher price, until it is so scarce that for the poorest land a man must mortgage years of his future life, and for the more desirable land of cities, though it lies unused, and has done so, for generations, a man must pay more than ordinary men are able to earn in a lifetime. The only alternative is to hire out in a glutted labour market.

And this condition is fostered by our system of taxing business and largely exempting land, especially if it is unused. By taxing business we obstruct and discourage it and so narrow our markets for the sale of goods and the employment of labour, and by taxing land we encourage its monopoly and still further limit our markets and our opportunities for employment.

If the single tax were adopted, it would fall upon all land in proportion to its value, regardless of whether it were improved or not, and by making it unprofitable to hold it out of use would tend to glut the land market and reduce the price of land; at the same time, the exemption of improvements and other labour products would encourage the production and constantly widen opportunities for employment. The entrance to a condition of continuous and widely diffused property is through the doorway of just taxation—taxation in proportion to the benefits and the only fiscal system that answers to the description of the single tax.

OBITUARY.

The Late Isaac Eyres.

A few days ago the EXAMINER recorded the death, at Lemars, Iowa, of Mr. Isaac Eyres, brother of Mr. Wm. Eyres, town. Further particulars have since arrived. The sad event took place on Thursday, Dec. 6th. On that day Mr. Eyres went up his windmill tower to oil the machinery, and as the wind was blowing a gale at the time, and the mill running, it is supposed that his balance was destroyed by being struck by some portion of the moving machinery, and, falling a distance of forty feet to the ground, he sustained such a shock as to cause his death. At any rate, when his two youngest sons, aged 17 and 19 respectively, having missed him, found him after some search, his lifeless form was lying at the foot of the windmill tower, his leg being broken and badly bruised. The remains were removed to the house about forty rods distant, and it may be imagined what a shock his wife and one daughter, who were the only members of the family at home, received. It is thought that Mr. Eyres had fallen an hour and twelve minutes before being found as his watch, which had stopped, indicated that time. The body was not greatly bruised, but it is supposed that the shock of the fall was so great as to cause instant death. It was his own desire to attend the windmill and keep the supply tank full, as he would not be idle, though he really had no occasion to work. His family had warned him of the danger of climbing the tower, but he ventured once too often. The funeral took place on Saturday, Dec. 8th, and the exceedingly large concourse of neighbours that, in spite of the stormy day, followed Mr. Eyre's remains to Union County cemetery, testified to the fact that the deceased gentleman enjoyed the respect of his neighbours in his adopted home as largely as he did in his native home in Canada. He was born in Cavan 61 years ago, and resided there till his marriage to Miss Mary Walsh, eldest sister of Mr. W. Walsh, druggist, Peterborough, when he removed to Manvers, where he carried on farming for several years. About 25 years ago he removed to Lambton county, purchasing a farm of 400 acres, and conducting extensive stock raising operations. The necessity of finding farms for his growing family led him to sell his Lambton farm and remove to Iowa, where land was cheaper and stock raising could be carried on to greater advantage. This was about fifteen years ago, since which time he has prospered greatly, and leaves a widow, seven sons and four daughters well provided for in worldly matters. Mr. Eyres was a member of the Presbyterian church, and a staunch Liberal in politics in Canada.

CANADIAN GENERAL NOTES.

The Hunt Club Again Journeys Forth in Search of Game.

The members of the Canadian General Hunt Club have become imbued with the desire to hunt "fox", engendered through the action of a practical joker, who allowed his pet fox to roam around the premises of the works during the week. The sight of Reynard's brush vanishing suddenly around the corners gradually aroused the hunting instinct in the members of the hunt club to such an extent that the tension on the nerves became so unbearable towards the close of the week that the boys had great difficulty in holding themselves down to work. The strain reached a climax this morning and the members after a hasty consultation packed up the implements of war and other hunting paraphenalia and essayed forth, resolved to get a brush or die in the attempt. The Grand Junction train bore the members of the Hunt club east at noon to-day.

The works are fairly busy now and some of the men are working over time.

Mr. E. A. Stanley, of the Carpentry Department of the Canadian General Electric Works, was in Toronto this week on business.

Mr. H. T. Hartman has returned from Montreal, after placing in position the large power generators for the Montreal Street Railway Co.

Wrong in this business. We are not overloaded. We have no old bankrupt stock to be shoved off. We are not holding any so called sale, but we do hold nearly Thirty Thousand Dollars worth of Good, Fresh Merchandise, selected for the best trade of this community. Out of this immense stock we have several lines we would like to clear:—

$30 00 Mantles for	$20 00
20 00 Mantles for	15 00
15 00 Mantles for	10 00
10 00 Mantles for	7 50

We have had the best season's trade in Mantles we ever had. These are A 1 styles, but rather than carry any over, we will sacrifice the prices.

R. H. KELLS & CO.,

369 George Street, Peterborough.

We Don't Talk Much

About our prices, nor are we often found quoting extravagantly—so that what we DO say now, may be taken as BONA-FIDE.

We will, for the balance of the season, offer the remainder of our new selections of

LADIES' and CHILDREN'S MANTLES and ULSTERS

At prices that should make a complete clearance before New Years. Every garment is of this season's newest and latest design, and has only left the makers' hands a few months.

As we do not purpose to carry over a single Mantle or Ulster, buyers can rest assured that no obstacle will be put in the way of letting them go at a BARGAIN.

OUR MANTLE CLOTHS and SEALETTES . . . . .

Will, of coure, have to share the same fate, for the same reason. The pick of our High-Class Stock of any of these Cloths at any of the reduced prices we now offer will be

A SNAP FOR ANY BUYER

who is a judge of the goods.

ALL TRIMMED MILLINERY

Must also come in for a SWEEPING REDUCTION to clear the way for more seasonable goods. One-half former prices will be the tariff that will prevail, and no exceptions or deviations will be made on any of the beautiful class of goods now remaining.

WINTER DRESS GOODS

Of every kind have all been re-examined and re-marked, with Reduced Price Tickets. The former value of these high-class goods have been fully recognized and appreciated by customers, but the reduced prices will enhance their value at least 25 per cent.

WOOL and KNITTED SHAWLS

Still very seasonable, and so much worn, will be dropped in price to ensure a speedy sale at this season of the year.

Inspection invited. No trouble to show goods, and no obligation to buy. What we want is lookers as well at buyers. We don't talk much about prices, but when we say they're down—THEY'RE DOWN.

EMIGRATING TO RUSSIA.

Armenians Getting Away From Turkish Rule—Church Officials Arrested.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—The Odessa correspondent of the Times says: A Tiflis telegram says that Turkey has arrested the Bishop of Moosh and members of the church council because they reported the Turkish massacre to the British vice-consul. Hundreds of Armenians are emigrating to Russia. It is stated that Mgr. Khrimian, the Catholicos, already has appealed to the Czar, who also gave an audience to the Archbishop of Georgia.

The Daily News correspondent in Constantinople writes: Complaints have reached Constantinople that in many districts of Asia Minor Armenians are imprisoned for ransom. It is reported that the head of every Armenian family in Bitlis has been imprisoned.

Big Cuts on the Southern Pacific.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 15.—The Southern Pacific Company, which has been retrenching by combining divisions and consolidating departments, will start the new year with a cut in wages of all employes. The axe will fall most heavily on locomotive engineers, many of whom, on the mountain divisions, are making $200 a month. All these engineers will be reduced 33 per cent. Freight handlers will be cut 10 per cent. while the switch engineers will be cut 33 per cent. Conductors and brakemen will not have their wages reduced, but they will be compelled to make longer runs, which will cause many dismissals. The engineers chafe at the prospective reduction, as they saved the company from a general strike last summer. Serious trouble is expected.

American Trade Report.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Bradstreet's says: There is expected slackening in wholesale and jobbing lines customary immediately preceding Christmas holiday. With few exceptions sales of Christmas specialties, notions and fancy groceries by jobbers and at retail show the only activity in the movement of merchandise, and no improvement is expected until the New Year. The improvement in bank clearances shown by recent weekly total is continued, the aggregate this week in the United States was $1,019,000,000, a decrease of 12.3 per cent. compared with the week before, but an increase of 12.8 per cent compared with that of the second week in December 1893, and a decrease of 24.6 per cent. compared with the like week two years ago.

Street Car Strike in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The employes of the Metropolitan Street Car Company struck yesterday during the heaviest travel. The strike was brought about by a notification given the drivers and conductors that their wages would be cut down from $2.63 per day to $1.98. Further than this the men have a grievance with regard to the number of hours they work. The road was completely tied up. A conference was held between the strikers and the railroad officials and an agreement was reached. The men compromised on $1.75 per day of twelve hours. All the strikers were taken back and the line resumed operations to-day.

Victims of a Mad Dog.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—A party of eleven victims of the biting attacks of a rabid bull dog which ran amuck through the streets of Mount Vernon, Ohio, have arrived in the city to receive the Pasteur treatment for hydrophobia. The virus from the spine of a rabbit which had died of hydrophobia was injected by Dr. Lagorio, a graduate of the Milan Institute. It will be repeated twice a day for five days and once a day for two more.

Mothers and Fathers

You are using every ingenuity to dress your boys comfortably and warm for the winter—patching and darning and making over old garments, cutting, ripping and sewing to save a dollar if you can. Have you thought of Gough Bros? Lookers are what we want. This is not a store for the rich only. It is a store where the wants of the masses are studied and lessons in economy are to be learned in every department. Perhaps you don't know Gough Bros. have boys' suits starting as low as $1.50 and on up to about $5, and overcoats starting at $1.75 and up to $5.50. Parents bring the lads to Gough Bros., treat them to something new for Christmas. The bigger the family, the less we charge, and a sleigh to each thrown in.

A Narrow Escape.

People who are exposed to the sudden changes of our northern climate have little chance of escaping colds, coughs, sore throat and lung troubles. The best safe-guard is to keep Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam at hand. It is a quick relief and reliable cure for such complaints.

BOUGHT HIS PROMOTION

The Lexow Committee Shows Up Another Peculiar Transaction.

A POLICE CAPTAIN FLEECED

He Had to Pay $15,000 for a Position Which Should Have Been His by Right of Merit—He Denied It at First, but Decided to Own Up.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The proceedings of the Lexow committee yesterday were of the most sensational character. Captain Creedon, who denied on Thursday that he paid for his appointment, took the stand early in the session and declared that after consultation with his family and his friends he had decided to make a clean breast of the matter. He then told in detail the story of how he paid $15,000 to be appointed captain. The money, he declared, was raised at the suggestion of John W. Reppenhagen, a leader of the New York democracy, who told him the gift was at Commissioner Voorhis' disposal, and he (Creedon) could get it by paying $12,000. Creedon said he went to Barney Rourke, who straightway raised a subscription on notes which the soon-to-be captain signed in blank. After the $12,000 was raised Creedon was told he would have to get $3,000 more as $12,000 had been offered by Sergeant Wiegan, of the Ninth Precinct. The additional sum was raised after a talk with Commissioner Voorhis, during which he denied all knowledge of any fund having been raised. He received his appointment.

The $15,000 was handed over to Reppenhagen a few days after Creedon received his appointment.

The captain was visibly agitated during the recital of his story and declared that for years he had had hoped to get promotion on his merits, but he had been ignored, although he had three times passed the civil service examination with a high percentage. He told of being approached once and being informed that he could have an appointment to a captaincy by paying $6,000. He refused, but later had to bow down to the system, knowing it was rotten and corrupt or remain a sergeant all his life.

The court room was crowded to its utmost capacity, and when Mr. Goff, in concluding the examination of Capt. Creedon, thanked him in behalf of the committee, and declared that in consideration of his record and the service he had rendered to his country he would not be disturbed in his precinct, there was a burst of applause from the spectators which continued for some time.

After John W. Reppenhagen had been recalled and confirmed the story of Captain Creedon, news was received in the court room that the police commissioners acting on the advise of Superintendent Byrnes had suspended Captain Creedon from duty. There was much excitement for a time and after a hasty conference with the senate committee Mr. Goff announced that he had issued subpoenas for the police commissioners and the superintendent to explain their actions. The spectators arose en masse at this announcement and cheered for several minutes. Later Police Commissioner Martin and Superintendent Byrnes took the stand. They declared that when they decided to suspend Creedon they had not heard of the committee recommendation that he be retained on the force.

Sergeant John Wiegan denied the statement made by Police Captain Creedon to the effect that he had $13,000 to procure his promotion to a captaincy. He said he was not acquainted with either Barney Rourke or Reppenhagen and he believed Judge Voorhis was an honest man.

Domestic Tragedy in Michigan.

MANISTEE, Mich., Dec. 15.—Casimir Herner and wife, aged 48 and 42 respectively, are dead at their home. Herner is supposed to have pounded his wife to death and then shot himself. No one knows definitely about the affair. When their daughter went to school in the morning everything was serene, but both were found dead at noon. The tragedy was evidently premeditated. After he had killed his wife Herner lighted the house with candles, read his Bible, as it lay open before him, took his beads in his left hand and a 32-calibre revolver in his right hand and then shot himself in the temple.

When Others Fail

ITCHING PILES

AND PIN WORMS.

No More Misery.

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affliction, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The principal symptoms are a severe itching, which is worst at night when the sufferer becomes warm in bed. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously during sleep scratches the parts until they are sore—ulcers and mucous form, excessive moisture is exuded. Females are peculiarly affected from this disease, causing unbearable irritation and trouble. These and every other symptom of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the sores and ulcers, dry up the moisture.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

Gives Instant Relief.

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause from Itching Piles, yet its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same intolerable itching; the same creeping, crawling, stinging sensation characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

A CHRISTMAS STORY BY DENZIL VANE.

[Copyright, 1894, by the Author.]

A merry Christmas and a happy New Year! How I hate the conventional greeting! What associations of personal discomfort and vexation the phrase awakens in my mind! For at that festive season I, once upon a time, found myself in a very tight place indeed. My difficulties were caused not by duns or debts. Let the reader judge whether or not my misfortunes were of my own making.

I am a lawyer, and at the time of which I write briefs were neither plentiful nor profitable. The work I did was principally "deviling," and the successful man for whom I deviled caused me many a pang of envy; he was so aggressively prosperous and overworked and patronizing. Fortunately I was not quite without private means. When I compared, in calm moments, my lot with his, I was able to see just where I had the pull over him. I was young; he had left behind him many a year the "mezzo del cammin'" on the dreary highway between youth and age. I—I may say it without vanity—was quite good looking enough for comfort. To look in the glass when I shaved gave me no unpleasant feeling, rather the reverse. Towsher was short and squat of figure, red of face and going bald at top. His features were blunt and plebeian, mine distinct, and, I flatter myself, aristocratic. Towsher was married, and his wife was, like himself, middle aged and personally not well favored. I was a bachelor of the temporary and voluntary, not of the confirmed or of the oft rejected, type, for I was in love, and as good as engaged to a lovely, sweet tempered Scotch lassie, whose pedigree was long, if her "tocher" was small.

We were just at the charmingest time of courtship. There was no formal engagement between us, but I had given Annie to understand that she was the one girl in the world for me, and she had somehow conveyed to me that when the time came when I should be able to tell her so I should not be refused.

I was going to spend Christmas with Annie's parents, when I got myself in the terrible fix I am about to narrate.

My destination was Argyleshire. As I sped northward on the memorable Christmas eve I felt no presentiment of the coming catastrophe. I may briefly say that I was untroubled even by jealous qualms regarding Towsher's irritating prosperity.

I left Euston by the mail train for Glasgow. Although it was Christmas eve, the carriage was not overcrowded, and I managed to secure a corner seat in a first class compartment. My luggage consisted of a Gladstone bag and a bundle of wraps. The weather was bitterly cold, threatening snow, but I made myself tolerably snug, and by the time we got to Derby snoozed off blissfully. I was dreaming of Annie's blue eyes when, some hours later, I was awakened by the opening of the carriage door and a freezing inrush of cold air.

A male passenger, well muffled in a heavy great coat, wearing a deer stalker hat well tied down over his ears, bundled in with his luggage and settled himself in the opposite corner farther from me. Until then I had had the compartment to myself. I turned round drowsily and in rather a bad temper, for my dream had been a pleasant one, and I rather objected to the thread of it being broken.

My fellow traveler's coat was flecked with snow, and when the train glided out of the station I looked out of the window near me and saw that great white flakes slanted past the pane, driven by a furious wind. The fields and stone walls were deep in snow.

"Confound it all!" I muttered to myself. The anathema included my fellow traveler, who serenely ensconced himself in his corner among his rugs and apparently fell asleep. It seemed as if he had filched from me the comfortable nap I had been enjoying, for from the moment of his intrusion sleep forsook me utterly. So I fell to watching him with a mixture of curiosity and dislike. He was young, about my own age, I thought, with good features, and clean shaven save for a slight whisker. On the floor of the carriage, close at his feet, he had deposited a Gladstone bag of about the same dimensions as my own.

"Confound him! Why didn't he get into another carriage?" I thought as I noted these details. His placid slumber was intensely irritating to me. I felt injured because he was young and well favored, because he slept while I was sleepless, because he had a Gladstone bag that was twin brother to mine, because a few flakes of snow had insinuated themselves under the carriage window. I felt a restless desire to chuck my fellow traveler and his tiresome luggage out of my cosy retreat.

My fellow traveler seemed serenely oblivious of all the discomforts I was ill temperedly enduring. He slept soundly, as only very tired men sleep.

As I for the third time mentally confounded him the carriage jolted up on one side, and the whole train was suddenly arrested. The whistle sounded in a shriek as if the engine yelled in anger at its defeat in the battle it had been fighting with the wind and snow. I heard a woman shriek an echo in the next carriage and voices shouting in quiries.

The line was blocked, and we were stuck fast in a gigantic drift.

Here was a cheerful outlook! I dashed down the window and put my head out. As far as I could see was a vast field of snow. The air was alive with swiftly descending flakes. Not a house was in sight. The light from the carriage windows alone illuminated the all surrounding whiteness. The blast howled like a very bad tempered evil spirit. It was a scene of unmitigated desolation.

No chance of reaching Glasgow at the appointed time! And very little chance of eating my Christmas dinner in Argyleshire.

"Surely we are not in Glasgow yet?" said a voice at my elbow.

I turned and confronted my fellow traveler. Yes, I was right; the brute had gray eyes. My fancy had not run away with me. The fellow had the impertinence to resemble me to a certain extent, but, I may add that he rather than I had reason to be flattered by the resemblance.

"At Glasgow," I retorted irritably. "No such luck; we are snowed up somewhere in the wilds of Dumfriesshire, I don't exactly know where. But nobody in this train is likely to set eyes on Glasgow for hours."

"Snowed up—good gracious me, you don't say so!" rejoined the fellow briskly. "That won't suit my book."

"Nor mine either," I grunted. "I don't suppose any one in this train wants to spend Christmas in a snowed up railway carriage. I'm hungry already," I added, with a retrospective thought of the hasty dinner I had made six or seven hours ago and a prospective longing for the splendid breakfast I had intended to make at Greenock. There was not even a biscuit or a sandwich among my traps.

"Dear me, how unfortunate!" remarked the other placidly. "Well, I mean to get out of this anyhow," he added, with sudden resolve. He seized the Gladstone bag lying nearest him and bundled out of the carriage as suddenly as he had entered it and vanished into the whirling whiteness outside.

I heaved a sigh of relief.

The man must be made to face such a storm, but that was his affair, not mine, and I saw him depart without the smallest regret.

Well, not unduly to lengthen my story, the upshot of this provoking incident was that for 12 mortal hours we were shut up in the imbedded train. The stoker and one of the guards made their way with infinite difficulty to the nearest signal man's hut, only to find that the telegraph lines up and down were snapped by the furious wind. Some of the passengers had tea and wine packed in their luggage, and one Christmas hamper was ransacked and the contents cooked on a fire kindled on the snow. But what was one fat turkey and a ham among so many? Of course we fed the ladies and children first, and we did our best to keep them warm with all the rugs we could muster.

But we spent a wretched Christmas day. The snow still fell at intervals. Fortunately the wind dropped late in the afternoon. We had made out that we were 10 miles from the village of Whitecross and some 20 miles from the nearest station.

The thought of spending another night penned up in that comfortless compartment filled us with dismay. The rumor of our plight had reached Whitecross, for about 4 o'clock in the afternoon a couple of stalwart lads, with a rough pony laden with provisions, appeared upon the scene. I asked if there was any decent accommodation to be had in the village, and receiving an affirmative answer negotiated with the relieving party for the transport of my belongings thither. The snow reached our knees, but with the pleasant prospect before me of sleeping in a bed and getting something decent to eat I trudged, or rather waded, on in the wake of the lads. My Gladstone bag and bundle of rags were hoisted on the pony's back. After three or four hours' walking we got to Whitecross, and my guides deposited me at the door of a very small village public house, where they told me I could put up for the night. My clothes were soaked through with snow, but the contents of my Gladstone would afford me a change of attire, and my depressed spirits rose as I entered the Rose and Crown.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE
Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble, and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees.
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease).
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want;
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,

They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life!
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

AFFAIRS IN NEWFOUNDLAND.

Bank Directors to be Prosecuted—The Poor in Severe Straits.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Dec. 15.—Several small firms have failed in the last two days, but their liabilities are insignificant. The shareholders of the Union and Commercial Banks are demanding statements but have not yet received them. It is likely that the new government will institute proceedings next week against the bank directors.

Arrangements are being made for a public meeting of citizens to deal with the situation especially with the view of providing for the poorer classes, who are on the verge of starvation. The members of the Government hope to be able to raise a loan, but English financiers absolutely refuse to lend money to Newfoundland except on the guarantee of the English Government which will not be given unless a royal commission investigate the colony's affairs. The Union Bank's condition is still hopeful. The Bank of Montreal will establish a branch here, and this is expected to help the Union Bank.

Hanged for Wife Murder.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Dec. 15.—Daniel M. Robertson, who murdered his wife, Mary McKennie Robertson, on Sept. 9th, 1893, while she was in the house in this city which she was keeping up by her own exertion, and almost immediately upon his release from prison, after serving a sentence for drunkenness, was hanged.

A Row in Cork's Council.

CORK, Dec. 15.—The mayor caused an uproar in the town council yesterday by moving that the Government be condemned for refusing to release the Irish political prisoners. After a heated debate the anti-Parnellite members withdrew amid jeers and hisses, and the motion was adopted by a vote of 18 to 11.

A Fisherman's Thrilling Experience.

WIARTON, Ont., Dec. 15.—Moses Hallman, a fisherman of Red Bay, Saugeen peninsula, while fishing in the late storm upset his boat. Climbing on the overturned boat, he drifted four miles to shore and then in nearly a frozen condition crept seven miles on his hands and knees to Stokes Bay. He is now being well cared for.

Georgetown Seduction Case.

GEORGETOWN, Ont., Dec. 15.—Edward Sanderson, of Trafalgar township, Halton, was arraigned before Magistrates Kennedy and Barber yesterday charged with the seduction under promise of marriage of Catharine Louis Bullifant, aged 18 years. He was committed to Milton jail to stand his trial.

Our Trade With Britain.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—The imports from Canada increased three per cent. in November and five per cent. during the eleven months. The exports to Canada decreased 9 per cent. and 20 per cent. in these periods.

Seeley Refuses to Talk.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—John M. Crane, president of the National Shoe and Leather Bank, arrived yesterday and had a conference with Seeley the defaulter. The latter absolutely refused to say anything regarding his defalcation until he had consulted his attorney in New York. He emphatically denied that anyone besides Frederick Baker was interested with him, indirectly or directly.

U. S. ANTI-ANARCHIST BILL.

Two Amendments Accepted by the House Judiciary.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The bill to provide for the exclusion and deportation of alien anarchists which was introduced in the Senate by Mr. Hill (N.Y.) at the last session, and which passed that body, is now on the calendar of the House, was the subject of consideration by the House judiciary committee.
